

AOCS to cosponsor New Delhi meeting

The American Oil Chemists' Society has become a cosponsor for the International Congress on Oilseeds and Oils to be held Feb. 9-13, 1979, in New Delhi, India, under the organization of the Oil Technologists' Association of India.

AOCS participation as a cosponsor was approved by the AOCS Executive Committee during its meeting during August in Champaign.

The scientific portion of the congress will consist of plenary lectures, a number of technical symposia on production and processing, as well as a technical exhibition. Organizers also are planning visits by delegates to research and industrial institutions near New Delhi and elsewhere in India.

Registration forms and travel information are available from Shri S.C. Singhal, Convener, C/O International Congress on Oilseeds and Oils, DCM Chemical Works, PO Box No. 6219, New Delhi-110015, India (Telex: 2488; cable: Chemworks). Travel information may be obtained from Air India, which is coordinating group flights from the United States and from Europe.

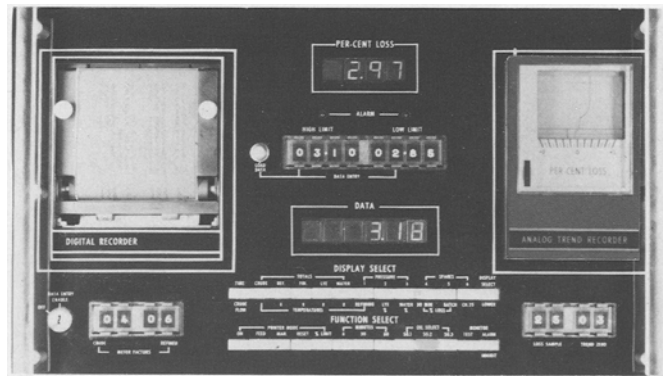

Complete programs are expected to be available this fall. Symposia subjects listed thus far are: oilseed agronomy, new sources of fats and oils; stability of fats and oils; quality control; biosynthesis, metabolism, and nutrition; toxicology; process technology and product development; and appropriate technology for developing countries. ●

Tomb of a former grand vizier was among the last of this type of monuments to be constructed in New Delhi.
