In some contests, being second or worse is almost the same as not being present!

Out here in Iowa, for instance, the authoritative 1942 Iowa Radio Audience Survey lists 14 radio stations as "listened to most" (nighttime). But the Summers-Whan Survey proves that no less than 60.4% of all radio families "listen most" to one station—WHO! The remaining 39.6% divide their listening time among the other 13 stations!

And if you think that's something of an eye-opener, wait 'til you see some of the other disclosures in the 1942 Survey! Such as: the effects of movie attendance on radio listening; network program preferences; who writes to radio stations, and why; percentages of the audience listening at specific hours; and so on for 80 pages!

The merits of graphite and its desirability as an anode material were recognized by Amperex more than a decade ago.

Through the years . . . despite the insistence and claims of other tube manufacturers in regard to the superiority of various rare and semi-precious metals . . . Amperex has consistently held to its conviction that graphite was the preferred material for anodes in high vacuum tubes.

We have demonstrated, during that period, the superiority of our anodes by developing almost 100 types of transmitting tubes that have found favor in commercial broadcasting, aviation and electro-medical fields, as well as tubes for applications in the high and hyper-high frequency range for the armed services of the United States and the United Nations.

With our country in dire need of the rare and semi-precious metals employed as anodes by other manufacturers . . . and with the demand for "military purpose" tubes climbing to staggering quantities . . . Amperex is proud of the fact that its perseverance in developing graphite as an anode substance releases strategically necessary metals for other and equally important War efforts.

FOUR hundred years ago the immortal bard of Avon asked, "What's in a name?" Want to find the answer? Then visit the Graveyard of Forgotten Names and read the grim inscriptions. Brace yourself, you're in for a shock. See that tombstone over there? "Pearline" it reads, "worth $8,000,000 at one time. Big in heart and big in personality, Swanee is also big in capacity, as proven every day by the way he manages WTCN. . . . Aptly enough, WTCN itself is another case of the same general sort. It's a regional station, in competition with a couple of 50,000-watters—but under Swanee's direction, it does a really gigantic job for its dozens of happy advertisers. . . .

Mere size, in other words, is no index of quality in either a man or a radio outlet. Here at F&P we long ago learned what every time-buyer knows . . . that the comparative value of stations cannot be determined solely by power, frequency, network affiliations, or costs. In radio as in no other medium, quality can only be determined by an accurate knowledge of the stations themselves. And, always, it's management that makes the greatest difference.

Perhaps it sounds like mere sales-talk, but it's nevertheless true that every station we represent is a well-managed station. They're all the sort of outlets you yourself would choose to work with—that we are proud to work with, here in this group of pioneer radio-station representatives.

Senate Probe Into Petrillo Power Asked

Clark's Resolution Cites Abuses Of Czar

THE WRATH of Congress, as well as the courts, has descended upon Music Czar James Caesar Petrillo and his American Federation of Musicians, and a full-scale investigation of "Petrilloism", its effect on public morale and the war effort is in the immediate offing.

Plainly disturbed over the effect of the Petrillo action preventing the 140,000 AFM members from recording for transcriptions or other non-public uses, Senator D. Worth Clark (D-Idaho), one of the most effective prosecutors in Congress, last Thursday introduced an all-inclusive resolution (SRES-286) for an inquiry into the entire music situation. It was promptly referred to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, and appointment of a small subcommittee—of three to five members—is expected this week.

Passage Seen

Immediate reaction in the Senate was decidedly favorable to the Clark proposal. Prominent members on both sides of the chamber predicted the resolution, with sufficient funds to carry on the investigation, would be voted overwhelmingly after favorable action by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Senator Vandenberg (R. Mich.), one of the minority stalwarts, vigorously supported the resolution on the floor and cited the Interlochen, Mich., high school orchestra ban over NBC ordered by Petrillo as "the most significant guide to an intolerant tyranny as I have ever known in my life."

After introduction of his resolution, Senator Clark told the Senate he merely asked at this time that the Interstate Commerce Committee or a subcommittee be authorized to investigate "this whole nefarious racket in the interest of national unity, in the interest of our war effort, and in the interest of everything that is decent and right." He said he intended within the next few days to press for action, with the hope that it will be brought back to the floor.

In all likelihood, Senator Clark will be named chairman of this subcommittee by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.). The Idahoan was chairman of the subcommittee which investigated purported movie propaganda last year. This inquiry, however, suddenly was terminated with the Pearl Harbor incident and the war's outbreak.

Two Courses

Procedure by the Interstate Commerce Committee could take one of two courses. The full committee could ask the subcommittee to inquire into the need for such an investigation in the national interest. In that event, the subcommittee could proceed without further action and call witnesses to testify on the urgency of the situation precipitated by the Petrillo bans, actions and threats. On the other hand, the committee could report the resolution favorably to the Senate and call for a vote. If that course were taken, a special fund would be made available and a staff retained.

Under the resolution, the subcommittee would be authorized to conduct its investigation anywhere in the United States and at any time. Moreover, it would be authorized to employ "experts", as well as clerical, stenographic and other help. This gave rise to the thought that the committee would be disposed to name a special counsel to direct the inquiry under the subcommittee's supervision.

While any Congressional committee automatically has the power to subpoena, the resolution specifically provides for authorization to compel attendance of witnesses and production and impounding of documents. The committee likewise would be authorized to obtain such facts as other Government agencies may have and to secure the assistance of other Government agencies in the investigation. Directly concerned would be the antitrust division, by virtue of the preliminary investigation it already has made in connection with its anti-trust suit, and the FCC, which has gone deeply into the whole subject.

While Senator Clark could not discuss procedure until the subcommittee actually is named, it was felt certain Petrillo himself probably would be one of the first witnesses called. More than likely the committee will hear such figures as Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, who personally is handling the anti-trust law prosecution of AFM and its executive, and FCC-BWC Chairman James Lawrence Fly, who likewise has instituted an inquiry into AFM to determine the effect of the bans upon broadcast station operations, particularly during the war emergency.

Plans Legislation

Either way, the inquiry could cover a broad field. Congressional committees have practically automatic subpoena powers. Moreover, because of the overwhelming public reaction against Petrillo's moves, it was thought that probably representatives of the industries affected, as well as many public and musical organizations which have protested the Petrillo bans, would seek opportunity to appear.

Senator Clark made it clear in his resolution that he proposes to conduct the inquiry for the purpose of "considering appropriate legislation" to foreclose repetition of the Petrillo methods. His resolution covers every phase of music operations. Even such matters as song plugging and payment of "honorariums" to musicians are included. The Interlochen incident, wherein Petrillo ordered NBC to cancel the high school orchestra concerts from the Michigan summer school, also is brought in specifically.

Petrillo's flat refusal to accede to the appeal of Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, to withdraw his transcription-record ban was emphasized in the resolution. It brought out that Petrillo last December had pledged AFM "to do everything possible to aid in the fight for freedom" and that Mr. Davis, on July 28, had requested the AFM head on behalf of the Government and its mili-

Gallup Poll Finds Huge Majority Opposed to Petrillo As High-Handed

CONFIRMING by scientific poll the overwhelming public sentiment against the rampages of James C. Petrillo, president of AFM, George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, reported last Tuesday in his regular syndicated feature that there was a nine-to-one vote disapproving the AFM actions.

"If James C. Petrillo hopes to convince the public of the justness of his ban on phonograph recordings for radio and other non-private use, he faces a battle of terrific odds," Dr. Gallup concluded.

The Petrillo ban on broadcasts by amateur musical groups such as the Interlochen High School Orchestra, according to the Institute, "meets with disfavor among the majority of voters interviewed in a true cross-section survey of American opinion."

"For every person who approves the action of the musicians' union chief on the ground that union musicians deserve such protection, nine disapprove it as 'entirely too high handed' or even as 'outrageous.'"

Persons in the survey who had heard or read about Petrillo's actions were asked to give their views in response to the question "What is your opinion of Mr. Petrillo's rulings?". The division of sentiment was 75% unfavorable, 8% favorable, and 17% "no opinion".

Dr. Gallup reported that a majority of those who disapproved Petrillo's actions "feel strongly, even vehemently, about the subject." Typical of those views were such statements as "he's suffering from a bad case of overgrown ego," "He's a petty dictator," "it's disgraceful," "he ought to go over and join Mussolini."

With an anti-trust suit pending against AFM and its executives, the Gallup poll asked voters "Do you approve or disapprove of the Government taking legal action to stop Petrillo?". Of the aggregate, 73% approved such action, 12% disapproved and 15% were undecided.

tary services to "consider it your patriotic duty to stand by your pledge of Dec. 27, 1941 and withdraw your ultimatum of June 25, 1942."

Chairman Wheeler was away from Washington when the resolution was introduced. It is understood, however, that he was familiar with its scope and purpose and was favorably disposed. The committee will get to work, according to Senator Clark, as soon as its personnel is named.

There was some speculation as to makeup of the committee. Senator Clark was seen as the logical chairman, as author of the resolution. If a three-man committee is named, the second majority member might be a legislator of the calibre of Senator Lister Hill, of Alabama, who has been active in committee work, or Edwin C. Johnson, of Colorado, another active committee member.

The Republican normally would be Wallace H. White Jr., of Maine, ranking minority member, the Senate's foremost authority on radio matters. But he has been pre-occupied with his election campaign. Senator Chan Gurney, of South Dakota, former operator of WNAX, Yankton, and well-versed in practical phases of broadcast operation, was regarded as a logical second choice. Also mentioned was Senator Charles W. Tobey, of New Hampshire, who likewise has been active in radio matters.

Meanwhile, there was no change in the status of the Government's anti-trust suit against AFM and its officers, scheduled for argument on injunctive proceedings Sept. 16 in Chicago. There have been reports, as yet unverified, that AFM would seek a postponement because of the absence from the country of Joseph A. Padway, chief counsel for AFM, who is reported in London attending a British labor conference.

Legal Plans Moving

Assistant Attorney General Arnold and Holmes Baldrige, chief of the litigation section of the anti-trust division, were working on plans for presentation of the case, seeking to enjoin AFM because of its recording ban. Affidavits sought by the anti-trust division from various industrial groups affected also are being drawn and will be filed in the case. NAB's head counsel, Sydney M. Kaye, was reported drafting the intervention petition in behalf of the industry, to be filed amicus curiae (as a friend of the court).

At the FCC it was stated that replies to its detailed questionnaire on use of music and musicians in the broadcasting industry had been received in substantial volume and that these are being tabulated and analyzed. They will be used as the basis of evidence to be presented by the Government in the Chicago proceedings.

Otherwise, hardly a wheel turned in the music controversy. Strike talk of a fortnight ago appeared to have abated considerably. It was presumed that the public reaction against Petrillo's tactics reflected in newspaper editorials and, last week, in the Gallup poll which showed a 9-to-1 vote against the AFM position [see story in this issue] has tended to put the quietus on further AFM pronouncements.

In addressing the chamber, Senator Clark said he wanted to explain briefly what he considered "a most vital and a most timely resolution, which I have every hope will materialize shortly into an investigation and remedial legislation." The Senator did not attack organized labor as a whole but, conversely, contended that it had conducted itself during the war with commendable sense. Generally, he said, labor is competently led.

'An Ugly Note'

"An ugly note has reared its head," Senator Clark contended, "which is not only going to cause and is causing great disunity in our war effort, but is actually going to impede the effort itself. That ugly note is a gentleman by the name of James Caesar Petrillo. James Caesar—the middle name is strongly ironic and was unquestionably given him by people who foresaw his future."

Alluding to the recording ban, Senator Clark said that its effect is the first stop of production of every phonograph record and every transcription in the United States. "The result of the order, if it is permitted to stand," he asserted, "will be, as soon as the present records wear out, and in any event since no new music of that type can be obtained, to destroy in homes, in small business houses, in the small restaurants and in other places in this country every vestige of phonographic music."

Small Stations

Referring to the effect of the ban on radio, Senator Clark said the large networks will be able to take care of themselves. But the small stations which must rely for the most part on recordings will be seriously affected. These stations are already "beginning to feel the pinch of war as advertising falls off," he said. The same goes for the smaller restaurants and entertainment centers which are not able to hire orchestras. Also deprived of mechanical performance of music are the recreation centers at Army camps, he said.

"And yet," the Idahoan asserted, "there steps upon the scene one man and by virtue of his power, by virtue of his gangster acts, if you please, undertakes to put out of business a whole industry and deprive people working in that industry from making a livelihood."

He said he was thinking of the "tens of millions of radios in the homes of the country, and of phonographs, which the children of the family and the adults depend on for their musical entertainment."

In interrupting his colleague,

Senator Vandenberg charged that Petrillo attacked "for purely blind and selfish reasons" the Interlochen broadcasts over NBC. He contended that the union head was not supported by one out of 200 of his own men in that instance because musicians of the country recognize the fact that Interlochen is a great inspiration and incentive to cultural music.

Resuming his extemporaneous comments, Senator Clark said that he had introduced his resolution to show the "terrific extent to which this man's power if left unchecked, will go, and to show that the homes of the country will be without phonographs, millions of dollars worth of property made inactive, and amateur talent all over the country destroyed."

Quiet on the Surface

While in industry circles there were hints of much "behind the scenes" planning and preparation for any and all eventualities by broadcasters and recording companies, all was serene on the surface last week. The consensus of the industry seemed to be that any overt action before the Sept. 16 hearing of the Government petition for a temporary restraining order against Petrillo would be pointless.

If the court issues such an order, the reasoning ran, the union musicians will go back to work while the case is fought through the courts, up to and including the Supreme Court of the United States, which will provide for at least a year of recordings.

If the court upholds the right of the AFM president to forbid his men to work for recording companies, then some action will probably be taken, and it is against such a contingency that present planning is chiefly devoted.

Already a couple of stations have notified their local AFM unions that they consider the curtailment in the supply of recordings a violation of their contracts with the unions [BROADCASTING, Aug. 24], but industry leaders are bending every effort to avoid any controversy which might lead to a nationwide musicians strike against the broadcasting industry at this time.

Meanwhile, RCA-Victor has informed the music publishers that this company wants the publishers to continue to present their new tunes to its recording officials just as they have done in the past. Walter G. Douglas, chairman of the board of Music Publishers Protective Assn., reported that at a meeting with Frank B. Walker, head of RCA's recording department, and Leonard Joy, in charge of Victor recording, he was told that RCA does not intend to stop recording as a result of the Petrillo edict and that any publishers desiring to present their new numbers to RCA should contact Mr. Joy in the usual way. He said that Mr. Walker had ex-

Full Text of Senate Resolution to Probe Petrillo . . .

FOLLOWING is the full text of the resolution (SRES-286) to investigate James C. Petrillo and the American Federation of Musicians, introduced in the Senate Aug. 27 by Senator Clark (D-Idaho) and referred to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee:

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Musicians, through its president, James C. Petrillo, on June 25, 1942, forbade musicians who are members of the American Federation of Musicians to play or contract for recordings, transcriptions, or any other form of mechanical reproduction of music; and

WHEREAS, James C. Petrillo, in a letter written to the President of the United States, on Dec. 27, 1941, recognized and acknowledged that "music always has been and is today one of the finest media for maintaining high public morale", and pledged the American Federation of Musicians "to do everything possible to aid in the fight for freedom"; and

WHEREAS, on July 28, 1942, Elmer Davis, Director of the Office of War Information, requested James C. Petrillo . . . on behalf of the people of the United States and on behalf of the War Dept., the Navy Dept., Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, the Treasury Dept., the Office of Civilian Defense, and the Office of War Information" to "consider it your patriotic duty to stand by your pledge of Dec. 27, 1941, and withdraw your ultimatum of June 25, 1942", and said request was refused; and

WHEREAS, The mechanical reproduction of music is universally used in coin operated phonographs located in hotels, restaurants, and amusement centers which are widely patronized by the general public, including members of the armed forces of the United States, and affords the principal means of musical entertainment and recreation for millions of civilian listeners and the only regular musical entertainment, other than radio, available to members of the armed forces in their recreation centers; and

stations which are adversely affected by the said prohibition are principally the smaller stations which are not financially able to afford station orchestras and which serve millions of American citizens, particularly in the smaller communities and in the rural areas; and

WHEREAS, The actions of the American Federation of Musicians and its president, James C. Petrillo, will deprive millions of radio listeners from hearing musical recordings, jeopardize the national morale during a period of great emergency, and imperil the service and existence of hundreds of radio stations in the United States; and

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Musicians virtually controls the freedom of action of the majority of all musicians in the United States; and

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Musicians, through its president, James C. Petrillo, in July, 1942, prevented the broadcasting by radio of the annual festival of high school age student musicians from Interlochen, Mich., thus depriving American citizens of their freedom to make known their musical talents, and impeding the national musical educational program for young musicians; and

WHEREAS, the Government of the United States, through its Dept. of Justice has recognized that the actions of the American Federation of Musicians and its president, James C. Petrillo, hereinbefore set forth, are of such serious nature as to warrant suit in Federal Court against the said American Federation of Musicians and James C. Petrillo, and its other officers, charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law; and

WHEREAS, The free American system, with which the American people are vitally concerned and for the preservation of which they are now expending their lives and substance in a great war, demands the elimination of any such abuses and controls which are contrary to our national interests;

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, That for the purpose of considering appropriate legislation of the subject matters hereof, the Committee on Interstate Commerce, or any duly authorized subcommittee thereof, is authorized and directed to make, and to report to the Senate the results of a thorough and complete investigation of acts, practices, methods, and omissions to act, by persons, partnerships, associations, corporations and other entities in interstate and foreign commerce, and of conditions in interstate and foreign commerce, which may or do interfere with, or obstruct the national welfare, the public morale, or affect the public good originating from or as a result of the actions of the American Federation of Musicians and its president, James C. Petrillo, in denying members of the American Federation of Musicians the right to perform music for recordings and tran-plained that RCA did not intend to take any action which Petrillo could construe as anti-labor or anti-AFM.

Still Busy

Questioned by BROADCASTING on this point, Mr. Walker stated that he has a staff whose duties are keeping in touch with the new music and that he does not want to stop working because of a temporary cessation in the recording of instrumental music.

Declaring that he has not let a single man go because of the AFM edict and adding that he does not want the music publishers to fire their contact men, he pointed out that RCA is still making slide films and commercial transcriptions as permitted by the AFM and that they are still able to record vocal arrangements of music on phonograph records.

"This situation will not last forever," he continued, "and when it's over we want to be ready to step right into business again. Meanwhile we are doing a lot of thinking about what can be done. There are a lot of possibilities, some I like and some I don't like, but we're going to do whatever we honorably can to stay in business."

Pointing out that RCA a few years ago tried to straighten out the control of phonograph records in the courts and that the courts had ruled that neither the manufacturer of the records nor the artist performing or them could restrict or control their use by any purchaser, Mr. Walker added that now Petrillo has taken matter into his own hands and again it is up to the courts to decide what can or cannot be done.

MUELLER TO PLACE BIGGEST CAMPAIGN

C. F. MUELLER Co., Jersey City (macaroni), will launch the most extensive network advertising in its nine years in radio, as sponsor of Isabel Manning Hewson's Morning Market Basket on BLUE, starting Sept. 16. Mueller will air the show on 20 BLUE stations, Wednesday through Friday, 10-10:15 a.m. Company is considering the addition of more outlets.

Subjects of interest to the homemaker are to be featured on the program, previously broadcast on WEAF, New York. Miss Hewson presents stories of places and people, interviews, and advice on menus, home economy and other subjects of feminine interest. Series starts on a sustaining basis Sept. 7 and will continue as a sustaining program on Monday and Tuesday when Mueller takes over the program for the remaining three days of the week.

Company will continue its thrice-weekly noontime newscasts by Don Goddard on WEAF, and is planning a campaign of transcribed spot announcements on a more extensive basis than last year in the Eastern area. Agency is Duane Jones Co., New York.

handling the account, sent Mitchell Benson of its Chicago office to the West Coast for a similar purpose. Dick Marvin, New York radio manager of Wm. Esty & Co., currently in Hollywood ostensibly to line up talent for the new Abbott & Costello Show starting on NBC in October under sponsorship of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. (Camel cigarettes), disclaimed interest in the beer account. Despite this, it is generally believed that his agency too will propose a variety program. Hal Hackett, radio director of Music Corp. of America, has a package show which features Jack Carson as star. Bernard Schubert, New York talent representative, with Louella Parsons, Hearst columnist under contract, is interested in making a deal. Other agencies, whose names have not been revealed, are also reported as working under cover.

