

A Journal of the Gesellschaft Deutscher Chemiker

Angewandte Chemie

International Edition

www.angewandte.org

2012–51/10

Two-ring and three-ring ...

... DNA catenane systems undergo programmed and reversible dynamic transitions between predesigned topologies by a strand-displacement mechanism. In their Communication on page 2349 ff., I. Willner and co-workers outline how the catenated DNA nanostructures hold great promise as nanomachines for the dynamic, programmed transport and arrangement of cargoes at the nanoscale.

 WILEY-VCH