

MEETING OF THE STATE COMMITTEES ON U. S. P. AND N. F. PROMOTION

ABSTRACT OF PROCEEDINGS.

Prior to the Minneapolis meeting, invitations were sent to the chairmen of the state committees to attend this Conference and to forward material illustrating the work being carried on in the state for exhibit at the meeting. The response was very encouraging.

The meeting was held on Wednesday afternoon, August 24th. E. Fullerton Cook acted as chairman and Marvin J. Andrews as secretary.

Chairman Cook stated that the purpose of the Conference, which it is hoped will become an annual feature of the A. Ph. A. meeting, is to bring together the members of the various state committees and others interested, for a discussion of their work, to acquaint each state committee with what other committees are doing and to promote the use of official products and closer professional relations in every way possible.

Two speakers, Dr. Bernard Fantus and Dr. Ivor Griffith were invited to open the program.

Dr. Fantus discussed the various ways of contacting members of the medical profession to acquaint them with the products contained in the U. S. P. and N. F. He stressed the opinion that educational work should start with the young men in the medical colleges. The Committee should fraternize with the Instructors in the medical schools in order that they may get the benefit of pharmaceutical knowledge. By so doing the instructors would be fortified with information in order not to mislead their students. Committees should contact and give facts to faculty members of the medical schools especially those on the therapeutic committees. The general policy of this committee should be to devote one hour throughout the year to the senior class on New and Non-Official Remedies, giving the purpose of the Committee on Pharmacy and Chemistry of the American Medical Association; endeavor to get the students to use only the products of the U. S. P., N. F. or N. N. R., and for the Deans to prohibit the distribution of samples to the senior class in medical schools.

The second point of contact is in the hospital where the medical students learn how to use medicines. An effort should be made to include only the official products in hospital formularies. Opposition will be encountered as many big physicians are not scientific and tend to go the easy way when prescribing. In lots of instances they include various ingredients in their prescriptions from force of habit.

In conclusion Dr. Fantus gave some of the criticisms of U. S. P. and N. F. promotion. Under this heading he stated that a committee should not promote unscientific medication just because they are contained in the N. F. At the same time he said the National Formulary was a scientific book and would gradually be freed from unscientific preparation. Dr. Fantus expressed the hope that in time the U. S. P. will contain all necessary drugs and the N. F. will contain preparations of these drugs.

The title of Dr. Griffith's paper was "In the Interest of Real Pharmacy." It was emphasized that pharmaceutical services are necessary in the preservation and improvement of public health and that while the drug store had changed in appearance and some of its former activities had been transferred to the manufacturer, the hospital, etc., the profession had not changed in character. Pharmacy remains, as Remington wrote, "the science which treats of medicinal substances. It embraces not only a knowledge of medicines and the art of preparing and dispensing them, but also their identification, selection, preservation, combination, analysis and standardization."

The pharmacist has experienced striking changes, as has the family doctor, in keeping with progress and finds it necessary to specialize in some chosen field. This has led to an extension of an improvement in the service rendered by all branches of Pharmacy.

In order to maintain this progress it is necessary that pharmacists observe pharmaceutical and other standards and discharge their professional obligations in strict accord with its ethics. Particular reference was made to the responsibility of the dispensing pharmacist and to a personal experience in selecting a pharmacist to fill a prescription for a member of his own family.

Dr. Griffith closed by saying, "Ancient as is the origin of the \mathcal{R} , modern pharmaceutical service still draws its inspiration from its direction, and the corner pharmacy as well as the large manufacturing house that recognizes this and fulfils its obligations in the faithful compounding of medicinal agents is accepting an opportunity to serve as well as a certainty to survive.

We hear so much these days of the open prescription counter. What we must more seriously consider is the wide open prescription conscience that brooks no substitution, that realizes its responsibilities and fulfils them with exactitude. And that is the measure of service which gives Pharmacy its truly professional standing, in the interests of public health."

Following these two papers the meeting was then turned over to a general discussion of the work being carried on in the various states.

O. U. Sisson, Chairman of the Committee on U. S. P. and N. F. of the N. A. R. D., spoke on the method of promotion as carried on by his association.

Marvin J. Andrews, Chairman of the U. S. P. and N. F. Publicity Committee in Maryland, told briefly of the results obtained from the filing box and cards distributed to the medical and dental professions in Maryland.

E. T. Motley, Dean School of Pharmacy, University of South Carolina, stated that although the committee in South Carolina had distributed only two bulletins they were very much gratified with the results they had obtained.

Charles V. Selby stated that his group in West Virginia had changed the name of their committee to the Professional Relations Committee during the past year. The written material now being prepared by his committee is printed on cards and requires forty seconds to read. Each card contains one item and they are distributed each month.

Additional speakers included: J. Leon Lascoff, George Judisch and Robert C. Wilson.

One of the most valuable suggestions was the importance of filing in the A. PH. A. headquarters copies of all literature and programs used in promoting professional relations and the use of official products and of sending fifty copies of all such material used in the future, to the A. PH. A. offices for distribution to the committees in other states.

The first meeting adjourned at 6:15 P.M. to convene again at breakfast on Friday.

The breakfast meeting on Friday was called to order at 7:45 A.M. by Dr. J. Leon Lascoff who acted as chairman. This meeting was attended by about sixty members who were interested in professional Pharmacy and it was decided to continue the meeting and exhibit at the Atlanta Convention.

In addition to these two general meetings there was a display on the mezzanine floor of the Nicollet Hotel of the various bulletins, mimeographed sheets, cards and photographs of displays used in the different states by the Committees promoting the more extensive use of official medicines.
