An Account of a fort of Sugar made of the Juice of the Maple, in Canada.

HE Savages of Canada, in the time that the Sap rifes, in the Maple, make an Incision in the Tree, by which it runs out; and after they have evaporated spounds of the liquor, there remains one poundas Sweet, and as much Sugar, as that which is got out of the Canes; Part of the same Sugar, is sent to be refined at Royen.

The Savages have practiced this Art, longer then any now living among them, can remember.

There is made with this Sugar, a very good Syrup of Maiden Hair, and other Capillary Plants, which is used in France.
