

Bibliography on Oils and Fats

M. M. PISKUR's bibliography (J. Am. Oil Chemists' Soc., 33, 22) has been revised and brought up to date by V. V. Studer, at the request of B. F. Daubert, book review editor, Journal of the American Oil Chemists' Society. These books have been selected as useful sources of information on the properties, chemistry, biochemistry, and technology of fats, oils, and their derivatives.

• Names in the News

R. C. Stillman (1934) is chairman of Subcommittee No. 14, The Colorimetry of Transparent Materials, of the Inter-Society Color Council (ISCC). This and other committees of the Council met on April 11 in Philadelphia. Mr. Stillman also represents A.O.C.S. in the Council.

Foster D. Snell Inc. has announced the promotion of Bernard Berkeley to director of its Product Development Department, in charge of development in the fields of chemical specialties, wax, fuels, and lubricants.

The Institute of Food Technologists (IFT) has announced as joint winners of the 1960 Food Technology Achievement Award, Merck and Company and the Ameri-the 1960 winner of the Babcock-Hart Award for technological developments leading directly to the nutritional well-being of the public.

New officers of the Pulp Chemicals Association are: president—A. B. Doran, Union Bag-Camp Paper Corporation; vice president—C. W. Eurenus, Hercules Powder Company Inc.; chairman and vice chairman of the Tall Oil Products Division—Andrew M. Rankin, Continental Can Company Inc., and J. H. Ruskin, president of Arizona Chemical Company; re-elected chairman and vice chairman of the Sulphate Turpentine Division—G. W. Gilleland, St. Regis Paper Company, and F. J. Eveline, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has presented a $300 award and a certificate of merit to Lee P. Witnauer, physical chemist at the Eastern Utilization Research and Development Division, Wyndmoor, Pa. This award is in recognition of Dr. Witnauer's leadership, internationally recognized research accomplishments, and numerous published papers.

Stepan Chemical Company, Chicago, Ill., has promoted David B. Hatcher, formerly vice president and general manager, to executive vice president for the coordination of operations of all divisions and subsidiaries of the company and Wilfred J. Crepeau (1954), former assistant general manager, to assistant to the executive vice president.

Among the papers presented at the annual national meeting of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry (TAPPI) at the Hotel Commodore, New York, Feb. 22-25, was "Factors Affecting Print Gloss and Uniformity" by Albert C. Zettlemoyer (1948) and Jacqueline M. Fetsko.

Honeyead Products Company, Mankato, Minn., has appointed Max Kantor (1944) vice president and director of research. He has recently been a private consultant to the chemical industry.

New officers of the American Physical Society are: president—Victor F. Weisskopf, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; vice president—Frederick Seitz, on leave from the University of Illinois as scientific advisor to NATO.

New president of the American Association of Physics Teachers is Leonard O. Olsen, of Case Institute of Technology. Both of these societies are members of the American Institute of Physics.

An annual award to be known as the Arnold O. Beckman Award has been announced by the Instrument Society of America. It is named in honor of Arnold O. Beckman, founder-president of Beckman Instruments Inc., Fullerton, Calif., and former president and lifetime honorary member of the Instrument Society of America.

LeRoy Ditsch, University of Minnesota graduate, has joined the chemical research staff of the General Mills Central Research Laboratories, Minneapolis.
