

Publisher's Note

New Regional Editor for the Journal of Organometallic Chemistry

Elsevier is pleased to announce the appointment of Professor Ian Manners, Professor of Inorganic, Macromolecular and Materials Chemistry, School of Chemistry, University of Bristol, UK, as the new Regional Editor for the UK, Northern Europe and the former Commonwealth countries, commencing as of 1 September 2006. Professor Manners' research interests focus on main group and transition metal organometallic molecules, organometallic polymers and materials.

The addition of Professor Manners to the body of editors will help the Journal of Organometallic Chemistry to handle manuscripts from a broad set of scientific areas. His expertise will be important in helping us to attain our goal of publishing high quality manuscripts in organometallic chemistry.

Professor Manners succeeds Professor D. Michael P. Mingos FRS, who stepped down after ten years of dedicated service at the end of December 2005.

Authors are invited to submit their papers to Professor Manners via the journal's online submission site, <http://ees.elsevier.com/jorganchem>.

The Regional Editors and Elsevier are delighted to welcome Professor Manners on board.

Alexandra Migchielsen, PhD
Senior Publishing Editor, Organic & Inorganic Chemistry