

Announcements

The Headquarters Laboratory, Forensic Branch, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, Washington, D.C., has prepared a bibliography on Firearms Discharge Residue Detection. The bibliography includes 163 references and is divided into eight sections: sample collection, chemical tests, neutron activation analysis, atomic absorption analysis, other instrumental techniques, miscellaneous, bullet hole identification, and firing distance determination. Because this reference list may be of interest to others, copies are being made available on request. Requests should be sent to:

The Forensic Sciences Foundation has announced the formation and incorporation of the American Board of Forensic Anthropology, Inc. Forensic anthropology is defined by the Board as the application of the science of physical anthropology to the legal process. The Board will receive applications for candidacy to certification beginning 1 July 1977.

Physical anthropologists who have been engaged in forensic anthropology are invited to write the Board for information and application materials concerning Board Certification.

This Board is a nonprofit organization established to regularize the practice of this specialty. Please address all inquiries to the following address:

Mr. Robert Albro
Forensic Sciences Foundation
