

less, except for the value that the right to use complainant's world-wide reputation in advertising may give to it. Complainant no longer believes that the remedy is useful, or likely to accomplish the purposes for which it was intended. There is not sufficient evidence in the case that that which defendant is putting out is really compounded according to the original formula. If it is using that formula, it doubtless may have a right to say so. In view of the improper use it has already attempted to make of the complainant's name, it should not be allowed even to say that much, or say he was the inventor, unless that statement is accompanied with the further explanation that the complainant now thinks it is without merit. Such latter statement must in every case appear in immediate connection with the formula and be as conspicuously displayed."

Edison v. Continental Chemical Co., 220 Fed. 398.

IN A SAFE PLACE.

In some of the small town drug stores in the quarry districts of Indiana, you can buy anything from talcum powder to dynamite, says the Indianapolis News. Not long ago, a small quarry operator drove up to one of these stores. The man was in a buggy, and his wife was with him. Calling to the proprietor of the store, he said, "Jim, bring out that box I bought a while ago!"

The package was put into the buggy at the feet of the man and his wife. The latter eyed the box suspiciously.

"What's in that package?" she asked with some asperity.

"Now, never mind," said the husband; "that's not going to hurt you."

The evasion excited the wife's further suspicion. "Ed Spivens," she exclaimed, "that's a box of dynamite!"

"Well, what if it is?" said Ed. emphatically. "It won't do any damage unless it explodes."

"Ed Spivens," shrilled the woman, "if you think I'm going to ride six miles in a buggy with fifty pounds of dynamite at my feet you're a bigger fool than I thought you were! You have that man take that stuff right out and put it in the back part of the buggy, under the seat!"

COUNCIL LETTER NO. 1.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., September 10, 1915.

To the Members of the Council:

At the San Francisco (1915) meeting of the Association, it was decided that Professor C. Lewis Diehl be retained as titular Chairman of the Committee on National Formulary, but that there be created, by resolution, the position of Vice Chairman of the Committee, and that this official be given full authority to act as the chairman or acting chairman, until further change; Professor Wilbur L. Scoville was elected the Vice Chairman of the Committee on National Formulary.

The subject matter of the National Formulary, Fourth Edition, is in the hands of the printer and proof is being rapidly furnished to the members of the committee, but there are certain questions of detail that have not yet been determined.

Vice Chairman Scoville writes asking the Council to authorize the holding of a conference of the editing committee and near-by members of the Committee on National Formulary, at Philadelphia, during September or October, of this year, at the call of the vice-chairman of the committee, and that the traveling and other expenses of the members be paid at a total cost not exceeding one hundred dollars.

The members of the editing committee are Messrs. Scoville, Cook, Dunning and Beringer.

The vice chairman of the committee will consult personally, also, Messrs. Hall, Seltzer and Stevens of Detroit, LaWall of Philadelphia, and Army and Raubenheimer of New York, so that more than one-half of the membership of the Committee on National Formulary can be consulted at a comparatively small expense to the Association; such conference will clarify the final details and facilitate the more rapid publication of the book.

Motion No. 1 (Conference of Committee on National Formulary). Moved by G. M. Beringer, seconded by C. H. LaWall, that a conference of the members of the editing committee and near-by members of the Committee on National Formulary be authorized to be held at Philadelphia during September or October of this year, and that a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars be appropriated to pay the expenses of holding such conference.

Motion No. 2 (Election of Members).
