RIAA Bows New Tech Division

David W. Stebbing

A NEW TECHNOLOGY division with aims to focus on evaluating all aspects of existing and emerging technologies has been formed by the Recording Industry Assn. of America (RIAA), and scientist David Stebbing has been named to head the new division for the trade group. This new RIAA appendage will focus on several projects, including creation of Copyright Management Systems to help protect copyright owners when music is electronically distributed or played and to increase the RIAA's ability to monitor technology issues facing the U.S. sound recording industry, and keep Congress and administration officials abreast of the industry's key concerns about emerging technologies.

"This is an important move for us, and we're confident that this new division will be of great service to our membership, as well as to the industry overall," commented Hilary Rosen, the RIAA's president/COO. "We've been monitoring technological advances for years, but decided that the time had come to put a name on the division, and to significantly expand its scope."

It was also time to name someone to head the division. Stebbing comes to the post of RIAA's sr. vp of technology from Sony Music Entertainment, Inc., where he worked as a scientist for 14 years. He also spent time working at the K. M. Laboratories, the U.S. division of Electronic Martin S.A. Belgium.

"We're very excited and fortunate to have David Stebbing join us," Rosen commented. "He is a renowned visionary, as well as an experienced, business oriented engineer. As our association positions itself for the future, I feel sure that David will take us there with confidence."

NARM Weaves WEB

THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF RECORDING MERCHANDISERS (NARM) will launch its NARM On-Line World Wide Web site for the organization's membership in February. The Netscape 2.0-enhanced site will be accessed at <http://www.narm.com>. Member companies will receive passwords that offer them exclusive use of the key features of the site.

"NARM has been re-engineering its strategy to serve its members in the rapidly expanding information age," said NARM exec vp Pamela Horovitz. "The World Wide Web site provides a fully interactive link to our membership and offers them a range of services." The new site does not affect NARM's direct dial industry database.

Under a multi-year contract with NARM, Trade Service Corporation, publisher of the recorded music reference guide Phonolog, will develop and operate the fully interactive Internet site, featuring full-color graphics and links to other member sites, including record labels and distributors.

Tommy LiPuma (left) head of GRP Records and president of its affiliate label Impulse! Records, was recently in the studio working with legendary pianist and newly-signed Impulse! artist Horace Silver. Hard Bop Grand Piano, the first album under the deal, is set for release in June.

A TALE OF TWO SECRET SHOWS: A problem that so many bands have experienced is the lack of audience contact when they begin to play bigger shows in larger venues. In order to get back to their roots, performers will do more and more shows without announcing their presence or under a pseudonym. It was the latter idea that was used when the Dayton, Ohio Guided By Voices played a one-off night at the Khyber Pass in Philadelphia on Saturday under the name The Burning Assholes. The ensuing show was every bit as good as one would expect. Opening up was the side project of Strapping Field Hands vocalist Bob Malloy, Ashtabula. The four-song set of psychedelic pop was very well-received. From the Buckeye's capitol came The Yips, a guitar and drums duo that made many wonder where the other members of the band were hiding with their rich punk and folk sound. The band is expected to release its debut on Siltbreeze in the Spring. Matador's Run On stepped up to the challenge with a set that realized the group's full potential and had many cheering for more. Pure pandemonium broke out though as Guided By Voices ascended from the floorboards. The prolific Bob Pollard kept up his streak of writing addictively catchy tunes as the band went through over fifteen new songs that will be released in March by Matador, entitled Under The Bushes Under The Stars. With stage diving and slamming going on throughout the set, many came out with their clothes well-soaked and very happy about it.

The other side of the coin was at Brownies in New York on Monday. The Jon Spencer Blues Explosion preparing for a tour down South starting at the end of January. The last time the trio played in New York they sold out a venue almost nine times the size of the club. So the Explosion simply added itself to a bill at the last minute, and even then the internet lit up with info on the gig. It took the intercession of its label, Matador, to try and squelch rumors so that mayhem would not ensue. The Blues Explosion joined the up and rising Speed King which has just had its first single released on the Merry Dodger label out of Oberlin. Despite the back injury of drummer James Murphy, the band kept its tight noise assault on track. Poem Rocket took a different tack with an almost '90s Joy Division sound. Led by a singer, who many commented had a possessed look about him, the group had a number of people swaying. The group's latest release, Felix Culpa, is a compilation of singles on PCP Entertainment. Then came the unannounced headliners and the crowd tensed with anticipation. The resulting blast was both fresh and furious (despite some early technical difficulties) as the band played over an hour with all new material. Jon Spencer known for stolid demeanor smiled more than he probably did in all of 1995. Sometimes secrets can really be better than sharing.

YOUNG AND ADDICTED: It must be something in the water, but now Australia has given us another band whose members aren't legal to imbibe: Noise Addict. These teens from Down Under are led by Ben Lee, who became an indie-rock darling with his solo debut Grandpaw Would. Now with a full length LP, Meet The Real You on the Beastie Boys imprint Grand Royal, Master Lee gets a chance to prove himself. Playing before a packed crowd at the Knitting Factory on Wednesday the 17th, the group looked like they hadn't even reached puberty. The music was very reminiscent of groups such as Superchunk, but it was the wordsmith skills of Ben that showed maturity which was not readily apparent by appearance. Could get 30 years old, figuratively speaking.

WEST COAST

1996 marked quite a year for Dave Grohl's new band, Foo Fighters. The group was named "Best New Band," and Grohl won "Best New Male Vocalist" in the Rolling Stone readers poll. To kick off 1996, the band will release its first commercial single, "Big Me," to be followed by another tour of the states. Seen here reaping more awards are (l-r): (top row) Grohl, Gary Gersh, Capitol Records president and ceo. (bottom row) William Goldsmith, Pat Smear, Nate Mendel.

AS VALENTINE'S DAY APPROACHES, lovers have two decidedly different music-related options from which to choose. The more conventional choice is a live concert by Columbia Records' Tony Bennett, to air on cable's A&E network. The show, to be titled "Tony Bennett Live By Request: A Valentine's Special," will feature a unique interactive format that allows viewers to call in during the performance to request their favorite song by the veteran crooner.

In addition to airing on A&E, the concert will be broadcast simultaneously through the SW Network in '80 markets across the country. To gear up for the interactive portion of the concert, Bennett will host an online chat on Prodigy on February 13. Impatient fans can start getting their song requests in during the online conversation.

If that doesn't get your blood racing, the WARP Magazine and Airwalk sponsored BoardAid 3 will certainly give you a jump start. The annual event raises money for LIFEbeat's "Joey DiPaolo Fund," which supports grants to teen-oriented AIDS service and education programs. This year's show will be held at Bear Mountain Ski Resort in Big Bear, CA. Among the acts already signed on to perform are Bad Religion, 7 Year Bitch and Unwritten Law. More names will be added to the bill.

THE WEEK OF JANUARY 15 saw two members of legendary L.A. band X team up with other performers for two unique performances. John Doe, and guest Smokey Hormel, best known for his work with the Blasters, performed two shows at the intimate McCabe's Guitar Shop in Santa Monica. All that needs to be said about this performance is, Doe encored with the Replacements' "Here Comes The Regular. Wow.

Meanwhile, kudos must go to The Troubadour for hosting a spoken-word evening headlined by Exene Cervenka and Lydia Lunch. Opening the show was author Hubert Selby, Jr., best known for the acclaimed Last Exit To Brooklyn. Selby showed everyone there a thing or two about readings, as he did a masterful job of keeping the audience's attention and respect. It was a joy to behold.

