Reports to White House

In departure from past practice, President Kennedy has ordered chairmen of independent regulatory agencies to submit monthly reports directly to him on their commissions. First such report from FCC Chairman Newton N. Minow went to White House last week. President reportedly asked that such matters as policy considerations, legislation, internal problems and organization be included. Adjudicatory matters are not to be discussed in reports, it is understood.

Order to file reports was sent to agencies by Frank G. Dutton, special assistant to President for government relations. Chairman Minow acknowledged first one has gone to White House and expressed approval of new practice. White House reportedly feels that regular, first-hand briefing of President will enable him to help FCC in areas where he feels assistance is needed. House Commerce Committee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) said that when he first heard about new FCC-White House liaison "I was quite concerned." However, he added, as long as information submitted is of type said to have been requested it probably will not result in usurping of congressional power of agencies.

Non-broadcast vtr

New Videotape recording unit for non-broadcast use and designed exclusively for closed circuit educational, industrial and military tv use, shortly will be announced by Ampex, pioneer in vtr field. Equipment, incorporating radical innovations, will sell for about half-price of standard broadcast units (roughly in $20,000 area) but is not geared to meet FCC's exacting specifications for on-air use.

Demonstration of new unit is scheduled this week. Unofficial word is that while new product isn't designed to meet specifications for on-air use, it nevertheless produces quality results because it is adapted for closed circuit. Ampex revolutionized tv recording field with introduction of Ampex Videotape recording in 1956.

Full sponsorship?

Regional beer advertiser P. Ballantine & Sons, in what may be unprecedented arrangement, ready to foot bill every other week for entire 180-station networking of Sing Along With Mitch next season on NBC-TV, if it works out that way. Ballantine and William Esty hope to sell off Ballantine's alternate-week full sponsorship to other regionals in markets where beer advertiser does not distribute, but is willing to pick up full national tab if sell-offs fail to come off. Ballantine is in 28 markets in eastern U. S. from Maine to Florida, and currently is responsible for only that part of Miller lineup in its sponsorship of show this season.

Collins plan

There's no doubt LeRoy Collins is determined to be a "do something" president of NAB. Last week he proposed to all three television networks that they agree to a "double Doerfer Plan," each doing two prime hours of cultural-information programming per week. He proposed that NAB would act as clearing house for plan and would attempt to get affiliate agreements on clearance.

Under plan adopted last year at suggestion of John Doerfer, then chairman of FCC, networks agreed to schedule one prime hour per week of information programming, with stations filling time with own shows every fourth week. Collins' Plan envisaged two hours weekly week after week from each network—in non-conflicting periods. Reportedly he had thought of breaking news of his plan Wednesday (March 15) in address to Radio & Television Executives Society luncheon in New York. There's some doubt he can get network and station approval in time for his RTES appearance. In meetings with network officials last week Gov. Collins hinted he talked about programming with new FCC Chairman Newton N. Minow and Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

CBS News eyed

Reports ricocheting through New York and Washington last week speculated that more big changes were impending in CBS News operations, this time probably in Washington set-up, but top-level word out of CBS News was that no "upheaval" was in work, although admittedly new Dick Salant-Blair Clark management team is "looking at everything with a new eye." Mr. Salant, new president, and Mr. Clark, new general manager and vp, were expected to "talk with some people" during visit to Washington this past weekend. In addition, Mr. Clark is slated to extend that new-eyed look to overseas news operations during several days' visit abroad starting shortly.

Along with this new look goes a new policy—not to announce future additions to corps of CBS News correspondents. This doesn't mean there won't be any new hiring, because management expects to strengthen by hiring as well as other means. But President Salant feels what goes on in his shop should be reflected in programming rather than press releases, and in general does not plan to make any to-do when newsmen are hired or reassigned. His reasoning: "The New York Times doesn't announce it when it hires correspondents. Why should we?" In case anybody's wondering, he says he hasn't yet hired anybody under this new quiet policy.

Factoring for tv?

New wrinkle now being applied to bartering tv time that brings barter practices fairly close to so-called "factoring" of commercial houses. Some barter companies now pay off film commitments of tv stations and receive time on those outlets in exchange. Participating stations feel it advantageous to thus get rid of film debts and big chunks of unsold time at one swoop, while barter houses stand to gain because volume of time allotted to them includes enough "extra" to yield them more money than they put out to pay off film companies.

Minow to meet boss

Planned meeting between President and FCC Chairman Newton N. Minow has been postponed at request of latter. Mr. Minow has met with several of President's personal staff since assuming chairmanship 10 days ago but has let it be known that he wants more time to learn job before meeting with top man. President Kennedy has sent word that he would like to meet with his new chairman and conference probably will take place within next couple of weeks. Chairman Minow also has turned down more than 100 speaking engagements for same reason and probably will make first major speech during NAB convention.

Since he assumed FCC chairmanship on March 2, Newton N. Minow has been working 16-hour day, seven days per week. And he plans to maintain schedule for next two months. His family (wife and three small children) will not move to Washington until June and he hopes to spend every other weekend with them in Glencoe, Chicago suburb.

TriCities favored for ch. 8 in N. C.

TriCities Broadcasting Co., was favored over three competitors for ch. 8 in Greensboro-High Point, N. C., in initial decision issued Friday (March 10) by FCC Hearing Examiner Elizabeth Smith.

Examiner, however, stipulated that Ralph C. Price, 25% owner of TriCities, and family dispose of voting rights to stock they hold (various trusts) in Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co. (also applicant for ch. 8 through its broadcasting subsidiary).

Other TriCities principals, all with 25%, include Robert H. Nutt, Hargrove Bowles Jr. and James G. MacLamroch. Applicant was favored on integration of ownership and management, diversification and local residence factors. "Another highly significant factor is that a grant to this applicant will bring an entirely new and competitive entity in the field of mass communication in the Greensboro-High Point-Winston-Salem area," Examiner Smith said.

Mr. Price is former president of Jefferson Standard and he and family own 6.795% of insurance company stock, most held in trust. Messrs. Price and MacLamroch each owns 1/3 of WKIX Raleigh, N. C.

Disposal by Mr. Price of voting interest in Jefferson Standard stock was required because insurance company also owns 17% of WFMV-TV Greensboro, N. C., which it plans to dispose of if it wins ch. 8. Other ch. 8 applicants are High Point Tv Co. and Southern Broadcasters Inc., which both have newspaper or broadcast properties.

Sullivan, Paar feud over performance fees

Another "tv personality feud" was simmering over weekend as NBC-TV's Jack Paar and CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan exchanged series of sharply-worded communiques in dispute started when Mr. Sullivan served notice on name performers that they would receive only $320 for appearance on Ed Sullivan Show if they accepted $320 scale payment for performing on Paar Show.

Mr. Sullivan suggested Friday (March 10) that they debate issues on Paar program without studio audience. That afternoon Mr. Paar invited Mr. Sullivan to appear but stressed it would have to be before studio audience. Mr. Sullivan thereupon requested that on "basis of good sportsmanship," debate be carried "without sound effects."

Dispute began Thursday (March 9) when it became known that Mr. Sullivan had notified leading talent agents that personalities who performed on Paar would receive same pay for booking on Sullivan, where performers have received as much as $7,500.

NBC News adds bureaus in Rio, Buenos Aires

NBC will expand its Latin American news coverage by April 1, with opening of two new NBC news bureaus—one in Rio de Janeiro, the other in Buenos Aires.

NBC Chairman Robert W. Sarnoff in February had noted NBC News' objective of opening up new Latin American facilities (BROADCASTING, Feb. 17). New bureaus will combine with established one in Havana to give network three fully-staffed news bureaus in Latin America. Development followed just completed two-week, on-scene survey of area by Robert E. Kintner, NBC president.

Rio bureau will be headed by Wilson and Lee Hall, husband-and-wife team of correspondents, who will move over from Havana.

Richard Valeriani, formerly with AP in Havana, will head NBC's Havana bureau. Kenneth Bernstein, night news editor with NBC News in New York, will head bureau in Buenos Aires.

B&J, Gordon merger

Bozell & Jacobs Inc., Chicago, will merge with Phil Gordon Agency, Chicago, on March 13. Gordon President Dan Smith and Executive Vice President Philip W. Abrams join B&J as vice presidents and planning board members.

FCC counsel agrees with Stern on ch. 7

Absolute disqualification of three of four applicants for Miami ch. 7 was urged by FCC general counsel's office in oral argument on court-remanded ex parte case before FCC en banc Friday (March 10). Counsel thus agreed with special examiner's findings.

Three, including winning applicant Biscayne Tv Corp. (WCKT [TV]), defended their actions as proper for climate of times and argued disqualification is neither required or warranted.

Special Hearing Examiner Horace Stern has recommended that 1956 grant to Biscayne be voided and that Biscayne, South Florida Tv Corp. and East Coast Tv Corp. be disqualified because of alleged improper contacts with commissioners (BROADCASTING, Sept. 19, 1960). Case was before Judge Stern on remand following disclosures before House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee. Judge Stern found that fourth applicant, Sunbeam Tv Corp., was only aspirant for ch. 7 eligible for further consideration.

Dalton, Post set tv for instant meals

Edward Dalton Division of Mead Johnson Co., and Post Cereals Division of General Foods have begun introduction of new instant meal preparations which may create demand similar to national acceptance in past year of ready-to-drink products for weight reduction.

General Foods is using tv in selected markets to test new "Post Instant Brim . . . the breakfast in a glass. Agency for Brim is Young & Rubicam, N. Y. Mead Johnson spokesman said Friday that it's "appropriate to assume we will use television" to advertise "complete nutritious meal" called Nutrament. Agency for Nutrament is Kenyon & Eckhardt, N. Y.

Edgar Bill dies at 71

Edgar L. Bill, 71, former owner of WMBD Peoria, and creator of National Barn Dance on WLS Chicago, died Thursday night in Tucson, Ariz. Mr. Bill, who headed WLS from 1924 until he purchased WMBD in 1931, was prominently identified with farm radio. Surviving him are his wife, Dorothy, and sons Howard, owner of WBIZ Eau Claire, Wis., and Robert, account executive with Lambert & Feasley, New York.

WEEK'S HEADLINERS

Mr. Quinn

Don Quinn, formerly vp in charge of NTA Spot Sales, named to newly-created post of national sales manager of RKO General stations. Mr. Quinn will work on development of spot business for RKO General stations in association with sales managers of these outlets. He will maintain close liaison with national spot radio-tv advertisers and their agencies. Before joining NTA, Mr. Quinn was partner in station representative firm, McGavren-Quinn (now Daren F. McGavren Co.).

Mr. O'Connor

Arthur O'Connor, sales manager for radio, Devney/O'Connell, N. Y., station rep, appointed vp in charge of firm's radio division. Mr. O'Connor, who began his association with company in 1956 as account executive, became radio sales manager in 1959. Prior to that, he had been, for two years, radio-tv account supervisor at Foote, Cone & Belding, N. Y., and with McCann-Erickson's radio-tv production department, also for two years.

Kenneth A. Cox, partner in Seattle law firm of Little, Palmer, Scott & Slemmons, named chief of FCC Broadcast Bureau (see story page 58). Mr. Cox was approved unanimously in special FCC meeting Thursday (March 9) and will assume new post on or about April 10th. He has served as special counsel to Senate Commerce Committee on several communications matters in the past. He will replace present Bureau Chief Harold Cowgill.

Mr. Ruegg

Mr. Dundes

Mr. Webster

Mr. Sutton

Fred Ruegg, vp and general manager of CBS-owned KNX Los Angeles, named vp in charge of station administration, part of CBS Radio alignment that takes effect March 27, as announced last week by President Arthur Hull Hayes (see page 56). Mr. Ruegg succeeds Jules Dundes who returns—at his specific request, it was reported—as vp and general manager of KCBS San Francisco where he had served management tour in 1955-56. Maurie E. Webster, vp and general manager of KCBS, becomes vp and general manager of CBS Radio Spot Sales. Incumbent in that post, Milton F. Allison, will be assigned new sales responsibilities in that organization. Robert P. Sutton, program manager of KNX, succeeds Mr. Ruegg as vp and general manager of that station.

Norman Strouse, president of J. Walter Thompson Co., New York, becomes chief executive officer following retirement of Stanley Resor. Dan Seymour, vp and director of radio-tv department, promoted to senior vp. See story page 32.

Matthew Fox, president and director of Television Industries Inc., N. Y., resigns in order to devote his full time to Tolvision of America Inc., subscription tv company. Basil Estreich, senior vp of Television Industries, elected president and chief executive officer, and Walter S. Mack, formerly president of Pepsi-Cola and presently director of Television Industries, elected to company's executive committee. Television Industries holds tv rights to various feature films and tv series. Tolvision is company organized by Mr. Fox to present pay tv programs. It has not announced any immediate plans.

James C. Douglass, administrative vp, member of executive committee and director of Ted Bates & Co., has formed international consultant company with offices in New York and Geneva, Switzerland. Mr. Douglass will act as consultant to American business enterprises interested in international expansion into foreign markets but have little knowledge of foreign operations. Mr. Douglass will leave Bates at end of April to devote full time to his new firm. In addition to his domestic duties at Bates, Mr. Douglass has been in charge of agency's international operations, and is director of Hobson, Bates & Partners Ltd., London, England, and director of Spitzer, Mills & Bates Ltd., Toronto and Montreal. Mr. Douglass was formerly executive of Colgate-Palmolive Co., and vp and director of radio and tv for Erwin Wasey & Co.

For other personnel changes of the week see FATES & FORTUNES

Secretary Rusk to brief 300 radio-tv newsmen

Some 300 radio-tv commentators and news and public affairs directors from 50 states have been invited by Secretary of State Dean Rusk to attend foreign policy briefing in Washington April 3-4. President Kennedy, Secretary

Rusk and other policy shapers will participate.

Purpose is to provide newsmen with information on current international affairs and U. S. policy and to help government learn media's coverage needs.

Similar briefing will be held for some 300 print media representatives.

Collins to address RTES

LeRoy Collins, president of National Assn. of Broadcasters, will make his first appearance before a broadcast advertising group on March 15, when he speaks at Radio & Television Executives Society's newsmaker luncheon in New York.

'Net' Weight

On balance, the effectiveness of a network comes down to a matter of programs. Measured this way, the CBS Television Network presents more of the season's most popular programs than the other two networks combined (23 out of 40) and more top-rated new program series than the other two combined (4 out of 6).* The same network also broadcasts the season's most popular new program ("The Andy Griffith Show"); television's most popular single program for the past three years ("Gunsmoke"); and the program with the longest record of popularity ("The Ed Sullivan Show"). In fact, in 135 Nielsen reports issued since July 1955 this network has averaged 22 of the 40 top-rated programs. This corner on program popularity helps explain why the CBS Television Network continues to carry more weight with viewers than any other network and more weight with advertisers than any other advertising medium.

NEW 1961 AYER DIRECTORY

WITH COMPLETE RESULTS OF 1960 CENSUS

Inclusion of final U.S. Census tabulation makes this the most important edition of the Ayer Directory in ten years

118,000 changes • 1560 fact-filled pages • 500 new publications •
70 new, specially prepared maps

A reference library bound into one compact, easy-to-use volume! The N. W. Ayer Directory is recognized as the most authoritative single source of information on the newspapers and magazines of the United States and its territories, Canada, Bermuda, Panama and the Philippine Islands. 93rd annual edition—your one-volume authority for . . .

More than 21,500 publications—names, addresses, subscription prices, circulation figures, sizes and other vital information. The most complete directory of its kind in the United States and Canada. Facts and figures on about 500 new publications not included in the 1960 Edition.

Invaluable market facts on the U. S., Canada—statistical profile of North America. Data includes industries and agricultural products of every listed city and town, with banking information, motor vehicle registration, number of telephones and other valuable facts about larger market areas. Also, under each listing, such important information as available transportation facilities, distance from nearest larger community. And specially keyed airline and rail maps are provided for every state and province.

Special interest groups—publications appealing to groups with special interests, hobbies, foreign languages, religions, etc., are listed under these classifications.

Order your '61 Ayer Directory now! Still only $30, postpaid within the U.S.A. Order from N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., Dept. B, West Washington Square, Philadelphia 6, Pa.

A word of appreciation to those who ordered the 1960 Edition. Our sincere regrets to those whose orders came in too late to fill. Last year's edition was sold out earlier than usual despite the largest printing in history. Please order your 1961 copy of the Ayer Directory as early as possible.

The fm story (continued)

EDITOR: Your analysis of the status of fm ("A dramatic spurt in fm development," PERSPECTIVE '61, Feb. 20) was very helpful indeed; I should appreciate your mailing 10 reprints to me here for distribution to clients and account supervisors. . . . —G. Wrights Briggs Jr., Radio/Tv Director, BBDO, Boston.

EDITOR: Your magazine fills a need for information in the world of radio and tv stations and the advertising agencies which use them. . . .

We would like 20 reprints of the section on fm. . . . —Sydney Abrams, General Manager, KMCS-FM Seattle.

EDITOR: May we congratulate you on the excellent coverage of fm, Please send us 100 reprints. . . . —Everett B. Cobb, Owner, KNEV-FM, Reno, Nev.

EDITOR: . . . We are interested in 800 reprints fm story. . . . —Joseph C. Windler, WFIL-FM Philadelphia.

EDITOR: Please send me 20 reprints. . . . May I commend you on the excellent job you did on the perfection medium? Keep up the good work to help make fm the economic success that it is destined to be. . . . —George R. Kravis, Kravis Radio Enterprises, Tulsa, O.la.

EDITOR: . . . We found the rundown on fm's current status very informative and are making good use of it. Thank you for using our FMBS material in this section. With everyone working together as they are, I'm sure the unknowns in fm broadcasting will soon disappear.—John T. Hartigan, Secretary, Fm Broadcasting System, Inc., Chicago.

Refreshing

EDITOR: . . . I was impressed with the accuracy of the story ("Should networks control shows?" PROGRAMMING Feb. 20), especially in view of the fact that I was not speaking from a prepared text . . . It is refreshing indeed, to read a report on such a meeting and have it reasonably accurate.—George A. Bolas, Vice President, Tatham-Laird Inc., Chicago.

Important audience

EDITOR: On behalf of the board of the Advertising Council, I would like to . . . thank you for your generosity in running the council's two-page annual advertisement in BROADCASTING. . . . The audience your magazine reaches is one which we feel is particularly important.

A reprint of the advertisement will be sent to some 5,000 top executives in business, advertising and media. . . . —Theodore S. Repplier, President, The Advertising Council, Washington.

Impressed

EDITOR: I have always been impressed with the thorough coverage that BROADCASTING gives to the television, radio and advertising industries. . . . As you might imagine, I'm a consistent reader of your book. . . . I find it keeps me well informed in all areas of our profession.—William F. Siegel, Director of Advertising, Schick Inc., New York.

Booster

EDITOR: I have always taken to heart your editorials about radio and tv people becoming increasingly involved in chamber of commerce activities, etc.

I have been selected to head a new committee, "Member Relations Committee," in which the finest men of the town are members. I received permission to form a subcommittee to prepare a tv and visual film strip and keep radio stations supplied with booster spots. My subcommittee will include Emroy Williamson of WDEF-TV, who will prepare the film strip and tv announcements, and Bill Valentine of WDOD, who will keep after the radio stations. —Walter H. Stamper, Commercial Manager, WAPO Chattanooga.

Hidden commercialism?

EDITOR: We were approached recently and asked to run an on-the-air promotion for a transistor radio set. Free sets would be given us for prizes. When we asked about sponsorship the answer was "no."

This type of promotion is not acceptable at WCAP. We know other stations accepted the offer. Is this not in direct conflict with FCC rules as to hidden commercialism?—Ike Cohen, General Manager, WCAP Lowell, Mass.

[NAB counsel is of the belief that if the company promoting the radio sets is not identified as the advertiser, such on-the-air promotion would appear to be hidden commercialism, in violation of Sec. 317 of the Communications Act.]

European in name only

EDITOR: . . . A reference in your magazine (INTERNATIONAL, Dec. 5, 1960) to the European Broadcasting Union (not Association) is headed "Europeans open session."

As six of the major American networks and broadcasting associations are among our associate members, I would like to bring you more into the picture about this union. Its work is world wide and is far from being restricted

THEY BUY!

If you want to "dress up" your sales figures in the Johnstown-Altoona market, you couldn't make a better buy than WJAC-TV! Both ARB and Nielsen show that more people watch WJAC-TV than any other station. And advertisers' sales figures show that these people who watch WJAC-TV also come forth and buy the products they see advertised. Make a change for the better for yourself in the Johnstown-Altoona market---showcase your products on the station purchasing people watch, WJAC-TV!

NEW RCA 7293-A FIELD-MESH IMAGE ORTHICON

*prevents highlight "ghost"
and "portholing"*

You'll be amazed at the picture quality you get with the new RCA 7293-A! A unique combination of design features provides a picture that is essentially free of distortion and free of shading at the sides and corners of the screen. In addition, the tube effectively suppresses objectionable "highlight ghost"—an effect usually encountered when a light subject is televised against a dark background.

The 7293-A offers many design advantages:

ANTI-GHOST DESIGN. "Ghost" (or highlight flare) is prevented when the tube is operated well "above the knee" in black-and-white cameras.

ANTI-PORTRHOLE DESIGN. Tube provides uniform background right to edge and corners of picture! Suppressor grid in electron gun re-shapes focusing field to produce a blemish-free background.

