"the good work that this organization has accomplished can scarcely be computed; sufficient to say that whatever advancement pharmaceutical science has made in this country has been largely due to its fostering care." He became a member in 1898.

Mr. Hay was especially earnest in his opinions upon the necessity of changing our patent and trade mark laws. In his address as president of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association, in 1903, he said that education is our remedy—" Educate our people as well as our legislators to a thorough comprehension of the nature of these laws. . . .

The American Pharmaceutical Association will meet in Atlantic City, September 5–9. The American Conference of Pharmaceutical Faculties and National Association of Boards of Pharmacy convene in Philadelphia, August 31 and September 1 and 2, participating in joint meeting with other bodies in Atlantic City during the week following. In last issue, underneath a cut showing a view in Atlantic City, the month given there was an error, and, while we presume this was recognized, we desire to emphasize the time and place so that the members will prepare for the annual event.

The Chairmen of the various sections have moods. So lavish are we that we give away an empire worth a dozen king's ransoms to a transcontinental railway and then in the next spasm grant a foreigner a monopoly on a medicinal preparation which his own country —more watchful of the welfare of its invalid citizens—refuses to protect; and this freak of generosity of ours enables the foreigner to demand and receive four, yes, five and six, times what the identical product sells for in the land of its birth."

Thirteen years have flown by since Mr. Hay uttered his earnest protest and the laws of product-patents have not been changed; but they may yet be by reason of the exigencies caused by the European War.

Mr. Hay is survived by his wife and two sons, his mother, five brothers, and two sisters. J. W. E.

JOSEPH D. FRANZONI.

Joseph Dunbar Franzoni, seventy-five years old, a prominent pharmacist of the national capital, died at his late home, 608 Massachusetts Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., on April 22, 1916, of Bright's disease. He was a life-long resident of Washington and a prominent figure in local pharmaceutical circles. He was connected with the firm of Z. D. Gilman, 627 Pennsylvania Avenue, for fifty-three years, and was a member of the firm for half a century. He took an active interest in civic affairs, being a member of the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce.

He joined the American Pharmaceutical Association in 1900. He is survived by four sons, two daughters, and a brother, all of Washington, D. C. J. W. E.

SOCIETIES AND COLLEGES.

been busily engaged in laying out their work and soliciting papers for their programs. While, as a rule, by the time of the meeting, there are sufficient papers to occupy the time of the sessions, many are slow in responding, forgetful that this may mean loss of time and unnecessary expenditure for postage.

The Detroit meeting exemplified that it was possible to carry on association work systematically. Of necessity each member in attendance has many engagements, they would like to participate in the work, or listen to as many of the papers as possible. The success depends on coöperation in applying system and doing away with unnecessary remarks. Discussions are very important. Everyone must make some sacrifice, and punctuality is essential. Associations should be conducted according to modern business methods, run by the clock, "filling the unforgiving minute with sixty seconds' worth of distance run."

Atlantic City is so generally well-known for its attractions and hotel facilities that little need be said in that respect. On page 557 of the May issue names and rates of hotels will be found. Further information can be obtained by addressing the Atlantic City Publicity Bureau.

THE NEW NATIONAL FORMULARY.

The Committee on Publication of the American Pharmaceutical Association makes the following announcement:

The National Formulary, Fourth Edition (N.F. IV), will be ready for distribution about July 1, 1916.

The prices of the book in the various bindings will be as follows: Muslin binding, plain, $2.50; buckram, plain, $2.75; buckram, interleaved, $4.00.

The purchase of the buckram binding is recommended, in preference to the muslin binding, as it is much more durable and suitable for a book of the size and weight and the constant use to which this book will be subjected; and the additional cost is but 25 cents per copy.

The book has been completely revised and enlarged. It contains formulas for 589 preparations in Part I, and in Part II definitions and tests for 188 ingredients used in the formulas, but not standardized in the U.S.P. IX. The titles of articles total 777.

The N.F. IV is a legal standard under the Federal Food and Drugs Act and various state food and drug acts and is indispensable to every practising physician and pharmacist.

The Midland Publishing Company, Columbus, Ohio, has been appointed general sales agent with the following sub-agents: The Baker-Taylor Company, New York City; The Chicago Medical Book Company, Chicago; L. S. Mathews Company, St. Louis, Mo.; The Pacific Drug Review, San Francisco and Portland.

Single copies will be forwarded postpaid on receipt of the price by any of the agents.

Mr. Hugo Kantrowitz conveys the information that many members of the Deutscher Apotheker Verein will attend the Atlantic City meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Association, September 5-9. Aside from the general purpose of attending the meeting, a motive that prompted the arrangement was to pay respects to their fellow-member, Dr. William C. Alpers, President of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF AMERI-CAN DRUGGISTS' FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

The American Druggists' Fire Insurance Company is so closely related that it may well be named one of the allied drug interests, being organized exclusively by members of one or the other, or all of the national associations. The occasion of its tenth birthday was celebrated by bringing together those who represent the company with the officials and the gathering had the complexion of a pharmaceutical meeting, nearly all being active in State and National Associations. Aside from the celebration, the convention was for instruction; these sessions were full of interest, every one in attendance contributing a paper. The entertainment features were left for the last day of the convention, terminating with a banquet, at which time Dr. W. C. Anderson presided as toastmaster and responses were made by President Alpers of the American Pharmaceutical Association, President Stout of the National Association of Retail Druggists and Messrs. T. H. Potts, Hugh Craig, Chas. H. Huhn, L. C. Heinritz, Professor J. U. Lloyd and E. G. Eberle.