Warner/Chappell Music Publishing Inc. executives gathered recently to celebrate the signing of A&M recording artists 16 Horsepower to an exclusive worldwide publishing deal. The band was in L.A. performing with Shane McGowan & The Popes. Pictured (l-r): Kenny MacPhearson, senior v.p., Warner/Chappell; 16 Horsepower's Keven Soll and

Cyco Miko's Mike Muir: Going Crazy

By Steve Baltin

*"Well I'm a certified nut and my thoughts are in a rut, but I gave it all then I gave it again."
(From "Lost My Brain Once Again" Cyco Miko, 1996)*

IS FORMER SUICIDAL TENDENCIES lead vocalist Mike Muir crazy? Consider the following evidence: Suicidal's biggest hit was the alienated youth classic, "Institutionalized," made famous by its refrain of "All I want is a Pepsi." Muir's new band is called Cyco Miko. The group's energetic and droll debut album, on Epic Records, is entitled Lost My Brain...Once Again. Among the 11 songs on the disc, which Muir co-produced with Michael Vail Blum, are the catchy opening track, "I Love Destruction," the hook-driven "All Kinda Crazy," "Cyco Miko Wants You," a furiously paced anthem, and the rebellious "Ain't Gonna Get Me."

But the most damaging piece of evidence comes when I arrive at our appointed meeting place. Upon arrival, his publicist sits me down in the conference room and says, "Mike is on his way here from Camarillo (home to one of the biggest mental hospitals in California)." It's gotta be a joke, right? Either that or he's on medication and they let him out on a day pass to talk about the new album, as well as his work with Infectious Grooves, a band still very much in existence.

Muir, who enters the room wearing a baseball cap, a Cyco Miko sports t-shirt that reads "XXX Loco" in the center and sunglasses (which never come off during our chat) sits down directly across from me and answers questions freely, at times, struts down a "rambling" verbal highway. After sitting with the outspoken and experienced Muir for a much too brief 40-minute conversation, I'm convinced it's entirely possible Muir is wacko.

Combine his personality traits with his comments, and one can't help but wonder. Just look at the following:

1) The point he emphasizes the most is that he's making these records for himself and doesn't give a damn what anybody else thinks about them. He is even so bold as to say, "I'm not gonna sell a hell of a lot of records." However, Muir may be wrong in that assessment. Throughout his career, Muir has always been a pace setter, with everyone else a couple of steps behind. He recounted an anecdote about one punk 'zine that hated Suicidal's first album upon its release. When the band was about to put out its second album, that same 'zine hated it, though the group's first album was bumped up to "classic" status. That's why Muir believes, "You make records for all time. Not for now."

2) He has an opinion and isn't afraid to voice it. When asked if he listens to anything on the current music scene he responds, "I wish I could say there was something out there. But it's been a really long time since anything grabbed me."

3) Despite Suicidal's success, the band never reached the multi-platinum plateau. Something Muir is thankful for. Why? "Because then people would've expected something from me." The way Muir sees it is that Suicidal had enough impact for him to be able to keep making records. However, since the band never found a guaranteed formula for commercial success, no one at the label is gonna bother telling him what to do.

4) He believes that people spend way too much time worrying about what other people think, a habit that comes partly from the categorizations of music. In Muir's demented way of thinking, "If a record is good, it's good. I don't know why you need that word punk in front of it. To me, the Sex Pistols was a good rock record."

5) He's proud of the work he's done in every musical incarnation he's been involved in and likes to listen to it. His reasoning behind this. "I wouldn't do something if I didn't think it was good."

6) In punk, an artist's integrity is often called into question when they achieve some level of success. But don't waste your time accusing Muir of selling out. He doesn't care. In his words. "I learned a long time ago not to like someone who doesn't like me."

7) Muir was recently in Europe ronting both Cyco Miko and Infectious Grooves on the same bill (the same double bill will be hitting the States very shortly). While there, he says "Every other article there referred to me as the legendary Mike Muir." Although that would be a hand job to the ego for most, Muir had reservations about the term. He says, "I thought, 'I don't know if that's a compliment or not.' To me a legend is somebody you have a statue of in the park and who's dead."

8) Although "Institutionalized" was once voted one of the top five songs of all time by KROQ listeners, Muir still retains his humility when it comes to his heroes. He says about working with former Sex Pistols' guitarist Steve Jones, who appears on seven songs on the album, "It took me about two or three months to be able to call him because I'd never done that before. He (Jones) said, 'I'm kinda busy, but send me a tape.' I sent him the tape, he listened to it and said, 'I get what you're trying to do. I can play this.'"

9) In the wonderfully wacky Robert Trujillo directed video for the album's title track, Muir goes on a wild goose chase through his hood for his lost brain. After just missing it for the duration of the video, Muir resigns himself to his brainless status, sits himself down and says, "I never use it anyhow."

10) Not only does Muir appear to have schizophrenic tendencies, he makes the illness contagious. When Muir fronts Cyco Miko and Infectious Grooves on the two bands' upcoming tour of the states, the groups will have the exact same touring line-ups (As for new work from Infectious, Muir says the band has recorded "47" songs and is in the midst of sorting through them in hopes of determining what they want to release).

While all of those points should be heeded, and certainly beg the question of how sane, if at all,

Muir is, one only needs to bring into focus the point that Muir is happy, content and self-assured playing solitaire with only half a deck!! He lives in L.A. in the year 1996, is a signed musician and he says, "I realize that, hey, 'I'm Mike Muir.' I actually like being Mike Muir...and nobody does Mike Muir better than me." What the hell would Newt and Dole say to that? Like Muir cares.

REVIEWS By Steve Baltin

GIN BLOSSOMS: "Follow You Down" (A&M 00148)

The lead single from the Arizona band's forthcoming Conratulations I'm Sorry CD, due next month, immediately grabs listeners with a jangly, vaguely Byrds-esque type hook. Starting with "Hey Jealousy," the group has had a remarkable run of singles that have consistently been multi-format hits. With its straight-ahead, mid-America pop approach, "Follow You Down" will keep that streak alive with ease.

MARTIN PAGE: "Light In Your Heart" (Mercury 1146)

In math circles, the following equation is one of the simplest to solve that you'll ever find. What do you get if you take the singer of last year's biggest Adult Contemporary hit, have him co-write a track with Bernie Taupin and throw Phil Collins in on drums? A smash. "Light In My Heart" is similar in melody to Page's "In The House Of Stone And Light." An airy mid-tempo track that should make a significant impact at CHR, as well as A/C.

BRUCE ROBERTS: "Let Me Steal Your Heart" (Atlantic 6577-2)

As a songwriter, Roberts has definitely shown the midas touch over the years. Among the hits he's penned for others are "The Main Event," "No More Tears (Enough Is Enough)" and "Making Love." Like Martin Page and Dillon O'Brian in recent years, Roberts feels ready to make the jump out into the limelight. With this lovely piano-based ballad, Roberts makes a strong push for Adult Contemporary that is hard to ignore.

SKUNK ANANSIE: "I Can Dream" (One Little Indian/Epic 7639)

Lead vocalist Skin is in full effect on this angry rock anthem. One of the more charismatic singers to emerge last year, she teeters between caterwauling and emoting. But thanks to strong riffs and thought-provoking lyrics, the band stays on the passionate side of the fence. Unfortunately for all involved, this band's eclectic integrity has kept them from zeroing in on a target market. But the band is simply too good to stay underground for long.

PICK OF THE WEEK

AIMEE MANN: "Choice In The Matter" (DGC 4845)

Christmas is here a month late for the patient, and loyal, fans of former Til Tuesday lead singer Aimee Mann. After her much publicized problems with former label Imago, Mann's superb new album, I'm With Stupid, is about to hit stores. Kicking off the release is this wonderful pop tune. "Choice In The Matter" combines Liz Phair type hooks with '60s pop grooves for a track that lingers in the head long after the music has stopped. A sure hit at Triple A, the song should easily cross over to CHR and could hit at Top 40, giving Mann her biggest hit since "Voices Carry." If there's such a thing as karma, this winning selection can't miss.

