

A fluorescence microscopy image showing a complex, interconnected network of fibers. The fibers are primarily green, with some blue and yellow highlights, set against a dark background. The network appears porous and highly branched, resembling a sponge or a biological structure.

VOLUME 129 | ISSUE 5 | SEPTEMBER 5, 2013

JOURNAL OF
Applied Polymer
SCIENCE

WILEY

WILEYONLINELIBRARY.COM/APP