AIChE Symposium Series Recent Studies

S 219 Recent Advances in Adsorption and Ion Exchange. The papers in this volume represent a broad cross-section of the work currently being pursued in the fields of adsorption and ion exchange. In particular, the increasing interest in ion exchange applications is well demonstrated by the large number of ion exchange papers included in this book.

1982. 150pp. AIChE members $17; others $34

S 220 Uncertainty Analysis for Engineers. This series of papers serves to show that uncertainty and risk analysis are being applied to a range of appropriate situations in technology. The contributions not only deal with economics feasibility but are also concerned with system design, operations analysis, and the evaluation of test data.

1982. 62pp. AIChE members $10; others $20

S 221 Recent Developments in Uranium Enrichment. Papers intended to provide a current overview of the technology associated with, and commercial status of, uranium enrichment are featured in this volume.