■ TORI AMOS: Boys For Pele (Atlantic 82862-2)

Take a gander at the top of the national sales charts and you'll consistently see names like Whitney Houston and Mariah Carey. But, scan the net and you'll see the name of British songstress Tori Amos at least 10 times for every time you see those names once. Like the early days of U2 and R.E.M., Amos inspires a loyalty in her followers that comes close to fanaticism. And just as both of those bands eventually went on to do, Amos seems ready to turn a large cult fan base into mainstream success. With her third album, Boys For Pele, written and produced by Amos, the redhead dramatically makes her push for superstar status on her terms. Amos mixes up the arrangements on the album on occasion, using everything from Delgany church bells on "Blood Roses" to strings from the the Sinfonia of London on "Marianne." However, the stark piano music of the moving medley "Beauty Queen" and "Horses" is the norm on the 18-song disc. Like all her works, Boys For Pele is not an easily digestible album. It takes thought, concentration and repeated listenings. But if you put the work in, you'll find all the nuances of this charming record.

■ VARIOUS ARTISTS: Punk You (Music For The Discerning Slacker Punk Vol. 1) (EMI 35737 2)

Tested and approved by four out of five punk rock aficionados, this 17-song anthology covers it all. The record's commercial appeal comes from the inclusion of early selections from Adam & The Ants, Blondie, Siouxsie & The Banshees and Bow Wow Wow. However, the nostalgia accessibility is in selections from many of the greatest punk acts of all time, including the Damned, the Buzzcocks, the Stranglers and two gems—Cockney Rejects and Stiff Little Fingers. If you wanna know what punk is all about, crank "The Greatest Cockney Rip Off" up to 10 and scream your fin' head off.

■ VARIOUS ARTISTS: From Dusk Till Dawn Soundtrack (Los Hooligans/Epic Soundtrax 067523)

Whether you like 'em or not, one can't dispute that between 'em, Robert Rodriguez and Quentin Tarantino, know how to put together a soundtrack. This 18-piece CD, which features 13 songs and five bits of dialogue, includes some of the best of the Texas blues rock scene. The disc is anchored by two new ZZ Top tracks, both written expressly for the film. "Mexican Blackbird" comes off a little like a novelty tune, something the trio has showed it can pull off repeatedly. However, fans wanting to hear the group's more rockin' side will be satisfied by "She's Just Killing Me." Other standouts include the two new songs from Tito & Tarantula, the Mavericks' "Foolish Heart" and "Dark Night" from the Blasters. If that's not enough for you greedy hounds, I have one name for you. Stevie Ray Vaughn and Double Trouble.

■ LIMBLIFTER: Limblifter (Mercury 528 946-2)

If the Replacements ever channeled their rock energy into pop songs, it might sound something like Limblifter's full-length debut. The trio rock with more energy than bands like the Gin Blossoms, but the group's songs don't have a rock band's fangs. The result is an album long on hooks, though a bit short on substance. Nevertheless, it's hard not to get caught up in the deft guitar groove on "Tinfoil" and the repetitious beat of "Do I Feel Involved?" Don't be surprised to hear this on both Modern Rock and AOR.

■ BIG MOUNTAIN: Resistance (Giant 24633-2)

Hallelujah. After spending repeated hours with the despair of Tori Amos and the cold reality of Therapy, the light-hearted reggae of this San Diego band is a strawberry smoothie standing in the middle of hell. Remember, this is the group that took a reggae cover of Peter Frampton's "Baby, I Love Your Way" to the top ten. Covers play a small, but important, part on this 16-song record, with Cat Stevens' "Where Do The Children Play" and Jesse Colin Young's classic, "Get Together" getting the Big Mountain treatment. The other 14 songs were written by the band, though the way the group's melodies harmoniously blend together, almost like a techno record, it's sometimes difficult to tell 'em apart. However you look at it, it all tastes like ice cream.

■ THERAPY?: Infernal Love (A&M 0379 2)

Therapy? is a mad scientist's vision of a rock band. On Infernal Love, the band's third album to be released in the states, the Irish trio blends the hard rock riffs of Metallica with the angst of NIN. From the intense opening of "Epilepsy" to the frantic conclusion of "30 Seconds," lead vocalist and songwriter Andrew Cairns takes listeners on a brutal rampage that kicks the knees out from underneath love and then repeatedly batters Cupid over the head with a lead pipe. During the tragic ballad "The Bowels Of Love," where Cairns sings, "Yeah, you took me, naive and ugly/Into your festering heart/And you poured Eros maggots down my throat/Until I choked/There's nothing darker than love gone sour," and the macabre "Me Vs. You," with the line, "And fng you got boring when it didn't feel so wrong," Cairns makes the Afghan Whigs' Greg Dulli look like a hopeless romantic. With a burgeoning underground reputation, Therapy? have been building to this point for some time. Well, alert the media. Frankenstein's monster has arrived and is loose in the village. Lovers everywhere, beware.

■ KAUSION: South Central Los Skanless (Len 2002-2) Producer:

What the hell is this? A street sign of a drive-by shooting. Ice Cube has pulled another rabbit out of his hat. First came Yo-Yo, then The Lynch Mob, Mack 10, and now Kausion. This West Coast rap group has come out with an impressive debut album fueled by the single "What You Wanna Do." This CD is packed full of Ice Cube-laced tracks and will definitely make a splash with his loyal West Coast followers. The tracks "O/G's Trippin'," "Land Of Skanless," "Bounce Rock Skate," and "Click CLick," are the best tracks on the album. Expect this project to blaze throughout the winter and spring months. M.H.

■ KRIS KROSS: Young, Rich & Dangerous
(Columbia 67441) Producer: Various

The trend setters are back again with their first CD in four years. Although the duo is no longer sporting the backwards gear that made them famous, they are still coming with that Atlanta gangsta-flavored sound that made their music the talk of the town. Jermaine Dupri fuels this album with more of his unique blend of southern fried soul styling which should generate big noise for these boys. Already the first single "Tonight The Night," is riding high atop the Cash Box charts. The other standout tracks include "Some Cut Up," "Mackin' Ain't Easy," and "Live and Die For Hip Hop," which features Da Brat. Also look out for the Atlanta-based poet Big Rube who is smokin. Congratulations, guys, on a great comeback effort.

M.H.

■ VARIOUS ARTISTS: Sounds of the Spirit
(Intersound 9167) Producers: Various

This collection of gospel favorites features a stellar array of top flight gospel music talents. For all those looking for a christian good time then this CD fits the bill. After one listen you'll know that the Holy Ghost is alive and well. The artistic execution is first rate throughout this CD from artist interpretation, song selection and production merit. Although gospel has long had a strong "quiet" influence on mainstream formats, the music stands on its own in terms of popularity. With more gospel music art form may finally become fully absorbed into the mainstream. Standout tracks: "Power Of The Holy Ghost," "We Shall Behold Him."

■ MAZE: Anthology (Right Stuff 35885) Producers: Maze

Talk about your pick of the week, this collection of greatest hits from the group that personifies cool, rhythmic, quiet storm soul, is a must have for anyone of good taste. All of the hits from "Lady of Magic," "Golden Time of Day," "To May Games," and "I Wanna Be With You" are here. Even though this group has been inactive from the recording scene during the past few years they still remain a bonafide concert draw with sell-out crowds internationally. After listening to this CD and reliving Maze's special magic you'll know why. Expect strong airplay from selected urban and mainstream formats. Standout tracks: "Golden Kind Of Day," "Happy Feelings," "Feel That You're Feeling," "Southern Girl."

Two members of this nine component group, Method Man and Ol' Dirty Bastard, are currently up for Grammys this year. This marks the first time in Grammy history that two members of a current group were nominated for Grammy Awards for solo projects during the same year. Two other members of the Wu-Tang Clan, Raekwon and Genius have also released solo projects in 1995. Raekwon's album Only Built 4 Cuban Linx on Loud/RCA has been certified Gold. The Wu-Tang Clan is currently readying a new album due to be released in June of this year. More to follow!

■ PUDGE: "On The Regular" (Perspective 31458-4)

Perspective must be out to get hip-hop label of the year. If Young Zee wasn't enough of a beginning for them, they have come back with Mecca Don signed artist Pudge. This boy has stardom written all over this track. The maxi single contains four mixes of the single. The best two are the Dirty LP version and the Radio Edit. These two remixes should do well with mainstream urban radio. There is just something about a Gamble and Huff sample that is magic. Pudge's rap flow over this track is so tight and should get party people moving off the first beat.

