

in 1964. We the people, who now constitute the lifeblood of the Journal—the Associate Editors, the Headquarters Staff, and his literally hundreds of technical comrades—once again say “Thank you, Carl, for a job well done, and Godspeed. We will carry on.”

James E. Dougherty
Acting Editor-in-Chief

The AIAA staff and I are most grateful to Jim Dougherty for assuming the extra responsibilities of Acting Editor-in-Chief while continuing his regular duties as an Associate Editor of the Journal of Aircraft.

We are pleased to announce that the new Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Aircraft, effective January 1, 1974, will be Dr. Allen E. Fuhs, Professor of Aeronautics, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, Calif. Dr. Fuhs received his PhD from California Institute of Technology in 1958. He has been active in many AIAA matters, which have included Chairmanship of the Technical Committee on Propellants and Combustion, Chairman of the Points Lobos Section, and, most recently, Volume Editor of “Instrumentation for Airbreathing Propulsion” (Vol. 34 of the AIAA Progress in Astronautics and Aeronautics Series, to be published in January 1974). He also has been active in many AGARD and NATO activities and served as Chief Scientist of the Air Force Aero Propulsion Laboratory from 1968 to 1970. We welcome Dr. Fuhs as Editor-in-Chief and wish him success in his new service to AIAA.
