Lee, Clarence C., and Nils O. Petersen. 2003. Biophys. J. 84:1756–1764.

The March 2003 issue of the Biophysical Journal contains an article entitled “The Lateral Diffusion of Selectively Aggregated Peptides in Giant Unilamellar Vesicles” by Clarence C. Lee and Nils O. Petersen (Volume 84 (3) 1756–1764). The authorship of this article should have included Matthew Revington and Stanley D. Dunn of the Biochemistry Department at the University of Western Ontario. The authors of the paper should have been listed as such:

Clarence C. Lee,* Matthew Revington,[†] Stanley D. Dunn,[†] and Nils O. Petersen*

Departments of *Chemistry and [†]Biochemistry, The University of Western Ontario, London, Ontario N6A 5B7, Canada

The authors have also made the following changes to the Materials section and the Acknowledgements:

On page 1757, the first sentence under Materials section should read as follows:

The BL21 C43 strain of E. coli was obtained from Dr. J. E. Walker of the Medical Research Council Dunn Human Nutrition Unit in Cambridge, England. The plasmid pSD51 was prepared previously and contained the DNA for the entire b subunit.

On page 1762, the acknowledgement should read as follows:

The work was supported by operating grants from the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council (NOP) and Canadian Institutes of Health Research (SDD).