■ 2 PAC, NOTORIOUS B.I.G., DRAMACYDAL, RADIO & STRETCH: "Running" (Mergela 70113-2)

"Running" could be a surprise sleeper for Mergela Records, Million Mar March album. The track hosts a variety of rappers, including two of the nation's biggest thug rappers of the past year, Notorious B.I.G. and Tu Pac. These two bad boyz and the crew, along with a smooth R&B-based track is designed for BDS spins in all regions. Club play could possibly be the right vehicle to push this single along. I'm keeping my fingers crossed that the next single will be either from the Alcoholic's or Channel Love.

■ MANNISH: "Jive Uu The Mann" (Correct 9909)

This CD single has two songs with three versions of each on it. These versions are the album, radio and instrumental of each. The title track has a vibe that screams New York, New York. The lyrics speak of that east coast lifestyle that these boys seem to be a part of. This super smooth track could be a quick seller with club/DJ and radio mix show support.

Mr. Bow-tie
Ron Carter

■ RON CARTER: Mr. Bow-tie (Blue Note 35407). Producer: R. Carter.

"Remarkable" can be an overused description of a lot of music that moves within the parameters of jazz. Sometimes, even though most remarkable musicians seem laidback and nonplussed as they bring you some quality sounds, they are cookin'. Bassist Ron Carter and his assembled crew do that on this 10-song collection featuring six originals by Carter. Rising star Gonzalo Rubalcaba on piano is a steady influence more than a centerpiece on any one track, while Javon Jackson's tenor sax work is largely soulful and to the point. Lewis Nash keeps things on point for Carter, who alternates between pacing the proceedings and providing some polysyllabic solo dialog. Rhythmically moody, yet unassuming, this record can go on the turntable and, like a chameleon, adapt the ambience of the room. The bassist's "Nearly" is an example of the ensemble's remarkably unassuming flow.

■ DON PULLEN: Sacred Common Ground (Blue Note 32800). Producers: Michael Cuscuna & D. Pullen.

Pianist/composer Don Pullen has always come from a place of ethnomusicality. Whether it be the bluesy depths explored while a sideman with Charlie Mingus or his solo excursions through the emotional geography of African-based grooves, he swings it all back to a sonic language most people can understand. From the opening track of this album, which features rhythms, textures and attitude culled from the Native American experience, Pullen and company launch an attack that fuses the aforementioned energies with some solid blues, honky-tonk and post-bop sensibilities. This collaboration with the Chief Cliff Singers, which began in 1993, is a celebratory ("The Eagle Staff Is First" and the aptly titled "Reservation Blues") and reverent ("Common Ground," "River Song") cultural blend of engaging music and emotions. Saxist Carlos Ward and trombone player Joseph Bowie provide colorful support.

Surrounding himself with a cross-section of veteran and younger players in the tradition, German saxophonist Klaus Doldinger eschews the fusionist character with his group, Passport, and plays some cheeky straight-ahead jazz. While penning five of the 12 compositions here, Doldinger and his band of merry men try on some Miles, Monk, Ellington and Carmichael/Mercer tunes for size. The sax player's "Yellow Cab" nicely kicks off the album, with bassist Charnett Moffett and drummer Victor Lewis providing some solid pocket work, and vibist Roy Ayers supplying some dreamy textures. Pianist Tommy Flanagan, Lewis and Moffett get in a mellow mood on the Ellington gem "I Got It Bad" and also on Carmichael/Mercer tune "Skylark." Moffett and Doldinger serve up some

■ LISA POLLARD: I See Your Face Before Me (Concord Jazz CCD-4681). Producer: Ray Brown.

You are often measured by the company you keep. Unjustly or not, associations help define worth and character. With this notion in tow and after listening to her album, it is evident why saxophonist Lisa Pollard can boast a guest list of players like bassist Ray Brown, pianist Benny Green, drummer Grady Tate and fellow saxist Red Holloway. Pollard plays with confidence and a solid tone, which is exhibited in abundance with her tenor work on "A Nightingale Sang In Berkeley Square." Her best soprano work here is on Miles Davis' "All Blues." Green provides some tasteful guidance throughout the album, and Tate's drum kit serves as the connective tissue on each composition.

Notes

RIM SHOTS: Rarely anything called "new" has not been visited in some form or another in the past. And on occasion, the past revisited in present times provides fresh perspective. That's what most music pundits are saying about Legacy, the latest album by North Indian musician and music scholar Ali Akbar Khan. Released on the musician's family-owned AMMP label in conjunction with Triloka Records, Khan is featured on the exotic sarod, while Indian film and pop sensation Srimati Asha Bhosle plays sitar and provides vocals. Music writers in the consumer and trade press, as well as world music and progressive radio programmers, have already hailed the record as a unique fusion of 16th- and 18th-century folk songs that had endured in the verbal telling through generations until Khan was taught these cultural gems by his father. The record is due out Feb. 23, but Khan has already grabbed some attention from the music literati for his album Then And Now, which earned him a Grammy Award nom in this Traditional Folk Album category. With Legacy, he might revisit this laudatory terrain again next year...The International Assn. of Jazz Educators (IAJE) was the beneficiary of the worldwide launch of Jazz Central Station, the "Global Network for Jazz" developed by N2K, Inc., the company co-created by the chiefs at GRP Records. Offering a website on the World Wide Web, IAJE, along with JazzTimes magazine and Music Boulevard, contributes to the expansive menu offered by JCS, which debuted amid IAJE's recent conference in Miami, FL...Billed as the first jazz group to record in stereo on the Audio Fidelity label 35-years ago, the The Dukes of Dixieland are attempting to break new ground once again with release of a jazz video CD and DVD disc. Titled The Dukes of Dixieland and Friends, the enhanced formats debuted at the winter Consumer Electronics show held in Las Vegas. The six-man band's new offering is being released by Digital Disc Entertainment of the Kurtze Entertainment Group. The Dukes' video CD and DVD superdisc videos will be used to demonstrate new hardware that will soon be available in the marketplace...GTS Records, the John Tesh-owned NAC/jazz label that recently partnered with PolyGram Classics & Jazz, has hired Mary Mueller as general manager and named Josie DiChiara label manager. Mueller will oversee daily operation for GTS, including budgetary matters and will be charged with searching out new business. She will also continue as president of John Tesh Prods., and work to expand alternative record distribution through PBS affiliates, QVC, and other television. DiChiara will handle sales, oversee marketing and promotion and serve as the liaison between GTS and PolyGram.

The Niche Is The Thing

M.R. Martinez

THE TRADITIONAL HYPE employed to launch a record has steadily given way to more inventive and focused campaigns aimed at the consumer. A company that has seemed to distill the myriad of niche marketing tools that have developed in recent years into a versatile and effective formula for reaching an act's potential core audience is Music Marketing Network (MMN). The nearly five-year-old independent, Red Bank, NJ-based firm uses an ever-expanding repertoire of techniques to launch new artists and to broaden the fortunes of established acts in the marketplace.

"There's no central place that all music fans go to hear about music that will excite them and that they might want to buy," says MMN co-president/COO Paul Chachko. "We believe that by building a comprehensive database the puts a face on the potential consumer for a particular music project, we can help companies devise marketing and promotion plans that more directly target a sales base that will launch a record."

"Companies can get a foothold on record sales, develop broader interest before they embark on more mass marketing approaches," he points out. "That way (labels) spend their marketing and promotional dollars more effectively."

Apparently several companies agree, as MMN's client list embodies an eclectic blend of artists and companies. Some of the artists that have benefitted from MMN's services include the Grammy-nominated singer/songwriter Alanis Morissette, Cypress Hill, Public Enemy, Rusted Roots and even the Beatles (on the legendary act's hot selling anthology). Labels from Capitol and Maverick/Reprise to Island and Delicious Vinyl have utilized MMN to develop strategies to promote an artist's merchandise, tour dates and recordings, using everything from CD inserts, fan newsletters and direct mailings to target certain consumers.