EXTREME PHOTSENSITIVITY. Equivalent to film rated ASA 8,000! Only 10 foot-candles of incident light are required to produce commercially acceptable pictures!

HIGH SIGNAL-TO-NOISE RATIO. Low noise component—another benefit of the suppressor grid.

HIGH RESOLUTION AND CONTRAST. Inherent high resolution and high contrast enhanced by use of field mesh resulting in razor-sharp transition from black to white and improved corner focus.

HIGH SIGNAL-CURRENT OUTPUT. Due to extremely high photosensitivity and high-gain multiplier.

How to get to the customer before he gets to the market

Retailers have a most exacting yardstick for measuring advertising effectiveness—sales!

When yours is a client whose outlets have the modern franchise relationship to the parent corporation, then the local agent really is in business for himself; and he has a retailer's attitude toward the results of his advertising expenditures. He is not interested in statistics and post mortems. He does not need creative testing to determine if an advertising campaign is of value to him.

A retailer knows a certain amount of institutional advertising is beneficial and necessary but, after a dollar point in his budget, he is not sophisticated about cost per thousand, audience in depth, share of the consumer mind, and other Madison Avenue smoke screens. Advertising industry jargon gets its coldest reaction at the point of sale, and the "tap-dancing" is recognized for what it is—a camouflage for failure to deliver.

Finding Movers ■ The challenge of advertising for a retailer is even greater in the long-distance moving field. For no salesman can talk anyone into moving; the job is to locate the family already planning to move, to find this potential customer before the competition does.

Since a source of qualified leads is clearly needed, any number of the standard lead-developing advertising techniques should provide the answer. But the moving industry is federally regulated and the Interstate Commerce Commission specifically prohibits moving organizations from offering inducements directly to the moving family. How, then, to zero in on a potential mover and not incur ICC censure? This, along with the question of which medium best reaches the income group that most uses the services of long distance movers, had to be answered before a campaign could be developed to meet the exacting advertising needs of North American Van Lines.

The Case for Fm ■ We decided fm would be our medium because audience surveys describe the fm audience in terms closely paralleling my client's own surveys, which indicate that their best potential customers are in the upper middle and upper income groups—married, ages 25 to 44 and in professional, executive, engineering, sales and management positions.

With these facts and another key piece of information—namely, that there is a time lag between the date a family decides to move and the time this fact becomes known commercially—we developed a plan to produce specific results. We offered a free record album of fine music to those friends, neighbors or relatives (not the mover himself) who would supply the North American Van Lines agent with the name of a family contemplating a move.

Since we were to communicate with middle and upper income groups, it was suggested that a free gift in the value range of a long-play album might receive little or no response. But here our long experience with network prize and give-away shows satisfied us that people, regardless of income, enjoy a bargain and a free gift.

The possibility also was suggested that people in these groups might refuse to respond to an offer that would bring salesmen calling on and annoying friends or relatives contemplating a move. But we relied on North American Van Lines itself to carry us over this obstacle, confident that the NAVL image and prestige would remove any fears or doubts about the way the information would be handled by NAVL agents.

The Proof ■ Our premises and assumptions proved correct. We first made the free album offer in two markets, using an equal number of am-fm and pure fm stations. Initial response indicated we were on target. Evaluation showed that the pure fm leads had the highest conversion factor and we have used pure fm exclusively since.

Our most recent effort, using 15 pure fm stations in Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego, brought nearly 1,500 names of families with moving plans. NAVL agents have converted approximately 15% of these leads to orders for service and an additional 5% are unresolved.

The buys at these 15 stations are made on a basis that provides self-policing of the client dollar in terms of results. The station is given the copy and a budget to work out. But the schedule is left to the station on the premise that it knows its audience best. This puts the station fully on the North American Van Lines' sales team. If the response is good, the budget continues and is often increased.

If the results are disappointing, the station is the first to know and suggest remedies. Result: the closest working cooperation between station and agency.

Double Duty ■ A secondary benefit of this campaign is the constant repetition of the NAVL trade name. In most advertising for the moving industry, identity to the proper audience is the primary aim. We have been able to deliver a tangible sales tool in the form of leads and the all-important brand image to the audience with the highest customer potential, all for the same advertising dollar.

In the past, visits to NAVL agents to evaluate the effectiveness of my work were quite different from current talks. We now discuss specific leads, circumstances and factors of jobs booked and reasons and errors relating to the ones that are missed.

We are currently working on refinement of the procedures to obtain the maximum conversion of these fm leads. Here the agency must truly become expert in every aspect of the sales procedure and here specialization produces the only results that seriously merit the attention of the client—sales.

CLUES:

1. It is the most misunderstood major market in America, according to Philip Salisbury, editor and publisher of Sales Management.
2. It contains the greatest concentration of people in the entire Southeast... more than 800,000 in half the area of metro Atlanta or Miami!
3. Here three of the state's four largest cities lie completely within a circle of 20-mile radius!
4. It contains the world's largest harbor, and the No. 1 U.S. port in export-import tonnage.
5. A split image (the government lists it as two separate metro areas) obscures its magnitude. And large military population represents a hidden plus of at least $200 million in effective buying income never seen in standard marketing statistics.

HOW WILD CAN WILD SPOT GET?

- If SAG gets its way, residual payment costs will skyrocket
- Agencies say they are buying an announcement, not a program

A new question arose last week to plague broadcasters, spot advertisers and agencies—and potentially hundreds of thousands of advertising dollars were hanging on the answer.

The question: Is a "wild spot" television commercial always a "wild spot"—or is it sometimes a "local program commercial"?

If many commercials that have been construed as wild spot are from now on held to be local program commercials—as the Screen Actors Guild wants them construed—the cost in added residual payments to performers could skyrocket to a point where, in the opinion of some agencies, whole patterns of spot buying might change and stations might take a new look at their clearance of some of their network programs.

What is the answer? There is a sharp difference of opinion, depending on whether the Screen Actors Guild or advertising agencies are replying. There can be a highly substantial but indeterminable amount of money in extra residual payments to performers in filmed commercials if SAG backs up its determination to enforce its interpretation of what constitutes a wild spot and a local program commercial. And it also can mean that such magazine-concept network programs as Today and the Jack Paar Show, which permit "cut-aways" for local advertisers, and perhaps even co-op network tv programs will face stern re-appraisal by advertisers and their agencies.

The background to this developing situation, uncovered by BROADCASTING last week, is this: Last fall, SAG notified an advertising agency that, on behalf of one of its clients buying into the Paar program, approximately $26,000 was owed to performers retroactively in residual payments. The union contended that the agency had been paying on the basis of the wild spot residual rate, while actually the film commercial should have been paid on the basis of a local program use (which often is higher). After considerable discussion, the union agreed to hold the matter in abeyance and the agency has not paid. (Incidentally, this agency no longer orders Paar for its client).

Agencies in Turmoil ■ A check by BROADCASTING of various leading advertising agencies revealed they were dismayed—and many were extremely annoyed—by SAG's interpretation. SAG admittedly has not moved in against agencies generally unless a performer has complained, but various agency officials disavowed SAG's interpretation and were unanimous in the opinion that clarification should be sought.

"I certainly wouldn't want to be sandbagged with a whopping bill from SAG after I had paid on a wild spot basis and found out the union said I should pay for a program use," one agency man commented. "Wouldn't I look silly and what would my client [the sponsor] think?"

The union's position is that the SAG contract for several years has specified that a commercial is a wild spot if it is broadcast by "non-interconnected single stations" and (a) is used independent of any program or (b) is used on local participating programs. The only other possibility, SAG noted, is if for some reason the network sold a show to a station in a given city and local commercials thereon were treated

Fall programming begins to take shape

WEEKENDS MOSTLY SOLD; MONDAY-THURSDAY HALF FIRM; FRIDAY OPEN

Network-bound advertisers are getting down to the fine art of negotiation for the fall season.

Compared with a month ago (BROADCASTING, Feb. 6) when buying by General Foods and Procter & Gamble sparked initial purchasing for the 1961-62 season, most program designations are complete.

Additional advertisers are being signed and "critical" time periods ironed out in the process.

Agencies last week already could point to a prime-time schedule that indicates advertiser order or option on a flock of shows, including new programming and renewals for next season (see pages 28 and 29 for latest details on program titles and advertisers sponsoring them).

The rush of orders comes well in advance, with BROADCASTING's summary appearing nearly seven months ahead of the start of the 1961-62 season:

The networks are most sold on the weekends. Advertisers have filled twice as many time periods on Saturday and Sunday nights than remain unsold.

Of the weeknights, Monday appears to have more time sold than unsold while Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday run about equal in time committed to that available. Friday, mostly because of NBC-TV's unsettled program plans, is the least sold.

Advertiser Options ■ What keeps the schedule from filling faster at this time: Advertiser options which exist for many hour-long shows but do not appear in the table because they cannot be confirmed.

The advertiser option also blurs the exact status of some carry-over programming from the current season. On CBS-TV, for example, there are a few shows where advertisers which appear in the table are the same now continuing in the programs. Each of these advertisers has an option to renew but one that need not be exercised for some time as yet. Where it is apparent from available sources that these advertisers will renew, they have been entered.

The feature film period on NBC-TV (Saturday, 9-11 p.m.) is marked "available" in the table, even though that time block already is "substantially sold" for the start of the next season. The options are yet to be confirmed and thus cannot be reported.

For network schedules see pages 28-29

A DETAILED LOOK AT FALL TV SCHEDULES

The blank spaces in this table testify to progress made by the networks in programming and selling next fall's prime-time schedule more than nine months in advance of the 1961-62 season.

The table shows next fall's night-time programs as they've been penciled in, who packages them, the time of night they are scheduled and the advertisers (with their agencies) which will sponsor them. "Available" denotes either an unsold period, or as is the case in many of the hour-long shows, a reluctance to disclose "bits and pieces" of a show contracted for.

Agencies are in parentheses ( ); production firms in brackets [ ]; New shows are in boldface.

In using this chart, there are two things to bear in mind: (1) the schedules are not firm, with shows continuing to change until almost the eve of the fall season, but (2) the changes will be fewer and not as severe from this point on.

as "local participating spots." SAG said this possibility is rare. All other uses of a commercial, SAG insists, shall be considered program uses.

The crux of the issue seems to be this: the union claims agencies are buying a program; agencies insist they are buying an announcement not connected to a program.

The Cut-Away ■ The Paar and Today programs and several others permit so-called "cut-aways"—time for the sale of commercials on behalf of a national spot or local advertiser in a local market or a group of markets. These are inserted when the network program cuts away. The union acknowledges that such cut-away commercials fulfill the test of being carried on a non-interconnected station but contends they fail to meet the requirement of being a commercial used independent of the program and of being in a local participating program. (Normal station breaks are considered wild spots by SAG).

Though the Jack Paar Show and Today offer the largest number of local cut-aways, with approximately 12 and 8 respectively each day, other network programs follow similar practices on a more limited basis. Currently, sales authorities report, NBC-TV offers cut-aways once a week on The Americans, Acapulco, Michael Shayne, Detective, Happy, One Happy Family and Shirley Temple Storybook. CBS-TV offers cut-aways on The Aquanauts and ABC-TV on American Bandstand. Indications are that networks plan to open up other network programs in the fall.

A crucial significance of this interpretation is that residual costs could be raised astronomically for advertisers using cut-aways in a substantial number of markets, particularly if the use is in large cities. For example, the advertising agency that had used Paar offered these payment statistics on a hypothetical campaign: It would cost only $1,646.60 under wild spot requirements for a 13-week cycle for a one-minute film commercial with four on-camera performers and a voice-over announcer on Paar cut-aways in 21 markets, including the basic 12 markets listed in the new SAG contract. It would cost $6,363.50 for the same use of the commercial on the same stations if it is considered a "program use."

A group of agencies questioned by BROADCASTING last week were inclined to dispute SAG's interpretation. Their belief was that the language of the contract was not sufficiently clear on this subject.

Agency Interpretation ■ Some agency executives were reticent to reveal how they treated cut-away commercials, but others acknowledged that in their reports to the union, they treated them as wild spots and paid on that basis.

Their position is that Paar is exactly the same as a "late movie" program. They insist the cut-away buys are bought from a local station and the commercials have "no identification" with Paar or similar programs. They noted there are no "lead-ins," which are characteristic of program commercials.

SAG last week was thinking of monitoring local commercials on magazine-concept programs. They acknowledge that policing of cut-aways is difficult and they generally have acted only if a performer has complained. They insist this is not a new interpretation of the clause.

A union official pointed out that SAG has relied on "the integrity" of agencies in reporting the use of commercials. He was quick to add that in instances—and he thought there were some—when an agency listed a commercial as a wild spot when actually (in SAG's view) it was a "program commercial," the agency was not intending to cheat but was acting according to its own interpretation.

Many agencies agreed that this situation is in "a gray area" and subject to varying interpretations. Some voiced the opinion that a committee of the American Assn. of Advertising Agencies might want to review the matter and perhaps consult with the union to devise an "equitable" solution.

Co-Op Problem ■ Some agency men felt SAG's interpretation raises another question. They pointed out certain network cooperative tv programs are fed to stations for sales to local advertisers. Would these be treated as wild spot or local program?

A SAG official said that if the co-op program is sold by the network to a local station and the outlet offered the program as a local participating program, the commercials on it would be treated as wild spot. Otherwise they would fall within the framework of local program commercials.

After a long discussion with BROADCASTING, the SAG official said: "Maybe this area requires clarification. We think the contract is clear and explicit. But perhaps we ought to send out a memorandum making the situation crystal clear."

NBC-TV officials were reluctant to comment on the situation. They pointed out that it appeared to be a "matter of contract interpretation" between the union and agencies.

"If we have to pay these extreme charges," one agencyman muttered, "we'll just pull out of these shows and go into late movies. But I'm sure this whole matter can be straightened out."

ABC-TV to lengthen prime station breaks

ABC-TV authorities reported unofficially last week they're set to go with their plan to give affiliates an extra 10 seconds of evening station-break time to sell to national spot and local advertisers, starting with the new fall season.

Instead of having 30-second breaks, ABC-TV affiliates will get 40-second breaks between all prime-time programs (but station breaks within hour-long programs will not be thus expanded). In return for the extra selling time, the affiliates will be expected not to use it to create triple-spot positions, but rather to limit the 40-second total to a maximum of two advertisers (usually two 20-second commercials, although the time might also

How to turn tornado loss into potential profit

Client-agency-media cooperation can produce commercials as timely as news. Allstate Insurance Cos., Leo Burnett Co. and NBC-TV proved it last week upon the last whiff of the tornado that caused $7 million damage to 3,000 buildings in Chicago on March 4.

As Allstate teams of damage appraisers swarmed into the disaster area, a film crew from Joel Willard Productions, Chicago, documented testimonials from Allstate customers who were pleased about the immediate compensation for their losses. Burnett copywriter Rudy Perz worked around the clock Monday and Tuesday editing the films and preparing script for the two-minute commercial that was produced Tuesday on video tape at the commercial vtr center of WNBQ (TV) Chicago. Late Tuesday the finished product was fed to network centers in New York and Los Angeles for insertion in Allstate's NBC-TV program, Thriller, that night. Burnett hoped also to substitute the tornado commercial for Allstate on CBS-TV's What's My Line yesterday (Sunday).

Others involved in the fast production effort included Gordon Minter, vice president in charge of commercial production, and Pete Weber, commercial service manager on the Allstate account, both Burnett, and Bill Huffman, manager of video recording sales, WNBQ.

The programming standards of a television station are exposed every minute of every hour of every day. All you need do is look to see that WPIX-11, New York's Prestige Independent, has the "network look" . . . network-proved and network caliber programs night after night. Programs like M Squad, Air Power, the Honeymooners, Mike Hammer, You Are There. When you, the advertiser, painstakingly produce TV commercials, you have a right to expect they will be presented in programs that do justice to your product and your company. WPIX-11 is the only New York Independent Television Station qualified to display the Seal of Good Practice.

NEW YORK'S PRESTIGE INDEPENDENT

be split into a 30 and a 10).

The plan brought something short of gushing enthusiasm from agencies whose programs will be lopped by 10 seconds to "create" the extra time being allotted to stations. Whether they like to think about it or not, they and other agencies face the possibility of similar requests from the other networks: some NBC-TV affiliates, for example, are known to be eyeing the ABC-TV gambit with the thought of pressing for similar rights.

But the opposition is not always unanimous within an agency. An informal canvass of some of the leading ones last week produced evidence of mixed reactions. A top executive at one of ABC's big customers, for instance, put it this way: "Our program department doesn't like it because it's cutting that much off our air time. But our media department loves it because it's creating new positions for national spot business."

A television official at another leading ABC client expressed the views of a number of others when he said: "Nobody likes the idea, except maybe locally." He also was braced for similar moves by NBC and CBS: "What one network gets away with, the others usually want, too."

Two executives at a single agency offered varying reactions. One, alluding to charges that some stations "clip" network time to cadge a few extra seconds for local selling, speculated that "if stations cheat with 30 seconds, they really will cheat with 40." The other, professing mixed feelings, thought the 40-second move "means just that much more commercial stuff in between," but felt that the "clipping" threat need not be too dangerous "if it can be adequately policed."

Thompson: top markets grew most from 1950-60

Of 28 million added to the U. S. population between 1950 and 1960, 25 million were in the top 199 markets. This select group is styled The Cream of Your Market by J. Walter Thompson Co., which profiled the big concentration of sales prospects in a booklet by that name.

The agency has made available new census data, skimmed from last year's 179-million count, under the Cream title. The 20-page booklet is a preview of J. Walter Thompson's annual, comprehensive Population and its Distribution, the United States Markets, now being tabulated for publication this summer by McGraw-Hill.

The Cream of Your Market shows that population shifts during 1940-50 were even more pronounced in the 10 years just passed. Ranking of states by total population, decade growth and rate of growth show that the West was the fastest growing region, more than double the national rate; that Florida had the fastest state rate in the country. The total U. S. gain between 1950 and 1960 was 18.5% over the 1940-50 decade, and nearly equal to that for the 20 years preceding (1930-50).

J. Walter Thompson's list of 199 cream markets dramatizes individual market differences from state and national patterns. The markets are listed and mapped with county information, total population, decade percentage increase, estimated total households, retail trade establishments and sales.

The markets are broken down into A, B, and C groups, respectively those with more than 1 million population, 250,000 to 1 million and 50,000 to 250,000. The top 199 in these classes account for 69% of the country's sales or $138 billion worth.

Strouse takes over JWT; names Seymour

As a result of the retirement of Stanley Resor as board chairman of J. Walter Thompson, Norman Strouse, president, last week announced the election of seven senior vice presidents, including Dan Seymour, vice president and director of the radio-tv department and member of the executive committee.

The official announcement, at Mr. Resor's own suggestion, made no mention of his retirement but a spokesman added later: "Mr. Resor has retired." Mr. Strouse, who remains as president, will function as chief executive officer of J. Walter Thompson. It was reported the new management team reflects the promotion largely of staffers closely allied with Mr. Strouse, while those close to Mr. Resor generally have been given less important positions. Samuel Meek and Henry C. Flower Jr., who had been vice chairmen of the agency, have been relieved of these titles but will continue as directors and members of the trustee group of the company employees' profit-sharing trust, which owns the majority of the voting stock.

Newly-elected senior vice presidents of the agency, in addition to Mr. Seymour, are: Howard Kohl, secretary of the company; Edward G. Wilson, treasurer; Wallace Elton, chairman of the New York office operations committee; William D. Laurie Jr., manager of the Detroit office; Arthur Farlow, vice chairman of the Chicago office operations committee; Kennett Hinks, member of the executive committee. George Reeves, manager of the Chicago office, continues as executive vice president.

New firm cites trend to music in radio-tv spots

With a conviction that the use of "more and more music in radio and tv commercials is the coming thing," Modern Sound Inc., 312 W. 58 St., New York, formally opened its doors to business last week. The new firm is dedicated to bringing popular music and jazz recording concepts to the production of commercials. Headed by Sonny Lester and Leonard Levy, both former recording executives with some 20 years in the business, Modern Sound hopes to integrate the latest popular music trends with the selling pitch. The company feels that popular music, as reflected by growing album and single record sales, has a proven sales appeal.

According to Mr. Levy, who is vice president, the firm has top recording arrangers and performers to offer to advertising agencies. Mr. Levy feels that name talent will give the commercials greater visual and audio attractiveness.

He also claims that Modern Sound is more attuned to different sounds and gimmicks than are most advertising agency producers. His firm, he explains, will try to capture in modified form and produce in its commercials the sounds of rock 'n' roll. The theory behind this is that young adults are buying the big thumping sound.

Young Housewife — Mr. Levy cites the young housewife as an example. "She was brought up with rock 'n' roll—it's not offensive to her. She recognizes the music, associates with it and when she hears it used in a commercial, the advertiser's message is bound to have greater impact because it has her attention."

Popular music's influence on the commercial production field will soon be so complete, Mr. Levy says, that it will be difficult to differentiate between the "fellow in the pop record business and the one in the jingle business." Already, he points out, orchestra leader and arranger Raymond Scott has his own jingle house and Music Makers Inc., a top commercial producer, has formed its own popular record company.