Men Under 50 Likely to Face Service With Few Exceptions

Selective Service and WMC Indicate Possible Realignment of Essential Occupations

A BARRAGE of press releases, strongly warning that few men in the country under 50 can hope to escape military service, were issued from both Selective Service Headquarters and the War Manpower Commission last week—portending present plans of these agencies, with regard to essential activities and occupations (broadcasting and communications included), may be entirely changed within a short time.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service chief, sounded an ominous warning last Friday when he declared that "things are moving so fast now" in the mobilization of men "that we may have to operate ahead of the rules" and added "continued deferment of men on occupational grounds must be considered in the light of how the public will regard these men compared to others with dependents who are called."

Also affecting stations to some degree was the pronouncement last Friday by WMC Chairman Paul V. McNutt that all male college students are destined for the armed services. When effective this will no doubt cut down on students available for part and full time work at studios.

Indications from statements of both agencies are that actual shortages in essential occupations may be the key to future draft deferments and the mere inclusion of a man's occupation as essential will not guarantee him special consideration by draft boards. Under the broad discretionary powers given Selective Service boards, broadcasting and communications employes, in seeking deferments, may find a comparison made by the boards of the shortages in their particular area and areas all over the country. Surveys made by the U. S. Employment Service may serve as the index for these comparisons.

Personnel Swaps Hinted

In such case, it was hinted, if a draft board finds that another comparable area can maintain its broadcasting and communications with less manpower a levelling off process will follow; the boards will draft such employes until its ratio of these men to the area equals ratios in other areas.

Meanwhile, WMC continues with its studies of essential activities and occupations. Last week, it was said, the Commission's Inter-Agency committee had covered enough occupations in other fields to forecast that broadcasting and communications jobs would be reached in either the Sept. 10 or Sept. 15 meeting of the committee.

Communications Categorized

The USES, engaged in defining and categorizing communications employes along with those of all other fields, last week sent to the Board of War Communications lists of employes for re-study—then to be sent to the WMC. The BWC will study the lists, check titles and definitions for accuracy and furnish further job descriptions.

BWC last week also sent out its station questionnaires which call for an estimate of critical occupations shortages up to the end of this year. The results from this survey are slated for quick machine tabulation, so they will be in the hands of WMC as soon as possible.

In other sectors, study of the broadcasting personnel problem continues. NAB, which has closely collaborated with BWC and other war agencies in studies of the broadcasting manpower situation, has sent letters to its member stations asking for reports on the manner in which local draft boards handle their employes. These letters point out that Selective Service has classified broadcasting as essential. "This being the case," declares a letter from John E. Fetzer, owner-operator of WKZO, Kalamazoo, Mich. and NAB director for the 8th district, "draft boards have full authority to place key broadcasting personnel who are in 3-A in the 3-B classification." The letter then requests information "if in your experience the draft boards have already done this and, if so, whether you were required to file the conventional Form 42-A."

'Marjorie Mills Hour' First Contract Signed by New England Regional Chain

THE Marjorie Mills Hour, cooperatively sponsored domestic science program which has been on the air in New England since 1933, will move Sept. 29 to the newly-organized New England Regional Network [BROADCASTING, Aug. 24], Paul T. Morency, general manager of WTIC, Hartford, and chairman of the NERN operating committee, announced last Thursday following a meeting of the committee at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York.

First commercial program to be signed up by the new regional, the Marjorie Mills Hour will be broadcast from 12:30 to 1 p.m., Monday through Friday, for 52 weeks on the basic NERN hookup, comprising WTIC, Hartford; WBZ, Boston; WJAR, Providence; WCHS, Portland, Me., and WLBZ, Bangor. Contract signed with Broadcast Advertising Inc., Boston agency in charge of the program, amounts to more than $100,000, Mr. Morency stated.

Operating and promotional plans for the network, which includes WRDO, Augusta, Me., and WFEA, Manchester, N. H., as supplementary outlets in addition to the five basic stations were the chief topics of discussion of the meeting. Four members of the operating committee attended: Mr. Morency; Lee Wailes, manager of broadcasting of Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co., operator of WBZ; William H. Rines, general manager of WCSH; John J. Boyle, general manager of WJAR. The fifth committee member, Thompson Guernsey, director of WLBZ, did not attend. Also present were Walter Johnson, commercial manager, WTIC, and J. J. Weed, president, Weed & Co., national representatives of the network.

One of the oldest women's programs, the Marjorie Mills Hour has been broadcast consistently throughout New England for nearly 10 years, first on the old New England Network and when that broke up moving to the Yankee Network, where it has remained to the present. During its stay on the Yankee Network, the program has grown from three quarter-hours a week to five half-hours weekly. Bought as a unit by Broadcast Adv. Inc., the program has been available to advertisers on a participating basis and during 1941 was used by more than 40 clients, chiefly in the food field.

Fall, Winter Campaign Planned by O'Sullivan

O'SULLIVAN RUBBER Co., Winchester, Va. (heels), will launch a 10-week fall and winter campaign of transcribed announcements on a national basis Nov. 21. Firm will use 40 stations, with spots varying from three to 42 to stress the importance of walking, in order to conserve transportation facilities, and will emphasize that the heels are made of "non-vital materials".

Appropriation and number of stations used is somewhat larger than last spring or fall drives. Agency is Birmingham, Castleman & Pierce, N. Y.

Taylor for Lewis

GLENHALL TAYLOR, for the last seven years on the Hollywood staff of Young & Rubicam, as writer, producer and director, has been appointed general manager of that office. He succeeds Tom Lewis, who resigned several months ago to join the Army as major in the radio section, Office of Special Services, Washington. Mr. Taylor was director of the Silver Theatre series and more recently produced the Burns & Allen program. Carroll O'Mara continues as business manager of the agency's Hollywood branch.

Jewell Appointed

JAMES JEWELL, formerly production director of the recently dissolved Stack-Goble Adv. Agency, Chicago [BROADCASTING, Aug. 10], on Aug. 24 joined MacFarland, Aveyard & Co., Chicago, as vice-president in charge of radio. Evelyn Stark, radio director, will continue to direct talent and timebuying.

JOHN F. ROYAL, NBC vice-president in charge of international broadcasting, and Leonora Corbett, noted English actress now appearing in "Blythe Spirit", current Broadway success, were married last Saturday in New York by Judge Ferdinand Pecora.

OPERATING COMMITTEE of the New England Regional Network is all smiles as its chairman, Paul T. Morency, WTIC, Hartford, signs the first commercial contract of the new regional hookup, a 52-week contract which will bring more than $100,000 into the NERN coffers. Seated (l to r) are: John J. Boyle, WJAR, Providence; Mr. Morency; Lee B. Wailes, WBZ, Boston. Standing (same order): Walter Johnson, WTIC; William H. Rines, WCSH, Portland, Me.; J. J. Weed, national representative of the network.

Foreign Policy and the Shortwaves

INTERNATIONAL broadcasting is coming into its own with a rush. True, the growing pains are so great as to be quite audible, but it seems nothing can stop broadcasters when they decide something has to be done.

Thus, here are a few hints which, if followed, might save many a stubbed American toe. The principles behind the suggestions are well known to every commercial radio man. The application is merely international, not sectional in the sense that we might use the word when dealing with a national account.

A Matter of Policy

Also, when these suggestions are used in connection with international commercial broadcasting, they must be superimposed upon the normal commercial considerations involved. If they are not, it is safe to say that not only will the goods stay on the shelves, but Uncle Sam will be asking questions.

1. Make certain you understand the application of American foreign policy to the particular broadcast under consideration.

Nations are usually accused of having a confused foreign policy because those who make the accusation are incapable of understanding that policy. A nation may have a policy with which you disagree, but it's not necessarily confused. The only way for one not thoroughly schooled in foreign policy application to stay out of hot water is to check each instance which arises with some responsible authority.

Not all programs produced in the United States for foreign consumption involve foreign policy, of course, but it is safe to assume that any program which deals with any action whatsoever by a national government should be checked for policy. It would be one thing, for example, to publish an editorial in a newspaper in the United States differing sharply with the present attitude of the U. S. Government toward Vichy France, and quite another to broadcast such a statement by shortwave to Europe.

Voice of Uncle Sam

To listeners in Europe, our shortwave statement is the United States. One may think Chile very shortsighted in her present policy toward the Axis nations, but if we put a speaker or a drama on the shortwaves to South America saying that—or coming anywhere near saying that—that is the United States Government speaking so far as the Chilean listener is concerned. It is not that we may not want to say that to Chile. We might as a Government want to say just that. But it is the sort of point which arises constantly in international broadcasting which needs, demands, the attention of a responsible diplomatic mind. It is courting danger

Careful Check of Broadcasts Aimed At Other Nations Is Necessary

By WELLS CHURCH

Now that the American international shortwave broadcasting system is about to be expanded and integrated [BROADCASTING, Aug. 24], the modus operandi becomes vitally important in the war effort. Wells (Ted) Church, an experienced former network program executive who shortly will join the Rockefeller Committee, recently returned from London where he acted as American consultant to the BBC. His article in the May 18 BROADCASTING, pointing out the shortcomings of our present system, created considerable stir and albeit critical, was hailed by a leading Government broadcasting official concerned with the problem as a highly constructive contribution to the betterment of our international radio operations. Herewith another constructively critical article by Mr. Church.

to move without checking such a case.

2. Make certain you understand the internal politics of the nation you address.

Dramatizations of life in another country offer the widest opportunities for trouble in international broadcasting. It is too easy to violate national pride, or to look ridiculous. (Personally, I was amused—some might have been angry—when I heard another country identify the "Star Spangled Banner" as "one of the many important airs of America" and describe it as written at "a" fort during "a" war by "a patriot").

One of the prime sources of trouble, too, is the refugee field or, indeed, the putting on the air of any national to speak to his home country. Each of these speakers must be thoroughly checked before being invited to speak. His or her political reputation may be anything but enviable in his home country. It is well to remember that, whereas we in America are very used to hearing the opposition's side of things, this form is not generally the case in other countries. That's true no matter how much any country may brag about its free speech.

3. Use acceptable accents.

It will be insisted there are two sides to this question, but if you will consider yourself the listener, the right answer will come up. We Americans all have a feeling of revulsion when we hear perfectly good American accents coming out of Berlin. British listeners shudder when they hear a good British Southern accent coming from the German capital. But those decisions are easy to make. (I still can't understand how the Germans can be so thick-headed.) Anything these spokesmen say is certain to be taken as an untruth. On the other hand, English spoken with a German accent is more likely to impress an English-speaking listener than the other type. This means that we should speak to our enemies consistently with American-accented tongues.

But in speaking to our friends, the reverse is not necessarily true. The situation clears a little when you remember that our shortwave signals represent the United States to foreign listeners. Thus it should carry the stamp of the United States, an American accent. That is probably as close to a general rule as one can get. But, there will certainly be many times when it will be a compliment to another nation to use a national of that country as the spokesman. The type program involved often offers opportunities for individual solution.

Explain U. S.

4. It is always best to assume that the nation to which you are speaking knows absolutely nothing about the United States.

This is more of a script problem than anything else. Jokes based on locations in America, like Niagara Falls, fall flat abroad; no one knows that Niagara Falls is where honeymooners go. In this same category comes the problem of different names for things. For example, in the United States you go to the movies, in England you go to the cinema or the flicks, and in South Africa you go to the bioscope. It behooves all program men to become familiar with as many of these differences as is possible. Any tough one can be checked. It may do Mr. Dewey an injustice, but there is no meaning abroad in a sentence saying "Thomas E. Dewey, of New York State, is planning a tour of South America." You have to explain who Dewey is—or most of your audience will look slightly blank.

Probably this point should be carried to the extreme of identifying the Star Spangled Banner as "the national anthem of the United States of America" instead of just playing it. (Imagine my own feelings at the Labour Party Conference in London when, after standing at attention for a song I could not identify but which I thought must be the Belgian national an-

Govt. Ownership, Operation Is Out; 'Partnership' Concept Goes Forward

GOVERNMENT ownership and operation of the international shortwave broadcasting system is definitely abandoned in principle, and the plan for a Government "partnership" with existing licensees in an expansion program [BROADCASTING, Aug. 24] took a step forward last Thursday when it was presented to the Board of War Communications.

The expansion project, calling for 22 new shortwave stations of 50,000 to 100,000 watts power, with frequencies to be obtained from other services, was laid before BWC, and upon that body now rests the responsibility for securing priorities so that the transmitters can be built in the shortest possible time. No final action was taken, but it was reported that "progress is being made."

Approval Needed

It is understood that BWC must consult with the military services to learn whether critical materials may be obtained for the newly expanded American arm of psychological warfare. Military chiefs as well as the War Production Board will be consulted on the project

Appearing before BWC last week was Com. T. A. M. Craven, FCC commissioner designated to represent that body on a planning committee including representatives of the Office of War Information and the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs (Rockefeller Committee). He laid the plan before the board, flanked by Nelson A. Rockefeller, OCIAA coordinator; W. K. Harrison, assistant OCIAA coordinator. Don Francisco, assistant in charge of the Rockefeller Radio Division; Robert Sherwood, OWI director of Overseas Operations; Murry Brophy, chief of Mr. Sherwood's Communications Facilities Bureau.

The plan proposes that the Government shall erect and pay the operating costs of the 22 new transmitters, which would be licensed to existing or new licensees; that some programs shall continue to be controlled by private operators, though many news, troop morale and propaganda features will be supplied by Government agencies; and that, after the war, the plants shall be sold to the private operators. It is understood to have the approval of all Government interests involved as well as most of the private operators.

OPA Price Ceiling To Allow Normal Advertising Programs

Henderson Says Promotion Will be Considered Component of Cost; Denies 'Squeeze' Coming

POSITIVE and formal assurance that the Office of Price Administration will not disturb "normal advertising expenditures" in its investigation dealing with price adjustments came last week from Director Leon Henderson.

Setting at rest misgivings repeatedly whispered in advertising and trade circles that some "squeeze" would come as the economic picture tightened, Mr. Henderson reaffirmed his previous statements that advertising would not be molested. Mr. Henderson had told an emergency meeting of advertisers last Fall that he would not use price control as a device in curtailing or eliminating normal advertising expenditures, but since the issuance of the General Maximum Price Regulations some question has arisen as to whether OPA would suggest curtailment of advertising to absorb price "squeezes in individual cases."

Fulmer Raises Issue

The suggestion that advertising might be squeezed came from Chairman Fulmer, (D-S.C.) of the House Agriculture Committee, and Mr. Henderson promptly defended normal expenditures in a letter to the legislator. Chairman Fulmer had written Mr. Henderson charging that soap companies were forcing OPA to roll back prices on tallow, fats, and greases "so that they would be able to make their usual large profits, which would enable them not only in peacetime but during this great emergency when we are spending billions in trying to win this war, to advertise in the press, over the radio, and by any other method whereby they might be able to increase their sales and their cash surpluses".

In his reply, Mr. Henderson pointed out that the large soap manufacturers voluntarily had rescinded price increases announced in February, but had presented data on the impact of tallow, fat and grease prices on the price of soaps. He asserted this data resulted in the OPA investigation.

Normal Layouts OK

"In line with our previously announced policy", Mr. Henderson advised the Congressman, "normal advertising layouts were considered as costs in this investigation. Any other policy with respect to advertising might well result in the destruction of the entire advertising industry, an end that is beyond either the authority or inclination of this Office. May I point out, however, that extra extraordinary layouts for promotional campaigns, such as the recent campaign advertising Swan soap, were not considered as costs in our margin investigation".

Mr. Henderson's statement was viewed as removing the last vestige of doubt about government policy on advertising expenditures. Reports that the Internal Revenue Bureau might be disposed to rule that advertising expenditures could not be charged to overhead as "ordinary and necessary" likewise largely have been dispelled.

The action taken in the soap price case establishes a precedent. Heretofore, the OPA head has announced policy, but had never had occasion to invoke it.

'Time' in Collaboration With Cigarette Newscasts

BENSON & HEDGES, New York, will sponsor the 9 p.m. news period on WQXR, New York, five nights weekly, beginning Sept. 14 for Virginia Rounds cigarettes. Quarter-hour news period, which will be titled World Wide News Review, is broadcast by Albert Grobe and the script is prepared by the station's news staff in collaboration with Frank Norris, managing editor of the March of Time and his staff.

Much of the material used on the broadcasts comes from correspondents and editors of Time, which recently completed an arrangement with WQXR for experiments in radio programming [BROADCASTING, Aug. 17]. The nightly newscasts are said to be the first results of this collaboration. Sponsorship was arranged by Duane Jones Co., New York.

Goldwyn Discs

SAMUEL GOLDWYN Inc., New York, is releasing 5 and 15-minute trailer transcriptions to approximately 100 distributors in various markets throughout the country in connection with the national release of the film "Pride of the Yankees". Discs, for placement on local stations, were cut by Thomas J. Valentino Inc., New York. Firm used spots of five stations in connection with the world premiere of the show in New York in July. Agency is Donahue & Coe, New York.

General Foods Strip

GENERAL FOODS Corp., starts Young Dr. Malone in a morning period on NBC for Post Bran Flakes on a five-weekly basis, Aug. 31. The show continues as an afternoon feature on CBS for Post Toasties. Serial started on NBC-BLUE in Nov., 1939, shifting to CBS in April, 1940. Benton & Bowles, New York, is agency.

ALBERTO MIRANDA, director of telegraphic and radio communications in the Republic of Bolivia, was in New York last week to discuss relations between Bolivian stations and NBC with John F. Royal, NBC vice-president in charge of international relations. Mr. Miranda is here to obtain priorities for vital communications equipment needed in Bolivia.

Knodel a V-P

J. WILLIAM KNODEL, for five years with the Chicago sales staff of Free & Peters, station representatives, has been elected a vice-president of the company and sales manager of the Chicago office at a recent meeting of the board of directors. Well known in agency and industry circles, Mr. Knodel was on the advertising staff of the Omaha Bee-News and before that on the Omaha World Herald before joining Free & Peters in January, 1938.

WLAC To Dedicate New 50 kw. Plant

Nashville Station Formally Boosts Power Sept. 11

SUCCESSFULLY negotiating an endless maze of priorities and other obstacles occasioned by the war, WLAC, Nashville, on Sept. 11 will dedicate its new 50,000-watt transmitter.

Mr. Ward

After a lapse of nearly a year-and-a-half, dating from the breaking of ground, J. Truman Ward, owner of WLAC, announced that installation is completed. The new WLAC transmitter has been on 50,000-watt daytime program tests since Aug. 10, and reports reaching the station from all directions, according to Mr. Ward, indicate greatly increased coverage. The new plant, Western Electric throughout, was installed at an overall cost, including building and appurtenances, of approximately $175,000.

Gala Premiere Planned

F. C. Sowell, general manager of WLAC, has recruited big-name talent for the inaugural program. It is being exploited with spreads in 26 county newspapers throughout the station's primary and secondary areas. Especially transcribed greetings for the station's premiere have been arranged by such CBS personalities as Cecil B. DeMille, Guy Lombardo, Bill Perry, Jessica Dragonette, Edward G. Robinson, Glenn Miller, Bob Burns, Penny Singleton and Arthur Blake, Ben Bernie, Gene Autry, Amos 'n Andy and Ginny Simms.

In addition to a gala program, the broadcasts will open and close with patriotic renditions by the 130th Infantry Band at Camp Forrest. WLAC began operation in 1926 with 1,000 watts as a time-sharing station. In 1930 it was operating fulltime with 5,000 watts as a CBS outlet. The station was acquired by Mr. Ward in 1935. It operates on 1510 kc.

Licenses Granted For Defense Radio

Akron and Lawrence First To Set Up Local Units

FIRST LICENSES for the War Emergency Radio Service of the Office of Civilian Defense were granted last Monday by the FCC to civilian defense units of Akron, O., and Lawrence, Mass.

Creation of the WERS was announced jointly by the OCD and FCC June 13 [BROADCASTING, June 15]. No new equipment is necessary for the units, which will utilize transmitters of ultra-high frequencies and 25 watts limited power in a relay system which will take over when normal communications break off. In event of such a communications cut-off, the FCC said last week, the emergency radio setup will be available to coordinate rescue and repair work.

Use 'Walkie-Talkies'

Under the licenses granted last week Akron will have a two-way low-powered system of 16 receiver-transmitters. Some of these, it was said, will be in fixed locations while others will be mobile. A few "walkie-talkies" will also be used. The city of Lawrence received a license for a system of 11 two-way radio units.

The FCC announced that applications of many other cities are pending before the Commission. Requests vary according to local conditions, it was said. It was also said that some applications are being returned to communities because the forms fail to indicate what arrangements exist for liaison with local civilian defense commanders for silencing the radio emergency units when conditions dictate. The OCD previously had warned that all cities asking for permission to set up such a service should furnish proof to the FCC that all transmitters within the area could be instantly silenced upon receipt of a single order from the district OCD warning center [BROADCASTING, June 22].

