

New Orleans '73

A full schedule of symposia, general interest papers, a sampling of New Orleans hospitality and entertainment are scheduled for the AOCS 64th Annual Convention, April 29–May 3, 1973, at the Jung Hotel. The plans have been disclosed by General Chairman Nestor B. Knoepfler. The convention committee is again looking forward to hosting the Society in its original domicile; to many members a visit to the Crescent City is a homecoming. Those visiting New Orleans for the first time will find a cosmopolitan city that is a unique combination of the old and the new, the historic and the modern.

From all indications, the technical program for the 64th Annual Convention will be of outstanding quality and interest. Eleven symposia have been scheduled by Robert L. Ory and Harold P. Dupuy, chairman and assistant chairman of the technical program. These symposia and their organizers are: "Oilseed Processing Methods," Carl M. Cater; "Steam Distillation Products from Vegetable Oils," Henry W. Kircher; "Flavor Research in Fats and Oils," Erlend R. Lowery; "Novel Uses of Agricultural Oils," W.H. Tallent; "Recent Advances in Lipid Based Surfactants," Warner M. Linfield; "Effects of Drugs on Lipid Metabolism," Roslyn Alfin-Slater and Lilla Aftergood; "Phytosterols," John L. Laseter; "Tall Oils," Jacob Krumbein; "Microbial Lypolytic Systems," R.G. Jensen; "Developments in Methodology for Lipid Analysis," Orville Privett; "Industrial Pollution Abatement and Environmental Aspects," C.L. Kingsbaker and J.E. Heilman; and "New Food and Drug Regulations," David Firestone. In addition to the symposia, regular technical sessions are scheduled for papers covering the various fields of fats, oils and lipids research and technology.

L.E. Brown, chairman of the entertainment committee has arranged the traditional mixer for Sunday evening, April 29, in the Tulane Room of the Jung Hotel. Monday evening, the past-presidents of the Society will be entertained, as guests of the convention committee, at a dinner in a prominent New Orleans restaurant. The banquet is scheduled for Tuesday, May 1, 1973, in the Grand Ball Room of the Jung Hotel. Entertainment at the banquet will take the form of a Dixieland jazz concert. The inaugural luncheon is set for Thursday in the Tulane Room.

Session chairmen are invited and requested to meet at a breakfast on Monday, April 30, to coordinate meeting activities and be briefed on the available facilities and visual aids in their respective meeting rooms. Members will also want to enjoy a dinner at one of the many world-famous New Orleans restaurants.

Catherine Spadaro, chairman of the ladies committee, has planned a plantation tour for Monday, April 30. Since this tour will last 5-6 hours, it will leave the Jung Hotel promptly at 9:00 A.M. Luncheon will be at a typical "Cajun" restaurant enroute. On Tuesday there will be a tour of the Delgado Museum in beautiful City Park. Following a short movie, coffee and snacks will be served. The buses will return to the hotel at about 2:00 P.M. to give free time to prepare for the Tuesday evening banquet. On Wednesday a tour of the Southern Regional Research Laboratory is planned. It will be followed by a luncheon in a Vieux Carre Hotel dining room overlooking a lush patio.

Sample New Orleans hospitality a Dixieland jazz concert and dinner at historic and modern, New Orleans--

The ladies hospitality room, where coffee will be served, will be open Sunday afternoon during registration hours and daily during the meeting. A continental breakfast is scheduled for each morning of the meeting. The ladies committee will be glad to assist in planning shopping excursions or walking tours through the French Quarter. ■

While attending the AOCs 64th Annual Convention April 29-May 3, 1973. Enjoy the food of many world-famous restaurants. A blend of old and new,
New Orleans, Crescent City--is a city worth visiting.