Modern Sound is closely associated with McCann-Erickson Inc., and it has already produced commercials for Buick, Westinghouse, Standard Oil and Chesterfield cigarettes.

National tv ads gross $1.3 billion

RECORD $862.3 MILLION NETWORK, $616.7 MILLION SPOT IN '60

Gross time billings of national tv advertisers in 1960 reached an all-time high of nearly $1.3 billion. Network gross accounted for more than half, or over $682.3 million, and national spot for $616.7 million.

The year's compilation was released by Television Bureau of Advertising, along with a full report for the fourth quarter spot tv billings. The network figures already have been published (BROADCASTING, March 6).

Spot tv's increase in billings amounted to 6.3% over 1959, and network was up even more—8.8%. The spot billings would have represented a rise of 7.9% if the basis used for estimating procedures had been the same in both years. (Effective with the second quarter of last year, billing estimate procedures were modified by N. C. Rorabaugh Co., which compiles the spot figures for TvB. The Leading National Advertisers-Broadcast Advertisers Reports compile the network gross billing).

Big Chips — Procter & Gamble, which is the network advertiser billing kingpin, also was supreme in spot leadership. In the fourth quarter alone, P&G accounted for $11.9 million in the TvB-Rorabaugh compilation. Less than half that amount was spent in national spot tv by second-place General Foods Corp. ($4.7 million). Total spot tv billing in the fourth quarter: $163,060,000.

Advertisers appearing in the top 100 spot tv list for the first time during the quarter: Corning Glass Works ($435,300); Ideal Toy Corp. ($445,900) and J. Nelson Prewitt Inc. ($405,500).

The spot tv report shows dollar expenditures at the one-time gross rate

(for time only) by national and regional spot advertisers. Network figures also are at the one-time rate. Prime night spot placement in the quarter accounted for over $52.2 million, and the largest share of the day part (other categories are daytime, early evening and late night). For the full year, 1960, nighttime gross billings of the networks exceeded $471.4 million, while day billings came to over $210.8 million.

The food and grocery products category in spot totaled more than $46.6 million in the fourth quarter, while advertisers of drug products were responsible for a $15 million gross, and cosmetic-toiletries advertisers for $13.8 millions.

Detailed summary by advertiser and by product category of spot tv gross billings for the fourth quarter follows:

Beech-Nut Life Savers today (March 13) will launch a $1 million introductory California campaign for the new twist-off caps for Beech-Nut baby food glass jars. First phase of the campaign calls for the use of 800 radio spots and 276 tv spots (180 daytime, 96 nighttime) in Southern California and a similar broadcast schedule in the San Francisco area, plus newspaper space. Young & Rubicam, N. Y. is the agency.

Agency appointments...

- I. Rokeach & Sons, N. Y., (kosher products), appoints Smith/Greenland, that city, as its advertising agency.
- Revell Inc., manufacturer of Revell toys and Cunningham & Walsh, L. A., will terminate a relationship of nearly two years on May 31. Neither advertiser nor agency made any explanation of the break.

Mattel raises ad budget

Mattel Inc., Hawthorne, Calif., manufacturer of toys and games, has earmarked more than $2.5 million for national advertising and point-of-sale promotion in 1961, an increase of 20% over last year's budget, announces Cliff Jacobs, marketing vice president. Continuing its twice weekly ABC-TV Matty's Funday Funnies, firm will also utilize heavy tv spot schedule on stations in 40 markets from September through December and other cities will be added as the campaign accelerates. Agency: Carson Roberts Inc., Los Angeles.

Italian-Americans to boycott 'Untouchables'

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO PRODUCTS TO BE FIRST HIT

The Federation of the Italian-American Democratic Organizations of New York's running battle with ABC-TV's Untouchables crime series, took on appearances of a full-scale war last week. On Thursday (March 9) the federation fired a double-barrelled protest by picketing the network's New York offices and the entrance to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel where the Radio & Television Executives Society of New York was holding its annual banquet.

The action was expected to be followed with an announcement on Sunday (March 12) that the group will boycott products of advertisers on the ABC-TV show, beginning at first with Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.'s Chesterfield, L & M Filters, Oasis and Duke cigarettes (CLOSED CIRCUIT, March 6).

The Italian-Americans are protesting the alleged consistent portrayals of Italians as gangsters on the Untouchables series. Last week's actions stemmed from a breakdown of conferences held during the latter part of February in Washington, D. C., and New York among ABC-TV executives and a group of congressmen, Joseph P. Addabbo (D-N.Y.), Victor L. Anuso (D-N.Y.), Peter W. Rodino Jr. (D-N.J.) and Alfred E. Santangelo (D-N.Y.), who represented the Italian-American organizations (BROADCASTING, Feb. 27).

More than 250 people of Italian extraction picketed the ABC offices at Broadway and W. 66th St. on Thursday—the birth date of Amerigo Vespucci, Florentine explorer and writer—for more than an hour and then moved downtown to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel where they demonstrated from 7:30 p.m., when the RTES gala banquet began, until 10:30 p.m. when the affair ended. A spokesman for the pickets said the hotel demonstration was for the benefit of the "important people" in the broadcast industry.

Plans for the boycott were to be announced over the weekend at the federation's Amerigo Vespucci Awards Dinner, an annual affair held to honor outstanding Americans of Italian origin. Dinner guests were to be told that the 500 New York member organizations of the Italian-American Federation will distribute some 250,000 posters to offices, factories and buildings across the country which will advise readers not to buy L&M products because the firm sponsors the Untouchables. The last line of the posters will say "ABC is unfair to Americans of Italian origin."

The federation's state president, Congressman Santangelo said last week that his group's action is the first step towards its objective of "cleaning up the tv industry in line with the strong demand made by Gov. LeRoy Collins [NAB president] in which he exhorted tv broadcasters to improve the quality of programming.

Sheraton Hotels starts tv drive

In its first use of television, Sheraton Hotel Corp., Boston, started a spot tv campaign Jan. 31 which had built up to 30 markets last week.

Sheraton officials believe it is "by far the most extensive" spot tv campaign on behalf of a hotel organization. The agency is BBDO, Boston.

The tv effort supplements a long-established print program and a heavy spot radio schedule begun last summer. The spot tv campaign will add other markets in ensuing months, and a special tv schedule will be carried soon in the Midwest on behalf of the French Lick-Sheraton, French Lick, Ind. The tv campaign is concentrated in areas where Sheraton has hotels or reservations offices.

Commercials, both 20-second and one-minute, are built around four Sheraton features—"extra values," such as air conditioning and tv sets at the hotels; "Sheraton in Hawaii," which highlights the five company-owned hotels at Waikiki Beach; "in the heart of things," which stresses the hotels' central location, and "reservatron," which describes the company's exclusive electronic reservation system.

Commercials were prepared by BBDO's Boston creative staff: consisting of Mike Danyla, copy, and Ralph Maxcey, art. Assistance was provided by writer Arnold Leo and artist Bert Mangel of BBDO, New York. Supervising production was Nicholas DeMarco, BBDO, New York.

What's Fargo got that Stamford ain't got?

Stamford (Connecticut) is the No. 2 metro area in the U. S., for retail-sales-per-household.* But Fargo has higher retail-sales-per-household, and that's what Fargo's got that Stamford ain't got!

And a whale of a lot more families of course listen to both WDAY Radio and WDAY-TV than live in or near Stamford.

All of which is just to say — us Red River Valley hayseeds spend just about the same money as you wheels who work in New York (or Chicago), and we spend it on pretty much the same things as you do. Except we don't have to buy those commutation tickets, of course!

"Youth: a Summer Crisis?" on WABC-TV, New York

One of the superior productions through which creative talent and community leadership are continually building new vision into Television on stations represented by

BLAIR-TV

"Today's youth is tomorrow's citizen. Invest in him today—train him, teach him, employ him today—and the community will be proud of him tomorrow. That principle has inspired WABC-TV's youth project—a continuing series of varied programs, designed to uplift the values, raise the standards and stimulate the ambitions of today's young people."

JOSEPH STAMLER
Vice Pres., WABC-TV

Priceless Asset

The needs of New York youth are a challenge to WABC-TV. Specifically, it asks, what are these needs? And what is being done to meet them?

Probing for answers, the station has struck a rich vein of program material. For example, "Expedition: New York," a series presenting the sights, sounds and people of the world's greatest metropolis.

"Expedition: New York" was launched in October 1960. Presented in prime time, it appeals strongly to all age groups—yet always spotlights the traditions that help youth better understand the New York of today—and tomorrow. Outstanding programs include Sloan Wilson on "It's a Great Place to Learn"; Sam Levenson on "Education: Tailor-Made"; Myron Cohen on "The Fabulous Five Streets"; the Herald Tribune editorial board on "The Newspaper Game".

When mail count for a single program exceeds 4,000, when an average of 350 students submit essays on each telecast—then a station can truly be said to have developed "a winner."

Guarding a community's priceless asset—its youth—does not begin and end with a single series. It is a continuing campaign: "Youth: A Summer Crisis?," examining problems of teen-agers with time on their hands; "High School Sports," emphasizing fair play and leadership; "Salute to Youth," presented in cooperation with the NYC Commerce Department; and a "Jobs for Youth" campaign with the NY State Employment Service.

To Blair-TV, creative community-interest programming by great stations like WABC-TV is a real source of inspiration. We are proud to serve more than a score of such stations in national sales.

GASOLINE AND TV

Pure Oil and American Oil reveal advertising budgets

Pure Oil Co., Chicago, through Leo Burnett Co. there, unveiled its new "Firebird" marketing symbol last week and began what it described as "the most massive advertising campaign in its modern history." The drive, including radio-tv spot, is introducing "Pure Firebird Super with Tri-tane" and "Pure Firebird Regular" gasolines.

For the first 13 weeks, television spots have been purchased in 34 markets and radio spots have been placed in 65 markets over and above the 20 markets where radio spots already have been running. Two-color newspaper ads are being placed in 137 markets and outdoor in 417 markets. Magazines also are being used. The entire drive ties-in with point-of-purchase using the Firebird symbol.

Meanwhile it was learned from American Oil Co. that a new coordinated campaign to promote American's expansion into the national market is expected to be ready for May, although specific plans are not set. Radio-tv will be used, however. D'Arcy Adv., Chicago, was named earlier to handle the consumer product advertising for American.

How big a radio-tv account will the new American Oil become? One hint might be drawn from a talk President L. W. Moore made to jobbers Wednesday in Charlotte, N. C. He said that in the six state Atlantic region of American alone, the company this year will spend $6 million to give its service stations a "new look" and that of this sum, more than $1 million will go into regional advertising, including broadcast.

The marketing strategy changes in the petroleum field have been frequent in recent months. Just a fortnight ago the Mobile Oil Div. of Socony Mobil Oil Co. left Compton Adv. after 18 years and placed its $12 million account with Ted Bates. (BROADCASTING, March 6). Earlier Shell Oil Co., through Ogilvy, Benson & Mather, dropped out of tv and put its $16 million into newspapers, but TvB studies show the petroleum trend actually is for more tv, with the big brands such as Texaco and Gulf signing for tv news with NBC-TV (BROADCASTING, Jan. 16).

Coffee firm quits Grey

The Chock Full O' Nuts Corp., New York, last week gave Grey Adv., New York, 30 days notice it is seeking a new advertising agency. A spokesman for the advertiser said the company will bill at least $3 million in 1961, though this figure may be increased.

Grey has handled the account seven years. A spokesman for the agency said there was a disagreement over broadcasting plans, Grey favoring radio-tv spot and the client preferring sponsorship of musical radio-tv programs. An official of the company said "it has nothing to do with that; it goes much deeper than that." The company, he said, is seeking an agency with experience in the grocery field, particularly one which has handled a coffee account.

Prudential may cancel 'Twentieth Century'

The Prudential Insurance Co. of America may cancel its sponsorship of CBS-TV's Twentieth Century (Sun., 6:30-7 p.m., EST) after this season. Reach, McClintock & Co., the agency, has not made its recommendation to cancel as yet, but a decision is expected later this month. Prudential, which has sponsored the CBS-TV public information series for an unprecedented four-year, 52 weeks-a-year stretch, is faced with a "marketing problem" that revolves around the fact that "advertising doesn't sell insurance—agents do."

"Prudential needs a program that will create agent motivation," Robert W. Robb, executive vice president and general manager at Reach, McClintock, explained. "The program has to stimulate enthusiasm among agents—give them something to talk about when they go out selling. We're not unhappy with Twentieth Century. It's a wonderful program, but after four years it isn't likely to motivate anyone."

The insurance firm, which has an annual advertising budget in excess of $6 million dollars has been spending approximately $3.8 million of that amount yearly for Twentieth Century.

Officials at CBS-TV said they would seek another advertiser for the program if Prudential drops out. The series, which has always enjoyed considerable critical and audience approval, costs some $90,000 a week including time, talent, production and other advertising expenses.

Tv fashion show idea turns into a trend

More than two dozen stores are known by Television Bureau of Advertising to be planning spring fashion shows, and the total could go to 50. Howard P. Abrahams, TvB's vice president for local sales is releasing in New York today (March 13) a status report on a trend that has been picking up in the wake of a tv success one year ago by Macy's in New York, an event that attracted attention in the retail trade.

Ten or more stores rushed to cameras with their fall models, and now the spring-and-autumn roll includes merchants in large and small markets throughout the country. This season, many are running their spring shows more than once on tv.

The evolution of a new media giant

WASHINGTON POST CO. BUYS 'NEWSWEEK' FOR $16 MILLION

Another media empire joined the half-dozen or more giants in the communications field last week when the Washington Post Co. bought Newsweek Magazine in a $16 million transaction.

The Post bought the national news-weekly—it ranks next to Time Magazine in circulation—from the Vincent Astor Foundation and other stockholders. The purchase was announced last Thursday.

The Washington Post publishing-broadcasting complex thus takes its place among these other media aggregations:

Time, Cowles, Triangle, Meredith, Whitney-Corinthian, Newhouse, Scripps-Howard, Hearst, Cox and a handful of regional publishing-broadcasting entities (Don Reynolds, Gannett, Steinman, Lee, McClatchy, Lindsay-Schaub, Morgan Murphy, Stauffer and Ridder).

The Newsweek purchase also includes the magazine's 46.22% interest in KOGO-AM-TV and KFSD-FM San Diego.

The Washington Post Co., publishes the capital's only morning newspaper, the Washington Post & Times-Herald. It owns WTOP-AM-FM-TV in Washington and WJXT (TV) Jacksonville. It bought the Florida station in 1953, paying $2.47 million for what was then WMBR-AM-FM-TV. In 1958 it sold the radio properties to WWDC Washington for approximately $400,000.

Bought at Auction ■ The failing Post was bought by the late Eugene Meyer, New York financier, in 1933 at a bankruptcy sale. In 1954, the Post bought the opposition morning newspaper, the Washington Times-Herald, from the late Col. Robert R. McCormick (Chicago Tribune, New York Daily News), paying $8 million.

WTOP was originally owned by CBS. The Post bought a 55% interest in 1949 for $800,000. WTOP Inc. bought ch. 9 in Washington from the Bamberger Broadcasting Co. in 1950 for $1.4 million. CBS sold its 45% interest to the newspaper in 1954 for $3.5 million.

Philip L. Graham, 44-year-old son-in-law of Mr. Meyer, is president of the Washington Post Co. John W. Sweeterman, formerly the newspaper's business manager, was named publisher recently. The newspaper, one of the country's most prominent dailies, has a circulation in the nation's capital of over 400,000. It ranks seventh in the nation in advertising volume.

Newsweek, with a circulation of 1.4 million (compared with Time's 2.5 million), was founded in 1933 (it was then known as Today) by financier Vincent Astor, W. Averell Harriman, former New York governor and now President Kennedy's special roving ambassador, and others. Raymond Moley, a close adviser of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was editor and still writes a weekly column. Malcolm Muir joined Newsweek in 1937 as publisher. He had been president of McGraw-Hill Publishing Company.

The magazine in 1960 had gross revenues from the sale of advertising of $27.1 million, compared with Time's $51.1 million, according to Publishers Information Service.

Newsweek's editor, John Denson, resigned last month to become editor of the New York Herald Tribune.

The purchase announcement last week said that the Washington Post Co. had purchased the 62% interest of the Vincent Astor Foundation in the magazine, and had agreed to make a similar offer to other stockholders. No price was given for the purchase. The stock is valued at $50 per share.

Media Combines ■ Time entered the broadcasting field in 1953 when it bought what was then KDYL-AM-FM-TV Salt Lake City for $2.1 million. The Luce company's interest in broadcasting was brought about through the intercession of the late Wayne Coy, former FCC chairman and before that manager of the Washington Post's WINX Washington. Mr. Coy had been a special assistant to Mr. Meyer at the Post before taking over the radio post.

The very next year, Time bought KLZ-AM-FM-TV Denver, paying $3.5 million. In 1957 Time bought the Harry Bitner properties in a package transaction totaling $15¼ million. This included WFBM-AM-TV Indianapolis, WTCN-AM-TV Minneapolis and WOOD-AM-TV Grand Rapids. Time sold the Salt Lake City properties in 1959 to Columbia Pictures for $3.1 million.

Time Inc., publishes in addition to the news magazine, Life, Fortune, Sports Illustrated and the Architectural Forum.

Cowles, publisher of the Des Moines

Mrs. Roosevelt honored by WTTG (TV)

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D.-Minn), Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and John W. Kluge, president of Metropolitan Broadcasting Corp. (l-to-r), are shown at a reception for the former first lady when she visited WTTG (TV) Washington to tape her Prospects of Mankind program. The program, shown on WTTG Saturday (March 11) and repeated on WNEW-TV New York yesterday (March 12), featured a discussion of the Peace Corps. Sen. Humphrey joined President Kennedy, Prof. Samuel Hayes, U. of Michigan (architect of the Peace Corps task force), and Prof. Senteca Kajubi, U. of East Africa, Uganda, as guests.

A BALLAD OF THE NORTH AND SOUTH

stirring songs of battle, sorrow and victory... "Dixie," "John Brown's Body," "Yellow Rose of Texas"; these and other melodies recalled the passion and sweep of the Civil War on "A Ballad of the North and South." Produced by WBBM Chicago, one of the CBS Owned Radio Stations, and presented over the CBS Radio Network, this program of authentic Civil War music had the nation's critics cheering. Among their comments: "The melodies were happily blended with a commentary that fit the mood..." "The WBBM Orchestra, the Northwestern University Men's Glee Club and various soloists performed with style and humor."

Small wonder that it was chosen as one of the top two Radio Documentaries of the Year by 358 of the nation's Radio-TV editors in Radio-TV Daily's 19th Annual All-American Awards.

The CBS Owned Radio Stations create radio programs that are adult, informative, thought-provoking and, above all, interesting. According to one listener, "A Ballad of the North and South" was: "Best I've ever heard." Wouldn't a man in that frame of mind be receptive to your advertising message?

When people listen attentively to stimulating, provocative programs, they pay attention to the sponsor's sales message. And it is a matter of record that attentive, active, responsive audiences listen to the idea stations:

WEEL, WCBS, WCAU, WBBM, KMOX, KCBS, KNX, THE CBS OWNED RADIO STATIONS
BOSTON NEW YORK PHILADELPHIA CHICAGO ST. LOUIS SAN FRANCISCO LOS ANGELES

Register & Tribune and Look Magazine, has held KRNT-AM-FM-TV Des Moines since before World War II. In the two post war decades, it acquired WHTN-TV Huntington, W. Va. The family-owned Minneapolis Star and Tribune Co. owns 47% of WCCO-AM-TV Minneapolis and 80% of KTVH (TV) Hutchinson (Wichita), Kan.

Triangle, based on Philadelphia Inquirer-WFIL-AM-FM-TV ownership, expanded during the past decade into ownership of WFBG-AM-TV Altoona, WLYH-TV Lebanon, both Pennsylvania; WNBF-AM-FM-TV Binghamton, N. Y.; WNHC-AM-FM-TV New Haven, Conn., and KFRE-AM-TV and KRFM (FM) Fresno, Calif. The Annenberg publishing empire includes Seventeen, Tv Guide, Official Detective, Tv Digest, The Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form.

Meredith Publishing (Better Homes & Gardens, Successful Farming, plus a growing book publishing division), won a grant for Syracuse, N. Y., in 1948 and soon after purchased a radio affiliate. This is now WHEN-AM-TV. Since then it has bought KCMO-AM-FM-TV Kansas City, KPHO-AM-TV Phoenix, WOW-AM-TV Omaha and KRMG Tulsa.

The John Hay Whitney-Corinthian group started in broadcasting in 1954 when the then J. H. Whitney Co. bought KOTV (TV) Tulsa, Okla., for $4 million. Since then Corinthian Broadcasting Corp. has acquired controlling interests in KHOU-TV Houston, Tex.; WISH-AM-TV Indianapolis, Ind.; WANE-AM-TV Fort Wayne, Ind., and KXTV (TV) Sacramento, Calif. Corinthian is 100% owned by Mr. Whitney, former ambassador to Great Britain, and publisher of the New York Herald-Tribune and Parade Magazine newspaper supplement. Through another subsidiary, Mr. Whitney owns 50% of the Herald-Tribune radio stations (WVIP Mt. Kisco, WVOX-AM-FM New Rochelle, WGHQ Saugerties and WFYI Mineola, all New York).

The other 50% is owned by Martin Stone, broadcast producer.

