

Publisher's Note

The attention of authors is drawn to the fact that manuscripts describing new computer programs (software) useful to pharmaceutical scientists are appropriate for submission to the International Journal of Pharmaceutics. Authors should include in the manuscript information on hardware compatibility and software availability (including costs, ordering address, etc.). All manuscripts must be accompanied by a manual describing software validation, operating instructions (in greater detail than in the manuscript) and illustrations of input and output data sets. In order that reviewers can appropriately evaluate the package, three copies of the manual and software (diskettes, tapes, etc.) should accompany submission. Software and manuals will be returned only upon request by the authors.