

FUNERAL OF KENNETH B. HAY, Thanksgiving Day, 1917.—One of the first sacrifices of our country to the great cause in France.

Kenneth B. Hay was the son of Charles T. Hay, of Dubois, Pa., member of the A. Ph. A., until his demise in 1917. After preparing for college at Montclair, N. J., Hay entered Yale, where he remained two years. After leaving Yale, he entered the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. He was in his second year when he enlisted with the Pennsylvania Hospital Unit, which left Philadelphia for foreign service on May 18 last.
