

ANNOUNCEMENT

12TH INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON NUMERICAL METHODS IN FLUID DYNAMICS

UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD, U.K.

9-13 JULY, 1990

The conference will cover all areas of computational fluid dynamics with particular emphasis on:

- algorithm development
- hypersonic flows
- environmental flows
- parallel computing
- transition and turbulence
- propulsion systems

It will be held in the lecture theatre of the Zoology and Psychology Building and hosted by the Computing Laboratory, Department of Engineering Science and the Mathematical Institute. Accommodation has been arranged in a number of Oxford colleges and at the Randolph Hotel for the duration of the Conference. Details of this and other accommodation in Oxford or its surrounding countryside will be made available upon request.