Already eyeing expansion into other areas, late last year, MMN bolstered its executive star power by hiring three respected industry execs, including former Mercury Records marketing vp John Mazzacco, MMN's co-president/CEO; former Fiction Records president Marcus Peterzell, now MMN's sr. vp of new media development; and Ravi Yadav, the company's chief financial officer.

Chachko says the appointments were imperative because of MMN's growing interest in related fields such as film, television and publishing. Aside from the Red Bank headquarters, MMN has offices in Los Angeles and New York and has a staff that numbers close to 60, with many being in the telemarketing operation based in Red Bank.

The Films of Al Pacino By William Schoell

ONE OF OUR PREMIERE ACTORS, both stage and screen, fills the pages of this, complete with pictures, color and b/w.

Author William Schoell, who's no stranger to dealing with film territory between book covers—Three other nonfiction-ers, dealing with "Shocker" films; the Nightmare on Elm Street series and Comic Book Heroes of the Screen—takes on Pacino here.

Opening with a short biographical rundown encapsulating the actor's early life, studies, struggles and break-through, Schoell demonstrates his expertise with word management. The result is that readers feel they're fully familiar with the subject by the time they reach the filmography without having waded through a lot of waste. With the knowledge fresh in their minds, going into the film listings they're ready to weave the background knowledge into the characters Pacino has brought to life on screen.

The Filmography offers producers, directors, writers, editors, composers, art directors and casts, beginning with Pacino's screen debut in 1969's National General Pictures release Me, Natalie—the last time the actor's name appeared at the bottom of a cast list. With his second, 20th Century Fox's The Panic In Needle Park, Pacino went to starring status and hasn't been out of it since.

Schoell sets himself up as critic within the bodies of the texts relating to the films, passing sometimes intrusive judgement on everything from performances to photography, sets and hair styles. He even goes as far as to punctuate his opinion of Marlon Brando's winning an Oscar for The Godfather with an "I"—apparently the author didn't completely agree with the Academy's voters...So what's new?—! Seems kind of Oliver Stone-ish, doesn't it?

Still, for Pacino fans, this is a terrific book. It's filled with pictures, scenes from films in both B&W and color, on screen and off.

Part Three consists of a nod to "His Plays," six pages with a couple of shots tossed in and a chronological order of the theatricals. The author does however, attribute this area of his subject's efforts with firm roots and an arena to which Pacino continually returns to keep his tools in fine working order. A strong and enjoyable effort. (Citadel Press; Carol Publishing Group. 223 pages. $17.95)

JAZZ, The Rough Guide by Ian Carr, Digby Fairweather and Brian Priestley

EVERYONE YOU EVER WANTED to know in jazz, and then some; and almost everything you wanted to know about the same subject. This is a terrific guide to jazz musicians, listed alphabetically with pertinent info re: instruments, birthplace, birth, death (if applicable), and a to-the-point bio which, through some neat wordsmithing, imparts feelings and attitudes toward the artist's position within the jazz pantheon.

The writers, Ian Carr, Digby Fairweather and Brian Priestley, are all jazz musicians themselves and are listed herein. So it's no wonder they write with authority. For the layman they've included a glossary of terms defining such colorful descriptions as "Axe," "Licks," "Bebop," "Energy" and others. In each instance, be it the bios or the glossary terms, the authors manage to divulge information and history while each person takes on their own character. The reader never has the feeling he's simply "reading" a hand-out bio. Each is personal and cared for. And neither do readers ever get the feeling they're being pandered to; the writers seem genuine in their care that their audience be informed and enjoy the journey at the same time.

Jazz, being only as old as the century, rooted itself early and has played conduit to some of the greatest musical talents the century has seen. That talent's impact on music, not only jazz but all forms, is felt in most areas of music and life. Some of these talents were also extremely colorful as well as studious and tragic, such as legendary cornetist Bix Beiderbecke, only 28 when he died of alcoholism.

The artists come to life on the pages as the authors relate a story such as with Jelly Roll Morton, infuriated by a Robert Ripley radio introduction of W.C. Handy as "the originator of jazz and the blues," they note that "Morton

Such are the persons who make up the genre, the color and the excitement of Jazz music itself, and this book. It covers all instruments as well as vocals (Tony Bennett, Sinatra, Joe Turner, Sarah Vaughan and others), and even lists Jackie Gleason as a musical director. Those you would expect to be here are here as well as some you may never have heard of if you're simply a fan and not devotee. The Music Business (Explained In Plain English) by David Naggar, Esq. & Jeffrey D. Brandsetter, Esq.

HARSH REALITIES greet readers who pick up this to-the-point primer for people who are considering a creative career in the music business. The introduction notes: "Music is art. This book is not about art!...People (not counting loved ones) will help you if they think your art will make them money. They will not help you if they do not think your art will make you money." And once you get past this hackneyed truism, which is presented in the spirit of the entire book, you will find that there's an effort to open the eyes of the novice and the professional. Many of the latter, who stumble into music careers, might have retrospective epiphanies. Some novices may decide to continue writing songs for themselves or performing at Bar Mitzvahs.

The paperback volume condenses an overview of various technical aspects of the music business and simplifies the framework that any aspirant would need to grasp. This feat is all the more remarkable because it is authored by a pair of Bay Area attorneys who have experienced the rigorous music industry wars. "We've used a lot of footnotes because we are lawyers, and lawyers do that sort of thing," the barristers quip. But the outline of the book effectively paints a picture in broad strokes and then gets into specifics where an example will illuminate a concept.

The introduction both outlines the book's intent and offers an overview of the sources of music industry profits. From there the book outlines basic information for artists, songwriters, for those aspiring to provide music for television and film and provides a section covering ancillary considerations (like issues between band members, touring, selling merchandise and a smidgeon on music videos).

One of the most valuable features in this book is the "Big Picture" royalty chart, which breaks down the various ways income can be derived from use of a song. This covers everything from record sales and film/TV sync licensing fees to performing royalties and sheet music. Another valuable, and more detailed, feature of the book is a section on recording contracts which explains the formulas for artists' payments on record company sales.

Naggar and Brandsetter inject levity where appropriate, but do not discount the gravity of the business and the need to be aware of the basics as you venture into the biz's often treacherous waters. Also included is a syllabus of reading that might provide in depth a greater nuance to the information contained in the book.

Anticipating, or perhaps to encourage use by both beginners and those already in the industry, two levels of distribution for the book have been established. National distribution for the book to consumer outlets is being handled by Gardena, CA-based SCB Distributors, while distribution to the music trade is being handled by Mix Bookshelf, a division of Cardinal Business Media, Inc. of Emeryville, CA.

Nettwerk, EMI Canada & CEMA Join Forces

NETTWERK RECORDS has entered into an exclusive distribution deal in the U.S. with CEMA Distribution, effective the first of this year. Within the new structure, Nettwerk Records and EMI Music Canada have established a joint venture for marketing music in the U.S.

Nettwerk, which functions as a full-service label, will market and develop its own roster. It will also market and develop a number of EMI Music Canada releases, with the direction of EMI MC's international dept. in Toronto. Nettwerk, which specializes in Modern Rock repertoire and focuses on niche marketing to initiate success, will market those EMI MC artists it feels it can best serve.

Nettwerk Productions has opened an office in New York, which houses the U.S. division of Nettwerk Records and Nettmedia, which was formed in 1995 to consolidate Nettwerk's pioneering efforts in the development of enhanced CD's.

News In Brief

MCA, INTERSCOPE JOIN: Ending weeks of industry speculation, MCA, Inc. has won the bidding war for the coveted Interscope Records, acquiring a 50% stake in the controversial label for $200 million, with an option for buyout after three to five years. MCA won the contest for Interscope over PolyGram, Inc. even though PolyGram is part owner of Interscope Films.

Interscope last year left a distribution arrangement with Warner Music Group when its involvement in gangsta rap with Tupac Shakur and, through a deal with Death Row Records, brought shareholder and public pressure from political and social activists, caused WMG to seek divestiture of its 50% piece of the company. Death Row is the home of acts like Dr. Dre and Snoop Doggy Dogg.