During the evening Mr. F. H. Freericks was presented with a valuable watch and chain, and with it went the appreciation and best wishes of his associates, expressed in thoughtful and beautiful words by Dr. J. H. Beal.

NEW YORK COLLEGE OF PHARMACY.

The eighty-sixth annual commencement exercises of the College of Pharmacy of the City of New York, Columbia University, were held in Carnegie Hall on the evening of May 11th.

The trustees of the New York College of Pharmacy contemplate a drug garden and have secured the use of a plot of ground in the New York Botanical Gardens and are now securing funds to prepare the ground for cultivation.

The members of the special committee in charge of collecting the fund needed to start operations in this garden are Irving McKesson, Dr. Henry Hurd Rusby, dean of the college, and Max J. Breitenbach. This committee has already obtained subscriptions for $4000, and hopes to gather $6000 more within the near future.

It is estimated that it will cost at least $3000 to put the loaned acre into shape for the successful cultivation of drug plants. The expense of operating the garden after it has been prepared is figured at $600 a year. The committee hopes eventually, however, to secure an endowment fund of about $20,000, which, at 6 percent interest, will furnish a revenue of $1200 a year, and to use the greater part of, if not all of, this revenue in a gradual expansion of activities.

PHILADELPHIA COLLEGE OF PHARMACY.

Commencement exercises of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy began Sunday, June 4, with baccalaureate services at the Church of St. Luke and the Epiphany; Monday the faculty banqueted the graduating class; Tuesday was Alumni Day. This is the fifty-second anniversary of the Alumni Association and the fiftieth year since Professor Joseph P. Remington, the dean, graduated from this school, which is sending out its ninety-fifth class of graduates. The annual meeting was held during the morning while the afternoon was given over to classday exercises and the day concluded with a banquet at Hotel Adelphia, where assembled nearly 300 graduates of the institution.

The speakers on the program were Dr. Ross V. Patterson, dean of the Jefferson Medical College, President William H. Ibach, Jr., of the graduating class and President Warren H. Poley, of the Alumni Association; impromptu addresses and remarks were made by representatives of the classes of the years ending in "1" and "6," and others called upon. The oldest graduate in attendance was Joseph L. Lemberger of Lebanon, Pa., of '54, who spoke words of admonition and cheer. Prof. E. N. Howell of Chapel Hill, N. C., was present and spoke of his attachment for the school. Numerous letters and telegrams were read and the evening passed quickly and pleasantly.

The graduating exercises were held at the Academy of Music, June 7, the address being delivered by Rev. Dr. John G. Wilson. President Howard B. French presided and conferred the degrees on 154 graduates. Certificates of Proficiency in Chemistry were given to nine; Food and Drug Course, one; Bacteriology, twenty-one; Analysis of Agricultural Products, one; Pharmaceutical Chemists, eleven, and the remaining were given the degree of Doctor in Pharmacy.

Service to humanity as the graduates' mission in life was emphasized by the Rev. Dr. John G. Wilson in his address to the class after the degrees had been presented. He appealed to the graduates to be citizens first and business men afterward.

Of the eight young women graduates, one, Miss Florence McGarrity, is secretary of the class, and several were prize winners. The girls in the class were Miss Ada M. Bernstein, Miss Sadie Swyers, Miss Florence McGarrity, of Pennsylvania; Miss Louisa L. Escanaverino, Miss Marie D. Escanaverino, of Cuba; Miss Agatha Karnauskas, of New York; Miss Elizabeth M. Willard and Miss Maud Sollenberger, of New Jersey.

The American Pharmaceutical Association Membership prize was awarded to William Alexander Wallace.

JERSEY CITY COLLEGE OF PHARMACY.

The students of the Department of Pharmacy and the Department of Dentistry of the College of Jersey City held a reunion and a dinner at Carell's Café on Friday evening, June 2, 1916. The students have formed a Chemical Club in honor of Dr. Otto Raubenheimer, Professor of Pharmacy and Chemistry at the College. This club has the following objects: To increase the interest in chemistry, to help those students who are back in their work, to hold discussions, to provide special lectures, to visit chemical works, and to promote good fellowship.

The speakers of the evening were: Professors Raubenheimer, Kussy, Throne and Gutman, who are honorary members of the Chemical Club. The toastmaster of the evening was Harold V. Purdy of White Plains, N. Y. The Chairman of the Arrangement Committee, Harry H. Hermann, deserves credit for this very enjoyable affair. A unique feature was that each speaker had to present something pertaining to chemistry, thus making the affair a real "chemical dinner." Over 50 students were present and the banquet was a great success.

The officers of the Chemical Club are: President, Samuel Mintz; Vice-president, Leonard S. Morvay; Secretary, Joseph Bleich; Treasurer, Tillie Gardner; Laboratory Director, Samuel Brochin.

PHARMACY DEPARTMENT, TEMPLE UNIVERSITY.

The Commencement Exercises of the Pharmacy Department of Temple University were held at the American Academy of Music, June 10.