Meanwhile the American Radio Relay League, made up of amateurs who for the most part will man the WERS units, last week announced the hams are being successful in constructing sets from discarded parts of receivers. It was said the parts, in original form, cannot be utilized for shortwave transmitters and receivers but the metal and wiring required can be obtained from these old sets.

Movie Trailer Discs

GOSSIP of Hollywood and preview scenes from the latest movies are featured in a five-minute transcribed series released by Thomas J. Valentino Inc., New York. The discs have been prepared for the use of stations seeking the sponsorship of local exhibitors of the films reviewed, or may carry them as sustainers. Already 100 stations have signed for the series, on a 13-week basis, according to Mr. Valentino.

We're building something NEW
in Chicago Radio!

● Here's a new broadcasting philosophy and a new radio operation in the heart of a new market for Chicago radio advertisers.

It's WJWC of Hammond-Chicago. A few months ago we were nothing more than an idea in the minds of a few Chicagoans who knew that things were changing in the Chicago market—that a whole new class of important citizens and consumers permanently had entered Chicago's economic pattern—and that these millions of new people were being inadequately served by the existing radio stations.

We knew that an honored place was awaiting any new radio enterprise in the Chicago area which could do an honest, inspired job of broadcasting—beamed to the minds, to the hearts, and to the pocketbooks of the millions of new-wealthy industrial workers whose skill and sweat and muscles are making a new world in the heavy-industry neighborhoods around Chicago.

News, 19 times daily (on the half-hour every hour)—prepared by a special staff of fifteen top-flight correspondents, writers and announcers, from the reports of the United Press, Press Association and Chicago Sun reporters, edited by the famed Clifton Utley—is one of the many services we are bringing to the Janes and Joes in the "Calumet Corner".

But space is running short, and we haven't told the story as yet. We'll try to tell you more in this same space, next week.

Drug Industry Asked to Give 5% of Ad Budget to War Bonds

Manufacturers' Plan Receives Treasury Approval $4,000,000 May Be Realized From Drive

A PLAN calling upon the drug, cosmetic and allied industries to cooperate voluntarily with the Government in the war effort by agreeing to devote 5% of its advertising appropriation to the War Bond campaign has been submitted to members of those industries by a policy committee headed by Lee H. Bristol, vice-president in charge of advertising, Bristol-Myers Co.

Developed by the committee in cooperation with the Advertising Council and approved by Henry Morgenthau, Secretary of the Treasury, the plan is presented in a 36-page book which has been sent to all drug and cosmetic advertisers. On the basis of 5% of expenditures of these companies for time and space, the committee is asking that they devote approximately $4,000,000 to advertising bonds instead of their regular products.

Time or Cash

Participation may be either in "kind," with the advertiser donating time on the air or publication space in accordance with "master schedules" worked out by the committee, or in cash, which the committee will utilize to fill in voids in the master schedules. Large contributions from individual advertisers will be used for advertising placed by the advertiser's own agency; small contributions will be lumped together and the campaign placed by an agency selected by the committee.

Sample 12-month master schedules for magazines and network radio are included in the presentation, which points out that it would be impossible to work out similar schedules for advertising in newspapers, spot radio, billboards, car cards, etc. Users of these media are asked to donate 5% of their time or space to selling War Bonds and to report details to the committee.

Suggested network schedule, listing 66 programs presented by 31 advertisers, allocates two broadcasts a year of each once-a-week program to the bond drive, five broadcasts of the twice-weekly shows, seven broadcasts for programs given three times a week, 10 broadcasts for the four-times-a-week programs and 13 broadcasts for the five-a-weekers. Programs to be devoted to the selling of War Bonds are spaced as evenly as possible throughout the year in each advertiser's schedule, with allotments staggered from schedule to schedule "so that an even flow of War Bond effort is maintained and a continuing effect be given to this campaign."

Four types of radio participation are suggested: "1. Entire scripts built around the War Bond drive (Suited to programs of the type of Easy Aces). 2. Full commercial time — not just 'hitch-hike' announcements — devoted to War Bond commercials. Our drive needs selling power, not only 'reminder' announcements (Suited to programs of the type of Mr. District Attorney). 3. Direct appeal by star of show (Suited to programs of the type of Bob Hope Show). 4. Interviews with, or direct appeal by Government Officers (Suited to programs of the type of Walter Winchell or newscasters)."

Advice Available

Book also states that "a staff of radio consultants who have worked with the Treasury and the Advertising Council and are thoroughly familiar with the needs of this War Bond Drive will be available to help participants make the most effective use of the programs they devote to this drive." Agencies representing companies in the drug, cosmetic and allied industries will meet with the committee to learn of the aims and methods of the drive, each agency to place the advertising of its own client.

Petrillo's Ban on Recording of Music Stalls Music Publishers, Says Miller

THE PETRILLO ban on recorded music, in its first full month, has resulted in a virtual cessation of music publishing, Neville Miller, NAB president, stated Sunday. The ban has adversely affected not only the recording industry and its affiliated businesses, but the general public as well, he said.

Despite the quantities of music recorded prior to Aug. 1, when the ban has adversely affected notation "is no longer keeping abreast of the inspiration of the composer", Mr. Miller declared, "the publishers are today unable to accept and properly exploit fresh works, even those of a patriotic nature.

"So far as can be ascertained, not a single work completed after the recording ban went into effect has been published, and such works as have been accepted are being held back in the hope that the order will be rescinded. Consequently, the composer has already directly felt the first impacts of the ban. As for the union musicians, those of them who looked to the making of recordings for all or a part of their compensation have during August been deprived of this source of income.

"The detrimental effect upon the art of music and upon radio will be increasingly evident. Moreover, if Mr. Petrillo persists in his avowed determination to prevent union musicians from making phonograph records and other recordings, whether for popular, patriotic or classical music, the absence of freshly recorded music will impair the ability of radio stations to serve their communities. It will also impair the tremendous investment which the American public has in home phonographs.

Big Coast Grid Series Planned by Associated

The coast gridiron season will start Sept. 26.

Associated will advertise its gasoline, motor oils and auto check-up service. Harold R. Deal, general promotion and advertising director of Associated, is working out a complete broadcast schedule, lining up sportscasters and outlining a promotion campaign.

Oil Firms Merge In Drive for Coal Radio Announcements Push Heater Unit Conversion

NINE MAJOR OIL companies, all radio advertisers, have agreed to cooperate in the Government's program for the conversion of East Coast plants and home heating units from fuel oil to coal, in what appears at first glance to be a strange paradox, and at closer view, sound public relations, and an example of unity of purpose in solving the nation's wartime problems.

With few coal companies using radio, the oil firms, who have either network shows or extensive spot schedules, have taken on the unusual assignment of urging the public to change over to coal.

Special Spots

This is being done through inclusion of special radio announcements, prepared and distributed by the Petroleum War Industry Council, a group of representatives of the oil industry, and is part of a regular program conducted by the council in various media, including the use of local distributors to circulate material on the subject of conversion.

An insight into how and why an oil company goes about promoting a rival product is found in spots prepared by Marschalk & Pratt, New York, agency for Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, sponsor of Esso Reporter on Eastern stations. While stressing the various economies which can be made in the home to conserve fuel oil consumption, announcements include such statements as the following:

"Some, who can do so, are installing grates in their furnaces and ordering bins filled with coal or coke. No petroleum refiner enjoys losing . . . even temporarily . . . a large number of valued customers. However, as things look right now, these precautions may well mean the difference next winter, between comfort and lack of it. And the petroleum industry would be less than candid were the present outlook made to appear less serious than it seems today."

Other radio advertisers who have agreed to use the PWIC material are: Socony Vacuum Oil Co., Raymond Gram Swing, BLUE; Sinclair Oil Co., Sinclair Melodies, transcriptions; Cities Service Co., Cities Service Concerts, NBC; Richfield Oil Co., H. V. Kaltenborn, NBC; Sun Oil Co., Lowell Thomas, BLUE; Texas Co., Texas Star Theater, CBS; Gulf Oil Co., We the People, CBS; and Atlantic Refining Co., baseball broadcasts, 55 Eastern stations.

DON WILSON, Hollywood announcer, has been signed as narrator of the Twentieth Century-Fox short film, "Springtime in the Rockies". Knox Manning, CBS commentator, has been signed as narrator of the Warner undereens short "The Mankiller".

Sincere thanks, America!

Rockefeller Field Force Mustered

Latin Radio Campaign Is Surging Rapidly Toward Peak

ITS FIELD STAFF largely mustered and making ready to take various posts in Latin America, the Radio Division of the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs (Rockefeller Committee) during September will swing into peak distribution of American radio programs designed to cement Good Neighbor relationship between the United States and the rest of the Americas.

Directed by Coordinator Nelson A. Rockefeller to tell the true story of the United States and its war effort via radio to Latin America, the Radio Division, headed by Don Francisco, former president of Lord & Thomas, has embarked on an ambitious program of coordinating the facilities of all available radio media, using shortwaves, point-to-point, transcriptions, rebroadcasts and locally-produced programs in the various Central and South American countries.

Shift in Emphasis

Latterly, according to Mr. Francisco, the emphasis has gradually shifted toward transcriptions and locally-produced programs, although a new agreement has just been concluded with CBS for co-operation with the Rockefeller Committee looking to wider dissemination via the CBS Latin American Network, of agreed-upon programs. NBC's Latin American network, also fed via shortwaves, for some months has been working in close cooperation with the Radio Division. Between them the two major American networks have more than 200 affiliated stations in Latin America.

The field force will comprise nine men, headed by Paul Krumping, formerly president of Export Advertising, New York agency, who has been transferred from the New York office of the OCIAA to Washington to direct the men who will shortly be dispatched to Central and South America. First to leave will be Francis McArdle, recently with the Brazilian section of the Radio Division in New York and formerly head of the Brazilian office of J. Walter Thompson Co. He will shortly leave for Rio de Janeiro.

Seven other field men selected, all of them with Latin American experience, will be sent to various posts within the next three months. They are: Cy Nathan, formerly a radio supervisor with Lord & Thomas, who was raised in Mexico; Frank Linder, formerly with the radio department of BBDO; Stuart Ayres, freelance writer who won a Rockefeller Foundation scholarship for his study of radio in Latin America; F. A. Rankin, recently with the Dept. of Agriculture; Herbert Cerwin, former newspaper and public relations counsel on the Pacific Coast, recently representing the Del Monte properties; John Wiggin, producer and writer formerly with NBC.

Two more field men remain to be selected, and they will be announced shortly. The task of the field men is to contact broadcast officials and station operators in the various countries to which they are assigned, and to make sure that American-produced transcriptions are carried, that NBC and CBS Latin American network shows are rebroadcast, and that proper publicity is given these shows. They will also scout for Latin American shows suitable for broadcasting in this country, and they will give aid to Latin American stations in the production of local shows.

Ogilvie on Tour

Preparatory to the full functioning of the field force, Mr. Francisco's chief assistant, John W. G. Ogilvie, left recently for an extended tour of South America. He will be gone another month. Sylvester L. (Pat) Weaver, former advertising manager of American Tobacco Co. who has been in charge of the Rockefeller Committee's New York office but who has been called up for Navy service, does not have to report for military duty until the end of September. Meanwhile, he is in California checking up Hollywood and San Francisco activities. His place as director of the New York radio office will be taken by William Hillpot, former program manager of the BLUE [BROADCASTING, Aug. 17].

Also now en route to South America, having left Aug. 26, are Coordinator Nelson A. Rockefeller, his News Division Chief, Francis Jamieson, and Gen. Dunham, chief of health and sanitation.

In placing greater emphasis on on-the-spot radio in the other Americas, the Rockefeller Committee is submitting scripts, prepared in its Radio Division, as well as transcriptions to the various Latin American stations equipped to put them into production. The field men will act essentially as combination liaison men, time-buyers and program scouts. Each man will be assigned one or more countries as his territory.

40 Programs Per Week

Already the Radio Division is interested, in a consultative or supervisory capacity, in more than 40 programs a week broadcast from the United States to Latin America. This number is rapidly increasing and the programs cover a wide range from dramatics to news commentaries. Most of them are in Spanish, some in Portuguese, the latter largely for Brazilian distribution. Among the more elaborate dramatic programs are:

La Marcha del Tiempo (March of Time), a documentary treatment of outstanding personalities, localities or service branches in the week's war news, shortwaved via NBC facilities to some 36 stations in 10 Latin American countries.

Estamos En Guerra (This Is War), originally an adaptation of the Norman Corwin plays, now revised as a weekly dramatization of war news and carried over a CBS Latin American network.

La Epopeya del Nuevo Mundo, a program closely resembling Cavalcade of America, rebroadcast over 23 stations in Latin America.

Teatro Inter-Americana (Inter-American Theatre), based on the Arch Obler NBC series, shortwaved and rebroadcast by 23 stations.

In all cases, efforts are being made to build listening audiences through adequate advertising and publicity. Among the "personality" or interview-types of program are: Arsenals of Freedom, a weekly visit to important U. S. war plants and Americana Todas, a five-weekly program in which famous people of all the Americas are interviewed. The former is broadcast through CBS shortwave facilities and the latter via NBC. Others of this type include a Sports Review, telling of American sports and athletes from the other American nations, and Tribute to Heroes, a dramatization of American heroes in the battle areas.

News Comments

In the news commentary field, the Radio Division's sole interest, according to Mr. Francisco, is to get the widest distribution possible of acceptable, independent commentaries. Among these are Robert Unanue, who does daily Argentine news broadcasts via CBS and is additionally transmitted point-to-point to a network of 14 stations in Argentina, Uruguay and Bolivia; Alejandro Sux, whose thrice-weekly news commentaries are carried via NBC shortwaves and rebroadcast over six stations; Dr. J. Barata, well-known Brazilian radio and newspaperman, heard on the Brazilian Hour, a Government program carried on 99 stations in Brazil; R. Magalhaes, correspondent of A Noite of Rio de Janeiro.

In addition to these regularly scheduled programs, the Radio Division special events supervises from three to five special programs weekly. Examples are reciprocal salute of Brazilian fliers in Rio and U. S. fliers at Mitchell Field, which were recorded, broadcast over MBS and then sent point-to-point to a Brazilian network, and the ceremonies attending Queen Wilhelmina's acceptance of this country's gift of a subchaser, also recorded and transmitted point-to-point to Latin America.

Two new series of transcription programs were completed during August. The first released was U. S. In Industry, a dramatized program depicting America's war machine in high gear. The second was El Canto de America (The Song of America), a dramatic program in which the ardently democratic poems of Walt Whitman are done against a background of modern North American composers' work as played by symphonic orchestras.

These transcribed shows, high in entertainment value, are distributed by groups of persons friendly to Pan American solidarity. Each group places the programs with specified stations in the territory in which it resides.

Truth as Propaganda

In these programs, as in all other programs in which the Rockefeller Committee is interested, the main emphasis is on entertainment and information. As stated by Mr. Rockefeller: "The sole propaganda element is in the truth, told as well and as forcefully as possible."

The most ambitious of the tran-

Average Salaries in Industry Again Show Increase in Year

Weekly Payroll of $1,138,249 Shown in FCC Data Covering 1941, With 23,666 Persons Employed

RADIO'S weekly payroll last year averaged $1,138,249, an increase of $121,883 over 1940, according to the FCC in its summary release last week of annual financial reports submitted by stations and networks. Average salaries increased during the year, the FCC found.

Establishing the week of Oct. 12, 1941, as a base period, three national networks, five regionals and 817 standard broadcast stations reported a total of 23,666 fulltime employes.

These figures represent an increase of $121,883 in the salary total and 2,020 in fulltime employes contrasted with the comparable period in 1940, the report states.

Average Pay Up

The eight broadcasting systems had 4,009 fulltime employes and the remainder were employed by individual stations. Exclusive of executive personnel, the average weekly wage paid by the national radio chains was $57.41—a reduction of 14c compared with the 1940 figures. Comparable salaries with the regional networks amounted to $48.39 or an increase of $6.81 over 1940 and average wages of $38.88 for individual station employes representing an increase of $1.13 over the previous year.

The average weekly wage for the 19,567 fulltime employes of the 817 stations was $45.15, an increase of $1.64 over 1940. Of this figure, 2,426 were in the executive class earning an average weekly wage of $89.46, an increase of $5.04 over 1940. The employe total below the rank of executive, was 17,141.

The report shows that major network executives earned an average weekly salary of $258.83, contrasted with $251.68 for 1940. Regional network executives advanced from an average check of $91.50 in 1940 to $137.57 in 1941.

Stations in the more densely populated regions, the survey reveals, employ more people per station than those in less densely populated regions. In this there is no change from 1940. The report cites the case of 18 clear channel unlimited time stations in the Northeast which employ 1,438 fulltime employes for an average of about 80 per station whereas 8 such clear channels in the Southeast employed 466 people, or an average of about 58 per station.

The same is true of 133 unlimited time stations in the Northeast which employ an average of 35 people per station whereas 162 unlimited time stations in the Southeast employ about 17 per station.

Clear-channel unlimited time employes in the Northeast receive an average check of $62.40 while the Southeast's average wage for

Vichy Clamps Down

DEATH is now the penalty for persons caught operating secret radios in Vichy France, and life imprisonment at hard labor will be imposed on those possessing such equipment. Joseph Barthelemy, Justice minister in the cabinet of Pierre Laval, approved the law, fixing the penalties for using radio "contrary to the national interest." A time limit has been fixed to allow persons to declare or turn in equipment.

LARRY ELLIOTT, freelance announcer, has been signed by Universal News as narrator on a short film on the activities of the Canadian Patrol.

JOINING THE RANKS of talent participating in the Fall Parade of Stars, promotion campaign now being carried by a majority of NBC stations, Eddie Cantor presents Frank Mullen, NBC vice-president and general manager, with special recordings calling attention to coming fall shows. Cantor's records were made through cooperation of Bristol-Myers Co., sponsor, and Young and Rubicam, agency.

ARMY NOW USING 'GAS PIPE' UNITS

Experimenting With Low Power Transmitters

Hooked Up With Camps' Power Lines

UNDER supervision of Martin Work, former radio consultant of the National Catholic Community Service, agency of the USO, now acting as a special radio consultant for the War Dept., a number of "wired radio" units have been set up in various Army camps for experimental purposes, it was learned last week.

Equipment for a unit, it was said, consists of a low-powered transmitter which is hooked into power lines of the camp. Radiation is limited to within 200 or 300 yards and a frequency is selected which will not interfere with frequencies of stations in nearby towns. It was said no conversion of receivers is necessary under the setup. The units are now being used to deliver lectures as well as this group was $39.38. Unlimited time stations in the Northeast pay their employes an average salary of $50.24 compared to $37.98 for the same time of station in the southeast.

The 1941 tabulations for fulltime employes of unlimited time stations follow:

Washington Office Is Opened by BBC To Maintain Liaison With Government

WITH opening of a new branch office of the British Broadcasting Corp. in Washington last week, Capt. Sir Cecil Graves, director-general of the BBC, visited the capital for five days and conferred with officials on international radio problems. He granted no interviews and made no public speeches, asking to be excused because of the pressure of war duties, but on Aug. 28 he attended an off-the-record luncheon of Overseas Writers, Washington newspaper and radio correspondents who have served abroad.

Sir Cecil was accompanied by Lindsay Wellington, North American director of BBC, who is directing head of the new Washington office, though he maintains headquarters in New York. Resident manager of the office, located at 1150 Connecticut Ave. NW, is Annette Ebsen, for six years with the BBC's New York offices.

Capital Liaison

A graduate of Sandhurst, Britain's West Point, Capt. Graves joined the Royal Scots in 1911 and served with the BEF in France at the outbreak of World War I in 1914. He was taken prisoner in an early engagement. He served with the Intelligence Branch of the War Office from 1919 to 1925 after which he joined BBC. Becoming its assistant director of programs in 1929, he rose to director of the Empire Service, founding and developing BBC's world-wide short-wave service. He was deputy director general from April, 1938, until appointed joint director general last January.

The Washington office of BBC will maintain liaison with Government agencies dealing with radio, particularly the Office of War Information which has just established a London office dealing largely with radio matters. Considerable material is beamed daily to England for rebroadcast over BBC and its Empire Service, most of it transcribed on the other end for suitable timing. A large staff is maintained in New York under Mr. Wellington.

BBC has lined up its London news commentators in a regular six-weekly series aired 8-8:15 p.m. with repeat at 12:15 a.m. Now heard on consecutive days, starting Sunday are: L. W. Brockington; George Gibson, former president, Trades Union Council in Great Britain; Vernon Bartlett, M.P. alternating with Frederick Kuh, war correspondent; William Holt, journalist; MacDonald Hastings, editor, Picture Post; and Stanley Maxted.

