XIIth International Conference on Organometallic Chemistry

Vienna, September 1–6, 1985

The XIIth International Conference on Organometallic Chemistry will be held from Monday, September 2nd to Friday, September 6th, 1985 at the Congress Center Hofburg in Vienna (Austria).

The historical castle Hofburg is located right in the center of Vienna in walking distance to most of the city's beautiful and historical sites. The Congress Center unites technical perfection with the atmosphere of an Imperial Palace.

Topics of the conference will include the whole field of Organometallic Chemistry. Contributions will be presented in plenary and section lectures as well as in short communications (both oral and posters) in parallel sessions.

A technical exhibition is planned at the Congress Center. Participation is open to all companies, the products of which are connected with the general topic of the conference.