Newspaper Groups ■ S. I. Newhouse owns newspapers and radio tv outlets in Syracuse, N. Y.; Birmingham, Ala.; Harrisburg, Pa.; Portland, Ore., and St. Louis, Mo. He also owns the Conde Nast Publishing Co. (Vogue).

The Scripps-Howard newspaper chain owns broadcast properties in these cities where it also publishes dailies: Cleveland, Cincinnati, Knoxville and Memphis.

Hearst newspaper-broadcast interests are in Baltimore and Milwaukee. It also owns radio and television interests in Pittsburgh.

The Cox newspaper-radio-tv ownership covers Atlanta, Dayton, Charlotte and Miami.

Richards retained as Collins consultant

Robert K. Richards, Washington consultant and one-time administrative vice president of NAB, has been retained as a special consultant to NAB President LeRoy Collins on the proposed reorganization of the association.

Mr. Richards served at NAB in Washington from 1947 to 1954 when he established his own consultant firm. During this time he was public relations director of NAB and then assistant to NAB President Harold E. Fellows. He was named NAB administrative vice president in 1951 and remained in that capacity until he resigned.

Before joining NAB, Mr. Richards was editorial director of BROADCASTING (1944-47). During World War II he was assistant censor for broadcasting in the Office of Censorship. He was with Storer Broadcasting Co. in Toledo before the war, and with Scripps-Howard newspapers before that. Last year, Mr. Richards was president of the Broadcasters Club, Washington. This year he is chairman of the club's board of directors.

Mr. Richards

He holds interests in WKYR Keyser, W. Va., and WKBZ Muskegon, Mich.

Promised for submission to the NAB board in June is a plan for reorganizing NAB. This was proposed by Gov. Collins at the February board meeting in California. The NAB president said at that time the association's structure should be reorganized to permit greater concentration on broadgauge problems, especially government and public relations (BROADCASTING, Feb. 20).

In announcing the retention of Mr. Richards, Gov. Collins also said he has requested NAB staff executives to submit recommendations on reorganization. The choice of Mr. Richards was approved by the NAB Advisory Committee, which includes Clair R. McCollough, Steinman stations, chairman of joint NAB board; W. D. (Dub) Rogers, KDUB-TV Lubbock, Tex., chairman of the tv board, and Thomas C. Bostic, Cascade Broadcasting Co., chairman of the radio board.

CBS tv stations exchange

A public affairs program exchange, conducted annually for the past two years by the five CBS-owned tv stations, begins April 15 and will run an extended 20-week period. The exchange, in which each station contributes a public affairs series for weekly showing on the other stations, was extended seven weeks to accommodate enthusiastic local response.

Programs and producing stations making up the 1961 exchange are: The American Musical Theater, WCBS-TV New York; Keynotes, KNXT (TV) Los Angeles; The New Nations WBBM-TV Chicago; Once Over Lightly, WCAU-TV Philadelphia; and Outside In, KMOX-TV St. Louis. The exchange series will add a total of 80 half-hour programs to each stations' weekly public affairs schedule.

WFAA stations schedule new building fanfare

WFAA-AM-FM-TV Dallas will move into its new $3.5 million quarters with a week of fanfare which begins April 5 with a dedication before 100 government and network officials and ABC-TV stars. A banquet follows that evening.

The tv stars will make personal appearances throughout the week and the building will be open to tours.

The new building consolidates formerly separate radio and tv facilities. The tv building dates from 1949, when WFAA began the first tv station in Dallas. The radio station went on the air in 1922, although its present building is more recent.

WFAA has sold the old tv studio to the city's educational KERA-TV for $400,000. The company values the studio and its equipment at $1,000,000.

The company has likewise sold or given away the former radio property with the exception of the files and an 80,000-record collection.

CBS-TV station meet set

The general managers of CBS-owned tv stations — WCBS-TV New York, KNXT (TV) Los Angeles, WBBM-TV Chicago, WCAU-TV Philadelphia and KMOX-TV St. Louis—will meet in New York March 14-17. A comprehensive agenda has been prepared for the four-day conference. Among the topics to be discussed are public interest programming, one-hour documentaries, editorials and news programs. One day will be given to a sales clinic to be attended by the sales managers of the five stations.

CBS-TV Stations Division executives attending will be Merle S. Jones, president of the division; Craig Lawrence, vice president, CBS-TV stations; Harvey Struthers, vice president, station services; Bruce Bryant, vice president and general manager, CBS-TV Spot Sales and Hal Hough, director, program services.

"We've used the Ampex VTR to make money and increase business . . . very definitely," says George Harvey. "We'll go on record as we have in the past. We know that the Ampex Television Recorder used properly, and sold aggressively, will pay for itself very easily . . . It's increased our business by virtue of the volume that we couldn't have obtained without the machine. It's so successful that we frequently go out to the used car lots, for example, or the furniture stores, or even the banks, and do their commercials on location on tape. There are so many ways we've used the Ampex Television Recorder to make money, that it's hard to pick out the ones to talk about . . . We wouldn't have the VTR's if they didn't make money. We think so highly of ours we're about to spend another 50 thousand dollars on Ampex equipment. I guess that lets you know how we feel about Ampex. Videotape" is their baby all the way. Always has been." • • • • Ask Ampex today for specific station histories of the Videotape Television Recorder as a basic money-making component of any competitive TV facility. ## RCA'S TOP THREE

Stockholder report shows their incomes and taxes

Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff ($200,000), John L. Burns ($185,000) and Robert W. Sarnoff ($160,000) were the three highest salaried officers and/or directors of RCA in 1960, according to a proxy statement being circulated by the company in preparation for its annual meeting of stockholders on May 2.

Counting incentive awards payable as well as salaries paid, the ranking is revised and Mr. Burns, president of RCA, leads the list with $272,917; Robert Sarnoff, chairman of RCA's NBC subsidiary, is second with $202,000 and Gen. Sarnoff, RCA chairman, who is serving past normal retirement age and has waived incentive awards, is third with $200,000. Incentive awards authorized each year are payable over a five-year period and hence must be "earned out." They are paid in cash and/or RCA common stock.

Along with salary and incentive awards the report gives an estimate of the amount of federal income tax paid by each individual. Thus it is estimated that Gen. Sarnoff's $200,000 boiled down to about $66,900 after he paid approximately $133,100 in federal taxes. The salary, incentive awards and tax estimates as broken down for the others in the top three were as follows:

Mr. Burns received $185,417 in salary (federal income tax bite: $136,168), plus incentives totaling $87,500 of which $17,500 is being paid this month and the rest is to be "earned out" over the next four years. Robert Sarnoff received $160,000 in salary (federal income tax: $106,488) plus $8,400 in incentive awards paid and $33,600 to be earned out.

Retirement Pay ■ The report also shows that the RCA retirement plan, financed by both individual and corporate contributions, currently anticipates that at age 65 Robert Sarnoff will be eligible for an annual retirement income of $105,600, and Mr. Burns, $53,955. Gen. Sarnoff's retirement benefits, deferred until his actual retirement, will come to $85,400 a year.

Two other officers or directors received more than $100,000 in salary during 1960, according to the report. Elmer W. Engstrom, RCA senior executive vice president, received $135,000 in salary plus incentive awards of $7,700 being paid now and $30,800 to be earned out. His annual retirement income at age 65 would be $42,245. Charles M. Odorizzi, RCA group executive vp, received $125,000 in salary, incentive awards totaling $5,600 payable now and $22,400 to be earned out, and will be eligible for retirement income of $47,690 a year beginning at age 65.

One other officer, W. Walter Watts, also a group executive vp, is currently in the over-$100,000 salary bracket but did not reach this figure in 1960. When he became an RCA board member last September, the report discloses, RCA "entered into an agreement with him providing for his employment until his normal retirement date in May 1967 at a base salary of $110,000 per annum, with provisions for payment in ten annual installments after termination of employment of an additional sum equal to $1,250 a month for each month of employment under the agreement," provided he does not go to work for an RCA competitor. During 1960 Mr. Watts received $36,361 in salary, incentive awards of $5,400 now paid and $21,600 to be earned out, and at age 65 will be eligible for $29,830 a year in retirement income.

Stock Options ■ Other highlights of the 1960 report: Gen. Sarnoff bought 20,000 shares of RCA common stock at $48.667 per share under an option granted in 1955 authorizing him to buy up to 103,640 shares at that price. Mr. Engstrom bought 750 shares at $28.309 per share, also under a prior option. Market prices of RCA common ranged between $51.50 and $78.375 during the first three quarters of 1960 and closed at $52 on Jan. 9, 1961, the report points out.

The statement also reports that the New York law firm of Cahill, Gordon, Reindel & Ohl received $350,000 as legal counsel for RCA, NBC and other subsidiaries in 1960, and that John T. Cahill, senior partner in the law firm and RCA general counsel as well as a board member, received $3,550 in fees and salaries from RCA.

Two matters for submission to stockholders at the May 2 meeting—both favored by management—are proposals to change the terms of directors from three years to one year, and to indemnify officers, directors and employees against damages in lawsuits arising out of their RCA service except where they are found guilty of negligence or wilful misconduct.

NBC's Sunset & Vine era is coming to an end

One of the world's best known addresses—Sunset & Vine—changed owners last week in a transaction that involves $3.5 million.

Announced jointly by John West, NBC vice president in charge of the Pacific Div., and Lionel Hayes Uhlmann Jr., president of Uhlco Properties of Los Angeles, was an agreement calling for NBC to vacate the five-acre plot where the network's Hollywood Radio City was so proudly erected in 1938, to make room for a $75 million hotel and office development. If Uhlco executes its option, the present occupants—NBC-owned KRCA (TV) and a few network departments—will be moved to Color City in Burbank, Calif., in the fall of 1963.

On Oct. 17, 1938, with an un-Hollywoodlike lack of fanfare, NBC moved from the Melrose Ave. studios built less than three years before and already outgrown, into its new Sunset and Vine location. Here was a corner office building with a 50-foot high lobby through which visitors from all corners of the world trooped into four large audience studios, each under its own roof, to see the owners of the so-familiar voices they had heard on NBC.

Here was where the Jello Program, with Jack Benny, Mary Livingston and Don Wilson, originated each Sunday evening. Also on Sunday, the Chase & Sanborn Hour, with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy,

In network radio's palmier days, the greats and near-greats of entertainment appeared before the NBC microphones at the Sunset & Vine studio, as did Eddie Cantor, shown above.

Dorothy Lamour and Don Ameche; Woodbury's Hollywood Playhouse, with Tyrone Power and guest stars, and The Circle, with Carole Lombard, Ronald Colman, Cary Grant and other film stars, went out across the network from Sunset and Vine.

Here, during the week, emanated One Man's Family, Amos 'n' Andy, Al Pearce and His Gang, The Pepsi Show with Bob Hope, Kraft Music Hall with Bing Crosby and Bob Burns, Jimmy Fidler's Hollywood Gossip, Maxwell House's Goon News with Robert Taylor, Fanny Brice, Frank Morgan and Meredith Willson and his orchestra. There were George Burns and Gracie Allen, Eddie Cantor, Dragnet, Fibber McGee and Molly, Spike Jones, and the list could go on and on.

There were no tapes, no transcriptions, on the network. Every show was live, with a repeat for the West Coast. And every one of the top shows filled a large audience studio for each broadcast. This was radio at its zenith. These were the good old days the old timers talk about.

Then came tv. And tape. There went the studio audiences. New times meant new needs. NBC built a new center in Burbank, not only for tv but for color tv. And now the old Hollywood Radio City is no longer needed. Its real estate value is worth more than having studios at Sunset and Vine, where studio audience lines have not formed for years.

Crowell-Collier radio income jumps 44% in '60

The Crowell-Collier Publishing Co., New York, last week reported consolidated sales for 1960 of $44,498,146, compared with $35,491,211 the previous year. The 1960 total includes revenues of Crowell-Collier Broadcasting Corp., a subsidiary, which rose 44% to $3,539,000. The company operates KFWB Los Angeles, KEWB San Francisco-Oakland and KDWB Minneapolis-St. Paul, the latter two stations operating in 1960 as Crowell-Collier stations for the first time in a full 12-month period.

Crowell-Collier's consolidated sales exclude those of The Macmillan Co., which was merged with Crowell-Collier on Dec. 30, 1960. Including Macmillan sales, the 1960 total was $64,410,474. Earnings before taxes, not including Macmillan, were $6,824,913, an increase of 31% over the 1959 total of $5,209,670. Combined Crowell-Collier and Macmillan net earnings per share on a pro forma basis were $2.24 in 1960. In 1959, per share earnings of Crowell-Collier alone, adjusted for the 4% stock dividend paid in 1960, were $1.96.

Contracts were signed during the past year to buy WMGM New York and WGMS Washington, D. C. Applications for assignment of licenses are awaiting FCC approval.

AP wire study group to meet

The 1961 wire study committee of the Associated Press Radio-Television Assn. will meet with AP executives in New York today (March 13) to study the wire service's regional broadcast news operations. The wire study committee will be headed by F. O. Carver, news director, WSJS Winston-Salem, N. C., who will be assisted by four regional sub-chairmen. They are: Edward F. Ryan, WTOP Washington, D. C., representing the eastern district;

John R. Wilson, KONO San Antonio, southern district; William G. Garry, WBBM-TV Chicago, central district; and Jack R. Wagner, KNAC San Francisco, western district.

Second group asks catv for Santa Maria, Calif.

The Santa Maria, Calif., city council will be faced with a community antenna tv franchise request this week for the second time in six months (BROADCASTING, Oct. 3, 1960). The first time the council turned down the request. Citizens in nearby Lompoc voted against it in a special referendum. Bing Crosby Productions was the applicant for the area catv.

Opposing the request were KEYT (TV) Santa Barbara and KSBY-TV San Luis Obispo.

A new group, consisting of William F. Luton and Charles M. Trimble, applied to the Santa Maria City Council on Jan. 16 for a catv franchise. Mr.

From JFK to broadcasting: a commitment and a compliment

President John F. Kennedy last week described the broadcast coverage of the 1960 political campaigns as "a great step forward in the democratic process." He told broadcasters they could solve their problems by themselves and promised that his administration would respect broadcast freedoms that are "guaranteed under our Constitution."

The President's remarks were made in response to an award to him and to Richard M. Nixon from the Radio & Television Executives Society, New York (see below). Here is his text as delivered to the RTES by J. Leonard Reinsch, executive director of the Cox stations, who represented him at the RTES presentation dinner:

I am honored to receive this award and to share it with my adversary in the recent election. But it seems to me that the award belongs as much to you as to me and Mr. Nixon. The television and radio coverage of the campaign, as well as that of the printed media, gave the people an unprecedented opportunity to study the candidates and the issues.

Broadcasting's performance in the critical election year of 1960 was a great step forward in the democratic process. It showed how vital a role television and radio can play in the business of creating an informed public. Free government can function only if its citizens can make decisions on the basis of knowledge.

The flow of information must be consistent. The public will not be knowledgeable if it is given a massive dose of information once every four years and no more than a dribble of it in the interval. I take satisfaction in observing that this fact is being recognized by more and more of you in broadcasting. It would be a disservice to the American people if television and radio slackened their efforts to keep abreast of current history.

As you are aware, there have been criticisms of some areas of programming. I do not think that anyone expects you to achieve perfection. Democracy itself is far from perfect, but it is much to be preferred over other forms of government if for no other reason than the encouragement it gives free men to seek perfection or at least improvement.

I would hope that this administration will provide that kind of encouragement. And I would hope that you in broadcasting would respond by continuing your efforts to amplify and enhance the reservoir of knowledge in this country.

The problems of broadcasting are not insoluble. You have in your hands the means to correct any shortcomings that exist. Of one thing you can be certain; this administration will do nothing to impair the freedom of the mass communications media guaranteed under our Constitution and our democratic precepts.

The RTES Gold Medal Award was presented to President Kennedy and to his opponent in the presi- dential race of 1960, Mr. Nixon, during an RTES annual dinner in New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel March 9.

RTES President Richard S. Salant, president of CBS News, made the presentation. Designated to accept the awards for the recipients were Mr. Reinsch, communications consultant during the presidential campaign for Mr. Kennedy, and Herbert Klein, who served as Mr. Nixon's news secretary. Mr. Klein is now editor of the San Diego Union. The awards were made by the RTES board of governors because they felt radio-tv programming in 1960 on the presidential campaign—particularly the face-to-face appearances of the presidential candidates—was the "most significant contribution of broadcasting to the best interests" of the U. S. and its citizens.

Mr. Klein said it was up to television to devise a "frequent time if not equal time" policy to help the GOP counter advantages President Kennedy gains via broadcast news conferences (and, soon, Fireside Chats). "I can only commend President Kennedy for using all the television time possible," he said. But he warned that letting him "completely dominate the tv screen" could "cripple" the two-party political system.

Mr. Klein ventured that television had become "too gimmick-conscious." He said "technical ideas or artistic ideas" should not be allowed to "overshadow the basic job of presenting the news."

Mr. Klein quoted a telegram from Mr. Nixon, asserting that "television is powerful but still is an infant factor in politics. It will never supplant the printed word, but its full force is yet to be seen and employed." He said that in creating the presidential debates radio-tv rendered "a distinct service" which he hoped "would be enlarged and repeated."

Luton is president of Key Television Inc., licensee of KEYT.

The council decided, in view of its previous action on the catv request last September and the attempt of local interests to secure a franchise for a local tv station, to defer consideration for 60 days.

The catv group said it could provide service from seven channels and clearer reception.

Local interests have asked the FCC to assign ch. 10 or ch. 12 to the Santa-Maria-Lompoc area and have indicated they would apply for it.

CBS Inc. net sales up, profits down $2 million

CBS Inc. net sales reached a record high of almost $464.6 million in 1960 as compared with slightly more than $444.3 million in 1959 but net profits dipped to $23.2 million from more than $25.2 million in 1959.

These were the highlights of the company's annual report distributed to stockholders last week. The report made no explanation for the decline in net profits, but in its third quarter report, CBS attributed the decrease up to that time to increased selling expenses and administrative costs. The income statement in the annual report showed a sharp rise in these expenses for 1960.

Net income per share was reported $2.77 in 1960, as against $3.02 in the preceding year. Cash dividends of $1.40 per share were paid in 1960, as compared with $1.25 in 1959.

Lee takes etv pulpit to New York State

A consistent FCC evangelist for educational television chided New York State last week for a laggard pace in etv. Commissioner Robert E. Lee told broadcasters and legislators at the New York State Broadcasters Assn.'s annual dinner for lawmakers March 7 that most states look to New York for leadership but that "such leadership has been singularly lacking in the field of educational television."

Earlier, in all-day business sessions, the NYBA elected Paul Adanti, vice president and general manager of WHEN-AM-FM-TV Syracuse, to the association presidency. He succeeds George Dunham, general manager of WNBC-AM-FM-TV Binghamton. Elected with Mr. Adanti: Merle Galusha, operations manager of WGY-WGFM (FM)-WRGB (TV) Schenectady-Albany, first vice president; Sam Slate, general manager of WCBS-AM-FM-TV New York, second vice president; Elliott Stewart, executive vice president and manager of WIBX Utica, re-elected secretary, and Joseph Pinna, station manager of WUSJ Lockport, treasurer.

In Mr. Lee's audience were New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and a large turnout of state assemblymen. He told them that educational use of the uhf band will save these frequencies for all broadcasting. There are about 70 commercial uhf stations on the air, and "I suspect the majority is not doing too well financially," the commissioner said, but educational broadcasters do not have to be handicapped by competitive problems and are realizing that the shorter-range uhf signal is no serious handicap.

On the problem of money for etv, Commissioner Lee has "every expectancy" that Congress will grant states subsidies. Another proposed federal bill, the commission's recommendation to force manufacture of all-channel receivers, would help adult education and this in turn would have its effect on commercial broadcasting, he thinks. "Educational programming can be attractive, fascinating and not without entertainment value. . . . Commercial stations would find serious competition to their too frequently tasteless and unimaginative fare and would conceivably broadcast a greater portion of their programs to satisfy adult minds," he said.

Re-allocations ■ Two educational experiments bear watching, Commissioner Lee said. The FCC's own experimental uhf operation in New York City expects to be on the air with a megawatt power by Oct. 1 and at a later date is likely to add a second station to "multicast" the signal. "Another valuable project" is that of Purdue U., Lafayette, Ind., with $4.5 million backing by the Ford Foundation, to program 72 programs a day over six channels, the FCC commissioner said.

A further step toward all-uhf broadcasting was proclaimed by Commissioner Lee's report that the FCC is considering all-uhf area re-allocations. Pay tv, too, will hasten the trek to the upper spectrum, he believes.

New York State has but one educational station on the air, despite increasingly critical educational needs, NYBA and legislators were reminded. "Educational tv is on the march, and I hope the Empire State joins this big parade," the commissioner concluded.

In other business matters, NYBA decided to discontinue its annual dinner meeting with state legislators and instead substitute regional meetings at a time when the legislature is not in session. The association also made plans to hire a full-time executive secretary, which it has not had in the past, and launched an intensive drive for new members.

