Second International Symposium on Solid State Chemistry

Pardubice, Czechoslovakia, June 26–30, 1989

The program of the Symposium is devoted to the study of Disordered Solids which will cover Preparation, Crystallization, Nonstoichiometry, Diffusion, Defects, Grain interfaces, Chemical, Thermodynamic, Structural and Physical Characterization, and Application aspects. New concepts, approaches, and fundamental understanding will be stressed.

Special sessions are planned for:

- chemistry of nontraditional glasses,
- high T_c superconducting materials,
- kinetics and mechanism of solid state reactions.
