

ANNOUNCEMENT

Important announcement for all authors submitting papers for publication in the Journal of Materials Science.

From February 1995 all authors are requested to submit articles to a new address as follows:

Professor W Bonfield
Journal of Materials Science
Chapman & Hall
2-6 Boundary Row
London
SE1 8HN

Following the continuing increase in the number of papers submitted to the Journal of Materials Science, and the recent development of making the journal available on the Internet, it has become desirable to centralize the administration of the journal at the publisher's offices. Professor Bonfield, as Editor-in-Chief of the journal, will continue to take responsibility for the peer reviewing of all submitted papers and the change of submission address is to centralize administrative processing. The availability of the Journal of Materials Science on Chapman & Hall's fileserv via the Internet during 1995 will be facilitated by this change. It is also expected that the new arrangements will have a positive impact on reducing publication times for papers submitted to the Journal and in the future development of electronic publication.
