

The R.B.H. Gradwohl Laureate—1993

ABEL M. DOMINGUEZ, Ph.D. Editor Emeritus, Journal of Forensic Sciences

The Gradwohl Medal is the Academy's highest honor and tribute, bestowed in recognition of a lifetime of exceptional distinction and service to the organization and the profession. Established in 1975, the Gradwohl Medal has been awarded to only four other individuals.

For a lifetime of exceptional, and exceptionally dedicated and selfless service to the forensic sciences profession, to the Academy, to education and research in forensic science fields, to the maintenance of high professional standards, to the promotion of interdisciplinary communication, and particularly for his extraordinary service and devotion to the Journal of Forensic Sciences as its Editor-in-Chief for 18 years, President Marina Stajic awarded the R.B.H. Gradwohl Medal to Dr. Abel M. Dominguez, Editor Emeritus of this journal, at the 45th Annual Meeting of the Academy in Boston, Massachusetts, February 17, 1993.
