It is an honour for me to receive the Gaston Planté Medal and I feel very happy with this award.

I must admit that the credit goes also to all the scientists, specialists and technicians at the Department of Lead–Acid Batteries of the Central Laboratory of Electrochemical Power Sources, who have spared no effort for the success of our research work. I would like to acknowledge especially the assistance of my present and ex-collaborators and Ph.D. students: G. Papazov, M. Gerganska, T. Rogachev, St. Ruevski, B. Monahov, M. Dimitrov, M. Bojinov, S. Zanova, S. Ignatova, E. Bashtavelova, V. Iliev, N. Kapkov, I. Balkanov, A. Dakhouché, N. Iordanov, C.N. Pouliéff, E. Klaja, Z. Dinev.

I want to thank the Management of the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences for their support and encouragement, as well as to express my thankfulness to the Managements of VARTA, Germany, ILZRO, USA, and Oerlikon, Switzerland, for the financial support provided through the contracts signed with our Department for solving particular scientific and technological problems.
