

REFERENCES

- BOWMAN, W. C. & ZAIMIS, E. (1958). The effects of adrenaline, noradrenaline and isoprenaline on skeletal muscle contractions in the cat. J. Physiol., Lond., 144, 92–107.
- MARSDEN, C. D. & MEADOWS, J. C. (1968). The effect of adrenaline on the contraction of human muscle—one mechanism whereby adrenaline increases the amplitude of physiological tremor. J. Physiol., Lond., 194, 70P.
- SOMERVILLE, A. R., RABOUHANS, M. L. & SMITH, A. A. (1970). Adenosine 3': 5'-cyclic monophosphate phosphodiesterase: Kinetic and inhibitor studies. Biochem. J., 120, 11P.
- SUTHERLAND, E. W. & ROBISON, G. A. (1966). Second symposium on catecholamines. Section II. Metabolic effects of catecholamines. A. The role of cyclic-3', 5' AMP in responses to catecholamines and other hormones. Pharmac. Rev., 18, 145–161.

α -Adrenoceptor mediation of central hyperthermic responses to noradrenaline in rabbits (T)

B. N. DHAWAN* and P. R. DUA (introduced by D. F. J. MASON)
Pharmacology Division, Central Drug Research Institute, Lucknow, India