The journal is devoted to articles and reports on advances and research in applied mechanics (plasticity, elasticity, automatic control systems theory, fluid mechanics, etc.) and applied mathematics. Originally published in Peking by the Institute of Mechanics, the Consultants Bureau translations begin with the 1966 issues, Volume IX.

The translation of this journal is undertaken by Consultants Bureau in the belief that the dissemination of the results of research everywhere in the world aids in the advancement of science. Copies of the mainland Chinese journal are made available to Consultants Bureau by arrangement with the East Asian Collection of the Hoover Institution, Stanford University, Stanford, California. Because of lack of direct communication with mainland China, there may be a slight delay in the receipt of the original journal by the Hoover Institution.

The original mainland Chinese journal is published four times a year in Peking. The translation begins with the first issue of Volume 9, 1966. Advisory Translation Editor: Hsuan Yeh, Director, Towne School of Civil and Mechanical Engineering, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
