

Editorial

It is a pleasure for me to announce two significant developments in the continuing success of the Journal of Applied Electrochemistry. Firstly, as from this issue the Journal will be published monthly. This reflects the increased flow of high quality papers into the Journal and will help to disseminate the information more quickly. We hope you will appreciate your twelve issues.

Also, I am delighted to announce the appointment of a North American Regional Editor to whom North American authors may now send their manuscripts. I should like to take this opportunity to welcome Bob Savinell, Case Western Reserve University, and to thank him for taking on this helpful editorial responsibility.

May I also thank all supporters of this Journal, authors, referees and readers, who continue to contribute to its health and success. Thank you all. I look forward to a continued input of high quality manuscripts in the future and I am always pleased to receive comments on the Journal and its policies.

Very best wishes for 1991.
