Editorial

Book reviews

In this editorial, we wish to draw readers' and publishers' attention to a particular feature of this journal.

As a service to our readers, the International Journal of Heat and Mass Transfer publishes occasional reviews of new books in fields related to heat and mass transfer. The Book Review Editor, Professor J. P. Hartnett, will be pleased to consider books sent directly for review; suggestions for book reviews which should be acquired are also welcome. Publishers are therefore invited to send books directly to Professor Hartnett whose address is given on the journal's inside cover.

Published book reviews represent the opinion of the particular reviewer invited to undertake this task, and whose name will always be published as part of the review. The Editors and the Publisher are themselves not responsible for the opinions which may be expressed.
