The Adhesion Society, Inc., announces an International Symposium on "The Interphase" to be held during its Sixteenth Annual Meeting at the Williamsburg Lodge, Colonial Williamsburg, Virginia, U.S.A., February 21-26, 1993. The Symposium will occupy three and one-half days of the four and one-half day meeting. There will be Oral and Poster Sessions devoted to the Symposium topic and to General papers. The scope of the Symposium encompasses the creation, composition, structure, characterization, and properties of interphases, as well as the influence of interphases on the performance of systems of joined materials.

Papers covering original work not published elsewhere are desired, although a small number of appropriate reviews which place interphase phenomena in perspective will be considered.
