

Use Fast Histogram for Larger Sample Sizes

Follow the steps on the next page to produce the display shown above.

The Fast Histogram is optimized for capturing large amounts of data at up to two million measurements per second. Its data cannot be viewed in the "vs. time" mode. Fast Histogram is the best mode to use for capturing very large sample sizes in a short period of time.