

A new journal from RSC Publishing Launching summer 2008

Energy & Environmental Science

A new journal linking all aspects of the chemical sciences relating to energy conversion and storage, alternative fuel technologies and environmental science.

As well as research articles, Energy & Environmental Science will also publish communications and reviews. It will be supported by an international Editorial Board, chaired by Professor Nathan Lewis of Caltech.

Contact the Editor, Philip Earis, at ees@rsc.org or visit the website for more details.

The current issue of Energy & Environmental Science will be freely available to all. Free access to all 2008 and 2009 content of the journal will be available following registration.
