

Editors' note

Starting with this issue, a new Editorial team will be in charge of the Journal. We take this opportunity to place on record our sincere thanks to Prof. V Krishnan for shouldering the responsibility of the Editorship of the Journal for more than a decade and the members of the Editorial Board over the years for their valuable contributions. Our thanks are also due to the numerous authors who contributed papers and the referees for their selfless service in reviewing the manuscripts.

The quality of any journal is determined by the efforts of the contributing authors, the alacrity of the referees and the interest of the readers. It will be the endeavour of the new Editorial team to maintain and improve upon the high standards set by our predecessors and, in this challenging task, we solicit the sustained support of the Indian Chemistry Community.