RICHARD C. MARQUARDT, SR. is exiting his post as president/CEO of WEA Manufacturing, effective June 30, 1996, after a 37-year career in the music manufacturing business that started with Specialty Records Corp. Marquardt will become a senior advisor to WEA Corp. and the Warner Music Group.

In a related move, Ellis Kern, president and co-COO of WEA's packaging and printing firm, Ivy Hill Corp., will assume added responsibility for all the company's manufacturing and replication operations. Kern joined Ivy Hill in 1965 as a sales rep.

KARG AT IDSA: Douglas Lowenstein, president of the Interactive Digital Software Association (IDSA), the trade association for interactive entertainment software publishers, announced that the IDSA has hired Kathlene M. Karg to fill the newly-created position of director, Intellectual Property and Public Policy.

Previously, Karg represented the Association of American Publishers, Inc. in the areas of Copyright and New Technology, including extensive experience in eradicating piracy in overseas and domestic markets. She will be based in the Washington, D.C. office.

JULIO GETS CHINA GOLD: Sony Music artist Julio Iglesias became the first foreign recipient in China's history to receive China's prestigious "Golden Record Award." Presented with the award by China Record Corporation at the Great Hall of People, Iglesias was granted their only official music award given every three years, in recognition of outstanding contribution in both sales and reputation achieved by artists in China.

CRC published and released two of Iglesias' albums, Hey and Crazy. The total sales of Iglesias' records in China have made him the biggest selling foreign artist in the country.

News From The United Kingdom, Ireland & Europe

By Hal Levy

AT THE MARKETPLACE we find Thorn EMI at £16.37 up 2.2%. Rank Organization is £4.44, down 0.9% and PolyGram at N91.00 (£36.16) is down 1.8%.

BRITISH BLUES: The English city of Leeds plans to open a £7 million complex to house Europe's first Museum of the Blues. Target date for the complex is 1998 and it will house not only a museum, but a recording studio, concert hall, archives and a restaurant. In addition to American materials British blues greats Alexis Korner, John Mayall, Eric Clapton and Rod Stewart and others will be honored. One British contribution to the American section will be artifacts from British concerts given by bluesmen like B.B. King, Howling Wolf and John Lee Hooker. Also, in line with current thinking, the museum will be an interactive venue.

SHE AIN'T NO SAINT, she's Madonna, and she faces a lot of opposition in Argentina starring in Evita, where Evita Peron is considered by many to be a saint. But many, including the upper classes, consider Madonna a sinner, and while the film itself may hit high peaks, it won't hit the high notes as Madonna, who doesn't have the vocal range of the stage versions, has had the score taken down a key.

OUT OF AFRICA: Leading black British musicians are launching the MOBO Awards in London. The MOBO (Music Of Black Origin) Awards will be given to 'black' genre music, including soul, reggae, jungle, house, jazz, hip-hop, dance and R&B. MOBO sponsors pointed out that the Brit Awards nominations include very few black performers. However, the Brit Awards said that there were no 'white' awards for folk, heavy metal and other music, so they couldn't include 'black' awards. The major thing controlling the types of music up for awards is time, since their TV special is 90-minutes and limits categories to 14.

DON'T HOOK ME UP: UK cable companies reached new lows in the stock market amid fears that digital satellite systems could further undercut their growth. Reports from the U.S. say that the American DirecTV has scored 40% of its customers from cable subscribers. The new technology permits delivery of more than 200 channels on a small dish. UK cable companies are continuing to expand their wired networks, but by the time they have all their territories wired, it is expected the competition will be in full bloom. Adding to their woes, cable is only hitting a penetration of less than 35% of eligible homes.

ORIENT EXPRESS: We all know about the big bucks Janet and Michael are getting. Well, they may have to move over for Jackie Cheung of Hong Kong, Harlem Yu of Taiwan and Yumi Matsutoya of Japan. Cheung is the first Asian to hit PolyGram's Top 10 roster, and his 1993 album Kiss And Goodbye sold more than 4 million worldwide. 25% of PolyGram's sales now come from Asia and the other major labels are also seeking to explore that market. While Western singers are still sitting on top of the heap, more and more Asian buyers want records sung in their own language and reflect their lives.

THE GOOD NEWS AND THE BAD NEWS: In 1995 the number of cinema screens in Ireland reached 195, an all-time high. But ticket sales, which reached 10.4 million in 1994 fell back to 9.7 million in 1995, the first drop in admissions in ten years. Industry sources said that although Ireland has the greatest cinema attendance per capita in Europe, they blame the drop on the quality of films issued in 1995. The boxoffice winner for the year was Batman Forever.

PLACE YOUR BET BUT DON'T BET ON IT: U.S.-based Showboat has plans in the works to build a 50,000 sq ft casino and games center together with a 1,000 room hotel just outside Dublin. However, members of the three parties in the Irish government have expressed opposition to the plan, urging a convention center in its place. Industry sources said the government plan, with limited revenue-producing satellites, would end up a white elephant and are backing the Showboat plans.

WELCOME COMRADES: Pop stars are carefully reading their contracts to play gigs in Russia. During last year's election, several top UK musicians, like Glenn Hughes, ex-bass guitarist for Deep Purple, went to Moscow for concerts. What they didn't realize was the concerts were being sponsored by political parties aiming at the young voters. Hughes' gig was sponsored by Our Home Is Russia, headed by prime minister Chornomyridin and supported by Boris Yeltsin and everywhere Hughes went he was surrounded by photos of the two. With the upcoming presidential elections in Russia, more offers are expected to be pouring in but the managers will be looking them over with a fine toothed comb.

AND WELCOME AGAIN as Rock The Vote comes to the UK. In the last election some 45% of the under-35s didn't vote, which was double the overall rate. The Rock The Vote board of directors is evenly divided between Conservatives and Labor backers and is backed by major labels, retailers and clubs. However, the campaign is not looked at too favorably by some since most associate musicians with the Liberals and the left.

STILL IN COURT: Channel 5 Broadcasting's lawyer told the High Court that the Independent Television Commission was within its statutory rights when it permitted C5B to enhance its bid by £100 million after the closing date. He said it was not 'new money.' Virgin TV's lawyer, who is contesting the ITC's awarding of the license to C5B, disagreed.

BYE BYE VIRGIN: The Sheridan Group of Belfast is selling the new Virgin cinema complex in Dublin for £4.1 million. Buyer of the two-month old cineplex is an undisclosed property investor.

THEY'VE GOT THE BALL: Video and audio group, VCI inked a 10-year, £2.5 million deal with soccer's Manchester United to be the exclusive publisher of all new magazines, books and videos licensed under the football club's trademark. At the end of the 10 years, VCI will be entitled to buy out the library it created, but will have to continue paying royalties on future sales. VCI will handle multi-media formats like video disks and CD-ROMS and sub-license Man United's magazines.

STRIKING WHILE THE IRON'S HOT: Bjork has recorded a new song for the Jeremy Irons starrer Stealing Beauty.

THE CATS MEOW: On January 29, Cats will become the longest ever running musical on New York's Broadway, beating out Chorus Line. It became London's longest running musical in May 1989. There are currently nine productions around the world.

THE BATTLE IS OVER: Granada, the television and leisure company had 60.89% of the shares in the final race to control the Forté Group hotel and restaurant chain. The battle raged for months in the newspapers and boardrooms.

DID YOU SAY DJ?: Well, someone did at the Brit Performing Arts & Technology School so the only state supported school in the UK that specializes in the performing arts started a class. Now in its second year, the DJ Workshop has eight students.

"Hasta Cuando." The current promo single is the high danceable "Funkete."

■ EL GENERAL: Club 555 (BMG U.S. Latin, 31522) Producer: Edgar Franco. RAP/REGGAE/WORLD.

Club 555 is his fifth recording in five years for the five-star reggae-rap artist, Edgar Franco aka El General. Franco has been steadily building a successful career as a singer, composer, and producer. His latest album exemplifies the unbridled creativity which has made El General a popular icon worldwide. He demonstrates his versatility from the Christmas theme "Jingle Bebele" to the Salsa-tinged

■ LIZZA: Yo Quiero Soñar (BMG U.S. Latin, 27064) Producer: Alex Montez. TEJANO/POP.

