M107A1™: RECOIL OPERATED SEMI-AUTOMATIC

M107A1 rifle systems are fed from a 10 round detachable box magazine and functions on a recoil operated design. An all-new bolt carrier group has been created, which is key to making the rifle suppressor-ready from the factory. Its steel 4-port muzzle brake is engineered to work seamlessly with the quick-attach Barrett QDL Suppressor. Driven by the demands of combat, every component was re-engineered to be lighter yet stronger resulting in a 4 pound weight reduction. This rifle also features a temperature resistant cheek piece, lightweight adjustable monopod and bipod, 24" scope rail with a 27 MOA taper and forward receiver capable of accepting side accessory rails.

.50 BMG Rifle Systems

M107A1 rifle systems include one 10 round magazine, bipod, monopod, and hard carrying case. All barrels are parkerized black.

REC 7® Gen II: PISTON OPERATED SEMI-AUTOMATIC

The REC7 Gen II is a lightweight, piston operated semi-automatic rifle. The Gen II uses a one piece 17-4 stainless steel piston, cold hammer forged chrome-lined barrel and chromed-lined gas block with two position gas plug for unparalleled reliability. Magpul MOE® pistol grip and stock, PWS Triad flash suppressor, flip up iron sights, and Geissele® triggers are standard with each rifle system. The REC7 Gen II also incorporates the new Barrett designed handguard that utilizes the Keymod.

5.56 NATO Rifle Systems

REC 7 Gen II rifle systems include two 30 round magazines, flip up iron sights, one keymod rail attachment, and soft carrying case.

BORS®: ON BOARD BALLISTIC COMPUTER

BORS (Barrett Optical Ranging System) is an integrated ballistics computer that mounts directly on the riflescope and couples to the elevation knob. Drawing from several tables and taking into account a number of real-time external factors, it automatically gives the shooter the exact yardage at which a bullet will hit. Once the distance to the target has been estimated, the computer can be put into action by simply turning the elevation knob until the LCD displays the target's range. Three internal sensors automatically calculate the ballistic solution. BORS compensates for temperature, change in barometric pressure and aiming at an upward or downward angle. BORS even determines if the rifle is canted. BORS kit includes the proprietary Barrett Ballistic Software (requires Windows XP or higher, and is not directly MAC OS compatible) that's pre-programmed with a library selected by Barrett. It also includes a BORS data cable that allows the user to program custom loads on a personal computer and transfer them directly to BORS.

SCOPE RINGS & OPTICS ACCESSORIES

ZERO-GAP® Rings

The unique scope clamping design of Barrett ZERO-GAP Rings takes care of some old optics mounting challenges. In the past, great attention was required when securing scope ring caps to maintain an equal gap between the lower ring and top cap on each side. There was also the possibility of rotating the scope out of perfect vertical reticle alignment while torquing the cap screws in a side-to-side pattern. These problems are eliminated with the ZERO-GAP design. Simply secure the cap on the indicated side until there is no gap between lower ring and cap, check for perfect reticle alignment, and then torque the remaining side to the required specification. Zero-Gap rings are available in four heights to fit any rifle/optic configuration.

ExRings®

ExRings with Pin-Lock™ and ZERO-GAP technology have a dual setting MOA taper at 15 or 40 MOA, utilizing the riflescope's precise internal elevation adjustment by aligning the scope for long-range shooting. The front ring assembly is designed with a precision fit pivot that allows the scope to elevate in the rear, but tolerances ensure no unwanted movement. The rear ring assembly houses the Barrett Pin-Lock technology that allows the user to select from two MOA settings. Once an MOA setting is selected and the ring's four cross bolts are torqued to specification, Barrett ExRings become a rock-solid mount with the correct taper to maximize the potential of your rifle system.