CBS RADIO SHUFFLES TOP POSTS

Ruegg, Webster, Dundes, Sutton get new assignments

Four managerial posts at CBS Radio will be realigned at the end of this month, announces President Arthur Hull Hayes (see WEEK'S HEADLINERS, page 10). Affected are station administration (seven network-owned stations), CBS Radio Spot Sales, KCBS San Francisco and KNX Los Angeles. The new assignments:

Fred Ruegg to vice president in charge of station administration, Maurice E. Webster to vice president and general manager of CBS Radio Spot Sales, Jules Dundes to vice president and general manager of KCBS and Robert P. Sutton to vice president and general manager of KNX. All take over March 27.

The new station administrative chief leaves the KNX vice presidency to headquarter in New York, succeeding Mr. Dundes, whose administration since 1956 was saluted by Mr. Hayes for leadership in "adult radio broadcasting." Mr. Ruegg joined KQW (now KCBS) in 1938, moving up there and eventually becoming assistant director of labor relations for CBS in 1953. In 1956 he became general manager of KNX and the CBS Radio Pacific Network.

Mr. Webster also travels east for his new assignment, coming from the KCBS vice president-general manager post. He joined KNX in 1937 and advanced to sales manager before moving to KCBS in 1958.

Mr. Dundes, a New York City native, started there in promotion with CBS in 1936 and served his first tour with KCBS in 1955, succeeding Mr. Hayes

Florida ruling ■ Showing of Gov. Faris Bryant's weekly news conferences on the state's educational tv system would be legal, Florida's attorney general, Richard Ervin, has ruled. He held the law banning use of the stations to promote political or governmental activities would not be violated.

Disaster tape ■ WNBQ (TV) Chicago has presented to the Chicago fire department a kinescope copy of the station's video tape coverage of a major fire Jan. 29 in which a building collapsed and trapped nine firemen. The frame-by-frame sequence of the collapse also was enlarged for study. The fire officials are considering use of closed circuit tv in future disasters.

as manager when he was tapped for the network presidency. Now Mr. Dundes is going back to San Francisco to an assignment reportedly authorized at his specific request, in line with his known desire to make his home there. He had returned to New York in April 1956 as vice president in charge of advertising and promotion for CBS Radio and in November of that year he moved to station administration.

The new head of KNX has been program director of the station and CBS Radio Pacific Network since September 1952. Previously Mr. Sutton had been with WCCO Minneapolis from 1939 as writer, producer and program director.

CBS owned radio stations are WCBS New York, WCAU Philadelphia, WEEI Boston, WBBM Chicago, KMOX St. Louis, KCBS and KNX. CBS Radio Spot Sales represents these and four others, WTOP Washington, WCCO Minneapolis, WBT Charlotte, N. C., and KOIN Portland, Ore.

Cox named Broadcast Bureau head

NEW FCC STAFF TAKES SHAPE; MAX PAGLIN TO BE GENERAL COUNSEL

Key staff-level posts at the FCC under the New Frontier chairmanship of Newton N. Minow began to take shape last week, highlighted by these developments:

- Seattle attorney and broadcast-oriented Kenneth A. Cox was named chief of the Broadcast Bureau in a last-minute switch. He formerly was ticketed to take over as general counsel (BROADCASTING, Feb. 27).

- While no announcement was made, it was learned that Max D. Paglin, presently chief of the litigation division of the general counsel's office, will become general counsel.

- Henry Geller and Daniel Ohlbaum, former FCC attorneys more recently with the Justice Dept., are slated to be named associate general counsel and chief of litigation, respectively.

- Mr. Cox's chief lieutenant in the Broadcast Bureau will be James Juntilla, a former bureau attorney now with the Washington law firm of Arnold, Fortas & Porter.

After a special FCC meeting last Thursday (March 9), the appointment of Mr. Cox as Broadcast Bureau chief was officially announced. He will take over that post about April 10 and will succeed Harold Cowgill, who has been head of the bureau since 1957. Mr. Cox gained considerable knowledge of the FCC and its problems as a special consultant on communications matters for the Senate Commerce Committee and he has, at times, been highly critical of the agency.

While only the Cox action was officially announced by Chairman Minow, it was reported the chairman also told the commissioners of his intentions regarding Messrs. Paglin, Ohlbaum, Geller and Juntilla.

A Policy Help ■ Mr. Cox was first approached by Mr. Minow in February about the post of general counsel. He agreed to accept (BROADCASTING, Feb. 20) and the change in assignments did not come until last Wednesday—when Mr. Cox met Mr. Minow for the first time.

Chairman Minow said the change was made at his suggestion because he felt the Cox background and specialized talents could be better used by the commission as Broadcast Bureau chief than as general counsel. This would be particularly true in policy matters, where the bureau normally has a greater voice than the general counsel, he said.

"I am very, very happy that he has decided to do this and so is the commission," Chairman Minow said, "It is in this area that the commission must make important policy decisions in the coming years. Mr. Cox brings to the commission a rich and varied experience in dealing with the complicated problems of the broadcasting industry."

Mr. Cox said that he would be happy to serve in the spot where he is needed most and can be of immediate help to the commission. He pointed out that, as general counsel, it would have been several weeks before he could operate with complete effectiveness. "If chief of the Broadcast Bureau is where I can make a better contribution then that is where I am going to work," he said.

A Senate Viewpoint ■ Mr. Cox served as special counsel to the Senate Com-

How the FCC would have been run, if . . .

Flashback to how the FCC might have been run in the last three years had President Eisenhower gone ahead with his plan to appoint Edward K. Mills Jr., New Jersey Republican as chairman of the FCC, is contained in a valedictory delivered by Mr. Mills to his brethren of the Federal Trade Commission upon the occasion of his resignation.

The FCC would have had a central planning staff which would have set up special priorities for long range planning in specific areas. The commission would have focused its activities, rather than trying to spread its regulatory tentacles all over. More authority would have been delegated to commissioners and to the staff.

These are some of the remarks made by Mr. Mills when he resigned from the FTC March 1. They were contained in a memorandum Mr. Mills submitted to the four remaining members of the trade agency.

In 1957 Mr. Mills was all but nominated to be FCC chairman (BROADCASTING, May 7). He then was assistant director of the General Service Administration and would have succeeded the then chairman, George C. McConaughy. When President Eisenhower named incumbent commissioner John C. Doerfer as chairman, Mr. Mills declined an appointment as straight commissioner. Again, in 1960 Mr. Mills was nominated to be an FCC commissioner, succeeding resigned Chairman Doerfer. He had his name withdrawn when a conflict of interest arose which he could not remedy. He was given a recess appointment to the FTC last year.

Too often, Mr. Mills said in his statement earlier this month, the FTC gets into a project by "happstance."

"A broad, long-range plan, and an order of priority based on available staff, would serve as the blueprint for FTC action in the future. With such a plan the commission, as well as industry, would know better what it was doing and where it was going."

The FTC's statistical score in actions brought is evidence of "aggressive" law enforcement, Mr. Mills said. But, he added, "the mere volume of work is of itself but one index of this agency's effectiveness." Of greater importance, he said, is the impact on public welfare and that the most harmful and substantial abuses be challenged first.

He found what he called the "dual approach" of the FTC a good thing. This is where the trade commission cooperates with an industry in establishing voluntary compliance with good practices codes. "To the minority of recalcitrants the prosecutive paddle should be applied," he added.

Mr. Mills disagreed with recommendations made by James F. Landis, adviser to President Kennedy on regulatory agencies, that antitrust jurisdiction be removed from the FTC and placed solely in the Dept. of Justice. He also rejected the suggestion that responsibility for foods and drugs be transferred to FTC.

merce Committee during sweeping inquiries in several broadcasting-FCC areas, beginning in 1956. He has authorized three reports which seldom saw eye-to-eye with the commission. The agency since, however, has adopted many of the Cox recommendations.

In a controversial 1957 report never adopted by the full committee, Mr. Cox recommended that pay tv be given a "large scale test" (BROADCASTING, Feb. 18, 1957). The commission has just recently taken this step (BROADCASTING, Feb. 27).

Mr. Cox followed this recommendation with a July 1957 report highly critical of network option time and must-buy practices, claiming that they injure the public interest (BROADCASTING, July 1, 1957). Again, the FCC has legislated against both activities and has prohibited network representation of stations, another practice frowned on in the report.

A final Cox report for the Senate committee criticized the commission for its allocations inaction and its failure to exert control over catv; he recommended that vhf boosters be authorized (BROADCASTING, Jan. 12, 1959). At the time of this report, the FCC maintained it had no control over catv and was in the process of ordering vhf boosters off the air. Since, however, the commission's attitude has changed in both fields and Congress passed legislation authorizing boosters. The same Cox report was highly favorable toward small, local tv stations and said the commission should take steps to encourage and protect them.

Mr. Cox was born in Topeka, Kan., in 1916 and received a law degree from Washington U. and later a master's degree in law from Michigan U., where he was a classmate of former Commissioner Charles H. King.

Mr. Cowgill replaced Edward Kenahan as chief of the Broadcast Bureau in May 1957. He first joined the FCC in 1935 and in 1944 left to enter private law practice. He returned to the commission in 1954 after unsuccessful operation of uhf WTVP (TV) Decatur, Ill., his hometown.

Paglin Moves Up ■ Mr. Paglin, who first joined the FCC's legal staff in 1942, will replace John F. FitzGerald as general counsel. Prior to joining the commission, he practiced law in his native New York City. He became legal assistant to Commissioner Robert T. Bartley in July 1953 and moved into his present post in January 1959 when the former litigation chief, Robert A. Solomon, resigned to join the Dept. of Justice.

fice and in recent years have been with the Justice Dept. Mr. Geller returned to the commission 10 days ago, when Chairman Minow was sworn in, as his temporary administrative assistant. The associate general counsel's post he will fill has been vacant since the resignation last summer of Ed Holtz, who joined the Washington law firm of Hogan & Hartson. Mr. Ohlbaum, in turn, will move into the spot being vacated by Mr. Paglin.

Mr. Juntilla also will be returning to the agency he formerly served. He was staff attorney in the hearing division of the Broadcast Bureau from 1949 through November 1952 when present Commissioner Frederick W. Ford was chief of the bureau. Mr. Juntilla was active in the American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres merger case while on the FCC staff and joined the Arnold, Fortas & Porter firm shortly after leaving the commission.

There'll be fewer headlines from Harris now

NEW SUBCOMMITTEE WON'T BE AS NOISY AS OVERSIGHT

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) of the House Commerce Committee indicated last week the new Special Regulatory Agencies Subcommittee will be a more sedate member of the Capitol Hill scene than was its explosive, headline-producing predecessor, the Legislative Oversight Subcommittee.

Rep. Harris, who will head the new unit as he did Oversight, said, "We're not going to start with a large group of investigators. Rather, our work will be more of a technical and legal nature."

He said the new subcommittee will serve as liaison between the regulatory agencies and Congress. But, he added, "If we get into anything that requires investigation, we won't shirk our responsibility."

As outlined by the chairman, the new subcommittee's function will be to determine whether the agencies are administering the law as Congress intended, investigate the adequacy of the law involved, help clarify policy and, if necessary, suggest new legislation.

Rep. Harris made his comments Thursday at a news conference called to announce the new subcommittee line-ups. As expected, he said he was stepping down from the chairmanship of the Communications unit and that Rep. Morgan Moulder (D-Mo.) would succeed him.

He Won't Be Far Away ■ However, he made it clear that he would continue to keep close watch over the proceedings of that subcommittee. He observed that, as chairman of the full committee, he is a member of each subcommittee with voting privileges.

In addition, there is considerable overlapping in the Democratic membership of the two subcommittees. Besides Rep. Harris, the Democratic members of the regulatory unit are Walter Rogers (Tex.), John J. Flynt Jr. (Ga.), John E. Moss (Calif.) and Paul G. Rogers (Fla.). All except Rep. Rogers are Oversight veterans.

The Republican members are John B. Bennett (Mich.) and William L. Springer (Ill.), who had served on Oversight, and J. Arthur Younger (Calif.) and Vernon W. Thomson (Wis.). Rep. Thomson is new to Congress.

The Democrats serving on the Communications Subcommittee, in addition to Rep. Moulder, are Reps. Rogers (Tex.) Flynt, Moss, and Dan Rostenkowski (Ill.). The Republicans are Reps. Younger (Calif.), Avery and Abner W. Sibal (Conn.). Rep. Sibal is another freshman congressman.

Regular or Special ■ Although his first announcement of the new subcommittee (BROADCASTING, March 6) said it would be "permanent" and "regular," his news release last week described it as "special." A Commerce Committee staff member said this was merely to distinguish it from the other, legislative subcommittees.

However, Rep. Harris said he felt the new subcommittee was a strong one and hoped it would become a permanent part of the congressional scene.

In commenting on the more subdued role he expects the subcommittee to play, Rep. Harris indicated he was considering building a staff whose members would be expert in the fields under study. He said he would request additional funds if this is found necessary. The House has already approved a request of $435,000 for the Commerce Committee, $195,000 of which is ticketed for the new subcommittee.

However, Rep. Harris said that since the new unit has not yet met, he didn't know which areas would claim its attention. He added that he plans to call a meeting soon so that a program of action can be laid out.

Etv for Communications ■ The first activity of the Communications Subcommittee has been staked out by Rep. Harris. It will be in the field of educational television. Rep. Harris said a batch of House etv bills will soon be sent on to Rep. Moulder's group. Hearings may be held late next week if reports on the measures can be prepared by then, Rep. Harris indicated. The Senate Commerce Committee has already reported out a federal-aid-to-etv measure.

Rep. Harris also said that he expected the FCC proposal concerning all-channel receivers to be discussed at the Communications Subcommittee hearings. The commission intends to ask Congress again for legislation banning from interstate commerce receivers not equipped vhf and uhf. It says this is the only way to promote the use of all uhf channels, educational as well as commercial (BROADCASTING, March 6).

In discussing proposed legislation, Rep. Harris said he would delay hearings on his bill (HR 14) spelling out a code of ethics for regulatory agency members until the White House sends its special message on this subject to Congress. He said he expected this within "a few weeks."

In response to a question, Rep. Harris said James M. Landis, the White House overseer on regulatory agencies has been consulted in connection with the formation of the new subcommittee. He said there was no disagreement between them regarding the new unit. But he said that he remains in disagreement with a number of the proposals contained in Mr. Landis' report to President Kennedy on the regulatory agencies.

No pressure from press on JFK conferences

The White House was not pressured by print media to modify live radio-tv coverage of the presidential news conferences Pierre Salinger, President Kennedy's news secretary, told the Chicago Publicity Club Wednesday (March 8). The change of format (recording with simultaneous release to all media upon conclusion of the conference) was "not any concession to the press," he said.

Asked if any news medium had exerted pressure pro or con on the issue of conference coverage, Mr. Salinger said there had been "none whatsoever." He added that perhaps every fourth or fifth conference would be allowed on the air live, however.

President Kennedy's news chief rebuked a charge of biased reporting during the presidential race. The charge was attributed to former Vice President Nixon's news manager, Herbert Klein. It was reported Mr. Klein went on record last Tuesday in favor of a campaign news investigation by Sigma Delta Chi and the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Mr. Salinger in turn attacked the "manipulation" of news about the country's economic status by the Republicans during the campaign.

Mr. Salinger reaffirmed his pledge to widen free access of "all media to all news" in government, but said freedom "is not a license and is not without obligation." He said freedom to report does not mean the right to imperil the nation, to aid those who oppose us, to leak classified documents or to indulge in "sloppy reporting." He chided incidents of "rushing into print without a thorough checking of the facts" and indicated that two recent leaks of classified information resulted in "distortions" which had serious consequences abroad. "Freedom and responsibility stand side by side," he said. "Otherwise you have anarchy."

Mr. Salinger denied that the administration's decision that officials must stick to policy in their statements is a form of censorship. He said that when policy is being formulated, officials are reported freely concerning their differences of opinion and he implied that is when they should voice them. However, "Once policy is arrived at, administration spokesmen should reflect that policy," he said.

Mr. Salinger later told newsmen an important conference on freedom of information had been called for Friday (March 10) in Washington, to be attended by the office of Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), top news officials of government agencies and representatives from media groups (see AT DEADLINE).

NAB tries again for wage-hour exemptions

Move to persuade Congress to exempt small market radio and tv stations from some of the overtime provisions of the Wage-Hour Act was undertaken last week by NAB.

James H. Hulbert, NAB manager of broadcast personnel and economics, urged that announcers, news editors and chief engineers be exempted from the requirement that time-and-a-half be paid after 40 hours of weekly work. He testified before the Senate Subcommittee on Labor Standards, headed by Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.).

Later in the week, the House committee on wage-hour legislation voted to include this provision but revised the small market definition to a city or town of 50,000 or less population. The NAB's proposal, which had been accepted by the House subcommittee, defined a small market as one with 100,000 or less population. The Senate bill is S-895; the House bill is HR-3935.

In his statement, Mr. Hulbert said the relief sought would end the "hardships and confusion and uncertainty which small market radio and tv broadcasters suffer in trying to comply with the act's requirements." He called attention to the fact that small market newspapers and movie houses already enjoy that exemption. Mr. Hulbert noted that both the House and Senate in the last Congress voted in favor of this exemption but the legislation failed to be enacted when differences over other provisions prevented agreement in conference.

WPTR originated "Action — Central News"—it has a minimum of 48 newscasts every day—it pioneered "radio editorials". "Public opinion polls" are among its regular features. It delivers more public service time to its area

ACT II HAS SAME ENDING

MCA's Schreiber still hasn't answered those questions the FCC's been asking since last fall

History repeated itself last Thursday (March 9) when MCA vice president Taft B. Schreiber left the witness stand of an FCC hearing without answering the questions of the commission attorney about his company and its operations in the field of television programming, as he did last fall (BROADCASTING, Oct. 24, 31, 1960).

The main characters of the cast were the same both times: Mr. Schreiber; Allen Susman, counsel for Mr. Schreiber and MCA; FCC Chief Hearing Examiner James B. Cunningham, presiding officer, and Ashbrook P. Bryant, chief counsel of the FCC Broadcast Bureau, who asked the unanswered questions. The scene was almost the same: a room in the Federal Building in Los Angeles. But where Mr. Schreiber's refusal to testify last fall came in a burst of dramatic action when he stalked from the witness stand in defiance of Mr. Cunningham's order to stay there and testify, last week he merely sat mutely in the witness chair until, after a dozen fruitless questions, Mr. Bryant moved that the hearing be suspended with the witness still under FCC subpoena to testify.

The presiding officer complied with that motion and said that he would ask that appropriate proceedings be initiated with the U. S. District Court in Los Angeles according to Sec. 409 (g) of the Communications Act to force the witness to appear and to answer the FCC questions. Mr. Cunningham also said that the record of the hearing will be made available to the U. S. Attorney General for possible criminal actions under Sec. 409 (m) of the Act. This section, as he had earlier warned Mr. Schreiber, defines refusal to testify as a felony, subject to a fine of not less than $100 or not more than $5,000 and/or a prison term of not more than one year.

In referring the refusal of Mr. Schreiber to testify before the U. S. District Court for enforcement proceedings, Mr. Cunningham was acting in accordance with instructions of the FCC in its order of Jan. 27. He was also instituting a course of action that in part agrees with the recommendation made Feb. 10 by Mr. Susman in a letter to the FCC in proposing that the commission eliminate the present hearing and proceed directly to court.

At the opening of the resumption of the hearing in Los Angeles on Wednesday (March 8), Mr. Susman and Harry M. Plotkin, Washington attorney for MCA, introduced a motion by MCA

Inc. and Mr. Schreiber to quash the subpoenas calling for the production of documents concerning MCA's tv programming operations and the personal appearance of Mr. Schreiber. If this relief were denied, the motion proposed that Mr. Schreiber be permitted to testify on a confidential basis pending a court determination of whether or not his public testimony could legally be required. The motion further proposed that the hearing record of his testimony be sealed in the interim.

Mr. Bryant argued that to grant such a request would be a breach of faith with the hundred or more witnesses who have already testified in the course of this hearing, particularly with the other Hollywood program packagers who are MCA's chief competitors. It would also, he said, pave the way for similar requests for all similar witnesses he called, noting that "there will be many of them."

Mr. Cunningham asked Mr. Susman whether if the request for a non-public hearing were granted, he would comply with the ground rules laid down by the chief hearing examiner and upheld by the FCC in answering an earlier complaint of MCA that these rules deprive the witness of effective right to consult with counsel. Mr. Susman replied that he could not comply to those rules but would insist on the right to "represent our clients as we could in a court case instead of an administrative hearing."

Motion Denied • When Mr. Cunningham denied MCA's motion, Mr. Susman stated that Mr. Schreiber would decline to answer any of the FCC's questions pending a court decision. In spite of this, the FCC chief hearing examiner ordered Mr. Schreiber to take the stand and be sworn in. This was done, but when Mr. Bryant began questioning him Mr. Schreiber refused to answer despite a direction to do so from Mr. Cunningham after each question. When about a dozen questions had been asked with no response, Mr. Bryant made his request to bring the fruitless performance to a halt. The hearing was then recessed until this morning (March 13), when Dick Fishell of Dick Fishell & Assoc., Mary Rothchild of Promotions Unlimited and Betty Langley, who had all refused to give testimony during last October's hearing session, will take the stand. These witnesses were described as public relations practitioners by their attorney, Oliver B. Schwab, who at the time argued that they are engaged in neither programming nor broadcasting and so are outside the scope of the FCC inquiry into program practices. On their behalf, Mr. Schwab also joined in the motion by Mr. Susman offered for MCA but after Mr. Schreiber's departure he told the hearing officer that his clients would appear to testify on Monday. They will be questioned concerning their activities in placing plugs for the products and services of their clients on broadcast programs.

