

Photo by Kaufmann & Fabry, Chicago

The illustration above presents a view of Chicago's beautiful sky-line

Photo by Kaufmann & Fabry, Chicago
Museum of Science and Industry

CHICAGO ATTRACTIONS

● MUSEUM OF SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY . . . Housed in the Fine Arts building of the Columbian Exposition, here are graphically presented many of the important discoveries of science and their application to modern industry, including an operating replica of a coal mine and many of the science exhibits of A Century of Progress.

● ORIENTAL INSTITUTE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO . . . Ancient civilizations brought to the 20th Century . . . Babylon . . . Thebes . . . The Gateways of Nebuchadnezzar . . . Relics from the Stables of Solomon . . . A model of the Tower of Babel. Among unusual American Museums, the most unusual.

● FIELD MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY . . . The universe from creation to today. Exhibits in anthropology, botany, geology and zoology. Collections from all times and all parts of the world. Fossils, minerals, the world's largest collection of meteorites, plant life and mankind from the prehistoric to the various peoples of the present.

FALL MEETING

The Fall Convention of the American Oil Chemists' Society will be held at the Congress Hotel in Chicago on October 8 and 9.

There will be three technical sessions—on Thursday morning, on Friday morning, and on Friday afternoon. The dinner and entertainment are scheduled for Friday, leaving the Bowling Tournament for Thursday evening.

The Program Committee reports that an unusually interesting technical and scientific program already appears likely at this early date. Among those who will probably appear on the program with papers in their respective fields are: Dr. J. B. Brown, Assoc. Prof. of Physiological Chemistry and Pharmacology, Ohio State University; Dr. A. J. Carlson, Department of Physiology, University of Chicago; Prof. W. E. Anderson, Yale University, and Prof. H. R. Kraybill of Purdue University.

J. P. Harris and A. E. MacGee report that fifteen of a total of seventeen available exhibition booths have been leased to advertisers. The exhibitors are planning more elaborate displays than those presented heretofore. The early reservation of exhibit space is reassuring. It emphasizes the confidence of exhibitors in the success of American Oil Chemists' Society conventions, and indicates that the Society has something substantial to offer its advertisers.

Golf:

The Golf Committee reports that arrangements have been made with the Ridge Country Club for the Tournament this fall. Play has been scheduled for Saturday morning, October 10. However, it has been decided to defer final decision on whether the play shall be held as a tournament until the time of registration. If sixteen or more registrations are received arrangements will be made to conduct the affair as a tournament with prizes offered.

Bowling:

A. E. King reports that plans for the Bowling Tournament are progressing. The matches will be held in alleys adjacent to the Congress Hotel.

The Chicago Committee hopes to make this one of the best meetings in the history of the Society. The membership is urged to plan NOW to attend this convention.

Photo by Kaufmann & Fabry, Chicago
Adler Planetarium

CHICAGO ATTRACTIONS

● ADLER PLANETARIUM . . . Only institution of its kind in America where daily the planets, the stars, the moon, the entire celestial orbit reproduce under a dome over your head all of the mysterious workings of the universe. Hundreds of thousands, here for the first time, have learned in layman's language the real meaning and importance of astronomy.

● BROOKFIELD ZOO . . . America's most unusual zoo, patterned after those of Germany where, instead of cages and bars, wide moats separate the spectator from the animals. Man-made mountains, gullies and forests enable you to see the specimens in their native habitat.

● CHICAGO HISTORICAL MUSEUM . . . The finest historical collection in America, including the anchor dropped by Columbus when he discovered America, the deathbed of Abraham Lincoln, relics of the Spanish explorers, the French voyageurs and the Indian Northwest.

● SHEDD AQUARIUM . . . Newest and most complete aquarium of the day with 10,000 of the rarest specimens of the fish world; visited by three million persons annually.