From the southern heart of Texas, comes singer Lizza Lamb. Several years ago, she opened for established acts like La Mafia, Ram Herrera, Elsa Garcia, and Mazz. Possessing a dynamic voice and appealing style, Lizza joined with veteran composer and Tejano producer, Luis Silva, and Alex Montez to produce her debut album. Giving this project simply a Tejano label would certainly be unfair. Lizza is definitely a versatile vocalist. Listen to the dynamic ballad, "Lastima de Tanto Amor," or the steaming jazz-flavored number, "Don't Turn Away." We're definitely looking forward to Lizza's coast to coast tour this year!

■ LA FIERA: Para Poder Olvidar (BMG U.S. Latin/Ariola, 28216) Producer: Luis Silva. TEJANO.

La Fiera is an eight-piece Texas band headed by its leader/vocalist, C. "Shorty" Segovia. The group formed in 1991 and hasn't stopped playing since. They were discovered by Alex Montes who was impressed by the group's youthful and energized vitality. The group possesses a very solid sound as it backs the able voice of Segovia. Look for the smokin' "La Mujer Del Año," with a dynamic interplay between Segovia and Montes.

THE LATIN LOWDOWN

SELENA'S LAST SONG ON BMG CLASSICS/RCA VICTOR ALBUM: What has been described as the late singer's last recorded song can be found on the album, The Songs of Westside Story. Released by RCA Victor, Selena's "A Boy Like That" is but one of 16 selections of the musical masterpiece by Leonard Bernstein and Stephen Sondheim. More than 30 performers are featured including Aretha Franklin, James Ingram, Phil Collins, Chick Corea, and Natalie Cole to mention just a few.

Michael Greene, executive producer of the album, ran into problems with his desire to include Selena in his ambitious project. Greene had met the singer at a pre-Grammy program six months prior to his casting for the album. He was pleasantly impressed by the then relatively-unknown-to-the-masses Tejano star. Selena's recording session with Greene is believed to be her last. She was slain in cold blood by her former employee, Yolanda Saldivar, two weeks later in Corpus Christi, Texas.

Proceeds from the album, which is being distributed by RCA Victor and slated for release at the end of this month, will be divided between the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences Foundation and the Leonard Bernstein Education Through the Arts Fund.

Sources at Selena's label, EMI Latin, report that a Kenny Ortega-directed video for "A Boy Like That" was shipped to VH1 and the usual Spanish outlets this past Monday (22nd). BMG Latin began working the song on Spanish radio earlier this month, particularly on Texas stations, where unequivocal acceptance of anything new by Selena, no matter in what fashion or form, is a given.

Club and radio-edit remixes by Tony Moran, of recent Michael Jackson notoriety, as a commercial dance single were released a few weeks ago. The album is an incredibly innovative tribute to the great Bernstein. Gee, even Officer Krupke would agree.

EL GENERAL ON THE FUNKETE FRONT: BMG U.S. Latin recently released the first maxi-single of this year, "El Funkete," by the Panamanian soldier of rap, El General.

Taken from his fifth album, Club 555, the five-star general of the Tropical genre, El General began his official tour of duty five years ago. His offensive move was launched with 1990 hits like "Tu Pum Pum" and "Te Vas Buena." He followed with the mega-hit, "Muevelo," voted by MTV as the Best Latin Video of 1992. The album, his first for BMG, reached Platinum status in several countries. He was invited to perform at the celebrated Viña Del Mar Festival in Chile and was hailed as a hero in Panama when he returned for the first time since emigrating to the U.S.

The 1993 release of El Poder De El General included the highly successful "Caramelo." His following album, Es Mundial, has sold over 1 and half million units. With plans to tour Europe and the U.S. this year, El General also plans to write, record and produce an album in English in his state-of-the-art recording studio in New York.

In a recent interview with the singer, there was an overwhelming sense of confidence, but earnest humility from Edgardo Franco known to millions as the General of Tropic-Rap. His beginnings as a poor soda peddler in his native Panama, after all, is truly a rags-to-riches story. Today, El General acknowledges his roots whenever he performs. The singer started a charitable foundation (Para Los Niños Sin Fronteras) to aid homeless children throughout Latin America. Look for the singer's first Salsa-rap tune, "Hasta Cuando," on his latest album to do equally well.

El General.

Single Reviews By Wendy Newcomer

STEPHANIE BENTLEY: "Who's That Girl" (Epic ESK 78234)

From her debut album, Hopechest, Stephanie Bentley proves that she can carry a song all on her own. Ty Herndon's duet partner has the vocal clarity of early Nicolette Larson and an astute songwriting talent to match. Bentley's spunky, girl-next-door tale of triumph should connect well with female listeners.

CURTIS DAY: "The Truth Is Hard To Swallow" (Asylum APCD-9443)

"The Truth Is Hard To Swallow" is a respectable-yet-predictable second offering from Day's first project. He definitely has the chops to perform a tear jerker like "The Truth..." but only time will tell if Day has staying power among the lion's den of hat acts.

PAM TILLIS: "The River And The Highway" (Arista ASCD-2958)

When intelligent songwriting and equally intelligent singing merge, the effect can be mesmerizing. Such is the case with "The River And The Highway." Tillis' harmony- and string-laden production is the finishing touch to one unforgettable song.

BILLY DEAN: "It's What I Do" (Capitol Nashville DPRO-10311)

After a brief absence from the music scene, Billy Dean returns with what should prompt the resurrection of his status as the sensitive ballad man. Dean comes across just as warm and fuzzy as he did with his debut single, "Somewhere In My Broken Heart." This Chuck Jones/Tom Shapiro song is a perfect vehicle to take Dean back to the radio.

PICK OF THE WEEK

DWIGHT YOAKAM: "Gone (That'll Be Me)" (Reprise PRO-CD-8072-R)

Famous for being rather cryptic in interviews, Yoakam's intent is clear as a bell in his second single and also title cut from his latest album. The stomping rhythm and "Buck"-ness of "Gone" is as vintage as it is original. Like Chris Isaak (another retro lovesick Californian), Yoakam seems to take failed relationships and turn them into insightful, imaginative hit albums. Thank God for heartache.

CMT To Sponsor Starfest '96

By Wendy Newcomer

AS THE WEST COAST HOLDS its mini-version of Fan Fair for the third year, Country Music Television announced that it will sponsor the four-day Starfest '96. The event will be held at the Fairplex (Los Angeles County Fairgrounds) May 9-12 and will be sanctioned by the Academy of Country Music.

Similar to Music City's most popular country event, Country Music Television's Starfest '96 will include performances at both an expanded grandstand area and on the New Faces Stage. Many top artists as well as newcomers will meet fans and sign autographs.

"Country Music Television, which reaches over 32 million homes in the United States, has signed on as our title sponsor and will have a booth during the festival and sponsor hospitality tents which will feature closed circuit feeds of the concert performances," said Bob Alexander, president of Starfest, Inc. "CMT will also promote Country Music Television's Starfest '96 via on-air spots."

Paul Hastaba, vp/gm at CMT, commented, "We at CMT are very happy to be involved in promoting country music and country music stars at Starfest '96, just as we promote the music and stars 24-hours a day on CMT."

A number of artists are already scheduled to perform at this year's event. They include: Joe Diffie, Tracy Lawrence, Bryan White, Martina McBride, Toby Keith, Faith Hill and Jeff Carson.

Other features of Starfest '96 are: a series of "New Country Showcases," which presents over 100 of the country's best unsigned artists; the Rodeo Drive Collection, which highlights the latest in Western fashion and furnishings from America's designers; a custom auto show; and the finals of the Ultimate Line Dance Contest.

Chevrolet Picks Up George Strait

CHEVROLET ANNOUNCED ITS ASSOCIATION WITH country music's consummate pickup truck man, George Strait. Chevy Truck will sponsor Strait's 1996 "Out Of The Box" tour. The 50-city tour began Jan. 18 and will continue into November.

