MEMPHIS!

THE approaching 26th Annual Meeting of the American Oil Chemists' Society in Memphis on May 23 and 24 is looked forward to by local member and nonmember chemists with keenest pleasure. Many of them do not often have the opportunity to attend the Society's meetings and this one, of hearing many fine papers and committee reports and of participating in the discussions, is regarded as a real privilege.

Memphis has, perhaps, the largest number of oil chemists of any city in the South and they are united in the determination to give their guests a royal welcome and to make this a memorable convention.

The Society, through its Committee on Arrangements, extends to every Chemist and to others directly interested in or connected with the chemistry of Oils and Fats, a most cordial invitation to register and attend the business and scientific as well as the entertainment features of the Convention.

Reports reaching the committee are to the effect that a number of ladies are planning to attend the meeting and it is hoped that in this respect, as well as general attendance, it will be a record convention.

Memphis can be reached by air routes, by railroad or by automobile. Splendid paved highways radiate in every direction and weather conditions are ideal in late May for touring. No matter how visitors may come, they will find the hotels of Memphis adequate in every way to provide for their comfort and Peabody Hotel, the Convention Headquarters, is one of the most beautiful in the entire country.

President W. D. Hutchins has arranged a splendid program which will be found elsewhere in this issue. It is a guarantee of a fine meeting from a scientific viewpoint and should attract favorable attention.

Mrs. Owen Daniel, Chairman of the Ladies' Committee, is completing her plans for entertaining visiting and local ladies of the Convention. Her committee, consisting of the wives of local members of the A. O. C. S., is Mrs. M. G. Boulware, Mrs. J. H. Kirby, Mrs. G. M. Partee, Jr., Mrs. J. N. Pless, Mrs. T. L. Rettger, Mrs. W. H. Scott, Mrs. E. H. Tenent, Mrs. C. H. Cox, Mrs. E. R. Barrow and Mrs. G. Worthen Agee.

The luncheon on Thursday at the Memphis Country Club will be delightfully informal and afford the opportunity for better acquaintance between Memphis and visiting ladies. Visitors who wish to see something of the city will be given an automobile ride after the luncheon.

The room where the luncheon will be held overlooks the first and tenth tees of the golf course, where the entrants in the tournament will be driving off. The club course was never in better condition than it is this spring and with suitable weather for the next month its fairways and bunkers, its sand-traps and greens should bring out the best golf in every player.

Friday evening brings the end of the Convention with the Annual Banquet as the climax. The Peabody Hotel roof will be the scene of the dinner and no better setting could be found. During the dinner there will be music by an excellent orchestra and at its end a floor show by the best talent obtainable.

Following this, members can dance to the strains of the Hotel Peabody orchestra into the wee small hours.

The usual registration fees will prevail, $3.00 for members and visitors, which includes ticket to the banquet, and $2.00 additional for a lady. The greens fee at the Memphis Country Club is $2.00.