Studio Notes

PRESENTATION of the Army & Navy "E" award to the Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester, was the occasion of a special broadcast by WHAM, Rochester. In addition to formal presentation ceremonies, entertainment consisted of Eddie Cantor, m.c. and a program highlighted by Olsen & Johnson and Co., Helen Hayes, the Southernaires, Vincent Lopez and his orchestra, Wynne Murray, Joe Beser, Milton Charleston and Cantor's stooge, "Guffy".

WWNY, Waterbury, N. Y., broadcast Northern New York's Gouverneur-St. Lawrence County Fair carrying a variety of programs for five days. Betty Barton, women's program director, Jack Case, sports commentator, Fred Shavor, announcer, and Jean Cos combined to handle the programs.

KDAL, Duluth, is now presenting Chief Petty Officer Ben Brady, former General Motors promotion man, in a 15-minute commentary. Saturdays, Brady airs stories, facts and figures about the Navy in promoting enlistments. To further assist the Navy, KDAL recently converted one of its studios into a recruiting station and reports recruiting around Duluth has increased 70%, attributing a great part to the Brady of the Navy series.

WBBM, Chicago, has started a sidewalk puppet show twice a week for noontime crowds on Michigan Ave. to promote War Bond and Stamp sales. WBBM page girls attend sales windows in the station's sidewalk newsroom and circulate through the crowds watching the show, selling corsages and boutonnieres of War Stamps.

War Cuts Schedule

AS A MEASURE of war-time power and equipment conservation, CHNS, Halifax, N. S., on Aug. 24 curtailed its daily operating schedule to 7:45 a.m.-11:15 p.m. Maj. William C. Borrett, manager, took paid space in the local newspapers to announce the change, and added that only on occasions of programs for the national war effort will the schedule be extended.

INAUGURATING a policy of international exchange of features of the "NBC Inter-American University of the Air", CBC will produce a program in the Lands of the Free series Aug. 31 under the title Dominion Status. Heretofore the University of the Air historical plays have been produced in NBC's New York studios. The Aug. 31 broadcast is the first of five to be devoted to Canada [BROADCASTING, July 6, 1942].

WOWO-WGL, Fort Wayne, Ind., is meeting the actor shortage by training a class of 30 in the rudiments of radio drama. With Clair Weidenaar, WOWO production manager in charge, classes are held for an hour and a half each Wednesday night. Mr. Weidenaar believes that in two months, WOWO will have a promising new crop for its stock company.

WWNY, Watertown, N. Y., broadcast a round table discussion of recent maneuvers at Pine Camp, N. Y., where West Point cadets were given a rough field drill. Army officials and newsmen and photographers covering the event participated.

WGN, Chicago, has broadcast since Jan. 1 a total of 307 programs and 767 announcements devoted entirely to selling War Bonds and Stamps. A number of Bond Wagon programs have been broadcast on WGN from booths in Chicago's loop where celebrities appear to sell bonds. The station plans to start remote broadcasts from outlying shopping areas and suburbs where WGN talent will appear on special War Savings shows.

WOWO-WGL, Fort Wayne, Ind., is building new offices for Tom Wheeler, farm director and chief of the promotion department and music library. Work on the station's FM studios and control rooms on the third floor is progressing.

THROUGH the efforts of WPAT, Paterson, N. J., workers in all five plants of the Wright Aircraft Corp. in the Paterson area were able to participate in the Army-Navy "E" ceremony last Tuesday. The program, presented from the yard of Plant 1 in Paterson, was heard by workers in the other plants so that they could award the "E" pennant simultaneously at each plant, all having received it for excellence of production. Steve Ellis, WPAT special events announcer, was m.c.

WJJD, Chicago, and WIND, Gary, have 100% enrollment of their 114 staff members in the Ten Per Cent Club for purchase of War Bonds through payroll allotment.

WSP, Atlanta, Ga., is promoting Victory Bank, a project which urges Georgia farmers and landowners to select and work their most eroded corner of land as an asset dedicated to Victory. First suggested on Dixie Farm Hour by Bill France, station director, the project has been warmly received, and station officials believe state civic organizations, and federal and state soil conservation agencies will cooperate.

WKBH, La Crosse, Wis., recently staged an Army-Navy night to help raise funds for the local Blackhawk Baseball Team. Nearby camps dispatched equipment and bombers to Copeland Park, scene of the event. Oath of allegiance was administered to new service recruits during the broadcast.

CFCF, Montreal, reports that of a pre-war male staff of 21 persons, the station is now represented with six members in the Royal Canadian Air Force, one in the Royal Canadian Navy, two in the Army, and two with the Ferry Command.

KOA, Denver, has contracted to carry exclusive broadcasts of all home games of the U of Colorado. Bill Welsh will announce.

SHORTAGE of radio technicians has forced KMEB, Medford, Ore., to discontinue live broadcasts on Sundays.

Sigma Delta Chi Opens '42 Award Nominations

NOMINATIONS for 1942 Sigma Delta Chi Awards are now being received for work done by Americans during the period of July 1, 1941 and June 30, 1942. Awards cover the following fields—Radio newswriting, general reporting, editorial writing, editorial cartooning, Washington correspondence, foreign correspondence, research in journalism and courage in journalism.

Radio's award last year went to Cecil Brown, CBS news commentator, who recently replaced Elmer Davis when the latter became OWI chief. Nominations close Sept. 1, 1942 and all nominations and accompanying material must be sent to Professional Awards Committee, Sigma Delta Chi, Suite 1178, 35 East Wacker Drive, Chicago.

NAB last week mailed out a folder entitled "Petrillo and the Press", including reprints of 29 editorial comments on the recent edicts of the AFM president.

WEAF SILENCED TWO HOURS NBC New York Key, and WGBB, Freeport, L. I. Forced Off The Air By Power Supply Failure

WEAF, NBC's key station in New York, was off the air for nearly two hours last Tuesday because of a failure in the Long Island Lighting Co.'s power supply to the station's transmitter at Port Washington, Long Island, a breakdown which also deprived Suffolk County and most of Nassau County of electricity from about 11 a.m. until early afternoon, when service was restored through a switch to the Far Rockaway plant of the Queensborough Gas & Electric Co.

Off Again, On Again

WGBB, Freeport, L. I., was also forced off the air by the power break, which the electric company attributed to trouble at its Glenwood Landing plant, where workmen are establishing additional circuits. Radios and electric appliances in homes throughout the two counties stopped operating and many factories in the affected area, including a number of war manufacturing plants, were brought to a standstill by lack of power.

First trouble at WEAF occurred at 10:42 a.m., when the power faded out, leaving the station silent until 10:48. A few minutes later the incident was repeated, putting WEAF off the air from 10:53 until 10:58. The final power failure silenced WEAF at 11:02, keeping the station out of service until 12:45 p.m. The rest of the NBC network was not affected.

Commercial programs on WEAF which were affected by the interruption of power included five network serials, a local news program and a time signal. The time signal, sponsored by Gruen Watch Co. at 12:30 p.m., will be replaced, WEAF reported, and the station will rebate approximately $1475 less discounts to the other advertisers. Programs affected include: The last few minutes of Helpmate, sponsored by Cudahy Packing Co. for Old Dutch Cleanser, 10:30-10:45 a.m.; four Procter & Gamble Co. shows, on the network from 10:45 to 11:45, as follows, Lone Journey for Dreft, Road of Life for Duz, Vic and Sade for Crisco, Against the Storm for Ivory Soap; David Harum, sponsored by B. T. Babbitt Inc. for Bab-O, 11:45 a.m. to noon, and Don Goddard's newscast on WEAF only, 12-12:15 p.m., sponsored by C. F. Mueller Co.

Sole amusing aspect of the break, to everyone except Mr. Goddard, occurred when this news announcer rushed into the studio shortly before noon, grabbed his script and did his quarter-hour to a dead mike, his co-workers carefully neglecting to inform him of the fact that the station was off the air until he had completed his final commercial and signed off.

'Gildersleeve' Returns

KRAFT CHEESE Co., Chicago (Parkay Margarine), through Needham, Louis & Brorby, that city, after an eight-week summer hiatus, on Aug. 30 resumed The Great Gildersleeve on 64 NBC stations, Sunday, 6:30-7 p.m. (EWT), with West Coast repeat 8-8:30 p.m. (PWT). Hal Peary continues to be starred in the title role. Supporting cast includes Lurene Tuttle, Walter Tetley, Earle Ross and Lillian Randolph. Billy Mills is musical director, with John F. Whedon writing the show. Cecil Underwood is agency producer.

ALL-GIRL ORCHESTRA, feature of the Hour of Charm on NBC under the direction of Phil Spitalny, will take part in the filming of a Universal picture titled "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" and will move from New York to Hollywood for four September broadcasts during production of the movie. Show is sponsored by General Electric Co., Cleveland for G-E lamps, and handled by BBDO, Cleveland.

'WAY OUT IN FRONT!

WOAI scored 110 "firsts" out of 119 quarter and half hour programs surveyed in San Antonio by C. E. Hooper, Inc. during the Winter-Spring period (December, 1941, through April, 1942). That's mighty close to 100 per cent listener preference in a five-station field!

Yes, WOAI is "way out in front" when it comes to reaching most of the folks in Central and South Texas. It's the station you can depend on to do your selling down here—effectively and economically.

Kettler Is Named WMMN Manager

Haid Appointed to Direct WHIZ, Kerns Sales Chief

APPOINTMENT of Stanton (Pete) Kettler as managing director of WMMN, Fairmont, W. Va., was announced last week by George B.

Mr. Kettler

Storer, president of the Fort Industry Co.

Mr. Kettler, who has been managing director of WHIZ, Zanesville, O., another Fort Industry station, succeeds Jay Kelchner, who resigned to take over management of WIBC, Indianapolis.

Mr. Kettler, prior to his appointment at WHIZ, for three years was a member of the commercial staff of WWVA, Wheeling, and is familiar with the West Virginia market.

Haid Heads WHIZ

Mr. Storer also announced appointment of Allen Haid as general manager of the Zanesville station and J. Robert Kerns as commercial manager. Mr. Haid was elevated from program director after three years with the station. Prior to that he was a member of the WWVA production staff. Mr. Kerns has been on the commercial staff of WHIZ for the last three years.

Fort Industry stations in addition to WWVA, WMMN and WHIZ are WSPD, Toledo; WAGA, Atlanta, and WLOK, Lima.

Tokar New 'Henry'

NORMAN TOKAR, formerly heard on the Aldrich Family as "Willie" has succeeded Ezra Stone as "Henry" on the NBC show sponsored by General Foods (Postum). Stone, now an Army sergeant, was withdrawn from the show following the War Department ruling that radio performers would have to forego their private radio contracts and devote their time to soldiering, once inducted by selective service [BROADCASTING, Aug. 17]. Tokar was at one time Stone's understudy in a Broadway production. Young & Rubicam, New York, is the agency.

Sheaffer News

W. A. SHEAFFER PEN Co., Fort Madison, Ia., on Sept. 20 starts sponsoring the weekly quarter-hour commentary World News Parade, with Upton Close on 125 NBC stations, Sunday, 3:15-3:30 p.m. (EWT). Contract is for 52 weeks. Russel M. Seeds, Chicago, has the account.

NEW FACES at CKBI, Prince Albert, Sask., include Margaret Herron, formerly of CFAC, Calgary, in the traffic department; Earl Ferguson, transferred from the program department to continuity; Wilfred Smith, added to the announcing staff; and Martha Keesey, formerly of CKPR, Fort William, in continuity.

Buck, author, and translated into Chinese, by the OWI for shortwaving to China via KGEI, Belmont, Cal., General Electric station. Chinese students in this country enact the plays, which are to be eight in number, bearing the overall title America Speaks to China.

Health Toast

HEALTH in wartime is the subject of A Toast to Your Health, new public service feature presented on WTAG, Worcester, Mass., under auspices of the Worcester Health Dept., with Dr. Vlado A. Getting, city health commissioner, as m.c. Seeking to inform the public about food, sanitation and dental hygiene, the program features interviews, commentary and round table discussions with health inspectors, home economists and nutritionists.

Purely PROGRAMS

Production

PROBLEMS of wartime production are treated in a new Canadian Broadcasting Corp weekly series Step It Up. Such topics as absenteeism, women in industry, nursery schools, trade schools, labor hoarding, and other topics are discussed in the quarter-hour broadcasts by Tom W. Tweed.

Cadet Questions

TO PROMOTE interest in the Army Air Forces, WLAC, Nashville, is currently presenting Stump the Cadet, featuring air cadets who participate in the program. With Army approval, broadcast lines were established "somewhere" on the grounds of the camp outside Nashville.

Meet Johnny Doughboy

SALUTE to individual employees in the armed services is broadcast by the Meek Lumber Co. on Lumberjacks, tri-weekly program on KWTO-KGBX, Springfield, Mo. Program consists of minute biographies of the men, descriptions of their part in the war effort, and assurances that their jobs await them. Families of men saluted are notified in advance, and after the salute, the former employee's favorite tune is played.

Buyers of the Day

VICTORY FIRST, a nightly broadcast which names local War Bond purchasers that day, has been inaugurated on KOY, Phoenix.

Democracy Teacher

DESIGNED for the American family in wartime, The Schoolroom for Democracy makes its debut on BLUE this week as a regular part of the Little Blue Playhouse broadcasts for children. Principles of democracy will be taught, as well as the usual classroom material, through the original songs, to be contributed by famous songwriters. Vincent Price, Broadway star, will m.c. the shows as the "school teacher".

Soldier Salute

SALUTE to an American City is featured on Fort Bragg Cavalcade, the post's weekly half-hour recorded show on WPTF, Raleigh. Produced by Corp. Peter Witt, the show uses talent from the city saluted. Discs are aired by WPTF, and sent to the leading radio station in the "guest" city. Names of participating soldiers are included so the local station may inform relatives of the scheduled broadcast.

Two Voices

A DOUBLE VOICED news commentary series has been started on KQW, San Francisco, being presented five times weekly at 11:45 a.m. The show is presented by Don Pryor, CBS special events director in San Francisco and Carroll Hansen, manager of the KQW news bureau. It is an informal discussion of the news of the day conversationally presented.

Spook Stuff

WEIRD TALES of the occult and the supernatural are told in dramatic form in a series on WOR, New York, titled Dark Destiny. Stories are based on the premise that "There are lives foredoomed from the beginning. There are souls born beneath dark stars who must travel by strange and terrible roads to meet their destinies."

Aid for Aspirants

TO LEND a helping hand to the aspiring radio performer, NBC has started Air Breaks, twice-weekly series which presents two singers selected from a group of 40 or 50 applicants each week. It is expected the program will be of interest to producers, directors, agents and advertising executives looking for new talent.

WE HAVE THE EAR OF KANSAS

The ears of 678,400 farm homes in Kansas and adjoining states listen regularly to WIBW. It's their station . . . speaking their language . . . singing their songs. The result is a listener loyalty and whole-hearted response that amazes first-time users of WIBW.

Surrounding these homes are bumper fields of corn—worth $69,815,200 according to U. S. estimates. Added to an already swollen farm income, this will put WIBW listeners among America's top-flight spenders during the coming months.

We have the ear of these listeners. They ACT, on our recommendations. That's why WIBW gets faster, lower-cost RESULTS!

LEA'S REFLECTION DECLARED CERTAIN

WINNING both the Democratic and Republican nominations, Rep. Clarence F. Lea, chairman of the House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee, charged with radio legislation, is assured of reelection next November as Congressman from the 1st California District. He has served continuously since 1919 and a dozen times has been the nominee of both parties, though he is a registered Democrat.

With the House in quasi-recess, no steps have been taken toward appointment of a subcommittee to rewrite the Sanders Bill (HR-5497), hearings on which were concluded July 2. According to House attaches, there is little likelihood of action prior to Sept. 15, when the House formally reconvenes.

It has been indicated that a five-man subcommittee would be named to rewrite the measure, in the hope of getting legislation through at this session. The bill would revamp the FCC, setting up separate autonomous divisions, one handling broadcasting and related services and the other common carrier pursuits. It also would limit FCC functions in certain fields and revise appellate and other legal procedures.

NEWS MAKES SALES HEADLINES

Chicago Clothier Expands Business Through

Appeal Slanted to War Workers

By MILTON LEWIS

President, William A. Lewis Clothing Co., Chicago

DUBIOUS whether a store such as ours, located out of the downtown Chicago buying area could support a quarter-hour broadcast five days a week, we were naturally skeptical. Our only previous radio promotion had been foreign language broadcasts some years back. Frankly, we were more than backward, a little over two months ago when Ed Gourfain of the Gourfain-Cobb Adv. Agency, suggested sponsorship of Breaking The News, a quarter-hour news broadcast every weekday at 6-6:15 p.m. on WAIT, Chicago.

The program is aggressively merchandised through labor union channels. Once a week, a war worker, selected by ballot in his shop or trade union, appears on the program and tells what his company is doing in war production, within the limits of censorship. Announcement of each guest's appearance is publicized in bulletins to the city's various unions.

Human Angles

Louis (Studs) Turkel, a network radio actor and attorney, writes and announces the program. He elaborates on the outstanding news items of the day in a style punctuated with slang for color and with emphasis on human interest angles.

When we first sponsored the program the agency wrote letters to every union in Chicago announcing the start of a program prepared specifically for working people, keeping in mind their preferences and interests, and presenting outstanding union workers. Commendatory letters poured in from the unions and their members.

Actual sales appeal of the program has been tested on two occasions. The first, a sale of summer dresses and zipper housecoats, was only advertised on the air and on but two programs preceding the date of the sale. In the next three evenings over 2,200 units of this merchandise were sold in purchases directly linked to the radio announcements. The second test was a successful June sale of fall coats, long before regular August coat sales.

For years we have advertised as "the store that brings Michigan Avenue to Chicago's South Side." But since the program has been on the air it seems that thousands of Chicago war workers from all over the city have come to us for their clothing needs. Although the program has been on the air, a little more than two months, we have gained our largest business volume for any comparable period in the firm's history.

RADIO SELLS SOME MEDICINE

Use of Local Outlet Brings Enormous Sales
For 'Old Judge' in Carolina

EDITOR, BROADCASTING.

My radio experience has been so successful that it has been suggested that I write you concerning this set-up.

Eighteen months ago I came to WHKY, a little 250-watter here, with $21 and enough merchandise to bring me $72 at retail prices. W. T. Hix, manager of WHKY, listened to an audition and believed the program would entertain and sell. Today marks my 541st daily 15-minute spot on this station. During this time I have sold 50,000 one-dollar bottles of medicine.

Now here is the unusual part of the story. I personally manufacture, sell and deliver my products to jobbers and retailers within this station's limited coverage. 92% of the retail stores in the territory and 100% of the jobbers sell it. I have no salesmen and they have never been "drummed."

Forty years as a commercial salesman I have heard the old cry, create the demand and we'll stock your merchandise. Out of these sales I have made 32 refunds of one dollar each, because I religiously back my guarantee.

As the program, I suppose you would call it inspirational, under the name of Through Peaceful Valley With the Old Judge. This is homespun philosophy and poems of my own composition, with transcribed music in the background.

Before Sept. 1, WHKY becomes a 5,000-watt station on 1290 kc. I am growing with the station, contracting for three 15-minute spots daily Monday through Saturday.

HOUSEWIFE LEAGUE BEGUN IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO VERSION of the highly successful West Coast participating program the Housewives' Protective League, originated seven years ago on KNX, Hollywood, by Fletcher Wiley, owner of the program, started Aug. 24 on WBBM, Chicago, on a sustaining basis while a local "League" of 500 housewife-listeners is selected to test products of potential sponsors.

Paul Gibson, who formerly conducted the program in San Francisco, is m.c. of both morning and afternoon editions of the program, Sunrise Salute, 6-6:55 a.m., Monday through Friday and 9-10 a.m. Saturdays, and the Housewives' Protective League, half hour Monday through Friday. The early morning program consists of classical recordings and comments on news of interest to war workers, and the afternoon program is a half-hour of informal talk on topics of interest to homemakers.

Advertising will be handled on the same basis as the original program, with ad-lib commercials incorporating sales copy suggested by consumers in the testing panel or "League".

WHEN WAR WORKERS CAN LISTEN, THE STATION IS WGY

IN the morning on the way to work, at lunch time; in the evening, or during lunch on the Graveyard Shift—these are the times when the thousands of war workers in the WGY area have an opportunity to turn on their radios.

At these hours when war workers can listen, they tune to WGY. That is the outstanding fact uncovered by recent surveys made for WGY by the General Electric Market Research Department.

Between 6:30 and 7 a.m. 38 per cent of this area's radio owners are listening while they eat breakfast or drive to work. Three out of four are tuned to WGY.

During the noon hour WGY has more listeners in this region than all other stations combined.

In the evenings, when the big network shows are competing for attention, WGY broadcasts those popular NBC Red programs. WGY is the only NBC Red outlet within 90 miles of Schenectady.

