REPORTS FROM THE SECOND SESSION.

REPORT OF THE RETIRING GENERAL SECRETARY AND EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL.

J. H. BEAL.

By consent of the Council and of the Committee on Publication, the active conduct of the Journal was turned over to Mr. Ernest C. Marshall, June 1, 1914, since which date Mr. Marshall has attended to the editing and publication of the papers therein contained and has written all of the editorials. The excellent manner in which this work has been accomplished speaks for itself.

On June 1st the transfer of the duties which relate particularly to the office of General Secretary was also begun, and was carried out as rapidly as circumstances permitted. Much correspondence has continued to come to my office, which has been disposed of either directly or by reference to the Acting General Secretary, Mr. Marshall.

As a matter of course, the salary of the General Secretary terminated at the time of the transfer of the active duties of that office to Mr. Marshall, since which time bills have been rendered only for postage and such other incidental expenses as were necessary to the transfer of materials from Scio to Columbus.

Storage of Proceedings and Historical Material:—The accumulated volumes of Association Proceedings formerly in care of the Wickersham Printing Company, of Lancaster, Pa., and those formerly kept in a storage warehouse at the city of Baltimore, together with certain boxes containing documents of historical interest have, for nearly three years past, been stored in the building formerly occupied by the Scio College of Pharmacy, at Scio, Ohio, in which building the General Secretary's office has also been located. This building is the property of the Pittsburg College of Pharmacy and has been occupied by the Association free of rent.

As the building had been vacant for some years prior to our use of it, some minor repairs upon the roof and spouting were necessary, as was also the purchase of coal for the purpose of drying out the building after prolonged spells of wet weather. In view of the generous action of the Pittsburgh College of Pharmacy in granting us the free use of the building, I feel that the expenses incurred in these incidental repairs and for fuel should be met by the Association.

When the building is once more closed (as it will be when the retiring Secretary ceases to occupy an office therein, it is probable that the rooms will again become damp, through lack of ventilation, and the volumes of proceedings and other materials there stored will be liable to mould and mildew. The necessity of arranging for the proper care of this material has been placed before the Publication Committee and will no doubt be given proper attention.

Suggestions Concerning the Journal:—Article 2 of Chapter X of the By-Laws provides that papers presented to the Association and its branches are reserved for first publication in the Journal, except by consent of the Publication Committee. This rule has been liberally interpreted, and the privilege of advance publication by other journals has been granted whenever asked for. Since it has been proposed that the rule requiring the consent of the Publication Committee be abolished, and since such action might materially interfere with the future prosperity of the Journal, it is desirable that the matter be seriously considered before any such action be taken.

The papers and communications presented at the annual meeting and before the local branches may be roughly divided into those which are of a general or popular nature, and consequently interesting to the casual reader, and those of a strictly scientific character which, notwithstanding their great usefulness to the progress of pharmacy, appeal only to a limited class of technical workers. If the rule requiring the consent of the Publication Committee be abolished, the probable result would be that the papers of a popular character would receive early publication in other journals and, consequently, would be considered stale when printed in the official Journal; while to the latter would fall the exclusive publication only of such papers as were of a technical and scientific nature.

The rule reserving the exclusive right to first publication in the official organ is a common one among scientific and professional organizations and, as far as my observation extends, has never been seriously objected to except in the case of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

Unless very good reasons can be cited to the contrary, it would seem better that the present rule be continued, with the understanding that the Editor shall have liberal discretionary power to give consent to prior publication in other journals of papers presented at the annual meetings and before the local branches.

It should be remembered in this connection, that the Journal is in no sense a competitor of other drug publications. The necessity for requesting permission to print a paper before its appearance in the Journal certainly does not impose any serious hardship, and since the Journal is an exclusive Association organ, and does not infringe upon the general field of drug journalism, there should be no more objection to quoting from its pages than to quoting from a government publication. The Program for the Annual Meetings:—From his intimate relation to the internal affairs of the Association, the General Secretary is in a position to realize acutely the necessity for a rearrangement of the annual program so as to better conserve the time available for the presentation of papers and discussions, and for the conduct of the routine activities of the Association at the annual convention.

Very wisely, it was early decided to place the business and financial affairs of the Association, and the direction of routine matters generally, in the hands of the Council, which body has generally been made up of members well experienced in the affairs of the Association by service in various official capacities. It was also wisely provided that the acts of the Council should always be subject to revision by the Association. Though not expressly so provided in the by-laws, it has been the custom to read the Council proceedings in full at the general sessions. This may have been satisfactory at a time when the activities of the Association were few in number, but at the present time the matters brought up for Council consideration are so multifarious, and frequently so lengthy, that the reading of these minutes has come to consume a large and undue proportion of the time allotted to the General Sessions.

In order to secure the undoubted advantages of the general direction of the affairs of the Association by a select body of experienced members, and at the same time retain a full measure of control in the hands of the general membership, while relieving the General Sessions from the burden of listening to the recital of Council minutes, I make the following suggestions:---

(1) That the portion of Article 1, Chapter VII of the By-Laws, which provides that any member of the Association may attend the meetings of the Council, be elevated to the dignity of a separate article, so as to emphasize the fact that Council meetings are open to attendance by all members of the Association; and also that the requirement of a vote of the Council in order to permit non-members of the Council to speak, be changed so as to require only the consent of the presiding officer.

