THERMAL ANALYSIS IN RESEARCH AND PRODUCTION

Intensive Short Course

Basel, Switzerland (Hotel International), May 16–18, 1988

Course Director: Prof. Edith A. Turi

Key topics

Instrumentation

Measurable Parameters

Organic Compounds

Polymers

 Thermoplastics

 High Temperature Polymers

 Elastomers

 Thermosets

 Fibers

 Composites

 Copolymers, Blends and Polymer Miscibility

 Compounding — Selection of Additives

Pharmaceuticals

Inorganics

 Catalysts

 Ceramics and Glasses

 Metals and Alloys

 Semiconductors

 Superconductors

Stability Determination

Aging of Materials

Hazards Evaluation

Optimizing Processing Conditions

Energy

Quality Control
Problem Solving

Faculty

Patrick K. Gallagher (AT&T Bell Laboratories, USA)

Daniele Giron (Sandoz Ltd., Switzerland)

Edith A. Turi (Polytechnic U., USA)

Robert A. Weiss (U. of Connecticut, USA)

Instrument exhibition

On Tuesday, May 17, 1988, 5 to 9 PM, the major instrument companies will exhibit and demonstrate their new units. This event will be combined with a social hour and consultation.

General information

Each registrant will be provided with a workbook containing the copies of the projected slides and the recommended bibliography. Each will have the opportunity to discuss informally with the lecturers problems of their particular interest.

The participants will receive a Certificate of Attendance.

THERMANAL '88
11TH CZECHOSLOVAK CONFERENCE ON THERMAL ANALYSIS

High Tatras, Tatranská Lomnica, Czechoslovakia,
September 20—23, 1988

The Conference THERMANAL '88 is organized jointly by:
Slovak Technical University, Department of Silicate Technology, Bratislava
Slovak Chemical Society, Bratislava
Czechoslovak Scientific and Technical Society

THERMANAL '88 is a regular meeting of Czechoslovak scientists from various fields of thermal analysis application. This conference is traditionally participated by the foreign specialists.

You are warmly invited to participated in THERMANAL '88.

Further information and the registration form can be obtained from:
