WHEN the Fall Convention of The American Oil Chemists' Society closed its doors on Friday, October 6, one of the most successful of all gatherings of the Society was concluded. The Stevens Hotel was the Convention headquarters. The meeting was replete with interest — many old friends met again and all were agreed the three days were well spent. About 275 people registered.

Program

The meeting was called to order by J. P. Harris, Chairman of the Local Arrangements Committee, on Wednesday morning, October 4. After several preliminary announcements, Chairman Harris introduced President H. C. Dormitzer, who turned the meeting over to Mr. C. P. Long, Chairman of the Society's Soap Section. Under Mr. Long's guidance, the follow-