Injured feelings

Rep. Victor L. Anfuso (D-N. Y.), one of a group of congressmen critical of The Untouchables, has introduced a bill (HR 4502) aimed at prohibiting the radio or tv portrayal of any religious, racial or nationality group "in a degrading or criminal manner." He said some radio and television programs fail to respect the feelings of certain groups.

Rep. Anfuso also made the firm warning that continued presentation of "these defamatory programs" could result in Congress taking radio and television "out of the hands of those who control them now."

Payment to writers to get product plugs into tv and radio shows was a common Hollywood practice prior to September 1960, Fred Kline, consultant to the Fred Kline Co., testified Thursday afternoon. (That was the month the anti-payola law was enacted, making the failure to disclose such payments an offense punishable by a fine of up to $10,000 and a prison sentence of up to one year (BROADCASTING, Sept. 26, 1960).

Mr. Kline, one-time president of Walter E. Kline Assoc., which engaged in product exploitation on radio and tv as part of its public relations activities until its reorganization as the Fred Kline Co. in December 1959, said that this organization never made such payments in cash. A case of whiskey or a gift certificate was the usual remuneration for working a product plug into a program, usually as a gag on a comedy show, he testified.

Much of the Walter E. Kline Assoc. broadcast activities for its clients involved providing props for tv shows, Mr. Kline said. The company kept a warehouse full of products ranging from kitchen appliances to moving vans and a mock-up train interior available to producers without cost, often saving them as much as $10,000 in prop costs. "We let the studios know the props we had and they came to us to get them," he reported. No money changed hands on this sort of arrangement, he said, the studio getting free use of the

... the station that keeps people in mind

We don't have to tell you that radio is many-sided. It's a keenly competitive business operation, yet a public service. Its sounds are as remote as the ends of the earth, yet as personal as the ears that absorb them. It's enjoyed equally by the sun-soaking vacationer and the bed-ridden convalescent.

What do all these seeming paradoxes have in common? PEOPLE. The people who project radio (owners, program directors, performers)—and the people who listen. Build a bridge between them, and you create a kind of modern magic. From it many things flow—entertainment and information for listeners and SALES for advertisers.

We have been building a "people bridge" for years. That's why we're the station for you to keep in mind when you sit down to plan your next radio budget.

props it needed and the Kline client getting exposure of his product on the tv program. The clients paid the Kline organization for obtaining the air plugs, usually on a retainer basis although sometimes at so much per exposure, he said. He estimated that broadcast exploitation amounted to about 25% of the overall business of Walter E. Kline Assoc. Among the clients using this service were Allied Van Lines; Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway System; Fred Astaire Dance Studios and Nash Motors, he testified.

Placement of name product props on tv film programs is largely a thing of the past, Mr. Kline said. Most of these programs go into syndication, either originally or eventually, he noted, and the multiplicity of local sponsors makes a conflict with any brand article shown in the program virtually a certainty. He recalled one program which made liberal use of Nash cars (provided by Walter E. Kline Assoc.) when being filmed, necessitating extensive reshooting when the series was bought by Packard.

Watchdog hearing set March 27-29

The long-promised Senate Watchdog Subcommittee hearings on complaints of broadcaster bias during the presidential campaign last fall will be held March 27, 28 and 29.

But while announcing these hearing dates, Subcommittee Chairman Ralph W. Yarborough (D-Tex.) disclosed little else. He said "the specific complaints to be reviewed and the names of the witnesses" will be announced later.

Subcommittee Counsel Creekmore Fath said the additional information would be forthcoming after the prospective witnesses replied to their invitations to appear. All of these replies were expected by the end of last week.

Although the Yarborough announcement was brief, it indicated that the hearings might cover a broad area. It said that in addition to the complaints, the hearings will cover "other matters pertaining" to the subcommittee's "mandate."

The Subcommittee's Authority ■ This "mandate" is embodied in a Senate resolution, adopted last summer, which authorized the Commerce Committee to examine "any and all matters pertaining to—Federal policy on uses of government-licensed media for the dissemination of political opinions, news, and advertising, and the presentation of political candidates; and a review and examination of information and complaints concerning the dissemination of news by such media."

The Senate Commerce Committee passed this function on to the Watchdog unit. This subcommittee was created in 1959 to watch for abuses of the freedom Congress gave broadcasters when it modified the Communications Act's equal-time provision as it applies to candidates' appearances on newscasts and similar programs.

The resolution provided the Watchdog Subcommittee with a $35,000 appropriation to look into the effects of the temporary suspension of Sec. 315 of the Communications Act, which permitted broadcasters to give free time to the presidential and vice presidential candidates.

Sen. Yarborough's subcommittee colleagues are Sen. Gale McGee (D-Wyo.) and Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.). All three are also members of the parent committee's Communications Subcommittee.

Other Hearings ■ This subcommittee, headed by Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.), has already held hearings on the effects of the temporary waiver of Sec. 315 (BROADCASTING, Feb. 6), and will hold more. These are expected after the FCC completes the evaluation of all the data compiled in a study it made of the suspension of Sec. 315. The commission said this job will be wound up in April.

The Pastore group has under consideration a bill (S 204) submitted by Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.), chairman of the parent Commerce Committee, that would make the temporary suspension permanent. It is also looking into the possibility of broadening the bill to apply to other than top-of-the ticket candidates.

A new information service at State Dept.

The telephone rang one Tuesday morning a few weeks ago in the office of Luther J. Reid, chief of the State Dept.'s Office of Special Projects. It was Jack Morris, KTUL-TV Tulsa news director. He needed some background material on western hemisphere defense and some film footage showing the SAC air base on Puerto Rico—by Friday!

Former CBS publicity director and post World War II State Dept. aide Reid promised he would see what he could do.

What he did was to amass the information, contact the Air Force for the film segments, and the whole package was in Tulsa for Friday showing.

Routine, says Mr. Reid. It's a perfect example, he adds, of what this new State Dept. office is set up to do.

The Office of Special Projects was established in December. Its function is to serve all media which have special needs. It does not handle hard news; that still comes out of Lincoln White's office.

The Tulsa incident is a single example of what the new service is supposed to perform. Its primary aim, according to Mr. Reid, is to acquaint the American public with the policies of the United States in international affairs. To this end, he added, it hopes to furnish interpretative information to newsmen—and speakers to public assemblies—before crises, not after.

There's one danger in this approach, and Mr. Reid is quick to admit it. This is that with more information the American citizen may be even more critical of his country's international commitments than he is now. "But, at least," Mr. Reid stresses, "it will be informed criticism."

Word Goes Out ■ Early this year letters explaining the functions of the new office were mailed to important media—including selected tv and radio newsmen.

The group also has its hand in all U.S. Government exhibits abroad. It acts as liaison for all foreign exhibits in the U.S. The six-man office is already deeply into this work in conjunction with the 1962 Seattle fair and the 1964 New York World's Fair.

The number one man in the office, Luther Reid has been with the State Dept. since 1947. In most of his assignments he has been an assistant to the public affairs assistant secretary, now Roger Tubby. Mr. Reid for many years was the special information officer for the mutual security program and the disarmament and inspection meetings.

Mr. Reid came to the State Dept. after a news career that saw him news editor of the Washington Daily News and news editor for the Washington bureau of the Associated Press. From 1936 to 1941 he served in the public relations department of CBS; he was publicity director when he left for war. During World War II, Lt. Col. Reid was a special assistant to Secretary of War Stimson. He also served as chief public information officer for Gen. MacArthur in Japan.

Serving with Mr. Reid in the Special Projects office is William Blair, as deputy chief. Tv-radio specialists are Dane Waters and Simone Poulain.

repeal of Sec. 315—which has been urged by CBS and NBC—came last week from the Radio-Television News Directors Assn., which claims a membership of some 700. In a letter to Sen. Pastore, RTNDA President Bill Monroe, news director of WDSU-TV New Orleans, said last year's suspension of Sec. 315 permitted broadcast newsmen "to function in the American tradition of a free, fair and responsible press."

He said the principle that made the waiver "effective on the national level is also pertinent to local political coverage," and added: "If the electronic media are going to serve the people to the extent of their capacity, broadcast newsmen must have the same freedom as print newsmen to cover" the political news.

RADIO SET CENSUS

USIA report shows Russia second to U.S. in sets used

The U.S. Information Agency, citing figures it concedes may not be reliable, reports that some 188 million radio sets and another 40 million wired speakers were in use throughout the world, exclusive of the United States and Canada, at the end of 1960.

The report puts the Soviet Union behind only the United States in the number of radio sets in use, with 24.7 million, followed by Japan, 17.2 million; West Germany, 16.3 million; and the United Kingdom, 15.7 million.

The figure of 188 million radio sets in use in the countries surveyed appears to indicate an increase of 22 million sets in one year. But the USIA says this difference was brought about largely "by a most unusual and disturbing development in the history of Communist statistical reporting."

According to USIA, the Soviet Union in 1958 reported 9.6 million sets in operation but that in the following year it said its 1958 total really was 21.7 million and its 1959 total was 24.7 million.

This 12- to 14-million-set error casts "some doubt on the reliability of Soviet statistics," USIA observed. But the agency adds that radio production data tend to confirm the higher figure.

The USIA also said the Soviet Union wasn't the only country whose statistics could not be accepted without question. "At best," it said, "radio-set statistics are approximate and should be treated with caution, particularly when they refer to newly developing countries."

With that warning, it reported that, exclusive of North America, Western Europe led other world regions in radio sets with 76.5 million. The Communist bloc was next, with 41.4 million, but was far ahead of all other regions in wired speakers, with 32.5 million.

The report also said there were 30.2 million radio sets in the Far East, 24.3 million in Latin America, 12.2 million in the Near East and South Asia, 3 million in Africa and 457,000 in Western Hemisphere possessions.

Tv, movies blamed for youth behavior

The Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee was told last week that television, along with other mass media, shares some of the blame for the increasingly violent behavior of youthful offenders.

Heman G. Stark, director of the California Department of the Youth Authority, said the increase in violence "does not seem strange" when one considers that press, radio, television and the movies "bombard the public with acts of violence and aggressive, assaultive behavior."

Mr. Stark was one of 12 witnesses, including Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York, called to testify on the general question of the role of the federal government in combating juvenile delinquency.

In commenting on Mr. Stark's testimony, given in the first two days of hearings, Subcommittee Chairman Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) agreed there was "room for improvement" in the mass media.

And, indicating hearings will be held on this subject, he said that "this is another area in which we hope to do some work."

However, he said he would be more interested in persuasion than legislation. "We hope we can induce the industries to improve themselves. I don't like the idea of censorship—no one does. . . . We want to get cooperation."

Kintner to regulators: 'Improve or perish'

Improve or perish. This law of survival fits federal regulatory agencies, too, Earl W. Kintner, retiring chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, writes in the March issue of the American Bar Assn. Journal.

He favors upgrading the offices of commissioner and staff and lengthening of commission terms (but not for life, as some have suggested) as aids to better regulatory administration.

"The need for flexibility in administering the laws committed to the care of the regulatory agencies cannot be over-emphasized," Mr. Kintner writes, "for the needs of the complex economy of this nation cannot be met by an assumption that rigid tests and procedures established today are necessarily valid for all time to come. However, this need for flexibility does not lessen the continuing need for reasoned articulation of decisions, whatever the mode of their promulgation, for one of the major tasks of a regulatory agency is to educate those who are regulated."

Mr. Kintner feels the greatest problem, yet hope, of the regulatory agencies is "men." He notes that when the regulatory agencies were established it was recognized they should be bipartisan: "it is fair to expect that agency members exhibit some measure of political responsibility, but it is no less true that responsibility and not patronage should be the criterion for appointment."

He says attention can be focused on criteria for the exercise of presidential discretion in making agency appointments, with probity, efficiency and devotion to public interest as the obvious principal criteria. "Political responsibility is also a legitimate criterion, but the relevant area of examination should be political philosophy, not patronage considerations," he adds.

Ex parte contact with federal agencies is the theme of another article in the same issue of the ABA Journal. "Private communications with administrative agencies should be prohibited," says Richard N. Ivins, a former hearing examiner for both the Federal Power Commission and the National Labor Relations Board. He supports efforts for new legislation to prohibit such contracts, citing the "recent disclosures of irregularities and backdoor pressures" at the FCC and FPC.

Murrow nomination set for hearing in Senate

CBS newsman Edward R. Murrow is tentatively scheduled to appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee tomorrow (Tuesday) for a hearing on his nomination as director of the U.S. Information Agency.

Lee Loevinger, a former justice of the Minnesota Supreme Court whose name was sent to the Senate at the same time, already has been confirmed as assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's anti-trust division.

Also sent to the Senate last week were the nominations of Paul Rand Dixon, chairman-designate of the Federal Trade Commission, and Philip Elman to the FTC. The Senate Commerce Committee will hold hearings on both tomorrow.

April 28 set by FCC for '61 Conelrad drill

April 28 has been set for this year's Conelrad drill, at the request of the Office of Civil & Defense Mobilization, the FCC announced last week (CLOSED CIRCUIT, Dec. 26, 1960). All broadcast stations (am, fm and tv) in the continental U. S. must participate. Those in Hawaii, Guam, Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico will participate on a voluntary basis.

The drill will begin at 4 p.m. EST and last a half-hour. Stations will leave the air during this period, except for those authorized to operate on the emergency broadcast system frequencies, 640 or 1240 kc. State industry advisory committees may test their fm state defense networks during the drill and such fm emergency network stations are authorized to participate.

Broadcasters will go along with the drill. But some industry representatives are not convinced the present system is the best or that it is truly necessary and they would like the Dept. of Defense, the OCDM and the U. S. Air Force to study alternatives with them.

The cost of the present annual half-hour off the air is estimated at more than $250,000 in broadcast revenues.

The drill date was one of three proposed by OCDM and submitted to each state industry advisory board for comments. Deadline for comments was Dec. 15, 1960, when the subcommittee of the National Industry Advisory Committee met, discussed state comments and settled on April 28.

Necessary? In this meeting, according to A. Prose Walker, NAB engineering department manager, it was agreed that a joint study of the current Conelrad system should be made by broadcasters and the interested government agencies. The main question was: Is the annual Conelrad drill necessary? Subcommittee members felt the broadcasting aspects of Conelrad had been proved in previous drills, but because coordination with OCDM maneuvers was not proved, the broadcasters agreed to the proposal without complaint, Arthur Peck, CBS Radio director of network operations and chairman of NIAC for this quarter, told BROADCASTING last week.

Mr. Walker said NIAC feels the Defense Dept. and OCDM should explain the problems openly. If security is involved, he said, enough members of NIAC have security clearances to work out answers in closed session. "We are inclined to think the present [Conelrad drill] system is unnecessary but we want to see it studied rather than have only the government decide," he said.

Mr. Peck said NIAC sent a letter to the FCC last month asking if the new administration wants to continue the present system or if it has new plans.

Dissatisfaction with the annual Conelrad drill has been growing since it began. Many sources have said they feel its already obsolete and have pushed for a more practical solution to the emergency broadcasting problem.

D. C. Bar to discuss who will regulate regulators

"Who Will Regulate the Regulators" will be the featured panel discussion at the monthly meeting of the District of Columbia Bar Assn. tomorrow (Tuesday). Participants will include Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Commerce Committee, and chairman of several of the federal regulatory agencies.

Newton N. Minow, chairman of the FCC, has turned down an invitation to participate in the panel and it is not expected that any member of the commission will take a part. Rep. Harris will open the panel with a 10 minute talk, after which each agency chairman will be given five minutes. The opening talks will be followed by questions from the floor.

Principal item of debate will be whether Congress, which created the agencies, or the White House, which appoints the members, will be the father supreme.

KFRE-TV dual operation permitted to continue

KFRE-TV Fresno, Calif., has been permitted to continue dual operation of ch. 12 and ch. 30 there until April 15. The commission last week denied protests by KJEO (TV) and KMJ-TV, the other two Fresno stations, both uhf (BROADCASTING, March 6).

The dual operation is authorized to provide service during the transition period when KFRE-TV shifts from vhf to uhf as a result of the FCC deintermixing Fresno, making it all-uhf. KFRE-TV, a Triangle station, two weeks ago told the FCC the dual operation is necessary so citizens in outlying areas will have a chance to convert to uhf and receive that station's signal. The station said it cooperated with the commission in the deintermixing, even though it might have delayed that process several years through legal maneuvers.

Senate committee approves etv funds bill

CHANCES FOR ENACTMENT LOOK BETTER THIS CONGRESS

The Senate Commerce Committee last week reported out the $51 million aid-to-educational television bill (S205) introduced by its chairman, Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.), and ranking minority member, Andrew F. Schoepel (R-Kan.).

The vote at an executive meeting Wednesday (March 8) was unanimous after committee members accepted an amendment proposed by the General Accounting Office. This would require the states to keep records of how they spend the funds and authorize the GAO to audit these accounts.

Additional support for the bill came from the newly-installed FCC chairman, Newton N. Minow. In one of his first official acts, he sent a statement to the committee on Tuesday urging the use of federal funds for educational television. Mr. Minow, who was sworn in as chairman March 2, when the Commerce Committee was winding up two days of hearings on the bill (BROADCASTING, March 6), said he issued his statement "because of the immense importance I attach to this legislation."

He said that "a widely available and adequately financed non-commercial educational television service is vitally necessary to improve our educational and communications system." He also said such a service offers "an unparalleled opportunity for education, for experimental programming, for real diversification of program fare, and for cultural advancement."

But since many local areas lack funds for station construction, he said, federal aid is needed, "particularly to advance the date of construction and to permit extensive rather than minimal operation."

The Magnuson bill, which would provide grants of up to $1 million to each state and the District of Columbia for the installation or improvement of etv facilities, has won Senate approval in the past two Congresses. But it died in the House each time.

Chances for enactment of an etv measure appear brighter this session. The House Commerce Committee, which let the first Magnuson bill die in the 85th Congress, last year reported out a state-federal matching-funds bill measure, but it was pigeon-holed by the House Rules Committee. So far this session, a number of etv bills have been introduced by House Commerce Committee members, including one by its chairman, Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), which is similar to the Magnuson bill.

Chairman dissents in his first FCC meeting

FCC Chairman Newton N. Minow registered his first dissent at his very first meeting. The commission granted a construction permit for an am station in Ebensburg, Pa. on 1580 kc, 1 kw daytime to Cary H. Simpson, owner of majority interest in five other standard stations in north central Pennsylvania.

Said Chairman Minow, "I would designate the application for hearing on the question whether the grant is in the public interest in view of the applicant's extensive multiple interests in a highly concentrated area of Pennsylvania."

Commissioner Bartley, who has consistently dissented in such situations, concurred with the chairman.

Mr. Simpson owns WTRN Tyrone, WBLF Bellefonte, 67% of WFRM Coudersport and WNBT Wellsboro, and 50% of WKBI St. Mary's, all Pennsylvania.

USIA REPORT ON REDS

Communist broadcasts to foreign lands up 10% in '60

The U. S. Information Agency reports that quiz games, polls and contests, generally served with strong ideological flavoring, are becoming increasingly popular staples of Communist international broadcasting.

The agency also says that Red broadcasting to foreign lands continued to expand last year, climbing from 2,921 hours per week at the end of 1959 to 3,203 hours by December 1960, a 10% gain.

And the "outstanding development" in this connection, the agency adds, "was the continued massive expansion in Communist Chinese output." That country's foreign broadcasting was said to have increased 34%, from 512 hours weekly to 687 hours.

An example cited of radio games, Communist style, involved Radio Moscow's "Club of Peace and Friendship," which was organized in the Soviet capital in September "to strengthen friendly contacts between the Soviet and Arab peoples." The club invited listeners to comment on such questions as: "How could the liquidation of the shameful system of colonialism be effected on our planet?"

Big Jump in Africa ■ And Radio Moscow, in a history quiz beamed to Denmark, asked, "Who was the Danish author who was among the first to visit the USSR to greet the proletarian revolution?"

But it isn't all heavy-handed propaganda, according to USIA's findings. The winner of a quiz for listeners in Spain was to receive a free trip to Moscow to attend a soccer match between Soviet and Spanish teams.

The USIA report reveals that the increase in Communist bloc international broadcasting was evident in all areas of the world, except North America, where a slight decline was registered.

Here, in capsulated form, are bills introduced in Congress that are of interest to those in broadcasting and allied fields:

HR 4743. Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.)—would authorize the FCC to waive the annual inspection of shipboard radio equipment for purpose of permitting an incoming ship to proceed to another U. S. port where the inspection can be held. Commerce Committee. Feb. 22.

HR 4772. Rep. John P. Saylor (R-Pa.)—would create a Commission on Noxious and Obscene Matters and Materials, composed of 19 members, including tv-radio representatives, which would investigate the traffic in obscene materials and propose means of combating it. Education and Labor Committee. Feb. 22.

HR 5099. Rep. Walter Rogers (D-

Tex.)—would provide each state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico with $10,000 for surveys of and plans for educational television needs, and $1 million for the construction of etv facilities, with both grants to be matched by the states. Commerce Committee. March 1.

HR 5194. Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La.)—would amend the Administrative Procedure Act to permit various federal agencies, when temporarily understaffed, to utilize the services of each other's hearing examiners. Judiciary Committee. March 6.