"As country music is the proper medium for Chevy Truck, George Strait is the ideal messenger," said Chevrolet general manager Jim Perkins. "It can be easily said that George Strait is the embodiment of the Chevy Truck's most dependable, longest lasting brand positioning."

Strait has long had the reputation of country music's keeper of the flame for the traditional sound. Sales of 45 million albums and a long list of awards have followed his country debut in 1981.

The laid-back Texan joins baseball great Cal Ripken, Jr., golf notable Greg Norman, and the men and women of the U.S. Ski Team as Chevy spokespersons. "It's important for me to be associated with a quality organization like Chevrolet," said Strait. "I have come to depend on my Chevy truck for many years, and I know Chevrolet is a company that I can trust and that I want to do business with. These are really genuine people who I know will always be there for me and my fans," Strait added. "I look forward to a long-lasting and mutually rewarding relationship."

As part of the sponsorship, Chevy Truck will coordinate vehicle displays at each concert venue; coordinate local promotions with Chevrolet dealers; and develop a special "Chevy Truck presents George Strait" concert logo to display on banners and on Strait's tour trucks.

Album Reviews By Wendy Newcomer

VARIOUS ARTISTS: The Essential Series (RCA 07863-66818-2)

Opening with the genteel Jim Reeves, RCA proudly beckons "Welcome To My World." And so begins a walk down memory lane that includes Skeeter Davis' "The End Of The World," "Any Day Now" by Ronnie Milsap, and the song with nine lives—"I Will Always Love You" by Dolly Parton. Along the way, listeners will also find Vince Gill ("Everybody's Sweetheart") before he found his pot of gold; Willie Nelson's "Night Life" and Jim Ed Brown's "Pop A Top;" and the blueprint for country piano, Floyd Cramer's "Last Date." The Essential Series is more than just a collection of hit songs; it is a valuable history lesson from a label that can lay claim to many of the forefathers (and mothers) of country music.

VARIOUS ARTISTS: Hats Off! A Tribute To Garth Brooks (By Country Music's Hottest Pickers) (CMH CD-6277)

As the album's subtitle says, the hottest players in Nashville are saluting the modern day Elvis of the country airwaves. And lest you think this is only a rehashing of the tracks to Brooks' hits, just one look at the musicians will dispute that notion. Among the greats on this disc are Randy Howard on fiddle; Roy Huskey, Jr. on bass; Robby Turner on steel guitar; Pat McGrath on rhythm and acoustic guitar; and Richard Bailey on five-string banjo. Each song on the album, from "The Thunder Rolls" to "The River" to "If Tomorrow Never Comes" is taken to a level beyond the over-the-top feel of Brooks' original versions. Not strictly bluegrass and not quite country, the instrumental Hats Off! should indeed flatter the humble Garth Man.

FRAZIER RIVER: Frazier River (Decca DRN3P-3493)

None of the guys in Frazier River are brothers, but you'd swear they were by the sibling-sounding harmonies coming from this self-titled debut album. Led by Danny Frazier's tightly-wound soulful voice, the group shows promise as its first single, "She Got What She Deserves," gains attention from radio.

The cuts "Heaven Is Smiling," "Last Request" "Everything About You" and "It Won't Bring Her Back" are the best examples of why this band is worth a listen.

PICK OF THE WEEK

VARIOUS ARTISTS: Not Fade Away (Remembering Buddy Holly) (Decca DRND-11260)

Do we really need another tribute album? If it pays homage to Buddy Holly then the answer is a resounding "Yes!" Not Fade Away pairs some unlikely artists to sing classics that are likely to produce new fans of the spectacled one. Holly's music was a hybrid of rockabilly, blues, gospel, R&B and many other styles—not unlike today's country music. So it is fitting to hear Marty Stuart and Steve Earle moaning "Crying, Waiting, Hoping." Or The Mavericks crooning "True Love Ways." Fellow Texans Nanci Griffith (with the Crickets) and Joe Ely (with Todd Snider) sing "Well...All Right" and "Oh Boy!," respectively. Not Fade Away is a classy compilation of the work of a classic, timeless performer.

Midway And Nintendo Intro Killer Instinct 2

CHICAGO—Midway Manufacturing Company and Nintendo announced the release of the eagerly awaited Killer Instinct 2 coin-operated video game. The new piece, scheduled to arrive in Family Entertainment Centers and arcades in February, is being manufactured under a license agreement between Midway, Nintendo and Rare, the same team that produced the mega hit Killer Instinct.

Killer Instinct hit the arcade scene in December of 1994 and skyrocketed to the top of the popularity charts within a month. To this day, the game remains on the Top Ten list.

Killer Instinct 2 gives players more depth of game play, more graphics, new background visuals, more characters and literally millions of combination moves. Through new technological advancements, players can now have game characters interact with objects and backgrounds as part of each compelling fighting match.

"There are so many new elements that have been added to Killer Instinct 2," stated Joe Dillon, vice president of sales for Midway. "Besides the new characters and wild new moves players have been anticipating, the ability to interact with the backgrounds adds entirely new dimensions to game play. This game reaches a new level of entertainment, thanks to the latest graphics and storage technology that are implemented in the game."

Killer Instinct 2 features a cast of new characters, highlighted by the inclusion of two new female characters—Kim Wu, a martial arts expert who brandishes nunchuks, and Maya, a barefoot jungle fighter whose expertise is in knives. Another new character, Tusk, is a sword-wielding barbarian.

Overwhelming player demand called for original characters TJCombo, Spinal, Gladius, Fulgore, Sabrewulf, B. Orchid and Jago to be included in this game.

In addition to the new characters and moves, Killer Instinct 2 also features a Power Up Bar, which rewards the more aggressive player, regardless of the level of the energy bar.

"We wanted to make this the most challenging fighting game yet in terms of moves and endings," explained Joel Hochberg, co-chairman of the Rare

Partnership. "In Killer Instinct 2, players will really be challenged with the possibility of mastering up to one million combo moves."

As noted by Ken Lobb, Nintendo product manager consulting on game development, "We stunned the world last year when the combo moves in Killer Instinct were created. It's those challenging moves that kept players coming back to master literally hundreds of combos per character."

AAMA To Test Radio Advertising Program

CHICAGO—The board of directors of the American Amusement Machine Association unanimously approved plans for a radio advertising campaign to be test marketed in Minneapolis and its surrounding areas this coming March.

"The coin-operated amusement industry is definitely in need of a program to promote itself to the consumer sector," stated AAMA president Rick Kirby. "We are confident that this program will have a great impact on encouraging people to consider coin-operated amusements as an entertainment option."

The Industry Promotion Committee, led by co-chairman Marty Glazman (Williams Bally/Midway) and Dick Shelton (Valley Recreation Products), took to the task of creating a program which would serve as a promotional tool for the industry. Following the committee's decision to pursue this project, the group retained the services of DiMeo/Rosen Partners, a Chicago-based advertising agency, to oversee all aspects of the program.

"We are very excited to be associated with AAMA on this project," said Bernie DiMeo, senior partner at DiMeo/Rosen. "We are confident that through our strong creative team, we will get the message out regarding coin-operated amusements."

With the assistance of many operators in the state of Minnesota, the project will be launched on March 1 and continue through March 31, 1996. In this time frame, radio advertising spots will be heard continuously on a number of different radio stations throughout the state. Additionally, over 1,000 locations in the state will be promoting the "Great Amusement Giveaway," through signs and other visual materials. At the close of the five-week campaign, a winner will be drawn at random from entries received at all locations, with the grand prize being a piece of coin-operated equipment—either a pinball machine, a dart board or a pool table. A small first prize will be awarded in each different region.

Upon the results of the test, plans call for expanding the program to the national level.

CHICAGO—An unbeatable agenda has been planned for this year's American Coin Machine Exposition, scheduled for March 7-9 at the Orange County Convention/Civic Center in Orlando, Florida.

The convention's tenth anniversary will be highlighted at the opening night Operator's Cocktail Party where a "memory lane display" will recapture "10 Years Of ACME."
