Editorial

Special Issue: Selected papers from the 2006 NSTI Nanotech Conference

The Journal of Experimental Nanoscience is pleased to host a series of selected papers that result from presentations given at the 2006 NSTI Nanotech Conference and Trade Show held in Boston, MA, USA.

The papers were selected from a pool of presentations and their authors were invited to contribute to the Journal. They show some interesting developments in various area of nanoscience and nanotechnology, ranging from quantum computing to nano-medicine.

I hope that these papers will stimulate further research and encourage submissions to this young journal.
