

Preface

This is the second thematic issue of Journal of Pharmaceutical and Biomedical Analysis on the application of hyphenated techniques in this field.

I am pleased to mention that the idea about an annual thematic issue was enthusiastically accepted by the readers and the authors of the journal. This allowed me to assemble a quite balanced collection of interesting review and original papers about recent developments.

I would like to thank all authors and reviewers for their contribution that made this issue possible. The manuscript submission deadline for the next issue in the series is September 30, 2007.

All critical remarks, opinions and suggestions regarding this and forthcoming special issues on this topic are very much welcome by the editor.
