

Editorial

This issue of the journal contains thirteen papers which were originally presented at the 5th International Symposium on Electrochemical Impedance Spectroscopy held at Marilleva, Trento, Italy in June 2001. In keeping with the aims of this journal these papers concern the use of EIS in the evaluation of applied electrochemical systems.

I am very grateful to Flavio Deflorian for procuring and assisting with the processing of these papers.

Tony Wragg
Exeter, April 2002