

New Executive Director Meets AOCS Committees in Atlantic City

Publications Committee

James Lyon, the Society's new executive director, attended his first full AOCS meeting in Atlantic City in October. One of his duties at any meeting is to meet and to work with a variety of committees as they conduct the business of the organization. In this series of photographs, Lyon is shown conferring with several of the working AOCS groups.

Of course, an AOCS meeting includes more than just committee meetings. Members attended three days of technical sessions and several were presented awards for outstanding work. During free periods, they visited the variety of exhibits and enjoyed an array of social events.

International Relations Committee

Lipids Advisory Board

Meetings Planning Committee

Nominations and Elections Committee

Society Improvement Committee

Technical Safety Committee

Advertising Committee

Public Relations Committee

Environmental Control Committee

AOCs Foundation Committee