At lunch on the Graveyard Shift, sometime between midnight and 7 a.m., workers turn to WGY for a few moments of relaxation. WGY is the only station in this region to offer all-night service. Night workers in 32 states and the District of Columbia have written to thank us for this service.

TO REACH THIS REGION'S WAR WORKERS, USE WGY

- ★ It's the area's only 50,000-watt station
- ★ It has the area's lowest frequency
- ★ It has the area's longest record of service.

Series was preceded by a "prologue" show on July 27 during which $100 War Bonds were offered as prizes for best names submitted for the series. Winning title and names of two persons receiving the awards will be announced on the Sept. 7 broadcast. Program is produced by Eddie Robinson with Earle Hall as script writer. Felix Mills' orchestra provides musical background for the dramatization. Clarence B. Juneau Agencies, Los Angeles, has the account.

Radio's War Aims

RADIO'S OWN war aims can be stated quite simply:

- 1. To exert every human effort and every physical facility toward victory over the common enemy.
- 2. To maintain and heighten the morale of both our fighting forces and the home front—to keep 'em smiling, even laughing, while yet impressing upon them the grim purposes and the vital realities of this war.
- 3. To operate plant, maintain personnel and conduct business in the best interests of country, of audience and of the American broadcasting system's social and economic integrity.

ITS LEADERSHIP BUILT ON NEW IDEAS, WBBM NATURALLY CHOOSES THE . . . WESTINGHOUSE 50 HG TRANSMITTER

WBBM's timetable of progress speaks for itself. Always alert to new ideas, and quick to capitalize on them, this key station has built an ever-growing audience in one of America's largest markets.

This alertness to the latest developments in radio service and equipment naturally entered into WBBM's choice of a new transmitter. And it is significant that the choice was a Westinghouse 50 HG.

For this set revolutionized transmitter design. Into it went the knowledge acquired through 20 years of actual station operating experience.

Result: savings in power, simplified operation, elimination of fuses, air-cooled tubes throughout, surge-proof metal rectifiers—all pointing to the low operating cost and reduced maintenance so vital today.

That's why you'll find Westinghouse 50 HG Transmitters serving key stations from coast to coast: WBAL, Baltimore; WKBW, Buffalo; WBZ, Boston; WPTF, Raleigh; KDKA, Pittsburgh; KXEL, Waterloo . . . and now WBBM.

Keep an eye on these stations, as radio faces the exacting responsibilities of wartime operation.

Henderson's Ruling

SINCE the war's onset advertising folk have been jittery. Despite verbal assurances from Government officials that advertising would not be molested in the new wartime economy, advertisers, agencies and media have at times been looking under beds.

Up to now there hasn't been much in the way of tangible evidence either way. Meanwhile, advertising volume in practically all media has been as good as or better than in the immediate pre-war period. As far as the letup in pressure upon advertising is concerned, some attribute it to the influx of experienced advertising, media and business men in responsible Government agencies.

But the advertising fraternity still was disposed to look at the overall picture with no little trepidation. They viewed with particular concern the Office of Price Administration and the Internal Revenue Bureau. OPA might cut advertising revenues by manipulating its regulations and schedules. Internal Revenue might rule that advertising expenditures are not deductible in a wartime economy as "ordinary and necessary".

The other day (as reported in this issue) Leon Henderson, OPA chief, did something really tangible and definite. He established a precedent in an actual price adjustment case. He ruled that "normal advertising expenditures" will be regarded as costs in all investigations dealing with price adjustments. Mr. Henderson acted on all fours with his promises to industry in the first test that came up.

Chairman Fulmer (D.-S.C.) of the House Agriculture Committee, had written the OPA chief alleging that soap companies were forcing OPA to roll back prices of ingredients "so that they would be able to continue to make their usual large profits, which would enable them not only in peacetime but during this great emergency * * * to advertise in the press, over the radio, and by other methods * * *."

Mr. Henderson answered, "In line with our previously announced policy, normal advertising layouts were considered as costs in this investigation. Any other policy with respect to advertising might well result in the destruction of the entire advertising industry, an end that is beyond either the authority or inclination of this Office."

Mr. Henderson did assert, however, that extraordinary expenditures for promotional campaigns, such as the recent campaign advertising Swan soap, which hit radio, newspapers and the magazines in one intensive exploitation, were not considered as costs in OPA's investigation.

Thus, Mr. Henderson, by action rather than word, has toppled over another bogey-man. There was no effort to squeeze advertising expenditures to keep the price of soap down. The precedent has been established. Advertising folk can forget possible OPA squeeze-plays, and now turn their undivided attention and genius toward an increasingly improved job of whipping out powerful copy geared toward victory.

The Business Picture

GRATIFYING though the showing of national network business may be [BROADCASTING, Aug. 24], and satisfying as the current national spot picture looks, not to mention the upswing in wartime audience assured in the Hooper surveys, there is small comfort to be had in the losses of local business being suffered by many stations, mostly local low powers, due to wartime shortages and depleted retail inventories. Some of them actually face a problem of economic survival, and just about all of them now appear to be scratching, literally, for new business.

Radio's inherent healthiness as an advertising medium is manifest from the remarkable showing it is making during these days of stresses and strains. That even the locals can take advantage of the basic soundness of the medium, is being proved by the ingenuity of sales and sales promotion departments of many stations in developing new business.

There are the theatres, for example, many of them now substantial local advertisers for the first time. There are other entertainment enterprises—bowling, for example, now a highly popular sport in crowded defense areas and a natural for radio promotion. Radio stores soon won't have much stock to sell, inasmuch as deliveries from war-converted factories have all but ceased, but radio set maintenance and repair is proving to be the same backlog for surviving dealers as auto service and repair for sales plants. These are also naturals for radio. From some cities we have had reports of successful time sales, often one-time shots that lead to regular local schedules, to local defense plants wanting to promote their "E" awards, their production achievements (within military limitations, of course) and their employe morale.

Nationally, the picture looks reasonably good, but there can be no doubt that the radio industry as a whole is living on a day-to-day, or at least on a 13-week, basis. But the situation is far from doleful for the better situated stations. Brand name advertising, new packaging, foods and drugs, cigarettes—all are holding their own even better than the prophets of doom expected. Radio can be justly proud of the economic stability it has shown thus far, but it certainly cannot be smug about it.

Caesar's Dirge

JIMMY PETRILLO must now face the music in Congress as well as in the courts. He has thumbed his nose at every appeal made by the Government and industry to call off his ill-advised ban on the making of recordings for non-private use, but Congress now pitches in, not only to stop his rampages but to find ways of preventing recurrences in other fields.

Outraged over Jimmy's stubborn disdain of public reaction and the national welfare, Senator D. Worth Clark, of Idaho, has introduced an all-inclusive resolution to look into the music situation. More than likely there will be public hearings before a subcommittee of the Senate Interstate Committee. Petrillo himself, Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, and representatives of the public and the industries affected should be called as witnesses.

Senator Clark, whose appreciation of the problem motivated introduction of the resolution, and who so lucidly covered the issues in his statement to the Senate last week, would make an able chairman of the subcommittee. He should have the assistance of competent special counsel, for the issue is one deeply affecting the public interest.

If proof of public sentiment were needed after literally hundreds of newspaper editorials and cartoons deprecating Jimmy's onslaughts, it certainly came in the Gallup Poll of last week. This scientific appraisal of public opinion revealed that the vote was 9 to 1 disapproving the AFM actions. And it ran about the same in favor of Government legal action to stop him. Senator Clark must have sensed this, because his resolution was introduced almost coincident with the publication of the Gallup findings.

In an editorial in our June 15 issue dealing with Petrillo's announced intention of banning recordings (published 10 days before he formally notified the affected industries and the public of it), we said: "It's clear now that Mr. Petrillo feels he can get away with almost anything. If his transcription-record ban sticks, it's a good bet that Congress, rather than the anti-trust division, will decide to take a hand in things."

Apparently we underestimated the reaction. Both Congress and the anti-trust division are now in it for keeps.

We Pay Our Respects To —

KENNETH DAVID SOBLE

AN AUTOMOBILE started Ken Soble on a career which has brought him the designation of "one of the most versatile men in Canadian radio". The automobile?—or yes—Ken, in his teens, picked up the director of a group of radio players one day in 1928 and gave him a lift to the studio. The director needed an extra player. Ken got a one-line part and has been in radio ever since.

Today Ken Soble's activities in radio are many and varied. He is known in Canada's broadcasting world as the "Major Bowes of Canada", following the Major by a few months with a Canadian series of amateur shows still aired weekly over a Canadian network. He also owns an advertising agency and program-producing organization, Metropolitan Broadcasting Service Ltd., Toronto, and Metropolitan Broadcasting Service Reg'd, Montreal. In addition, he operates Ken Soble's Artist Bureau, Toronto, is manager of CHML, Hamilton, Ont., and owns a food factory.

One of the outstanding young men in Canadian radio, Ken Soble was born June 12, 1911, in Toronto. At 16 he had to leave school to support his mother and sister. He has hustled papers, sold chemicals and paints, and in the boom year, 1929, came into big money as a stock salesman. With the crash he tackled a job with a crew cleaning up Toronto's big Union Station during the night hours.

From his first contact with radio in 1928, he received some more bit parts with the actor group at CKNC, now CBY, Toronto. He then switched to the former CFCA, owned by the Toronto Star, where he was given the job announcing a participating program, with 40 to 50 commercials per hour. Pay was five spot announcements, which he could sell.

One rainy day while hunting business for the spot announcements he met a coal dealer, sold him a series of spot announcements. Needing cash, he asked for a check, which arrived some weeks later from N. W. Ayer & Son for the account of the Ford Motor Co. The fuel dealer, unknown to Ken, was the sole distributor in Toronto for Ford coke, product of Ford Motor Co. He has held the account ever since.

That was his first big break. On the strength of it he contracted in 1930 with CKCL, Toronto, for an hour daily and all the time signals and weather reports for a five-year period. Then he went out and sold the time. He branched out then and did shows for other Toronto stations, notably CFRB. In 1935 he built the first audience participating studio in Canada. It seated 400. A year later he moved to a larger studio seating 1,100. From these studios he put on the air some of Canada's leading shows of the time, and here his amateur shows started.

Ken Soble's amateurs, starting first as a locally sponsored program, were gradually sponsored by bigger advertisers until Royal Canadian Tobacco Co. put them on a coast-to-coast network. They branched out to unit shows playing at 40 theatres in Ontario and Quebec, and were the foundation of Ken Soble's Artist Bureau. The amateur shows now go on the air Sundays from army camps and larger cities in Ontario and Quebec, and Ken commutes weekly from Toronto for auditions and to m.c. the program.

Ken's good turns have paid well. He once helped an announcer from CHML, Hamilton, Ont., and when some time later that station was looking for a manager, the announcer told the owners about Ken. Result: An offer to manage the station from Senator A. C. Hardy, who had bought the station for his son Fulford. Since 1937 Ken has added Hamilton to his commuting and put the station on the black side of the ledger.

Ken has little time for anything other than radio and his family. In addition to his daytime radio ventures he is on the air every evening for Alka-Seltzer on CFRB with a quiz program and puts on a number of shows for the armed services at various camps. As often as possible he likes to go riding, and if he has any hobby besides radio, it is his string of race horses.

Tips for Radio Advertising

Provided in Book

INCLUDED in various uncomplicated means of presenting the farm, farm life and the farm family are the "nostalgic and lyric or old oaken bucket, and the Silas and Reuben appeals of radio," according to a booklet, Wider Horizons, published by Wildrick & Miller, New York.

To get a true perspective of farm life, the booklet declares, we must separate the "vocational picture" from the "home picture" on the farm front. Strangely enough, it continues, the farm family is the only group that is richer in cultural attainment and social understanding than common visualizations indicate and here the radio advertising aimed at the farmer misses fire. Booklets may be obtained from the agency at 630 Fifth Ave., New York.

Mr. Walter J. Rottschild,
Radio Station WTAD,
Quincy, Illinois

Dear Mr. Rottschild:

We submit herewith our report on the survey made to determine radio station preference in your general area, sponsored by a group of advertising agencies, with the co-sponsorship of your station.

The survey was made as follows:

Part 1, a coincidental telephone survey in Quincy;
Part 2, a personal-interview survey among rural-farm, rural-non-farm, and urban radio homes within a fifty-mile radius of Quincy.

The findings on both portions, telephone and personal-interview, show WTAD to be the dominant station in this area.

The total mentions received for all CBS stations, of which WTAD is credited with 56%, exceeds by a considerable margin the total mentions received for all NBC programs. This would indicate a preference for WTAD's non-network programs.

Complete reports follow, describing the survey areas and procedure, and showing our findings in detail.

Very truly yours,
Robert S. Conlan

Two 'E' Factories Buy Time on Blue

Electric Boat, Scovill Air Ceremonies for Awards

WAR PLANTS receiving the Army-Navy "E" award for excellence in production continue to sign for broadcasts of award ceremonies, with two companies, both newcomers to commercial radio, using time on BLUE last week.

The Elco Naval Division of the Electric Boat Co., New York, used four stations for 1/2 hour Aug. 26, and Scovill Mfg. Co., Waterbury, Conn. broadcast on the entire BLUE network on the same day earlier in the afternoon for a 45-minute period.

Elco's commercial broadcast follows two sustaining programs presented on BLUE last spring and in April of the previous year, both in connection with boat-launching ceremonies. Electric Boat Co., parent firm, celebrated the launching of a submarine with a sponsored show July 22 on 127 BLUE stations. Elco's broadcast last week also marked the launching of another of the company's PT mosquito boats. Agency is Paris & Peart, New York.

Lowell Thomas, BLUE commentator, was the announcer at the Scovill ceremony and George Hicks, another BLUE commentator handled announcements on the Elco program. Both broadcasts featured company and local and state officials. Agency for Scovill is McCann-Erickson, New York. Firms are the seventh and eighth to buy time on BLUE for this purpose [BROADCASTING, Aug. 24].

Musterole on 105

MUSTEROLE Co., Cleveland, will use live spot announcements on 105 U. S. stations and about 15 Canadian outlets in its fall and winter campaign for Musterole, a cold remedy. Campaign is similar to last year's, lasting 26 weeks and running largely in major markets. Starting date will be some time in October, and announcements will be aired in general on a five-weekly basis. Agency is Erwin Wasey & Co., New York.

ARTHUR SINSHIMER

ALTHOUGH he has a fulltime job as radio director of Peck Adv. Agency, New York, Arthur Sinsheimer has found time for the past year to devote a large number of working hours to civilian defense work. He is associate director of radio of OCD for New York City. Most recently, he served as liaison officer for radio on the New York Ad Club's War Work Committee, which cooperated with Mayor LaGuardia's

Committee For Mobilization during Civilian Defense Week, June 6-13.

In that capacity, Mr. Sinsheimer assisted in placing on commercial programs some 1,800 announcements to promote "I Am An American Day" and the "New York at War" parade. He also works as assistant on all radio program promotions for OCD under Morris Novik, director of WNYC, New York's municipal station, who is Coordinator of Civilian Defense for Radio of New York.

A veteran in the agency business, Mr. Sinsheimer, with Harry Peck, president of Peck Adv. Agency, started the agency 22 years ago. After getting it established, Arthur left the agency to handle radio for 19 of the 32 publishers belonging to the United Publishers Corp., New York, returning to Peck in 1933 to set up a radio department to properly handle the volume of business which had developed.

At various times during his career in the agency field, Mr. Sinsheimer has placed network and spot radio for such accounts as B. T. Babbitt Co., I. J. Fox, furriers, Van Heusen Collars, Beverwyck Breweries, Manhattan Soap Co. (Sweetheart Soap), Old Dutch Coffee, Roxy Clothes, Wise Shoes, Krasne Bros. (food products), and Tastyeast.

A native New Yorker, he attended Columbia U and was appointed an instructor in the advertising and selling courses of the School of Journalism. Another claim to fame is the fact that he was the first president to be elected to office by the Radio Executives Club of New York for the season 1940-41. Married and living in Brooklyn, Arthur has two daughters.

RCA-VICTOR PLANS NATIONAL SERIES

RCA-VICTOR MFG. Co., Camden, N. J., will launch one of the largest institutional advertising campaigns in its history in September. Spot announcements will be used in conjunction with magazine ads to keep the public aware of the activities of the company, now converted from the manufacture of phonographs and radios to war products. The drive will also promote the Company's "Beat the Promise" war production campaign, to encourage more war industries to adopt the idea.

Project is scheduled to last one year. No further details are available for the present on the radio campaign, which will be on a national basis. Company tapered off advertising as its factories were converted to war production during the early part of the year, it is currently using a recorded music show Music You Want, and George Putnam, news commentator, on WEF, New York.

Army Cancels Guest

WITHOUT explanation, the War Department cancelled the Aug. 27 guest appearance of Lt. John Kimbrough, former Iowa football star, on NBC Kraft Music Hall, sponsored by Kraft Cheese Co. Lt. Kimbrough participated in the Army Relief Fund baseball game Aug. 30. His appearance on the program was to get in a plug for the benefit event. Despite belief to the contrary, Los Angeles spokesmen for the War Dept. said Kimbrough's cancellation cannot be interpreted as affecting all radio guest appearances of men in uniform. It was explained that Army officials in Washington had their own reasons for removing Kimbrough from the broadcast. General belief in Hollywood radio is that uniformed men hereafter will be severely restricted in their appearances on transcontinental commercials.

New to the show is Dale Evans, 20th Century Fox film actress and former vocalist of WBBM, Chicago. Ray Noble is again musical director. There will be no regular announcer, commercials being handled by the cast. Anthony Stanford is agency producer with Joe Bigelow heading the writing staff.

Cut in Army Publicity Force Stymies N. Y. Radio Central

Warning System Rendered Ineffective as Result Of Action, Pettey Says in Letter to Price

ARMY public relations officials at Washington headquarters have under advisement a complaint of the Radio Central Committee in the New York metropolitan area — set up to co-ordinate emergency wartime operations — against the recent order of Secretary of War Stimson reducing the number of public relations officers in the field.

Mr. Pettey

Herbert L. Pettey, director of WHN, New York, and chairman of the committee, on Aug. 24 advised Byron Price, Director of Censorship, that reduction of the public relations staff in the New York command to two officers and four men would not make it possible for the Army to furnish adequate information to the radio group and would render the cooperative plan "completely useless".

Mr. Price said the problem was the Army's and that while his office was vitally interested, it had no control whatever over the public relations organization of the armed forces.

Action Foreseen

At the War Dept., it was learned that Maj. Gen. Alexander D. Surlis, director of public relations, and his chief deputy, Col. Ernest R. Dupuy, had the whole matter under advisement. It was predicted that remedial action would be taken.

Secretary Stimson's order, curtailing public relations units in the field and centralizing operations under Gen. Surlis, came in the wake of the "phoney air marker" story which had emanated from the New York public relations office. Under this order, all field and corps public relations units are to be curtailed, effective Oct. 1. The plan has not been made fully effective, however, and alterations can be made, it was pointed out.

The full text of Mr. Pettey's letter to Censorship Director Price, which has been referred to the Army for action, follows:

On May 13, 1942, you made a confidential broadcast to all radio station operators, relative to the Army Defense Command. You stated in this broadcast that it was your desire to have all the facts clearly and quickly given to the radio stations by the Army Defense Commands for the purpose of dissemination to the listeners.

On May 31, Lt. General Drum of the U. S. Army and Ranking General of the Eastern Defense Command, gave out a confidential regulation relative to the dissemination of news to the public, which set up for the Eastern Defense Command a formula under which all the radio stations in this area would operate in time of an emergency.

Shortly after this, the radio stations in the Greater New York area made and formed an organization known as Radio Central. The purpose of this organization is to cooperate fully with the Eastern Defense Command and its Public Relations Section located at 90 Church St., New York City. Radio Central acts as a single disseminating unit for all the various radio stations located in this area. In all 15 stations, including CBS, NBC, MBS and the BLUE Network, are members of Radio Central.

Stations Tied In

Radio Central has set up, with the full approval and cooperation of the Eastern Defense Command, a broadcasting system with wires connecting all the stations belonging to the group. We have hired personnel to cover this Radio Central 24 hours a day, seven days a week. This personnel works in cooperation with the Army personnel of the Public Relations Section at all times. Needless to say, this has been done with great initial expense and further obligations were made necessary for telephone lines, salaries and other overhead.

The Executive Committee of Radio Central was informed last week by the Public Relations Section of the War Dept. of Order AGO20.4, under date of 8/13/42. This order calls for a decrease of two officers and four men in the personnel of the Public Relations Section, and we do not believe that such a reduced personnel can adequately furnish to Radio Central the information to be given to the 55 million people who live in the Eastern Defense Command area. This inability to furnish the information renders our plan completely useless.

