

JMR

Journal of Magnetic Resonance

By analyzing the phase information in a set of FIDs acquired when a capacitor bank is discharged through a high homogeneity resistive coil, one can achieve good NMR resolution and implement signal averaging while operating at unprecedented high magnetic fields

Editor: Lucio Frydman