

Sprinting ahead of the competition...

Recent data show that Journal of Materials Chemistry is faster than its competitors. Much faster.

At a staggeringly quick 70 days, the average time for a Communication to go from submission to publication online at Journal of Materials Chemistry is more than four weeks faster than our nearest competitor. And with all articles being published online on average only 92 days after submission, we are nearly three times faster than the other leading journals in the field.*

So if you've got important research that needs to reach its audience quickly AND you want to benefit from professional and experienced staff, efficient peer review, expert editing and enhanced HTML publishing, choose Journal of Materials Chemistry.

*Data taken from published issues from September to December (inclusive) 2007.

RSC Publishing

www.rsc.org/materials

Registered Charity Number 207890