'Break in Faith'

I am calling this to your attention for I believe this new order constitutes a break in faith between the War Dept. and the Radio Central of the Eastern Defense Command. I might add that this new order makes it impossible for us to give out information quickly and clearly to the public during an emergency such as you requested us to do in your confidential broadcast of May 13.

Obviously, if they do not have the manpower necessary to furnish us with the information, we will be unable to receive and broadcast it. We feel that, unless adequate personnel and facilities are maintained in the Public Relations Section of the Eastern Defense Command, the entire plan that you proposed and that we have set up will break down, and all parties concerned may be blamed for errors and charged with lack of cooperation, when those errors and that lack of cooperation would be due only to a ruling which failed to take into consideration either the facts or the problems faced by news disseminating agencies, most particularly radio.

I would appreciate having from you a suggestion on how we might best continue our cooperation with the Bureau of Public Relations of the Eastern Defense Commands under the new Adjutant General's office order of May 13, 1942, to which I have referred.

GILLETTE SPONSORS ARMY GRID SERIES

GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR Co., Boston, will sponsor broadcasts of the eight game football series between the Army All-Stars and teams of the National Professional Football League on MBS, it was announced Friday. Arrangements worked out with Army officials resulted in Gillette obtaining exclusive broadcasting rights to the games for $25,000, which will be turned over to the Army Emergency Relief Fund.

Both the Eastern and Western Army All-Star Teams will participate in the contests with the professional teams. The Western Army team will meet the Washington Redskins in Los Angeles Aug. 30 and the Chicago Cardinals in Denver Sept. 6, these two games being broadcast on the West Coast only. Frank Bull and Braven Dyre of the Don Lee Network will announce.

Remainder of the series will be broadcast on approximately 150 MBS stations, as follows: Western Army Team vs. Detroit Lions in Detroit on Sept. 9, Eastern Army Team vs. New York Giants in New York, Sept. 12, Western Army Team vs. Green Bay Packers in Milwaukee Sept. 13, Eastern Army Team vs. Brooklyn Dodgers in Baltimore Sept. 16, Western Army Team vs. New York Giants in Syracuse, Sept. 19, and Eastern Army Team vs. Chicago Bears in Boston, Sept. 20. Jim Britt of the Yankee Network will give the play-by-play broadcasts of these six games.

All eight broadcasts will be short-waved to the troops abroad, MBS stated. Maxon Inc. is agency.

Tennelly, Wills Back

AMONG the Americans returning home from Japan aboard the Grips-holm, which docked in New York last week, were Dick Tennelly of NBC and Walter R. Wills of CBS, both Tokio representatives of their networks. Tennelly, who was arrested when on his way to do his broadcast on Dec. 8 and who spent 177 days in solitary confinement in a Tokio jail, appeared with other refugee correspondents on H. V. Kaltenborn's NBC broadcast last Wednesday evening.

Beatty Joins NBC

MORGAN BEATTY, BLUE military analyst and commentator, will join NBC in the near future, according to the BLUE, which states that his place as editor of the Sunday Weekly War Journal has been taken by Roy Porter, who is alternate for Earl Godwin on the nightly Ford BLUE newscast.

Continental's New Show

CONTINENTAL BAKING Co., New York, will discontinue Maudie's Diary on CBS on Oct. 1, at the same time launching on that network Bachelor's Children, currently sponsored on NBC by Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co. for Palmolive soap. Bachelor's Children will be carried Monday thru Friday probably in the 10:45-11 a.m. period for Wonder Bread, product now advertised on Maudie's Diary. Agency for Continental Baking is Ted Bates Inc., New York. Ward Wheelock Co., New York, handles Palmolive.

BRAINS, NOT BRAUN was contribution of this football-minded eleven to the Army Relief Fund game at the Los Angeles Coliseum, that city. In addition to special programs, broadcasters represented made a total of 158 transcribed announcements which were used on 29 Southern California stations. Gathered on the Camp Cooke (Cal.) HOWARD CLOTHES IN NEW CONTRACT

HOWARD CLOTHES, New York, has just signed a contract calling for participations in a number of the most popular programs on WNEW, New York, which will give this retail clothing chain more than five hours a week of sponsorship on the station for 26 weeks, beginning Sept. 7.

Deal is unusual in that participations are all in live programs, rather than transcribed announcements. Norman Livingstone, account executive for Redfield-Johnstone, New York, agency placing the account, will assist the WNEW staff in producing the Howard programs.

The Howard schedule on WNEW includes five 10-minute periods a week on the early morning Hal Moore program, Start the Day Right; five five-minute spots weekly on the Zeke Manners Hillbilly Gang show, also in the morning; three quarter-hours weekly of Martin Block's Make-Believe Ballroom; five 10-minute periods per week on the evening Dance Parade series; five quarter-hour spots weekly on the all-night program, Milkman's Matinee, and sponsorship of two newscasts a week by John B. Kennedy plus this commentator's half-hour Sunday interview program, Knowing the News.

Programs will be promoted with prominent window displays in the 35 metropolitan outlets of the Howard chain of stores, featuring

The program talent will also make occasional appearances at the stores to aid the sale of War Bonds. Howard's newspaper advertising will also devote space to call attention to the broadcasts.

Previous radio advertising used by the clothing chain has been chiefly network. Last winter Howard sponsored Bulldog Drummond on eight MBS stations.

Hecker Plans

HECKER PRODUCTS Corp., New York, may resume sponsorship of Lincoln Highway on NBC for Shnola shoe polish, although no confirmation could be obtained from Benton & Bowles, New York, agency in charge of the account, which had sponsored the program for two years, discontinuing it June 6 because of packaging difficulties. Company is currently running a spot campaign for Jet Oil [BROADCASTING, June 8], using one-minute transcribed announcements on 35 stations, beginning Aug. 17 and continuing until Nov. 28.

'Superman' on Don Lee

DON LEE Network has purchased the broadcasting rights to Adventures of Superman for release on its 31 Pacific Coast stations five times weekly beginning Aug. 31. Broadcasts will be released Monday through Friday, 5:15 to 5:30 p.m. (PWT). The series will start out on a sustaining basis. Don Lee has launched a huge promotion campaign in connection with the feature.

IN TWO WARS

Elmer Wilrich, 1918 Veteran

Drafted by Army

HISTORY repeated for Elmer Wilrich, for seven years sales manager of WTMV, East St. Louis, who was recently drafted into his second soldiering job. Just 24 years after he was called to fight the Kaiser, Mr. Wilrich, 46 pounds heavier, but still 1-A, was inducted into service.

Mr. Wilrich looks forward to a more comfortable uniform and better food than he had at Camp Bowie, Tex. in 1917. He leaves his WTMV post to Edward W. Paro, formerly of KSD and KMOX. St. Louis, who is well known in local and national advertising fields.

Command Performance

A weekly program shortwaved to Army outposts throughout the world, Command Performance has been on the air six months.

FDR TO BE HEARD IN THREE SPEECHES

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT will address the nation in three broadcasts, all scheduled to be carried on the four major networks within a period of eight days. Highlight of the three talks will be the Labor Day broadcast, Sept. 7, sometime between 10 and 11 p.m., when the President will give the nation his views on inflation and the rising cost of living.

First of the addresses will be Aug. 31, on the occasion of the dedication of the new Navy Medical Center in Bethesda, Md. and the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine & Surgery. Speech will be heard at 4:30 p.m. Arrangements are being made for the talk to be shortwaved to all Navy units and hospitals throughout the world where representatives of the bureau of Medicine and Surgery are on duty.

The President will be heard three days later, Sept. 3 in a broadcast scheduled for 12:30 p.m. in an address directed to the International Student Service Assembly.

The President broke all radio audience records with his Dec. 8 and Dec. 9 speeches, as rated by the Cooperative Analyses of Broadcasting. His appeal for declaration of war, at noon the day after Pearl Harbor attained a rating of 65.7% and the all night-time listening levels with a rating of 83%.

scription projects will be Great Artist Series, which went into production late in August. This will be a series of 52 one-hour programs offering the greatest show names in the United States to Latin American listeners.

Featured will be such artists as Bing Crosby, Nelson Eddy, Gladys Swarthout, Conrad Thibault, Yehudi Menuhin, Kay Kyser, Kate Smith, Irving Berlin, Xavier Cugat, Deanna Durbin, and dozens of others who have offered their talent liberally and whose work is supervised largely in the OCIAA Hollywood office headed by Jack Runyon. Plans are now underway to obtain for this series the greatest distribution of any single program broadcast in Latin America.

Advertiser Cooperation

Another phase of the Radio Division's activity which is now getting increased attention is export advertiser cooperation. The Division's objective, according to Mr. Francisco, is twofold—to enlist the cooperation of advertisers now using Latin American radio in giving increased attention to Pan American solidarity in their programs; and to encourage non-advertisers to become active.

Mr. Rockefeller recently extended invitations to some 500 export advertisers to cooperate in a broad plan that is to include not only radio but newspapers, magazine, and other media distributed throughout Latin America.

While the Radio Division's chief concern is telling Latin America about its Northern neighbor, it also is active in disseminating news about Latin America to U. S. listeners. In this effort, networks, transcription companies and wire syndicate services are cooperating. A series of programs titled the South American Way, released by the OCIAA, was recently sent by Standard Radio to its list of 300 U. S. radio stations. Another program, Let's be Neighbors, produced in cooperation with Transamerican and especially recorded in Mexico City, is being released to 720 U. S. stations.

A check for full tuition and a graduation certificate elicits a smile from Miss Keith as Harry C. Kopf (left), vice-president and general manager of NBC-Chicago, makes the presentation. Onlookers are Judith Waller, public service director of NBC-Chicago, and Albert Crews, director of the Institute and chairman of the radio department of Northwestern U.

2,000 Programs

By the end of this summer, the OCIAA Radio Division will have arranged or released material in cooperation with nearly 2,000 individual commercial radio programs carried on the four U. S. networks, ranging from single announcements within a program to complete programs.

"It can be expected that the activities of the Radio Division will be greatly accelerated within the next few months," Mr. Francisco stated to BROADCASTING. "The scope and urgency of our activities can be gauged by the fact that six months ago our office was concerned solely with two news programs a week. Today we have an elaborate project of dramatic, musical and documentary shortwave broadcasts, to say nothing of our rapidly growing transcription activity."

NBC War Aid Rises

AN INCREASE in time and facilities allotted to the war effort during the first half of July is reported by NBC with the announcement that it devoted 51 sustaining shows for a total of 19 hours and 5 minutes to the nation's war program July 1-15, as compared to 45 programs, totaling 16 hours and 22 minutes of time during the last two weeks in June. Total time set aside for this purpose in the first two weeks in July, including commercials and announcements, was 27 hours, and 27 minutes, as against 25 hours and 8 minutes for the preceding two weeks

News for Down Under

JOHN B. HUGHES, MBS West Coast commentator, has added a review of national news events for shortwaving to the AEF in Australia, to his schedule of four-weekly programs on MBS. The Australian newscast is recorded and flown to San Francisco, then beamed to Australia. At the other end, the Australian Broadcasting Co. transcribes and rebroadcasts the program.

WGEO Begins Operating New 100-kw Transmitter

NEW 100,000-watt short wave transmitter, is now operating full strength for WGEO, one of the two General Electric international broadcasting stations at Schenectady, N. Y. The transmitter replaces one of equal power released at Government request last December to KWID, San Francisco to increase California shortwave facilities in combatting Japanese propaganda in the Pacific.

WGEO beams English language programs to American forces in the Pacific. In addition, it carries English, Spanish or Portuguese programs to South America, and Czech and English programs to Europe. Like its sister station at Schenectady, WGEO, the new 100,000 watt unit uses Alexanderson directional antenna which increases power in a given direction 10 to 20 times.

PILOT ENGINEERS Of WJR Now Serving With Civil Air Patrol

TWO CONTROL engineers of WJR, Detroit, are up in the air—literally.

Convinced of the importance of staying on their radio jobs but still eager to contribute something to the war effort, William Haboush and Nel Nolan, both of the WJR engineering staff, are active in the Civil Air Patrol, the former as a pilot and the latter as communications officer. Haboush recently was named commander of Squadron 632-2 with 126 members, 58 of whom are pilots. One of the members of Haboush's squadron is Gar Wood, famed boat racer.

With a patrol base in Louisiana, the Michigan Civil Air Patrol is supplying flyers and planes to patrol the Gulf of Mexico against the submarine menace. The ships patrol in pairs covering an area extending about eighty miles from the coast.

C. T. JAMES of McNary and Wrathall, radio engineers, Washington, has been commissioned a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve.

HUGH COLLINS, formerly of the transcription department of WHK-WCLE, Cleveland, has joined WRRN, Warren, O.

WALTER CARRUTHERS, sound technician of KHJ, Hollywood, has joined the National Division of Radio Research, San Diego, as an associate engineer.

GEORGE LEWIS, acting technical supervisor of WCAU, Philadelphia, became the father of a son, George Paul, born Aug. 21.

A committee organization was arranged for the transmitter division consisting of: B. Ray Cummings, Farnsworth Television & Radio Corp., Fort Wayne; T. A. Smith, RCA Mfg. Co., Camden, N. J.; Charles M. Srebroff, Radio Engineering Lab., New York, and C. J. Burnside, Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co., Baltimore.

TO FILL a Sunday television void heretofore existing in the New York City area W2XWV, the video outlet of the Allen B. DuMont Labs., is now broadcasting more than an hour's entertainment each Sunday starting at 8:30 p.m.

Roy A. Weagant

ROY A. WEAGANT, pioneer radio engineer and inventor and winner of the Morris-Liebmann award in 1919 for his invention of a device for eliminating static interference with wireless messages, died Aug. 23 in Sherbrooke Hospital, Newport, Vt., at the age of 61. A graduate of McGill U., Mr. Weagant was chief engineer of Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. from 1915-1920 and consulting engineer of RCA for the next four years. In 1924 he became vice-president and chief engineer of De Forest Radio Co. and recently he served as consultant and patent expert of RCA. He is survived by his widow, Isobel L. Reichling Weagant.

'Ham' Ingenuity

MATERIAL shortages offered considerable trouble to radio amateurs setting up the new War Emergency Radio Service for emergency communication between air-raid wardens, police, ambulance and other strategic services, but native ingenuity came to the rescue. The nation's accumulation of discarded broadcast receivers is being tapped for salvageable equipment. Though the parts they contain are not useful for shortwave transmitters and receivers, the amateurs are getting metal and wire to make parts which cannot be bought over the counter. Some things, like vacuum tubes and filter condensers, cannot be made at home but by concentrating on primary types manufacturers can meet most important needs.

DR. WHEELER NAMED FOR IRE PRESIDENCY

MAIL BALLOTS covering election of 1943 officers of the Institute of Radio Engineers were received by the membership last week, with Dr. Lynde P. Wheeler, chief of the FCC Engineering Department's technical information section the single nominee for president. The ballots must be returned by Oct. 26, after which they will be counted and the elections announced.

Nominated for vice-president, an honorary post which annually goes to a distinguished foreigner prominent in radio, was Frederick S. Barton, chief of the British Air Commission's radio division in Washington.

Six were nominated for directors, three to be elected: Prof. Wilmer L. Barrow, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Prof. Carl C. Chambers, U of Pennsylvania; Elmer W. Engstrom, director of RCA Princeton Laboratories; Frederick R. Lack, vice-president and manager, Western Electric radio division; Frederick B. Llewellyn, circuit research engineer, Bell Laboratories; Harold A. Wheeler, Hazeltine Service Corp.

PAT V. JAMES, Laurel, Miss., trading as the N-A Co., selling a medicinal preparation variously designated as N-A 7, Vicine, Nature's Aid and N-A, has been ordered by the Federal Trade Commission to cease and desist certain representations of his product, The FTC, in its order, finds that James, through broadcasting and other media, has made a number of claims for the product which "are grossly exaggerated, false and misleading."

them because it was played after a speaker from Belgium sat down, I was told in great surprise by the spectator next to me that it was the Internationale!)

5. Remember the over-the-shoulder listener.

This is a rather obvious suggestion, but it is mighty easy to send along a program one night to one country complimenting that nation on having the finest roads, we'll say, in South America, and another program to another country a night or two later saying the same thing to the second country. They do not need to be next door neighbors to hear both programs. (I sit in Washington very often listening to broadcasts from London intended for South Africa—just to give you an idea of the spread of even directionalized signals.)

6. Always say when the next program in the language in which you are speaking will be heard.

This is particularly important for American shortwave stations, for we are probably faced with a tougher language coverage problem than any of the other big broadcasting nations. And, a listener who speaks but one language is asked for too much when he is asked to listen through several broadcasts of a strange language to be sure

PAID RADIO COLUMN WCAU Buys Daily Section in —Local Newspaper—

A RADIO CHATTER column, as paid advertising, was introduced as a station promotion stunt in the Philadelphia Inquirer by WCAU, Philadelphia. In treatment of news, typography and general format, it has the style and appearance of a regular editorial radio column copy, complete with title, This Is Radio, and a by-line, LeRoy Hayden, pen name hiding the identity of Ken Stowman and Harry Murdock, the station publicists.

While items for the most part cover WCAU and CBS, the column also draws from the other networks without mentioning call letters. The column appears daily in the Inquirer and utilizes space on a swap arrangement with the newspaper. A slug, in small type, identifies the column as an "advertisement". At the present time, no Philadelphia newspaper carries a daily radio news or chatter column. It is also intended by the station to syndicate the column to newspapers in the station's average area.

not to miss the next one in his own language. Special program sequences, of course, require special treatment. Some very excellent treatments are on the American shortwave air today.

7. Apply American radio showmanship methods to all programs.

There are those who believe that a program produced for foreign consumption should be presented in the format usually used in that nation. Anyone who listens to foreign programs for very long will wonder how the listener has stood for it so long. There can be little doubt that the extraordinarily fine production technique developed in the highly competitive commercial American system of radio will be equally effective abroad. There is no better way to demonstrate our abilities than in this way; it shows us for what we are—alive, vivid and on the ball.

We Can Be Dominant

If this is done, we stand to be in the future the dominant broadcasting nation in the world, just as we are tops domestically now. The race for international radio associations is on, and our amazing ability in this direction gives us an edge we cannot toss aside. World lines and associations and markets are being thrown topsy turvey today by the war and our radio signal will be the first to represent our interests wherever we want them represented as the pieces fall to the floor and begin to form a peacetime pattern.

It's a stupendous job, well started.

HOLLYWOOD news and music will be featured in an NBC shortwave series titled Highlights From Hollywood which will be beamed to Europe each Saturday, starting Sept. 5 and to Latin America on Tuesday, starting Sept. 8.

Television and FM Await War's End

Wakefield Sees Two Arts as Bright Spot in Future

TELEVISION and FM broadcasting appear as the bright spots in the post-war radio picture, Commissioner Ray C. Wakefield told the Public Utility Section of the American Bar Assn., meeting in annual convention in Detroit last Tuesday.

Mr. Wakefield expressed the hope "that just as radio emerged from the first World War as an industry of great national significance, the coming of peace will find radio an even more advanced medium of communication." He said that television and FM present "distinct possibilities" as post-war industries "to take up the inevitable slack in employment and production that comes with the release of armed forces and the closing of war industries."

Subversive Activity

War work of the Commission was dealt with to some extent by Mr. Wakefield, particularly the work of the FCC's Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service which he said was a "comprehensive agency for detecting subversive activity on the air".

He explained that the FBIS had grown from a "small but capable staff of monitors whose primary duty was to 'police' the air" to a unit now employing more than 700 persons. It was explained that the FBIS does not attempt counter-propaganda—it furnishes its findings to other Government agencies set up for that purpose such as the Office of War Information and Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs.

The major portion of Mr. Wakefield's address was devoted to the regulatory problems the FCC has faced since Pearl Harbor. Particular emphasis was placed on the communications needs of the military, especially in the telephone and telegraph fields. This has complicated the regular or routine work of the FCC, he said, in addition to creating new duties.

WRUL Names Cooke

DWIGHT COOKE, producer of Drew Pearson's Sunday evening news broadcasts on the BLUE, has been appointed program director of WRUL, Boston international station. He succeeds Douglas Schneider, who has joined the New York staff of the Office of War Information as assistant head of the program division, and like Mr. Schneider he will make his headquarters in WRUL's New York offices. Mr. Cooke, who will continue handling Drew Pearson's show for the time being, has been a consultant to WRUL for the last six months. As a free-lance producer he assisted in the start of the Chase & Sanborn Hour, was at one time editor of the March of Time broadcasts and was a member of the CBS program department.