(2) That Section 3, Article 8, of Chapter VII be changed by striking out the requirement that the names of candidates for membership be read at the general sessions. Under our present practice there exists the anomaly that between annual meetings members are elected exclusively by vote of the Council, while if elected during the annual meeting, they must also be voted upon by the Association.

(3) That the practice of reading the minutes of the Council at the general sessions, which seems to be a matter of custom only and is not an express requirement of the by-laws, be done away with, and the Council left free to present to the general sessions only such matters as it deems of sufficient importance to require such reference.

The same suggestion has been offered by Mr. Harry B. Mason, and has my hearty approval.

(4) Add a new by-law to Chapter VII, giving to any member of the Association, during any general session, the right to call for a report from the Council upon any matter which has received its consideration.

Such a rule, coupled with the provision permitting all members to attend the Council sessions, and the reserved right of the Association to reject or modify Council action would provide ample means for full control of the Council by the Association and, at the same time, eliminate from the general sessions the tedious reports of the trifling, though necessary, details of general business affairs.

The House of Delegates:—The suggestion that the House of Delegates be abolished, prompts the retiring Secretary to recount some of the reasons which induced the Council to provide for its establishment at the Denver Convention.

(1) The by-laws for a long period of time have provided for the reception of delegates from various pharmaceutical institutions and associations, and for the examination and acceptance of the credentials of such delegates, but have failed to express the status of such delegates at the convention or to provide for them any proper function. Each year numerous delegates have appeared at the annual meeting and presented their credentials, and when they inquired as to their status in the convention, were advised that they were simply delegates and nothing more. Naturally, many of those who had been appointed by their local associations, and had received instructions as to the lines of policy which they should advocate, felt that the situation was more or less farcical, and some of them have been offended by the apparent lack of consideration which they received. By the creation of a House of Delegates these appointees were provided with certain definite functions and were made to realize that a delegate was something more than an empty name.

(2) Those who have closely observed the workings of the Association have realized that there should be some more decided and effectual method of acquainting the association in annual convention assembled of the requirements of pharmacy in the different sections of the United States. The creation of the House of Delegates provided a natural and easy means whereby the different sections of the country and the various divisions of pharmaceutical activity may present in a formal and effectual manner their recommendations for the formulation of the general policy of the Association.

(3) Associations such as ours have usually provided for a body known as the Committee on Resolutions, the principal function of which is to formulate general declarations concerning the policy of the Association. Considering the constitution of the House of Delegates, with its representation from the various branches of pharmacy and from the various geographical divisions of the United States, it is most admirably adapted to serve as such a General Committee on Resolutions and to prepare for final consideration and adoption the formulated expressions of the Association upon matters of general pharmaceutical and public interest.

(4) It was believed that the House of Delegates was the natural and logical place for receiving the credentials and recommendations of the representatives of sister pharmaceutical organizations. The Association cannot, without a near approach to rudeness, recognize the credentials of delegates from institutions and organizations and then deny them a place on the program. If it receives the greetings and reports from some of these delegations, it should receive them from all; while if it receives reports from all of the delegations in the General Sessions, the time devoted to the latter will be unduly prolonged. Thus a House of Delegates is not only the logical place for the reception of these delegations, but affords the Association the opportunity of learning the sentiments of the various organized branches of pharmacy and of the trade in general in various parts of the country.

The Various Sections.—While it is true that sections should not be needlessly multiplied, we should not lose sight of the fact that it is quite impossible for all of our members to be equally interested in the same topics, and that those who are deeply interested in closely related lines of work will prefer to come together in a section especially devoted to such related subjects.

The real test as to the necessity of a section seems to me to be the degree of interest manifested by the members who take part in the work of that section. If these are sufficient in number to insure the preparation of interesting programs and well attended sessions, the necessity for the existence of such a section would seem to be well established.

Regarding the Section on Pharmacopœias and Formularies, to the continuance of which some objection has been made, I take the liberty of calling attention to the fact that the establishment of such a section was for a long time one of the favorite ambitions of one of our most distinguished and useful members, the late Oscar Oldberg; that its establishment was the subject of his last communication to the Association, and that this Section is practically a memorial to Professor Oldberg's faithful services to the Association and to the cause of professional pharmacy in general.

The creation of this Section has enabled us to appeal to the interests of food and drug chemists and officials charged with the administration of food and drug laws in a more effective manner than ever before, and has brought home to such persons in a most emphatic way a knowledge of the fact that the American Pharmaceutical Association is an important factor in the development and establishment of practical and rational standards for drugs and chemicals.

In my opinion, if any change is made in this Section, it should be to broaden its title to the "Section on Pharmacopœias, Formularies and Drug Standards," all of which are closely related topics and can better find representation in a section devoted to their especial consideration than in any other section of the Association.

In conclusion, it is a matter of deep regret to me that I am unable to be present with you in person, this making the first annual meeting which I have been unable to attend since the meeting held in Chicago in 1893.

My interest in the welfare of the Association has not lessened, however, and, though circumstances will not permit my again undertaking any official duties that would impose serious and continuous responsibility, I hope to be able to take active part in the proceedings of the Association, as a plain member in the ranks, on many future occasions.

In retiring finally from office, I wish to assure you of my profound gratitude for the official honors received at your hands in the past, which I cannot help but realize have been much in excess of my deserving, and to express my appreciation for the helpful and sympathetic consideration received from the members and officers during the period of my service as your General Secretary and Editor of the Journal.

Respectfully submitted,

J. H. Beal.