H Res 185. Rep. Earl Wilson (R-Ind.)—would take note of the "trend toward less control of the moral content" of tv and movies and urge those industries to establish screening bodies similar to the movies' old Hays office. Commerce Committee. Feb. 22.

SPECIAL EFFECTS: 1001 special reasons why your commercials should be on SCOTCH® BRAND Live-Action Video Tape!

There is nothing new about special optical effects in TV. What is new . . . excitingly new in video-taping special effects on "SCOTCH" BRAND Video Tape is the instantaneous speed, ease and economy with which tape does the whole bag-of-tricks . . . does 90 per cent of them merely by pushing a button! No waiting for days, weeks, while lab work and processing laboriously create an "effect." On video tape you create electronically, instantaneously. And "1001" is just a number—in creative hands there is no limit!

By pushbutton and an electronic special-effects generator you can create thousands of variations . . . wipes, dissolves, fade-outs . . . you can matte a person or product from one scene into an entirely different one . . . combine several images of the same person on the screen . . . introduce pixie or giant characters with normal-size people . . . do split-screen "before and afters," or a montage of different scenes . . . combine photographs, miniature sets, drawings, cartoons, movies, with live or tape scenes . . . produce pop-on overlay effects, faces, product labels . . . do limited animation of titles, cartoons, as well as smoothly integrating film animation with tape . . . create rain, snow, fire, smoke, even dream sequences—you name it!

And special effects are just the dressing on the salad. Basic video tape advantages for black and white and color, include: (1) new picture quality, "real-life" presence, (2) immediate playback that eliminates errors . . . provides "how're we doin'?" feedback, (3) time and money savings.

Get the tape story! Next TV storyboard you produce, take to your local video tape house for analysis—and a bid that will surprise you. was in broadcasts tailored for, and beamed exclusively to, the volatile new nations of Africa. Though the actual volume of broadcasting is still relatively low—about 97 hours weekly—it has almost doubled since the end of 1959, according to the report.

Swahili, Too ■ Besides broadcasts aimed specifically at Africa, that continent also gets 66½ hours per week of broadcasts primarily intended for other areas, the report added.

And in February 1960, Radio Moscow initiated regular broadcasts in Swahili, the first native African language to be used on a regular schedule. This brought to 56 the number of languages used by the Communist bloc in its foreign broadcasts.

Another significant development in Communist broadcasting last year, in USIA's view, was the appearance of a new German language clandestine station, broadcasting particularly to West German army troops.

Western Europe continues to be the main target of Communist international broadcasts, receiving 889 hours and 25 minutes of them weekly in 1960. The Far East was next, receiving 807 hours and 10 minutes; followed by the Near East and South Asia, 647 hours and 55 minutes; North America, 276 hours; Latin America, 167 hours and 40 minutes; and Africa, 96 hours and 50 minutes.

Radio Aid ■ Besides broadcasting to foreign lands, Communist bloc countries have engaged in an extensive program of radio aid to underdeveloped nations.

This involves aid in the installation of radio transmitters and broadcasting equipment, as well as the export of radio receivers, according to USIA.

In this connection, the agency cited Communist bloc reports of technological innovations. It said Radio Moscow has reported the Soviet Union is exporting to about 30 countries small instruments which transform heat from an ordinary kerosene lamp into electric power that feeds a radio receiver.

WEOL appeals in suit

WEOL Elyria-Lorain, Ohio, took its seven-year-old $1 million triple damage antitrust suit against the Lorain Journal to the U. S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati last week. The radio station, which claims it was damaged in the early 1950's by the newspaper's policy of refusing to accept advertising from businessmen who advertised on WEOL, lost its suit in the lower court last year. A federal judge in Cleveland district court ruled WEOL had failed to substantiate its alleged losses (BROADCASTING, May 30, 1960). The government won an antitrust suit against the newspaper for this practice in 1951.

Filmways registers stock with SEC

Filmways Inc., New York producer of tv commercials now branching out into productions of tv series and possibly feature films, has registered 53,500 shares of common stock with the Securities & Exchange Commission to be offered in various ways.

Filmways is listed on the American Stock Exchange. On March 1 it closed at 5¼.

Filmways' revenue for the year ended July 31, 1960 was $5,721,173; net income (with special tax credit) $36,000.

The statement noted that Filmways has experimented with video tape for commercials and series but has suspended further tests and now is using film only. Due to "numerous technical and administrative problems" in the use of video tape, "it does not approach film" for economy and quality, the company concludes.

Filmways' two tv series currently are 21 Beacon St. and Mister Ed. The company is considering producing feature films, the prospectus said.

Officers & Salaries ■ Martin Ransohoff, board chairman, owns 22% of the outstanding stock. His annual salary is $67,600 and 5% of the company's net. Milton R. Dubin is senior vice president (salary not listed); Lee Goodman ($42,003) is executive vice president and Will Cowan ($36,300 and 3% of net) is a vice president.

Rodney Erickson is Filmways' president. Under a contract specifying his services as "special, unique and extraordinary," Mr. Erickson gets $26,000 for his first year (started Nov. 4, 1960) and $52,000 for the second year. In addition he is to receive the amounts, if any, equal to 40% of certain net revenues of Rodney Erickson Enterprises Inc. (now a Filmways' subsidiary). His aggregate salary is not to exceed $67,600 per year.

The shares in the registration statement will be offered as follows: 20,000 shares in connection with the acquisition of literary properties including photoplays and to induce present or prospective key employees to remain with or to join the company; 17,500 shares to be sold on the exchange from time to time at prevailing market prices; 16,000 shares to be offered by Filmways to holders of a like amount of warrants which were acquired at 1 cent each in December 1958 by S. D. Fuller & Co., in connection with a prior stock offering, of which part was resold to another firm. Each warrant entitles its holder to buy one share of common stock at $5.25. Nine sellers of the 17,500 block of stock were listed who proposed to sell portions ranging from 200 to 8,000 shares.

CURIOUS-LOOKING MAP?

Indeed it is—for everyone knows that the cities on each of the circles are not actually equidistant from Centralia. The explanation? It's not a geographic map at all—it's an economic map. Its purpose is to show how the direct, flexible transportation service provided by trucks shrinks the miles between point of origin and destination—how it has the effect of equalizing the distances between widely scattered cities . . . Centralia, Illinois—the population center of the U. S. and a city of approximately 15,000 people—is within 24 hours by truck of each of the cities plotted on the inner circle—and within 48 hours of those on the outer circle! This, multiplied the length and breadth of the land, is the changing face of America—new market horizons made possible by the magic of truck transport.

THE WHEELS THAT GO EVERYWHERE

Hayward, O'Neil not in tune on pay tv

Proponents of pay television traditionally have touted "quality" programming as the secret ingredient that would win both the public's approval and its money. But once pay tv were established, how long could quality survive in the cross-fire of profit incentive?

There appears to be some difference of opinion on the question between two of the principals in the pay tv test which the FCC has authorized for RKO General's ch. 18, WHCT (TV) Hartford, Conn. The views were expressed after a panel presentation on pay tv before the Investment Analysts Society in Chicago last week.

Broadway producer Leland Hayward, who will develop program material for RKO General's three-year pay tv test in conjunction with Zenith Radio Corp. and others, admitted that, once subscription television is accepted generally, it would not be too hard to guess which program choice would be made by an operator in a given situation: a quality program that would bring in $10,000 or a mass appeal program that would bring in $500,000. Mr. Hayward said, however, that quality programming is a must to get pay tv going.

Tom O'Neil, president of RKO General, said quality would have to be sustained if pay tv wishes to continue to survive even after it has won general acceptance. "If you cheapen your product, pretty soon you lose your customers."

Neither felt pay tv programming would be competitive with commercial tv. They told the panel it would be supplemental and they expressed high expectation that there is enough of a fringe market to make a top quality format economically successful as well as attractive to viewers.

Also on the panel was Joseph Wright, Zenith president, whose company is providing the decoders to RKO General for the test. Zenith's corporate affiliate, Teco Inc., is the Phonevision licensee. The Teco president, Pieter Van Beek, also was present.

Mr. Wright said of the Hartford test: "... From here on out the merits ... are going to be judged not on the basis of theoretical arguments conjured up on a speculative basis, but on the hard facts of what we do. The business will be successful if it brings to the public fine entertainment for which the average viewer is perfectly willing to pay; it will fall flat on its face if it does not generate excitement and enthusiasm."

Ramrod says movie was on tv without permission

Ramrod Productions Inc., Hollywood, has filed a breach of contract suit in Los Angeles Superior Court against RKO General Inc. seeking $1.4 million damages because one of Eddie Fisher's movies "Bundle of Joy," which co-stars Debbie Reynolds, was shown on television without permission. The plaintiff also seeks an injunction against further showing of the film before June 5, 1961, expiration date of a specified five year agreement between RKO Pictures which produced the movie and Ramrod which has Mr. Fisher under a ten year contract.

The plaintiff contends the film was shown 14 times on television, twice daily on WOR-TV New York, between Nov. 28 and Dec. 4, 1960 and on KHSI-TV Chico, Calif. during the week of Feb. 20.

20th Century Fox talks with NTA about buying it

National Telefilm Assoc. last week confirmed reports that it has had discussions with the 20th Century-Fox Corp. for the purchase by Fox of NTA, including WNTA-TV New York.

NTA recently offered its broadcasting properties—WNTA-AM-FM-TV—for sale and there have been several interested purchasers, including a New York civic group working with the National Educational Television & Radio Center; Ely A. Landau, formerly board chairman of NTA and producer David Susskind. Both Mr. Landau and Mr. Susskind have said they have groups that are interested in buying the station but have not made offers. The only bid made for the station has come from the group allied with NETRC, which offered $4 million for WNTA-TV. This was turned down by NTA as "inadequate."

It was reported that Fox's intention is to buy NTA as a whole. Spyros P. Skouras, Fox president and Oliver A. Unger, board chairman of NTA, acknowledged they have been holding talks but said these were still in the exploratory stages.

Hour-long network shows hit syndication trail

MCA TV Film Syndication Div. announced last week that it is offering four, hour-long tv series, which have concluded their network runs, for syndication to tv stations throughout the country. David Sutton, division vice president, noted that in recent years, first-run off-network programs tended to be re-sold for network re-telecasting in daytime or summer periods, and rarely were made available locally.

The four programs and the number of hour episodes offered are: Riverboat (44), Suspicion (21), Cimarron City (26) and Overland Trail (17).

Mr. Sutton said each of the four series already has been bought by WNEW-TV New York, WTTG (TV) Washington, KTTV (TV) Los Angeles, WBNS-TV Columbus, KVOA-TV Tucson, WAGA-TV Atlanta, WEWS-TV Cleveland, KVAR (TV) Phoenix; KKTU (TV) Colorado Springs, Colo.; WGAN-TV Portland, Me.; WITN (TV) Washington, N. ## Program notes...

Crosby's creations ■ Bing Crosby Productions will begin filming two new tv series—a half-hour romantic comedy, starring Eve Arden, and an hour medical series, tentatively titled Ben Casey. James E. Moser created the latter. He also created Medic, but points out that the new series is planned as much more than a lengthened version of that series.

Appoints distributor ■ Carl Dudley, producer of South Seas Adventure, has packed Trans-Lux Television, N. Y., to distribute his new series, It's a Wonderful World, with John Cameron Swayze.

NT&T loss ■ National Theatres & Television reported a net loss of $114,574, equal to 4 cents a share, for the 13-week period ended Dec. 27, 1960. Gross for the period was $9,960,000. For the like period of 1959, NT&T had a net of $401,159 or 15 cents a share on revenues of $11,533,000. President B. Gerald Cantor, in his first-quarter statement to stockholders, pointed out that the 1959 quarter included earnings of $269,000 by WDAF-AM-TV Kansas City, which was sold at a profit of $3 million during 1960, and also reflected unusually large profits—$865,000—from the disposition of theatres and real estate.

Best sound ■ The "Silent Caper" episode of 77 Sunset Strip, produced by Warner Bros. for ABC-TV, was the best sound-edited tv film of 1960, according to the Motion Picture Sound Editors. Awards were presented to Edwin Scheid, supervising editor, and to sound editors Pete Berkos, Mike Colgan, Bruce Flu, Wally Haynes, Stanley Martin and Bill Mauch on March 4 at the eighth annual MPSE banquet at the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills.

RCA VICTOR REVEALS NEW COLOR TUBE

Its improvements are expected to spur consumer interest

The development by RCA Victor of a new color picture tv tube which makes pictures 50% brighter and gives them greater sharpness and contrast than the company's previous tubes is expected to quicken consumer interest in color. It was shown in New York last week.

The new tube, which also reproduces black-and-white pictures with noticeable improvement in brightness, contrast and sharpness, will be made available to all other manufacturers for the color sets they are currently marketing or planning to market. RCA said the new tube results in no change in the price of sets.

The new version of RCA's three-gun shadow mask picture tube was developed by the RCA Electron Tube Div., Lancaster, Pa. It can be furnished to manufacturers in two versions: (1) the conventional type for receivers using separate safety glass, or (2) the laminated safety-plate type which eliminates need for conventional separate safety glass. The tube is of the 21-inch type, which RCA maintains is the ideal size for home viewing of color tv.

Will help dealers ■ The tube's improved brightness, an advantage particularly when viewing in brightly lighted rooms, as in dealer showrooms, was achieved by using improved phosphors of the sulfide type to attain balanced electron beam characteristics. The tube is identified as the RCA-21FBP22.

The improved performance of RCA's color tube, a development which will be featured in a national advertising program in a few weeks, is considered a significant step to boost an expected surge of consumer interest in color set purchases next fall. Though the new tube would be a major color progress event in itself, RCA's announcement came as a capstone to recent events on the color tv frontier. Zenith Radio made headlines with its plans to introduce a line of color receivers in the fall (BROADCASTING, Feb. 27). On the network level, Eastman Kodak said it would leave ABC-TV and CBS-TV to become alternate week sponsor with RCA of next season's new NBC-TV color program, Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color (BROADCASTING, March 6). Eastman specified it was moving to the Disney show in the belief that color television has come of age and because color photography is important to the company's growth.

An engineer at RCA's Lancaster, Pa., color tube plant applies a demagnetizing coil in one phase of checking out a new tube for brighter color. The kaleidoscopic pattern on the tube's face is the result of an electron beam sprayed from the coil to excite the different color phosphors.

Capitol Records enters electronics

Full-scale entry of Capitol Records Inc. into the electronics field through the formation of a wholly-owned subsidiary, Electric & Musical Industries (U. S.) Ltd., was announced last week by Glenn E. Wallich, Capitol president.

The name comes from that of the principal stockholder of Capitol—Electric & Musical Industries Ltd. of England—a major British electronics firm and the largest manufacturer and distributor of magnetic tape in the United Kingdom. EMI will supply EMI/US with a majority of its products, but the new company also has acquired the operations and services of two independent American electronic companies, Hoffman Electron Tube of Westbury, N. Y., and Voi-Shan Electronics Division of Voi-Shan Industries, Los Angeles.

Daniel C. Bonbright, Capitol vice president for administration and finance, also has been named corporate vice president for the company's electronics activities. Capitol's home instruments division, for which he is also responsible, may eventually be merged with EMI/US, he said. A Bruce Rozet, Capitol administrator of management planning, also will become vice president and general manager of EMI/US.

According to Mr. Rozet, the new company will have four divisions: the broadcast division, which will market studio equipment, professional tape recorders and related equipment; the magnetic tape division, which will market video, audio and instrumentation tape; the electronic tube division, to manufacture and market a full line of special high-performance electron tubes and microwave instrumentation, including photomultipliers, klystrons, traveling-wave tubes, camera pick-up tubes, cathode ray tubes and storage tubes; and the consumer products division, which will manufacture and market electronics products for home use.

One of the most important products EMI/US will market initially is tv tape, the company said, noting that the tape to be offered by EMI/US currently is used by both the BBC and CBC. Hoffman Electron Tube, national distributor of electron tubes and microwave components, has distributed EMI tubes for three years in the U.S. Voi-Shan Electronics Div. has been active in the development and manufacture of traveling-wave tubes. Key personnel of Hoffman and Voi-Shan are being retained by EMI/US, which will have executive offices in the Capitol Tower in Hollywood. The company also will maintain an eastern sales office in New York, manufacturing facilities in Los Angeles and servicing-warehousing facilities in 28 locations throughout the country.

EMI/US will introduce its new line to American engineers at the Institute of Radio Engineers trade show in New York March 2-23 and also will have an exhibit at the NAB convention in Washington, May 7-10.

In announcing the expansion, Mr. Wallich commented: "Capitol's move into the electronics field is, we believe, a logical step. It allows us to diversify our present activities by moving into an area that is closely related to our primary business, and one in which EMI, our parent company, has already established pre-eminence as a pioneer and as a major force in the vital area of research and development."

Zenith net earnings top $15 million during '60

Zenith Radio Corp., Chicago, reported net consolidated earnings for 1960 of $15,225,819 ($5.11 a share), representing the firm's second highest year in its 42 year history, in a statement to stockholders last week. A record year was 1959 when earnings were $16,630,144 ($5.63 a share). In 1958 the net profit was $12,116,165 ($4.10 a share).

Net consolidated sales for 1960 were $254,111,740, or 2% below 1959's record $260,033,866, but 30% above the previous record set in 1958. Apart from intensified competition in the consumer electronic field last year, Zenith also suffered some from the firm's first strike that closed its main plants in August.

But in 1960, "for the second successive year, Zenith produced and sold more than 1 million television receivers," it was reported by Board Chairman Hugh Robertson and President Joseph S. Wright.

New oscillator ■ Kay Electronic Co., Pine Brook, N. J., announces the availability of its new Sona-Sweep Model M low-frequency sweeping oscillator. The Model M adapts the accepted techniques of RF swept-frequency alignment for audio and ultrasonic design and test work. The Sona-Sweep also provides a complete measurement system. Further information and prices may be obtained from Kay Electric Co., Dept. BT, Pine Brook, N. J.

Cleveland d. j. prefers simplicity over luxury

Lying in the lap of luxury proved to be more of a strain than a pleasure for a WHK Cleveland d.j., who recently eased his way through five days of a one-week luxury survival test and then forfeited a two-week luxury vacation in Miami Beach by going back to his more customary "simple life." Scott Burton, personality at the Metropolitan Broadcasting outlet, began the experiment after he had requested listeners to send in their ideas for a new kind of endurance or survival test.

Mr. Burton accepted the challenge of Marvin Mintz, president and managing director of the Sahara Motor Hotel in Cleveland, who stated that if the d.j. could maintain his highest happiness quotient determined by a psychiatrist for at least seven full days, he would win a vacation at the Fontainebleau Hotel in Miami Beach. But Mr. Burton flunked when he realized he preferred to walk instead of being carried, that a valet was a bother, that flowers floating in the bathtub were a nuisance and that his specially prepared menu only made him crave for a ham and cheese on rye. The first record he played when he returned to WHK was Frank Sinatra's "Give Me the Simple Life."

Drumbeats...

Greetings ■ WABC New York broadcast a special greeting to the Brooklyn Region of the Hadassah (Women's Zionist Organization of America) on its 49th birthday March 2. Timed to coincide with over 300 luncheon-birthday parties celebrating the occasion, WABC incorporated the greeting into the station's 12:25 p.m. First Person News.

Big Rip ■ WRIP Chattanooga, Tenn., proved to local listeners just how big it really is via the use of Big Rip, a baby elephant, who appeared at a weekend promotion with the station's mobile studios. Station officials claim it was one of the biggest promotions in the city's history with 12,000 hot dogs being sold in two days and many prizes being distributed. Biggest prize of all, according to the consensus of opinion, went to the kiddies who got to ride on Big Rip.

Jamaica, here I come

Mrs. Margot Teleki, timebuyer of Reach-McClinton Inc., New York, receives confirmation of a one-week, all-expenses-paid trip to Jamaica for two from Barry Sherman, managing director of the radio-television division of Esquire Inc., New York. The Jamaica trip was one of two "first place" door prizes presented during a party for advertising agency representatives in celebration of the appointment of John Blair & Co., New York, as national sales representative for WQXI, Esquire-owned radio station in Atlanta. Dick Swart, BBDO timebuyer in New York, won a similar trip for two to Jamaica.

Show promo ■ With the cooperation of the Encyclopaedia Britannica and the Dolphoin Div. of Doubleday Inc., WOR-TV New York, has conducted an on-the-air essay contest relating to the station's week-long showing on "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in honor of Lincoln's birthday. The contest offered viewers an opportunity to win copies of the book, written by Harriet Beecher Stowe, and a grand prize of the 54-volume Great Books of the Western World.

Identification ■ It isn't easy in a big market for the smaller station, especially fm, to establish listener identification and win adequate news space in the local papers. But with a new twist to an old technique, WCLM (FM) Chicago feels it has achieved this. The station reports "enthusiastic" response to its new weekend format of frequent five-minute news originations, telephone recorded from the desks of the editors of some 15 community newspapers, interspersed with music and telephone interviews with personalities from all fields currently in the city. Weekend host of Chicago Orbit is Linn Burton.