LOANS STIMULATED BY RADIO

Los Angeles Bank Finds Medium Sustains
Business Hit By War Curtailments

"DURING the past several years, radio advertising has been of major aid in increasing our installment loan business. During recent months, it has helped to bridge over the gap in volume due to the curtailment of automobile sales, restrictions on installment purchases, etc. In the months ahead, we expect it will assist us in getting our proper share of installment loans of the type encouraged under the government's policy, such as those for essential home repairs, expansion of housing units in critical war areas, medical and hospital care, etc."

This summary by D. Z. Albright, assistant vice-president, in charge of the Installment Loan Division of the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, is based on consistent use by his bank of spot announcements on 11 California radio stations in recent years. List includes KFI, KNX, KHJ and KFVD, Los Angeles; KPAS, Pasadena; KTKC, Visalia; KVEC, San Luis Obispo; KXO, El Centro; KMJ, Fresno; KTMS, Santa Barbara; KVOE, Santa Ana. Placement is through Dana Jones Co., Los Angeles.

Public Guidance

Mr. Albright believes that radio has been particularly valuable to his organization during the months just past when the public has needed guidance with respect to the type of loans the government was encouraging and those being restricted. As result of close cooperation with the Government's policy, the Security-First National Bank's volume of personal loan business during the early months of this year was only 3% below 1941. Comparable figure for the 12th Federal Reserve District, in which the bank is located, was 8%, and for the entire United States, 12%.

In serving a large part of the Southern California area, Mr. Albright counts as one of the advantages of radio advertising the ability to change the commercial message at low cost to meet the individual needs of the community served. Repair loans may be featured in one area, crop production loans in another, etc. in addition to the over-all copy which fits all of the bank's 115 branches. In his experience, Mr. Albright has found that installment borrowers frequently mention the announcements heard over the air, and that changes in copy or policy, offering of new services, etc., are immediately reflected in comment across the counter.

KPQ's CP Reduced

REDUCTION of the construction permit of KPQ, Wenatchee, Wash., from 5,000 watts to 1,000 watts was granted the station last week. KPQ had originally been issued a CP by the FCC for the 5,000 watts with a change to 560 kc., although they had only asked for an increase to 500 watts night and 1,000 day. The station has been operating since, however, with a special service authorization on 560 kc. with 500 watts night and 1,000 day. Present licensed power is 250 watts on 1490 kc.

AFRA, CBS Complete WABC Talent Contract

CONTRACT between American Federation of Radio Artists and CBS covering staff announcers and producers at WABC, network's New York key station, was completed last week when the union and network agreed that this renewal should terminate Nov. 1, 1943, same date as the AFRA contract covering network programs, and also agreed on wages for the interim period, said to be the same as under the previous contract for minor adjustments.

When representatives of AFRA and CBS failed to agree on these two points last spring it was decided to put the renewal contract into effect without them on July 2 and to submit the questions of wages and term of the contract to the New York State Mediation Board at its meeting in August, the ruling of the Board to be retroactive to July 2. Matter was settled by the company and union, however, without having gone to arbitration, AFRA reported.

MILES BUYS TIME IN LATIN AMERICA

MILES LABS., Elkhart, Ind. (Alka-Seltzer), will launch a 12-month campaign in Latin America sometime in the fall, entailing an increase in both newspaper and radio advertising. More stations will be added to the present schedule, and announcements will include slogans on the theme of democracy, intended to further the program outlined by the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs for a better understanding between the Americas.

Miles' expanded advertising in countries below the Rio Grande parallels that announced by E. R. Squibb Co. [BROADCASTING, Aug. 10] and bears out the announced aims of the newly-formed Assn. of Export Adv. Agencies [BROADCASTING, Aug. 17]. Agencies of both firms are members of the Association. Dorland International handles the Squibb foreign accounts, and Export Adv. Agency handles Miles Laboratories advertising abroad.

In addition to increasing its spot announcements, Miles is renewing Lum & Abner on Puerto Rico, Newfoundland and Panama stations.

GRABBY GABBERS competing for the mike to see who can sell the most War Bonds over WMAQ, Chicago, in the station's current War Bond selling contest are (l to r) Fort Pearson, Cleve Conway, Louis Roen and Bob Brown, ace announcers of NBC-Chicago. Each announcer takes his turn as m.c. of Bargains in Bonds, quarter-hour five days a week on WMAQ when he asks listeners to send orders in care of their announcer, and each has charge once a week of the WMAQ Bond Booth in the main lobby of the Merchandise Mart where radio artists round up purchasers.

MORE ON WAR BOND SELLING
 Stations' Stunts Show Originality
 As Well As Persistent Effort

EVIDENCE that radio's selling power is mobilized 100% behind War Bond and Stamp sales continued to accumulate last week as reports from all over the country uncovered new, effective techniques used by stations to help each community reach its monthly sales quota.

Last Saturday, the BLUE staged two shows in an effort to record the largest single day's sales of War Bonds yet recorded. From 6-8 p.m. (PWT) the network presented I Pledge America, from coast to coast, directed by Orson Welles, and featuring stars of stage, screen and radio. Fighting men picked from outposts of the U. S. Armed Forces urged listeners to buy bonds, and BLUE invited them to order from their nearest station with Western Union collect telegrams. Western Union and the AWVS war savings staff cooperated.

A second program, The Blue Band Wagon Jamboree, went on the air at 8:15 p.m. (PWT) and ran until 1 a.m. Leading name bands were piped from all over the country, and sales totals were announced in the same manner networks ordinarily handle election returns.

Baseball Auctions

At Indianapolis and Boise, local stations raised large sums by auctioning autographed baseballs. Bert Wilson, WIBC sports announcer, netted $38,050 for seven baseballs auctioned by members of the Indianapolis Indians. At Boise, Col. Munyon raised $14,786, half the city's quota, for six balls signed by Bing Crosby and Bob Hope.

Newspaper advertising is used by WEBR, Buffalo, to buttress bond selling activities of the station. Spaces between sections of program listings in the press are filled with war slogans printed in block letters. Examples are "Help U. S. Win by Saving Tin", and "Bonds Today Keep Bondage Away".

With Thomas L. Cummings, Nashville mayor, and leaders of six civic clubs participating, WLAC opened a "Bond Site" in one of the front show windows of Loveman's, leading Nashville department store. The station plans to operate the booth four weeks, with representatives of the civic groups providing attendant personnel and with a U. S. Navy and Marine honor guard on hand. Activities at the booth are broadcast twice daily. Sales in the first week topped $71,000. Station officials originally hoped for a $100,000 total, but the goal has been jumped to $250,000.

A street program in the busiest section of downtown Duluth is used by WEBC to stimulate sales. The station orchestra, directed by John Klieve, the Mello-tone trio, and staff announcers broadcast each Saturday noon at a booth established by the Duluth War Bond committee.

The KMBC Victory Caravan which carries the entertainers on Brush Creek Follies to Missouri and Kansas towns near Kansas City has passed the $80,000 mark on its way to "A hundred grand for Uncle Sam." Other KMBC bond activities include entertainer teams competing for high war bond sales; genial Hiram Mortimer Highsby who free-lances as a bond salesman, breaking in on all programs from early morning farm hours to women's shows; and a special KMBC offer of a durable container for Bonds sent to each purchaser, with a picture and autograph of the personality who made the sale.

WWVA Cooperates

WWVA, Wheeling, W. Va., did not broadcast Abbott and Costello when they made an appearance locally to promote War Bond and Stamp sales. Instead, the station urged listeners to attend in person, and 20,000 persons attended.

Over 3,000 persons saw the dedication of Dayton's "Bond Wagon" recently, with the ceremonies carried on WHIO. Similar to old time Circus band wagons, the Bond Wagon will have prominent entertainers on hand to autograph bonds, and will stand in front of the Court House for the duration.

There is a Bond Wagon in Akron, too, where WAKR is the promoter. The Wagon drives to houses of bond buyers in response to telephone calls. On arrival the chorus sings, "Any Bonds Today".

Two personalities of WSAI, Cincinnati, are opposing each other in an election for the "honorary mayorality of Cincinnati," with War Bond sales totals to determine the winner. Ruth Lyons who conducts an hour, five-weekly, midday participating show, and "Colonel Cumquatt", a comic character with wide local following played by announcer-actor Ken Peters, are the candidates. Regular campaigns have been organized, with slogans, literature, and torchlight parades.

WOV, New York, is using metropolitan night clubs to boost its bond sales. The station will broadcast a 13-week series of shows, with clubs paying for time through the purchase of War Bonds. Only plugs, other than identification of the sponsor, will be for the War Bond Drive. Those ordering while the show is on the air are to be

Cornell U station WHCU, Ithaca, N. Y., has inaugurated a 50-minute celebrity show heard on the station Saturday nights, immediately following the 6 o'clock news. Intended as a convenience for war workers and others unable to purchase during regular hours the show solicits orders and the station delivers the bonds.

KWK Raises $10,000

KWK, St. Louis, opened a bond booth in Sportsman Park, home of the Cardinals. Manned by sportscasters Dizzy Dean, Johnnie O'Hara, and Nick Stemmler, the booth sold $10,000 in pledges the first night. The station is also sponsoring an all-out campaign to sell bonds by mail.

WMCA, New York, has a cash register which is rung every time someone calls the station to pledge a War Bond. Competition among staff members is spurred by a station offer of a free bond to the announcer receiving the highest number of pledges.

Possibly for the first time in history, a sales talk was injected in a religious choral work when C. R. Bond Jr., a squadron leader of the Flying Tigers, gave a Bond and Stamp plug during an offering of Verdi's "Requiem". Mr. Bond was interviewed between sections of the Requiem Mass, played by the symphony orchestra, and sung by fifty voice choir of the North Texas Teachers College.

Bing Crosby was the headliner on a Bond Rally held at Broadmoor Golf Club, and broadcast over KVOR, Colorado Springs, Col., where the audience bought more than $25,000 in War Bonds during a 45-minute midday show. Mr. Crosby autographed the bonds, and dedicated a special song, which was recorded, and presented to the largest bond buyer. Largest sale was $5,000. Studio audience bought $11,000, while listeners bought $14,000 in bonds.

Staff members of WDRC, Hartford, Conn., who are drafted, make recordings before leaving, urging listeners to buy bonds. WDRC plans to use these recordings frequently throughout its schedule.

A SHIELD bearing stars and stripes is now used on NBC program schedules to designate war effort programs, for the convenience of editors, Government officials and others.

Newspaper Ownership Issue In Spotlight at Senate Probe

June Hearings on Fly Confirmation Centered on Acquisition of WJWC by Field and Clarke

THE NEWSPAPER ownership issue, still pending before the FCC, and acquisition of the former WHIP (now WJWC), Chicago, by Marshall Field and John W. Clarke, highlighted the hearing on confirmation of FCC Chairman James Lawrence Fly before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee June 23, at least insofar as the public record, released last week, is concerned.

The hearing was held behind closed doors just a week before Mr. Fly's term was to have expired. He was confirmed without opposition, however, and began his new term of seven years July 1. It later developed that the hearing was to have been open but that newspapermen and the public were excluded because of the nature of some of Mr. Fly's "off-the-record" testimony dealing with the war interest or regarded as otherwise confidential. The record was released last week after Chairman Fly had been permitted to delete such off-the-record testimony.

Still Undecided

Members of the committee, led by Sen. Tobey (R-N. H.) and Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont.) delved deeply into the whole question of newspaper ownership, but they learned little new. Chairman Fly explained the policy issue had not yet been decided and that the Commission had not made up its mind.

Questions apropos purchase of WJWC by the Clarke-Field partnership related to actual control of the station—whether it was in the hands of the Chicago Sun publisher or Mr. Clarke, investment banker who directs the station. Mr. Fly said the FCC approved the transfer only if it was established that Mr. Clarke had acquired control, in the light of the newspaper ownership order.

He promised, however, to study the matter further, and asserted that if the newspaper gained control through the "buying of time" for newscasts, "that station will be treated like any other newspaper station." Previously he had explained that the FCC was holding in its "pending file" all newspaper applications until such time as the policy question of newspaper ownership will have been decided.

Questions regarding the chain-monopoly regulations, station leases and ownership were asked the chairman, but by far the bulk of the record, as released, related to newspaper ownership and the Field matter.

Asked by Senator Tobey if the Commission generally favored or looked with disfavor on newspaper ownership, Mr. Fly said it had not adopted any conclusion and that he could not forecast the Commission's opinion until completion of its study.

Asked point-blank by Senator Tobey, "Do you believe it is sound policy and wise procedure for newspapers to control broadcasting stations?", Chairman Fly alluded to the quasi-judicial aspect of the proceeding. He did not answer directly but posed arguments on both sides. The basic argument in favor of newspaper ownership is that there should be no discrimination between classes of citizens and that regardless of a man's occupation, he should be entitled to apply for a license to operate a station.

Control of Opinion

On the other side, he said, is the argument that the mechanics for the control of public opinion are rather limited in nature. They come down to a great extent to ownership of newspapers and stations. To concentrate the ownership of the local station in the hands of the local newspaper gives to one individual "too much power over the means of public expression, the maintenance of free speech and the formulation and control of public opinion," Chairman Fly added. He agreed with Chairman Wheeler that a complete monopoly results where the newspapers and the radio stations are owned by the same interests. It is less severe where there are more newspapers and more radio stations competitively owned, Mr. Fly asserted.

Asked by Senator Andrews (D-Fla.) whether joint ownership results in a "monopoly of advertising", Mr. Fly said it gives a considerable competitive advantage. A more forceful argument, he said, is that it enables them to say "what person may get to the public and who can make representations and statements and speeches and write articles for the public."

Committee members, in an ensuing discussion, agreed that a man desiring to run for office while controlling local newspapers and stations could be elected "at will".

Purchase of Securities

Opening the WHIP ownership discussion, Senator Tobey observed that the Commission had approved transfer of the station to the new owner (Clarke) "but the real owner of the station is Marshall Field of Chicago, owner of the Chicago Sun." He added that "if ever there was a clear case, in my understanding, based upon your official records, of a newspaper owning a station, you have got it there, because you and I know that titles may run to certain parties or corporations or interests, but what we are concerned with is who controls the station."

Asserting that if Chairman Fly would go over the record he would find it a "clear case of drawing a red herring across the trail," Senator Tobey said the Chicago Sun carries extensive daily newscasts on the station.

Mr. Fly explained that the former WHIP had been in a "bad way financially for some years" and that Mr. Clarke took an interest in the station, particularly in the common stock, while Mr. Field

Tax Rule Explains Advertising Status

Reasonable Expenditure Basis of Treasury Position

IF AN advertising expenditure is reasonable in view of the conditions of the advertiser's business and market, it will probably be allowed as a deduction for Federal income tax purposes, according to an explanation of the attitude of the Treasury Dept. and the Bureau of Internal Revenue released last week by the Assn. of National Advertisers.

Based on a conference held between officials of the ANA and the Government, the release is in the form of a letter signed by Paul B. West, ANA president and addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, whose office approved the following statements:

General Policy

"The Treasury Dept. and the Bureau of Internal Revenue fully appreciate the important part advertising plays in our national economy and there is no intention to restrict reasonable and normal advertising by disallowing it as a deductible expense. This was attested to by Secretary Morgenthau in testifying before the Joint Congressional Committee on Taxation when he said:

"The test of whether expenditures for advertising are deductible is whether they are ordinary and necessary and bear a reasonable relation to the business activities in which the enterprise is engaged. This is not intended to exclude institutional advertising in reasonable amounts or good will advertising calculated to influence the buying habits of the public."

"If such expenditures are extravagant and out of proportion to the size of the company or to the amount of its advertising budget in the past, or if they are not directed to public patronage which might reasonably be expected in the future, such payments will be disallowed."

"The Internal Revenue Bureau is charged with the responsibility of collecting Federal taxes, among which are the income tax and the excess profits tax. It is governed by statute and expects full cooperation from the taxpayer whereby the Government receives its full share of taxes. Thus it is the duty of the bureau, particularly in view of excess profits tax, to prevent abuses and attempts to avoid the right rate. The bureau has full power to disallow unreasonable expenses for tax purposes.

"The bureau recognizes that advertising costs have been forced upward by reason of increased space and time rates, increased cost of printing, engraving, art work and other advertising production costs. In this connection, the bureau suggests that advertisers keep their cost records as complete as possible.

"The bureau recognizes that in many cases the rationing of gasoline and tire restrictions have cut down on the number and frequency of calls salesmen can make on dealers and that this has thrown an added burden on advertising since expenditures for direct mail and dealer house organs must be increased to keep necessary contact with wholesalers and dealers. This also affects the cost of displays formerly handled by salesmen.

"Many advertisers are using a large part of their appropriations and, indeed, have increased them, for the purpose of salvaging materials necessary for the war effort, such as fats and grease, iron, steel, non-ferrous metals, rubber, etc. The bureau recognizes that such advertising efforts, if they bear a direct relation to the business carried on by the corporation, are essential to obtain raw materials and are, therefore, a normal business expense. As such they will be deductible if made with a reasonable expectation that the corporation's business will be benefitted by an increase in materials essential to its operations. The bureau further recognizes that such use of advertising is normal under abnormal conditions, conditions which have never before existed.

Changing Trends

"Priorities, the cutting off or curtailing of imports, and new research have resulted in some manufacturers bringing out new products. In other cases substitutes have had to be made. In these cases, the manufacturer must inform the public and the trade through advertising in justice to himself, his dealers and the consumer. The bureau does not question this and will take into consideration all normal factors incident to launching a new product. Such expenditures which are reasonable in amount, taking into consideration the facts in each case, will be allowed as deductions for Federal income tax purposes.

"In certain instances, manufacturers, in order to keep their dealers in business, have been supplying them with alternate products. For example, a rubber manufacturer, to aid his dealer outlets, has added such items as luggage, tools, sports equipment, furniture, etc., to replace tires no longer available. The bureau recognizes that such a manufacturer must merchandise these to the dealer and the public through advertising. Expenditures for this purpose which are reasonable in amount taking into consideration the facts in each case will be allowed as deductions for Federal income tax purposes.

Buying Habits

"Some manufacturers, because of priorities, must attempt through advertising to change buying habits. Curtailment of the use of metals has meant the elimination of many types of containers, of small packages, etc. For example, beverage manufacturers, because of the shortage of plate for bottle caps, must try to educate the public to use large instead of small size bottles. The bureau recognizes that this calls for advertising expenditures. Such expenditures, if reasonable in amount taking into consideration the facts in each case, will be allowed as deductions for Federal income tax purposes.

"Many companies are using advertising and advertising technique to speed the war effort among their own employees. So far this has been directed at one objective—to convince the shop and office worker that he is part of the all-out war effort and hence that carelessness and inefficiency, unnecessary absences and accidents on the production front are detrimental to the men on the fighting front.

"To accomplish this job, posters, banners, house organs, local newspaper advertising, direct mail, local window displays, motion pictures, spot radio, and many other advertising devices have been used. Undoubtedly, many companies will call on advertising to do a similar job in furthering the sale of war bonds through the payroll-deduction plan. The bureau recognizes that the expense incident thereto is a justifiable one so long as it is reasonable, whether that expense is listed as a production or a selling (advertising) cost.

New Companies

"Since the war began, certain new companies have come into being and have invested many thousands of dollars in plant equipment for the production of war material. As long as the war lasts, they will have nothing at all to sell the public. Those companies deem it but good business practice to advertise so that when the war ends and they turn to peacetime production, the public will be familiar with their names and hence their plant investment may be protected.

"The bureau recognizes that advertising by such companies is a proper deductible expense so long as such expenditures are reasonable. As Secretary Morgenthau has said: 'The test of whether expenditures for advertising are deductible is whether they . . . bear a reasonable relation to the business activities in which the enterprise is engaged. . . . If such expenditures are extravagant and out of proportion to the size of the company . . . or if they are not directed to public patronage which might reasonably be expected in the future, such payments will be disallowed.'

"It is, of course, impossible for the bureau to lay down a definite rule in advance which will fit all situations. In general and as Secretary Morgenthau has indicated, the bureau will be rational and fair, recognizing that advertising is a necessary and legitimate expense of doing business as long as it is not carried to an unreasonable extent or becomes an obvious attempt to avoid tax payments. This principle applies whether the company has no Government contracts, whether it is selling both to Government and to consumers or industry, whether it is wholly converted to war production, whether it is a new company selling only to Government, or whether it is a new company selling to Government and industry.

"The bureau has no desire to be arbitrary but it will, of course, uphold the statutes. Its collectors will, in each individual case, examine the records and act accordingly. If an advertiser feels the decision of the collector is wrong, the burden of proof of that fact rests upon him. He can, of course, appeal the decision if he feels an injustice has been done.

