In Memoriam

PROFESSOR DRAGUTIN FLEŠ

The Editorial Office of the Journal of Macromolecular Science, PAC would like to extend sympathy to Professor Fleš' family, friends and colleagues.

Professor Fleš was a respected scientist and author, who not only published in this journal on a regular basis, but over the years he became a "friend" as well. He was a pleasure to work with, cooperative, respectful and efficient. He always had a kind word to share and he will be sorely missed. We are indeed lucky to have known him, his legacy will continue as his research group has also developed an excellent relationship with our office and his work will continue through them.

We bid Dragutin Fleš a fond farewell!
