The Cellular and Molecular Biology 2nd World Congress will take place September 1-7, 1996, in Ottawa, Canada. Over 1,000 scientists concentrated in life sciences will focus on the growing linkages and build upon the existing scientific foundations to correlate apparently different structures with common molecular biochemical features. In addition to the scientific and industry-related program, a major exhibition of the latest biotechnical equipment, products and services has been added to this year's Congress.