For the Government

"Under Section 23 (o) of the Code, an individual may make a gift to the government and deduct that from his income tax. Section 23 (q), however, referring to corporations, omits this provision. There is, therefore, no provision in the law for allowing as a deductible expense monies or time or space given directly to the government for advertisements solely by a government bureau or department. If, on the other hand, advertisements featuring the sale of War Bonds, conservation, nutrition or other government objectives are clearly signed by a corporation, such as 'This space donated by the John Jones Co., manufacturers of Jones' vitamins', the advertisement will be considered as an institutional or good will advertisement of the manufacturer and hence, deductible, provided, of course, that the expenditure is reasonable and not made in an attempt to avoid proper taxation.

"By 'advertising', the bureau includes all forms of advertising recognized by the industry of which the individual company is a part, such as newspaper, periodical, business paper, radio, car cards, outdoor, display, motion pictures, house organs, direct mail, etc.

"In view of the foregoing matter, the bureau feels that applications for rulings in advance on advertising expenditures of specific companies should be necessary only in most unusual circumstances. If an advertiser will follow the rules laid down, he should have no difficulties in determining whether a given advertising expense is justifiable or not.

"The bureau will consider applications for individual rulings on specific items but, the advertiser should realize that no obligation rests upon the bureau to render such rulings, that the bureau is busy with an unusual volume of work, and that, in general, it believes such rulings will be unnecessary in the light of information put forth in this letter."

Jewell SESAC

FRED JEWELL MUSIC Co., large band and orchestra publisher specializing in military and parade marches, has joined SESAC, according to the August bulletin of this music licensing organization, distributed last week to broadcasters and other users of music. Bulletin states that a SESAC number, Karl L. King's march, "Pageantry", has been used as the theme song of the training films made by Walt Disney Studios for the Army. SESAC also points with pride to the fact that "as of Aug. 1, 1942, SESAC had long term license agreements with 840 commercial radio stations in the United States, a greater number than any other music licensing organization has ever had in broadcasting history."

SUBJECT: V-MAIL RADIO CAMPAIGN

V-MAIL is the new, modern, speedy way to write to soldiers, sailors, and marines overseas. V-MAIL saves time, cargo space, and is the first almost certain guarantee that mail will be delivered!

Have you heard of V-MAIL--?

Millions of Americans haven't. There's a job for you -- for radio. This campaign should be shipped with less than two weeks effort.

The full facts are in the attached background sheet, and spot announcements are enclosed for your convenience.

SOLDIERS' MAIL -- human interest!
V-MAIL FORMS -- free!
AVAILABILITY -- in all post offices!
THEME -- how to get mail to soldiers so quickly!

We know that individual radio stations, networks and advertising agencies will want to take advantage of this opportunity to inform the mothers, fathers, families and friends of our armed forces the HOW...WHAT...WHY...of V-MAIL.

Can radio do this job in two weeks--? We believe it can do it even quicker if every broadcaster cooperates.

It's an important job, Radio --
Remember - V-MAIL for Victory!

E. M. KIRBY
Lt. Colonel, A.U.S.
Chief, Radio Branch.

V-MAIL

NEWEST WRINKLE in letter-writing is V-Mail, revolutionary new plan developed to provide fast, space-and-weight mail service to and from members of the American armed forces overseas. Above is an actual-size V-Mail letter sent out last week by the Army's Radio Branch to U. S. broadcasters, calling for their cooperation in an intensive radio campaign to familiarize the public with the use of V-Mail. The original letter, written on a special 8½ x 11-inch form, is micro-filmed and later photographically reproduced in the above size. The small rectangle at left represents the actual size of the 16 mm. micro-film frame on which the original letter is photographed.

RADIO's newest war job will be to take a major role in promoting the new V-Mail system of corresponding with members of the armed forces abroad, it was revealed last week, when Lt. Col. E. M. Kirby, chief of the Radio Branch of the War Department Bureau of Public Relations sent sample V-letters to broadcasters, network producers, news commentators and women's commentators soliciting their cooperation in promoting V-Mail.

A campaign of two weeks to bring the V-Mail plan to public attention is planned, with special spot announcements and supplementary material supplied by the Radio Branch. The opening gun in the V-Mail radio campaign was sounded Aug. 23 on The Army Hour, the official War Dept. radio mission, produced by the Radio Branch and heard every Sunday on NBC, 3:30-4:30 p.m. (EWT). Campaign will extend to all types of programs, sustaining and commercial, with the Radio Branch actively participating through its contacts with individual stations, news commentators and network programs. The War Dept. also is undertaking a supplementary campaign in various printed media, although radio will carry the biggest share of the undertaking.

Developed as a large-scale operation to facilitate the handling of the huge volume of correspondence to and from American soldiers, sailors and Marines on overseas duty, the V-Mail technique is based on a process of micro-filming letters written on special V-Mail forms. These special forms are available free of charge at U. S. post offices at present, although it is planned to permit their manufacture, under government license, for sale at retail. V-Mail service is supervised by the Army Postal Service, with the Post Office Department.

Where reproduction facilities are available at overseas posts, V-Mail letters are photographed on 16mm. film in this country, and reels of this film, containing thousands of letters in a small space and with little weight, are flown overseas, where photographic copies are made for delivery to the addressee.

This idea also holds for letters from overseas to addresses in this country. When reproduction facilities are not available, the V-Mail letter, in its original form, is dispatched to the overseas address under the highest mail priority.

McKELVY PUSHING MEN'S TOILETRIES

WITH an increased advertising budget for the coming year, Alfred D. McKelvy Co., Minneapolis, will launch a fall and winter campaign for Seaforth Toiletries for Men, using radio, newspapers and magazines.

Drive will be launched sometime before Christmas, and is directed largely at holiday gift buyers. Emphasis will be placed on the Commando Kit, latest addition to the Seaforth line, and designed especially for members of the armed forces.

This is the second year in radio for McKelvy, and indications are that advertising will be considerably larger than that of last year, when the firm used several spots following Vick Chemical Co.'s News for Women on CBS.

Firm will probably use one and five-minute spots on a national basis, either on individual stations or on a network basis. McKelvy has increased its total advertising appropriation by 12% over last year. BBDO, New York, is the agency for McKelvy.

Newspaper Probe

put $75,000 in bonds of the station. He said that under this transaction neither gained control. Then Mr. Clarke asked that he be allowed to purchase enough of the stock to give him 51%, but the Commission denied the request. Subsequently, Mr. Clarke agreed to take $75,000 further interest in the station and this "offset Field's interest". Mr. Clarke has given to the Commission "written assurance" that he would not permit management of the station to go out of his hands if he had control. The transfer of stock to Mr. Clarke was then approved, Mr. Fly asserted.

Senator Stewart (D-Tenn.) inquired about the relationship between Messrs. Clarke and Field, and Mr. Fly asserted the former did some "financial work of some sort for Field". Senator Tobey, however, described Mr. Clarke as a broker and said he is "about as close to Marshall Field as your fourth and fifth fingers crossed."

Chairman Fly asserted that the fact that the Sun carries so many newscasts on WHIP made the case one that "is not 100% free from doubt". He then added if the newspaper gained control through buying of time "that station will be treated like any other newspaper station."

Transfer Undecided

Mr. Fly, upon further questioning, said the Commission has definite assurances that the $75,000 will come out of Clarke's pockets and out of his own funds, and if the $75,000 does not come from him personally, as distinguished from Field, the transaction will be disapproved." He concluded that the matter had not yet been given a "clean bill of health".

Efforts then being taken by the FCC to remedy the equipment and personnel shortage situation confronting broadcasting was explained by Chairman Fly, who said every effort would be made to keep all of the stations operating for the duration. He pointed out the Commission has tried to take care of the technician shortage by lowering requirements and that it was seeking to "discourage" big stations from taking men away from the small stations.

Wheeler's Observation

When Chairman Wheeler interposed that stations would have a "bad time anyway", because of imminent loss of advertising in wartime, Mr. Fly said the situation "is not as bad as might be expected". He said this was due to "more extensive advertising of materials that are generally available". He alluded to increased advertising such as that of Chesterfield and to the increase in institutional copy.

BOB AND BONNIE ATCHER, of the music staff of WJJD, Chicago, are in Hollywood to co-star in the Columbia picture "Panhandle Trail."

Tale of the Woods

TO OBTAIN the proper background noises at a lumber camp for the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. feature series This Canada, which starts in October, J. Frank Willis, CBC supervisor of feature broadcasts, Toronto, went to North Vancouver. Here lumbermen were felling huge Douglas firs, and in order to get the sound as accurate as possible, they arranged that a tree fall on the microphone. The tree came crashing down as planned, hit the mike, drove it and the stand and wires three feet into the ground. When dug out the mike was undamaged and in addition the recording was accurate for the falling of one of these forest giants.

KOMA WAGE CASE AWAITS DECISION

ARBITRATION proceedings over proposed wage adjustments for the technical staff of KOMA, Oklahoma City, were held last week in Muskogee before a board composed of KOMA representatives and local B-1141 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL). Judge LeRoy A. Rader, of Storm Lake, Ia., an arbitrator for the U. S. Conciliation Service, Dept. of Labor, acted as fifth member of the arbitration board and will also write the decision expected about Sept. 1.

The IBEW is seeking an increase in wage scales for KOMA engineers, contending present rates are sub-standard and below wages paid by stations similar in power and location. The union seeks $52.50 per week for the chief plant engineer; $50 for transmitter engineers; and $47.50 for studio engineers.

According to a union representative J. T. Griffin, principal owner, and Jack Howell, station manager, urged a continuation of the 1940 wage scale. Union representatives on the board were Tom M. Rushing, business manager of the union's local and W. L. Reed, IBEW international representative. Lawson Wimberly, international representative from Washington, presented the union's case.

Cosmetic Hoarding

COSMETIC distributors were severely criticized last week by C. A. Willard, chief of the WPB toiletries and cosmetics branch, for encouraging customers to hoard supplies. In writing to one of the distributors Mr. Willard wrote, "such action on your part is not only decidedly unpatriotic, but is contrary to the best interest of the war effort."

DIRECT representation of labor on the Board of Governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. has been urged by the Toronto District Trades & Labor Council.

The largest and smallest Lapp curved-side cones—ranging from low power pipe mast and for the world's largest vertical radiator—1050 feet

More than 20 years of service records prove that the Lapp curved-side compression cone of electrical porcelain meets every operating requirement. It affords double the strength of an ordinary straight-side cone, assuring the maximum in security and permanence. Finally, each insulator, before shipment, is tested by loading to 50% more than maximum design load. Most radio engineers know they've covered the insulator question adequately when they say to their tower manufacturer, "Use Lapp Insulators." Lapp Insulator Co., Inc., LeRoy, N. Y.

Book Publishers Name Group to Help Radio

TO PROMOTE the books which explain the war or aid the war effort, a radio committee has been formed as part of the Council on Books in Wartime Inc., organized some weeks ago to coordinate the war efforts of the book publishing industry. Radio committee, headed by Lee Barker, of Houghton-Mifflin Co., is prepared to help radio stations, program directors and script editors in such matters as clearing contract rights, securing authors for broadcasts and lining up radio adaptations or dramatizations of books relating to the national emergency. The committee, located at 347 Fifth Ave., New York, serves as a clearing house for information about books and authors, as possible broadcasting material, and is currently engaged in collecting from books material which would be appropriate for radio.

Committee members are: Philip H. Minus, Young & Rubicam; Nelson Hesse, Hesse & McCaffrey; Raymond Bond, Dodd Mead & Co.; Norman Hood, Henry Holt & Co.; Albert Leventhal, Simon & Schuster; Frank Taylor, Reynal & Hitchcock.

Greetings From Troops

AS A RESULT of the War Dept's announcement that personal messages between troops abroad and relatives in the United States by shortwave broadcast or transcriptions [BROADCASTING, Aug. 17] be discontinued unless approved by the department, MBS has revised its Americans Calling Home series. Program, broadcast for six quarter-hours a week, brought greetings from members of the American force in Australia to their folks at home, but under the new arrangement these personal messages have been replaced with interviews with soldiers. MBS stated that its other programs of foreign origin already conformed to the regulation and programs of other networks were not affected by the order, as far as could be ascertained.

Equipment Picture

EQUIPMENT conservation proposals offered by the War Production Board have been turned over to Committee IV (Domestic Broadcasting) of the Board of War Communications BROADCASTING learned last week. No definite action is expected from this group until after Labor Day and meanwhile careful study is being made of the BWC tube survey and other pertinent data. Although detailed studies of South American equipment problems are going forward, WPB had nothing definite to report. Positive action awaits complete facts, it was said.

A READY MADE AUDIENCE

Defense Plants Provide Basis for Safety

Series Aimed at War Workers

MANPOWER CONSERVATION series on WGRC, New Albany, Ind., is launched at this meeting. Seated is J. Fred Miles, head of the Louisville Refining Co., signing contract for the safety show. Standing (l to r) are Howard J. Perry, WGR Commercial manager; F. W. Rodenheber, chairman of the Kentucky National Committee for the Conservation of Manpower; and Edwin S. Weldon, account executive of M. R. Kopmeyer Adv. Agency, handling the account.

TO ASSIST the nationwide drive to conserve manpower in vital industry through greater use of safety measures, WGRC, New Albany, Ind., in August launched a Manpower series sponsored by the Louisville Refining Co., headed by J. Fred Miles who is also commanding officer of the Kentucky Colonels.

Giving full cooperation to the plan, originated by Howard J. Perry, WGR commercial manager, the industrial plants of the station's area made available a ready-made audience of more than 30,000 defense workers through their public address systems. Where these systems do not exist radios are installed.

Lunch Listening

First, in conjunction with the Dept. of Labor and the Louisville Safety Council, WGRC made a survey of the plants and discovered most workers preferred to do their radio listening during the lunch period.

The Manpower programs were then scheduled for 12:15-12:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Although safety in plants is the theme of the shows, they are designed to give 15-minutes of entertainment as well. Preceding the program is a 15-minute newscast, sponsored by the Superior Petroleum Co., a subsidiary of Louisville Refining Co.

Through F. W. Rodenheber, chairman of the Kentucky National Committee for the Conservation of Manpower and director of the Louisville Safety Council, in cooperation with plant safety directors, the programs are being emphasized and workers who have contributed safety measures are brought before the microphone.

LOUIS RUPPEL, publicity chief of CBS, and the "CBS Mail Bag", mimeographed letter sent twice monthly to all former CBS employes in the armed services, were praised in My Day, syndicated column written by Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt, last Monday.

WAR FACTS GIVEN IN DISC CAMPAIGN

TO INFORM America through radio, the Office of War Information announced Aug. 27, a unique campaign of 43 transcribed messages by leading commentators to begin Sept. 14 supplying listeners with war effort facts emphasizing the United Nations. Radio stations throughout the country were apprised of this campaign in a telegram from William B. Lewis, chief of OWI's radio bureau asking them to use the one-minute announcements from Sept. 14 through Oct. 26.

In his memorandum to the stations, Mr. Lewis stressed the need of giving the people "the true facts about the United Nations." "It is obvious," he continued, "that for complete unity every American should be completely informed on the contributions of every member of the United Nations".

To gain this end, OWI has enlisted the aid of such news commentators as H. V. Kaltenborn, William Shirer, Gabriel Heatter, Walter Winchell, Raymond Clapper, John Gunther, John W. Vandercook, Earl Godwin, Lowell Thomas, Raymond Gram Swing and Pearl Buck.

Stations have been asked to use the announcements at the rate of 10 per day, seven days per week for six consecutive weeks. OWI requested stations to feature announcements in the regular periods usually set aside for transcribed one minute announcements. This applies to sustainers and sponsored programs alike.

However, in the case of sponsored programs, stations have been asked not to include the announcements within the body of the program; instead OWI has suggested sponsors be asked to donate one minute before or after his program. Permission has been given stations to announce that the "sponsor has donated one minute of his time for an important message."

NAB Advises on Political Programs; Fears Criticism Over 'Dramatizations'

WITH POLITICAL campaigns in progress preparatory to the November Congressional and state elections, the NAB last week advised stations to guard against "dramatized" political broadcasts and the criticism they might bring.

Answering inquiries from several stations which had been propositioned on such dramatizations, C. E. Arney Jr., acting secretary-treasurer of the NAB, asserted that misunderstanding exists as to industry policy. In the 1936 Presidential campaign, considerable consternation was caused in party ranks over a network dramatization sponsored by one of the national committees and thereafter the major networks declined to accept such programs.

Mr. Arney said there is no specific provision in the NAB code covering political dramatizations, but the NAB board of directors in 1940 reaffirmed the position previously expressed, which limits political broadcasts to "political speeches, interviews and announcements, and the remote control broadcast of any bona fide political meeting".

While these dramatized versions are not specifically mentioned, "they are by every reasonable implication excluded", Mr. Arney declared. "The reasons underlying this exclusion would seem to be quite apparent.

"Broadcasters in making their facilities available for political campaigns and to candidates for public office are instrumentalities for the dissemination of accurate information and facts as an aid to the voters in determining policy and selecting public officials.

"Every precaution should be taken to see that this obligation is fully and honestly discharged. Dramatizations of any kind often resort to what may be termed

"dramatic license". Frequently dramatic techniques do not always conform to fact. The NAB Board of Directors has consistently felt that the interests of the industry as well as of the voting population is best served by elimination of dramatized announcements and programs.

GM'S CBS SERIES TO STOP SEPT. 22

AFTER a 16-week run, Cheers From the Camps, sponsored by General Motors Corp. over a full CBS network, will be terminated Sept. 22. GM, according to its Washington vice-president, R. H. Grant, has concluded that the program has fulfilled its mission, insofar as his company is concerned. He expressed the hope that some other sponsor would pick it up.

Mr. Grant characterized the program as "a success" from the standpoint of soldier entertainment and its contribution to Army morale. He said it had been scheduled for only 13 weeks originally and that it broke new ground as a new war technique.

The program began June 9 and has been broadcast Tuesdays, 9:30-10:30 p.m., over a 114-station network. Campbell-Ewald Co. was agency, with Henry E. Ewald, chairman of the board, personally in charge. GM has no immediate plans for a replacement program, according to Mr. Grant.

Hettinger, Beirn Named To OWI Campaign Posts

TWO FIGURES prominent in the radio advertising field last week were appointed to the newly created posts of campaign managers of the Bureau of Campaigns of the Office of War Information. They are Dr. Herman Hettinger, associate professor of marketing of the Wharton School of Commerce of the U of Pennsylvania, and Kenneth Beirn, account executive of Pedlar & Ryan, New York. They will join OWI Oct. 1 and will work under Ken Dyke, chief of the Bureau of Campaigns.

Dr. Hettinger, long prominent as an economist in the broadcasting field, will resign from his university post for the duration. Mr. Beirn, who has been working on the Procter & Gamble account, leaves the agency to assist Mr. Dyke on Government promotional campaigns, which are now being planned and executed largely like regular commercial advertising campaigns. Both will serve as consultants to Mr. Dyke's bureau until Oct. 1.

Morgan to London

BREWSTER MORGAN, CBS producer, has been granted an indefinite leave of absence by the network to go to London to take charge of program production in the newly established office there of the Office of War Information. He will work under Wallace Carroll, former United Press London bureau chief who was recently named head of the OWI office in the British capital [BROADCASTING, Aug. 17]. Both will fly to London within the next few weeks.

New Woodbury Item

ANDREW JERGENS Co., Cincinnati, currently using two net shows for Woodbury products, will shortly launch a test campaign for a new Woodbury liquid shaving cream, probably using spot announcements and programs in four different markets. In addition to sponsoring The Thin Man on NBC for Woodbury face cream and powder, Jergens Co. presents The Parker Family on BLUE for Woodbury soap and Walter Winchell, also on BLUE, for Jergens Lotion. Agency is Lennen & Mitchell, New York.

Paine to Hollywood

JOHN G. PAINE, general manager of ASCAP, and the Society's executive committee will go to Hollywood next month for the regular meeting of the Pacific Coast members of ASCAP. "MANAGEMENT MUST MAKE THE PATTERN
FIT THE CLOTH"

says JOSEPH D. NELSON,
Executive Vice President,
THE ANDREW JERGENS COMPANY

"It goes without saying that advertising is a fundamental part of modern merchandising. If, then, advertising is an essential in time of peace, it is most certainly an indispensable ingredient of business in time of war. Neither can change the underlying values of advertising, though war, as we have seen in England, may reduce its volume and alter its use.

"As I see it, the job of management under present conditions, is to make the pattern fit the cloth—to use advertising as a task force where, when, and as needed.

"It would be folly to say that all companies should spend as much for advertising as in normal times. Changing conditions should influence any decision to keep present budgets, retrench, or even expand. It is the province—and the responsibility—of management to evaluate these changing conditions and project advertising appropriation and function to meet them.

"I cannot say how much we will be spending for advertising a year from now. I can say that we will keep our plans and policies flexible to meet changing conditions brought about by war in precisely the same manner we keep them fluid to meet changing competitive conditions in time of peace."