Patron of the arts ■ The Metropolitan Broadcasting Corp. and the Columbia U. School of Architecture are co-sponsoring the premiere showing of the works of artist Jacques Fabert at the university's Avery Hall from March 20 through April 16. John Kluge, president of Metropolitan Broadcasting, has been serving as Mr. Fabert's patron and has encouraged the artist to drop all outside activities to concentrate on the development of his talent.

Colorful television ■ A very unconventional "color" transmitter was inaugurated on WNEW-TV New York last week. It seems that the Amazing Randi, a guest on the station's Wonderama, set up a circular prop which alternated black and gray designs. When Randi spun this wheel to the right, the resultant effect was a series of concentric circles displaying a red center. When he spun it in the opposite direction, the red circles appeared on the outside. Those present in the studio could definitely see various color combinations, but some members of technical crew, however, claimed to have seen color on the monitor. The Amazing Randi requested the viewing audience to send postcards if they saw color on their home sets. Letters were received from "hundreds" of children and adults substantiating the crew's claims.

FATIGUE—A FRIEND IN DISGUISE

Nobody welcomes fatigue. Yet, it can be a friend in disguise. Without a sense of fatigue, we would often push ourselves beyond our endurance—and the diagnosis of certain diseases, of which fatigue is an early symptom, might be long delayed.

There are many kinds and many causes of fatigue. For example, there's simple physical fatigue which you feel after a strenuous "work-out." You rest or get a good night's sleep—and it vanishes.

Fatigue may also be caused by low blood sugar—especially among people who eat little or no breakfast. Any healthy person who "tires out" before noon should have a breakfast high in protein foods—meat, eggs and milk.

In contrast, there's the persistent and exhausting form of fatigue that's entirely unrelated to physical effort or diet. This is nervous or emotional fatigue caused by anxiety, tension or boredom.

If you are persistently tired, take a look at your way of life. How much exercise do you get? Physical activity is often the one thing most needed to overcome emotional fatigue.

When fatigue persists, see your physician. A check-up will reveal whether there's any disease causing tiredness. A frank talk about your worries may help untangle the emotional knots that make you "tired all the time." Fatigue shouldn't be ignored.

Remember: for the most common forms of fatigue, "tonics" are seldom, if ever, of any value. Fatigue, like any other symptom of physical or mental distress, should be investigated by your physician.

THE HOLE IN CANADA'S TALENT POOL

Broadcasters cite talent exodus to U.S. in BBG fight

Canadian broadcasters told the Parliamentary Committee on Broadcasting early this month at Ottawa that there were plenty of jobs open at their radio and television stations. But, they said, independent television stations are going to have difficulty finding enough Canadian talent to meet the Board of Broadcast Governors' requirements of 45% Canadian program content after April 1.

The supply of Canadian television talent is "strained to the limit" stated Don Jamieson, CJON-TV St. John's, Nfld. He pointed out it would be extremely difficult for stations in smaller centers to meet the BBG requirements of Canadian program content. Mr. Jamieson and other representatives of the Canadian Assn. of Broadcasters, explained that there is a steady flow of tv talent from all parts of Canada to Toronto and Montreal, then to the United States.

T. J. Allard, executive vice-president of CAB, asked that the wording in the Canada Broadcasting Act be changed to include Canadian production, instead of just program content. Murray Brown of CFPL-TV London, Ont., CAB president, stated that program production embraces more than just acting or musical talent, that a good news operation by a station was certainly talent. And Mr. Jamieson added that good scriptwriting was an important talent at present in short supply.

The CAB told the committee that the advent of 10 new tv stations in the past year has created a demand for 1,500 to 2,000 people who understand the complex working of television. The organization felt that the BBG should be concerned with promoting all kinds of broadcasting skills, not just performing talent.

CBC, Too ■ Al Ouimet, president of Canadian Broadcasting Corp., government-owned system, told the committee a few days later that the new independent tv stations in the past year have lured away many technicians from the CBC, but he knew of no performing talent going over to the new stations.

Mr. Ouimet felt that there is plenty of Canadian talent waiting to be developed. He suggested that some of the independent tv stations have not done enough to promote new talent because they can rely on programs imported from the United States, and CBC networks. On the other hand, French-language tv stations have done an excellent job because they have to promote local talent since they have nothing else to fall back on.

Asked about the exodus of Canadian tv stars and producers to the United States, Mr. Ouimet said "This is proof that Canadian tv has come of age and is producing talent worthy of the world stage. As we get better, we'll lose more and more but we'll also attract more and more."

CAB officials told the committee that the BBG method of examining station program logs was not satisfactory because the logs do not set forth the real character and standards of a station's programs.

Mr. Allard, speaking for the CAB, stated that the association looked askance at a suggestion that the BBG be given power to fine stations for breaking BBG regulations. Mr. Jamieson felt that the system of hearings needed if BBG fines were allowed would make for a "tremendously unwieldy system." (BBG chairman Dr. Andrew Stewart told the committee recently that the board should have power to fine stations who exceed spot advertising regulations, the fine to be the amount collected for such excess advertising.)

CAB again requested that the 48-hour blackout of political broadcasts prior to an election be dropped. Last year the Canadian Parliament rejected this proposal.

some of the temporary employees now are being dropped, Mr. Aldred said.

He accused the American Federation of Musicians of blocking employment of Toronto musicians by demanding multiple fees for programs intended for syndication by the station. He said AFM has two standards for fees, one for the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. and its network shows, and another for privately-owned stations; a fee is charged according to the number of stations that will use the filmed or taped programs planned by CFTO-TV, he said.

Psychological deafness predicted from tv ads

Many of today's television gimmicks are offending public taste and credulity, Ron W. Todgham, president of Chrysler Corp. of Canada, stated at the National Sales Executive Club of Toronto on Feb. 27. He predicted that if tv writers and producers of commercial advertising do not modify their techniques, the public will revolt by tuning out the offending commercials with the overly hard-sell.

"This could develop into a sort of mass psychological deafness on the part of viewers which could nullify the whole basic purpose and value of the modern tv commercial," Mr. Todgham said.

This could become a chronic state of mind where every time the sponsor of a program was mentioned, the viewer developed conveniently faulty hearing until the commercial was over. He added that the phonier a commercial appeared, the costlier it was.

"I can't escape the feeling that a lot of producers of today's commercials have still got to take a more mature and less frantic approach, in terms of their attitude to public taste and gullibility."

Mr. Todgham felt that tv is taking away the strength and vigor of the art of personal selling in North America. Since the customer knows every slogan and jingle before setting out to make a purchase, the play is taken away from the salesman even before he meets the prospect, he said.

"Televised advertising has supplanted the art of personalized selling almost as much as the automotive industry has outmoded the horsedrawn dairy wagon," Mr. Todgham concluded.

Canadian pay-tv financial report due

When shareholders of Famous Players Canadian Ltd., Toronto, Ont., meet late in March they may learn how much money is being taken in by their pay tv subsidiary, Trans-Canada Telemeter. Pay-tv has now been in operation for a full year at Etobicoke, a suburb of Toronto. To date, 6,000 subscribers have been connected.

Only about 100 subscribers have had their coin boxes disconnected on the grounds they were not using pay-tv after paying the $5 installation charge. Trans-Canada Telemeter reported at a news conference on March 2 at Toronto that it has been taking boxes out of homes which do not show a minimum of 75 cents a week. There are some 450 people in the Etobicoke area waiting for service, Trans-Canada Telemeter officials explained, and there is a shortage of coin boxes.

Pay-tv's biggest attraction has been the Sunday evening hockey games. There are no live Canadian productions planned immediately, but a number of New York shows and productions are to be shown over the pay-tv system live or on tape this month and during the spring. Trans-Canada Telemeter wants to show productions which will not be seen on free-tv. It stopped negotiations with the National Ballet of Canada after the group appeared on CBC-TV.

Requests by the Canadian Assn. of Broadcasters and CBC that pay-tv come under jurisdiction of the Board of Broadcast Governors, Canada's regulatory body, have been deferred for the time being after studies by the BBG staff. The BBG made its report to the Parliamentary Committee on Broadcasting at Ottawa on March 1. It pointed out that as long as closed circuit systems operate entirely within a province "it would require a much stronger case than now exists to justify bringing these works and undertakings under federal jurisdiction."

CBC President Al Ouimet told the Parliamentary Committee he was willing to accept the BBG's "wait-and see" suggestion, since closed circuit television supplies less than 5% of the telecasting done in Canada.

The BBG report also covered the 260 community antenna systems serving about 200,000 Canadian homes across Canada, carrying both U.S. and Canadian station programs.

Independent tv station to carry football games

Television rights for the 1961 and 1962 seasons of the Canadian Big Four football clubs have been purchased by CFTO-TV Toronto. In previous years the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. carried the league's games.

CFTO-TV, which went on the air late last year as Toronto's second tv station, bought tv rights to the games for a two-year period for $750,000. CBC had offered $350,000 a year for use of the games on its regional tv networks. Last year, CBC paid $325,000. Not covered in the contract are the national Grey Cup championship games.

The contract calls for televising at least 17 games each year. Joel Aldred, president of CFTO-TV stated the games will also be carried by CJOH-TV Ottawa, Ont., and CFCF-TV and CFTM-TV Montreal. He expects other Canadian stations to carry the series also.

To date no sponsors have been set, though two breweries are reportedly interested in Ontario and Quebec markets.

John Bassett, chairman of CFTO-TV, is also chairman of the Toronto Argonaut team, one of the four signatories to the agreement.

CBC has now ruled that its affiliated network stations, which this year for the first time signed "option time" contracts, including football, will not be able to carry the Big Four games, without breaking their CBC contract. This involves some 37 stations across Canada. If they break their CBC contract they will lose all CBC shows, on which most of them count for their 45% Canadian program content regulation.

Meanwhile CFTO-TV is endeavoring to sign up the new tv stations not on the CBC network. All of these seven stations have not yet signified their readiness to carry the games.

BBG approves CKEY sale

The sale of CKEY Toronto for $4.1 million to a Canadian-U.S. group was approved by the Canadian Board of Broadcast Governors at Ottawa last week. The station, owned by Jack Kent Cook, was sold to a syndicate including Canadian and U. S. Westinghouse Electric Corp. companies, the Toronto Globe & Mail and four Toronto businessmen (BROADCASTING, March 6). The BBG approval was contingent on voting control of the station remaining in Canadian hands and a statement of the new owners, Shore Acres Broadcasting Co., that programming will be improved.

THIS GIANT JET FLEET...

SERVES MORE CITIES IN MORE COUNTRIES THAN ANY OTHER AIRLINE

53 pure jets! This is the giant Air France Jet fleet. 20 Boeing 707 Intercontinental Jets—more American-built Boeing 707 Jets, in fact, than any other European airline. And 33 medium-range Caravelle Jets. The Caravelle is the jet Air France pioneered so successfully.

Already well over one million people have flown Air France Jets. For Air France Jets fly around the world. Air France Boeing 707 Jets fly direct to Europe from New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, Montreal, Anchorage and Mexico City. Air France Boeing 707 Jets also provide swift giant steps from Europe to South America, Africa and the Far East. And the outstanding Air France Caravelle Jets serve 42 cities in Europe, North Africa and the Middle East.

The pilots who fly Boeing 707 Jets are as remarkable as the jets they fly—6,000,000-mile-experienced veterans. No other airline in the world has higher standards for flight personnel. Small wonder that Air France, with a 42-year record of flying experience and service, is the world's largest airline.

"MEANWHILE, BACK ON EARTH"

(13½ minutes—16MM Black and White—sound cleared for TV)

A newsworthy blend of the MISSILE AGE, the CIVIL WAR, and present day RED CROSS activities—this film features the years most dramatic disaster footage on the CHILEAN EARTHQUAKE and HURRICANE DONNA. More than a public service film—it's a motion picture with audience appeal.

ANIMATED TV SPOTS

(60-20-10 seconds)

PARKER FENNELLY is again featured as the lovable POSTER BILL. With him is the well-known actor HOWARD MORRIS—as a roving reporter who is left "speechless" in a humorous "bite" by Bill's loyal dog, Max. These spots provide the "light" touch to a serious fund drive. They are available in TWO versions—one for MARCH CAMPAIGN cities and one for UNITED FUND cities.

OUR RESPECTS to Lester Hayden Carr, president, DECO

A domain unbound by distances, on earth or in space

Les Carr is one broadcast engineer who has made it.

Thirty years ago he was an assistant engineer at KSTP St. Paul. Twenty years ago he was in charge of CBS Central Division's transmitters. Today, at 51, Lester Hayden Carr is president and owner of Developmental Engineering Corp., a Washington engineering firm which handles about $2 million worth of advanced engineering research and development business a year. Most of this work is for the government and extends 400 million miles into space and thousands of feet into the substrata of the earth.

DECO designed the first operational space satellite transoceanic communications system. This is the Navy's trans-Pacific circuit radio, from Washington to Hawaii, via the moon. DECO's portion of the $35 million moon-bounce project—which went operational in January last year—was the design of the antennas and the ground facilities.

DECO also had another first, the obverse of moon circuit, called project "Lithicom." In this operation, DECO transmitted radio waves through the earth itself in July 1960 from a 1,000-foot-deep mine near Carlsbad, N. M.

Right now the Carr enterprise is busy with two projects, both "way out" in the field of radio communications.

The first is in Cutler, Me., where DECO has designed a two-million-watt, very-low-frequency facility for the Navy. The other is in Arecibo, P.R., where the company designed, and is supervising construction of a 1,000-foot parabolic antenna inside an extinct volcano. This will be part of an Air Force radar telescope to probe the moon and other celestial bodies as far away as Venus and Jupiter. It will transmit a peak pulse of five trillion watts on 430 mc.

Country Gentleman ■ DECO headquarters are on 200 acres of rolling hillside outside Leesburg, Va., about 35 miles from Washington, in a large country fieldstone manor house. Les Carr designed and supervised the building of the house himself, as he has the restoration of the estate's gate house and several former slave cabins.

The estate is called Fort Evans, after Confederate Brig. Gen. Shanks Evans, who surprised and beat back a Union force crossing the Potomac River at Ball's Bluff in October 1861.

About a hundred yards from the main house is the low, one-story, cinder block 200-foot-long headquarters laboratories of DECO. There, some 50 professional communications engineers and supporting clerks are always busy.

Outside the DECO building are several acres of antenna installations, all shapes and arrays. DECO also has a branch office at Boulder, Colo., where the National Bureau of Standards' radio propagation laboratory is located, with about 18 scientists, and in Boston with about 15 professionals. The Boston office is headed by Dr. Wilbur Davenport, a professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Lincoln Labs.

Distinct from DECO, but part of the Carr organization is Scatter Communications Inc., Bethesda, Md., from which about 30 engineers install scatter communications links for customers, mainly the government.

Les Carr was born in Elk River, Minn., June 16, 1910. While attending the U. of Minnesota, he put in a full 60-hour trick (4 p.m. to 1 a.m. daily) as master control operator at KSTP St. Paul. He received his E.E. degree from Minnesota in 1934 and immediately became assistant chief engineer of the St. Paul radio station. Later he was promoted to chief engineer, and was also technical director of the Minnesota Network, a statewide group of radio stations.

On to Chicago ■ He left KSTP in 1940 to become transmitter engineer in charge of CBS Central Division's stations. This covered WBBM Chicago and KMOX St. Louis. One of his major responsibilities was the installation at WBBM of the first 50 kw, high level modulated transmitter.

Production models were scheduled to be built by Federal Telephone Labs in New Jersey. James F. Weldon, a transmitter consultant widely known throughout the broadcast industry was hired to supervise this design. It was this association that culminated in Weldon & Carr, a consulting engineering firm in Washington.

But before this took place, World War II intervened. Mr. Carr joined the Navy's Bureau of Ships as an electronics consultant. During this period, he was responsible for the design and installation of radar beacons, used for aeronautical navigation in the Aleutians. He also was responsible for Loran ground installations, another electronic navigational system. In the last years of the war, he was a special consultant to the Navy's communications system design group.

DECO was established in 1952 as an offshoot of the research and development work undertaken by Weldon & Carr. Originally DECO specialized in antenna research and design, but in 1957 the company moved into its present field, advanced communications systems.

Mr. Carr is not the only former broadcast engineer in the DECO organization. The director at Leesburg is Lucian Rawls, formerly with WSM Nashville. The associate director is William Alberts, formerly with Crosley Broadcasting Corp.

Mr. Carr married the former Helmi Lukkarila of Mountain Iron, Minn., in 1933. They have a son, 17, and three daughters, 14, 10 and 8.

Leesburg is in the Virginia horse country and the Carr family has nine saddle horses. But true to their Minnesota background, the Carrs also ski and have a toboggan slide.

Les Carr's hobbies are close to his profession. In his youth, he was a ham operator, in fact, was the second radio amateur in Minnesota to receive a WAC (worked all continents) card, in 1927. When Admiral Richard E. Byrd led the first full scale U.S. exploration of Antarctica in 1928, young Les Carr in Minnesota handled personal traffic for members of that expedition.

Amateur radio was so important to him in high school that all the money he earned playing in a local dance orchestra (sax and clarinet) went into parts for his rig.

Today, he is a hi fi enthusiast. A standing joke among his friends is that Les Carr's hi fi is always out of commission; he continually rips it apart to add newer and better components. His stereo collection, a large one, is all on tape. His only other hobby is collecting guns, to the extent that he and his son mold their own bullets.

DECO's Carr
His hi fi won't work

Color thrust

TWO events of recent weeks suggest an awakening interest in color television.

Zenith announced it would market a line of color sets.

Eastman Kodak announced it had moved its sponsorship from Ed Sullivan in monochrome to Walt Disney in color to get the benefits of color advertising.

We find significance in these events because they show a mutuality of interest in color television between two companies with different purposes.

Zenith wants to make money as a manufacturer of color sets. As a canny marketer, Zenith has noticed a softening in black-and-white television sales and is looking for new products to arouse consumer interest.

Eastman wants to get maximum impact from television advertising for products that are already attuned to the growing public interest in color photography.

We do not doubt that other television equipment manufacturers will begin to think of color as a stimulant for equipment sales. As they do, they will provide the sets that color television needs to become an influential advertising medium. As color set circulation rises, more advertisers are bound to follow in Eastman's steps.

For manufacturers, broadcasters and advertisers it's going to be hard to stay out of color much longer.

Suitable for framing

WE COMMEND to the attention of all departments of the government the observations that President Kennedy made last week in accepting an award from the Radio and Television Executives Society of New York.

"Of one thing you can be certain," Mr. Kennedy said in a message to the RTES, "this administration will do nothing to impair the freedom of the mass communications media guaranteed under our Constitution and our democratic precepts."

The full text of his observations appears elsewhere in this issue. It is suitable for framing and hanging on all bureaucrats' walls.

Collins on the move

NAB's new president, LeRoy Collins, is a man of action. Barely a month after he had assumed office, he told his employers what was wrong with them and their trade association and how he intended to go about achieving strength, prestige and respect for their profession.

In his startling speech to the NAB board on Feb. 10, Gov. Collins said he would present a plan for full-scale reorganization of the trade association at the next board meeting in June. He sought and received authority for outside assistance.

Last week Gov. Collins retained Robert K. Richards, former administrative vice president of the NAB, as special consultant to assist him in developing a reorganization plan. It is an ideal selection.

Although Bob Richards resigned his NAB position in 1954 to establish his own consulting business, actually he has never been out of the NAB fold. He was promptly retained as consultant to the late president, Hal Fellows, and has been on a retainer since. Mr. Richards has had extensive station experience (in the Storer organization). He was in the Office of Censorship during World War II and from 1944 until he joined the NAB in 1947, was editorial director of BROADCASTING. He is now part owner of radio stations in Muskegon, Mich., and Keyser, W. Va. His background and experience, therefore, cover virtually the full circle of broadcasting activities.

Gov. Collins will be the chief architect of the reorganization plan that inevitably will call for a more compact and harder-driving structure geared toward the twin goals of better government and public relations. Because he has not heretofore been identified either with broadcasting or trade association activities, he needed outside counsel.

Thank you, Mr. President

THE ground rules established in President Kennedy's recent news conferences strike us as a sensible compromise between those that obtained during Mr. Eisenhower's incumbency and those of the early Kennedy conferences that were broadcast live.

It now appears that most of Mr. Kennedy's conferences will be recorded on video and audio tape. Broadcasters can use the tape as they wish, in full or in part and at any time after the conferences are over. This is a substantial improvement on the rules of the former administration which insisted on controlling the content and timing the release of tapes made at Mr. Eisenhower's conferences.

Indeed the kind of taped coverage that Mr. Kennedy now permits has some advantages over live coverage. It gives broadcasters the editorial freedom to treat the conferences as news, to use as much or as little as their news values warrant. If a live broadcast is offered, it is hard to reject. Unless Mr. Kennedy turns out to be unique among all the Presidents in history, not all his conferences will be considered worth presenting in full text to every television and radio home in the nation.

This is not to say that live coverage should be entirely abandoned. There will be conferences that promise to generate enough interest to justify live coverage, and the White House has indicated, with good judgment, that on such occasions live cameras and microphones can be used.

Not unexpectedly, some representatives of the press have objected to the new status accorded radio and television in the White House. They wish for a return to news conference rules that favored newspapers and newspaper services. Broadcasters—and the American public—must be gratified by the refusal of Mr. Kennedy and his news secretary, Pierre Salinger, to knuckle under to the newspapers.

Under the coverage system now in effect, the public is getting the best news coverage that it has ever had.
