

Atlantic City Awaits the Ladies, Too

Exciting! no one word could better describe the Ladies Program planned for this Fall's Meeting-By-the-Sea. A Sunday afternoon tea will start the festivities rolling, followed by the traditional evening mixer for everyone. Then on Monday morning it's off to a wine-taster's haven at the House of Renault. Here the ladies can view 1100 acres of vineyards, visit the wine cellars and glass museum and enjoy sampling the wines.

In the afternoon, the ladies will return to the 18th century when they visit the Historic Towne of Smithville. After lunch at the famous Smithville Inn, they can view thousands of mums blooming in spectacular profusion about the town.

Built in 1787, in the heart of the Jersey woodlands, the town now includes Early American shops and restored 18th century buildings and homes. A smoke house, Chesapeake oystering boat and other vestiges of long ago dot the landscape. Your hunger for folklore, history and good food should be well satisfied on this occasion.

A "nautical day" is planned for Tuesday. Riding the waves on a boat trip around the bay, the ladies will be able to view the Atlantic City skyline, feel the soft ocean breezes and soak up some warm sunshine. Luncheon at Capt. Starn's will be a real treat—strictly Jersey shore with chowder and fish 'n' chips highlighting the menu. The boat pier itself has much to offer—trained sea lions, amusements and a display of live fish native to the Jersey shore. Or you can just sit on the pier and watch the ships come in.

Wednesday morning those of hearty spirit are invited to bike along the boardwalk. And everyone will enjoy just browsing through the many shops and visiting the auctions.

So come along with your hubby and enjoy the fun and excitement of the Jersey shore and Atlantic City!
