EDITORIAL POLICY AND SCOPE

This journal has been formed by merger of Phosphorus and the Related Group V Elements and the International Journal of Sulfur Chemistry. The high standards and general editorial policies of the predecessor journals will be maintained in Phosphorus and Sulfur. There will be no page charges for papers published in this journal. The journal will publish original articles, short communications and brief, selected reviews appropriate to the scope of the journal. Symposium plenary lectures of meetings in this field will also be published. All papers will be refereed by members of the Editorial Board or other experts in the subject. To provide timely publication, the journal will appear on a volume basis with an increased number of volumes per year where necessary to prevent publication delays. Papers may be submitted to Cos Cob or Mainz.
