CBS - again

CBS is the choice of more of the country's largest advertisers in 1939 than any other network . . . as it was in 1938, 1937, 1936, 1935, 1934!

May we tell you why?

FOREWORD

The task which currently confronts any compiler of radio records is one of selection rather than accumulation.

It has been barely two years since radio's store of records consisted of a few government figures, some scattered special reports, a thin file of legal documents, and forgotten scripts and ledgers. But in those two years a continued expansion of the industry economically has brought on an era of changed thought and changed methods. A by-product of this new era is the swelling of the former trickle of documents into a veritable flood.

It is hoped that this volume represents a useful selection and re-working of such materials as may have day-to-day value for the industry. It is likewise hoped that the special research, largely made possible by the cooperation of the industry itself, will similarly fulfill its objective.

FITTING RADIO SCHEDULES TO MARKETS

CROSSLEY RESEARCH REPORTS use fourteen different methods of measuring the radio audience, selected to fit the type of information needed.

Principal among these are:

1. The Day-Part Method. Used for the COOPERATIVE ANALYSIS OF BROADCASTING.
2. The Coincidental Method. Interviews in millions each year. Improved statistical technique.
3. The Mechanical Recorder. Using advanced principles. High speed reporting. Multiple-set visible check.

Today's research needs demand a clear picture of the market for a product, and a clear report on the best time, station and program plan for covering that market.

Our fourteen years of marketing research experience in every part of the United States and Canada and in Great Britain, are available for consultation, and for the solution of marketing questions in the field.

THE COOPERATIVE ANALYSIS OF BROADCASTING: 10 YEARS OF NETWORK PROGRAM ANALYSIS

FOREWORD

By Edgar A. Grunwald

About the easiest thing to buy in research is a dead horse. Given any problem, a slippery tactician can devise a satisfactory answer without ever once violating the rule that two and two make four. A sponsor whose daytime serial programs show discouraging ratings in audience surveys, can get this headache cured by simply engaging a research staff to pump enough "audience turnover" into the figures to push them into the realm of astronomy. This soothsaying may not sell more soap or cereal, but it does alleviate nervous indigestion.

On the other hand, Jack Benny has for six years indirectly dispensed tires, ginger ale, motor cars and Jell-O by the ton without, to anyone's knowledge, penciling a single set of statistics or drawing one log chart.

This is the hard-learned moral in every field of intangible property—that a flair for judgment uniquely creates success, while figures either trick the weary into a sweet coma, or provide that sensible groundwork from which judgment—more important, imagination for the creative—can begin to function.

In asking the Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting to prepare this laborious, expensive, and perhaps painfully detailed section, the VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY was not in the market for nervous cures or dead horses. The choice of the C. A. B. hinged on the following considerations:

1. It has no axe to grind. It is a non-profit organization, and its governing board is appointed by the American Association of Advertising Agencies and the Association of National Advertisers.*
2. The C. A. B. has created the largest goldfish bowl in which any industry dealing primarily in intangible property has ever lived.
3. The C. A. B. has, in the opinion of the editors, acknowledged its mistakes as openly as ordinary human dignity would allow, and tested new methods and techniques as frequently as common-sense caution would permit.

There is no mystic ritual to the C. A. B.'s methods, and there should Lang, of the General Electric Co.; Dr. L. D. H. Weld of McCann-Erickson, Inc.; A. Wells Wilbor, of General Mills, Inc., are the other members. The C. A. B. Governing Committee maintains a permanent headquarters at 330 W. 42nd St., New York City, in charge of A. W. Lehman, manager.

consequently be no mystery as to its results. The method is simple in structure:

In 33 major network cities, telephone calls are made four times a day. The interviewers ask what programs the interviewees have listened to in the past several hours (varying from three to five). Responses are tabulated program by program, and are finally tallied as a percentage against all set-owners called. Thus, if 10 out of 100 set-owners called reported that they heard Amos 'n' Andy, then Amos 'n' Andy would get a rating of 10 (i.e., 10%).

Patently this method has one immense advantage over any other devised to date: the sample can be comparatively large and still remain within practical cost limits.

Patently, also, the information shows certain definite and important things: 1) it shows the general soundness of the program so far as the audience is concerned; 2) it shows the general soundness of the program in relationship to competitive programs, or classes of programs; 3) it shows program classes in movement up the scale of audience favor, or down the scale of discard; 4) it shows what hours of the day may be advantageous in view of program competition, or the character of the audience level.

On the other hand, any person who reads into these figures results which are not there, is sacking the information in a fool's quest.

For instance, since the calls are made in major network centers, it would be foolhardy to suppose that the facts could be applied to the hodge-podge of coverage often resulting from the combined effect of the signals of many stations, or the sponsor's desire to reach certain geographical sectors in preference to others, or both.

Within its limits—and the C. A. B. has set those limits conservatively—the work produces a guidepost to distinguish good from bad, and indicate opportunity from the hackneyed.

The tables and charts in the succeeding pages represent but a small remainder of the immense amount of statistical work originally compiled for the DIRECTORY. Much of it was discarded because its significance was doubtful; other was omitted because it might be subject to erroneous interpretation; and still another portion was dropped because the C. A. B., deeming it accurate enough for all practical purposes, still did not consider it as meeting the organization's standards completely.

The work, in short, is a tabloid version of 10 years of research, based on some two and one-quarter million calls, and several special studies. While the C. A. B. has, within these years, changed the statistical base of its calculations once, the figures that follow have all been adjusted to a set-owner basis.

(Attention is called to the fact that this entire section is jointly copyrighted by the Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting and the VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY, and may not be reproduced either wholly or in part. Attention is also called to the fact that the charts (drawn for the DIRECTORY by Arthur Thompson) are copyrighted by the VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY and may not be reproduced in any fashion whatsoever, nor made a part of sales portfolios, nor used in any other manner which divorces them from the text of this book).

C. A. B. INTRODUCTION

In January 1929 the Radio Committee of the Association of National Advertisers, Inc., laid the groundwork for the Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting. At that time few, if any, studies of radio audiences, according to present standards, had been made.

Advertisers were having difficulty in understanding, much less comprehending, radio. Some, as a reading of the old records will show, were wondering if radio was a primary or a secondary medium. Could it eventually take its place alongside other media? Was it really an advertising medium, or was the radio set merely an expensive plaything of the boom era? Advertisers didn't have any idea how many people listened, or to what.

As a result of the committee's discussion of a study made by Crossley, Inc., a number of leading advertisers employed Crossley to make individual surveys. Later these were combined into a report for the A. N. A. and at the same time Crossley, Inc., was requested (November 1929) to submit an outline for a cooperative investigation which would include "the checking of program popularity."

With need and interest ripe, the A. N. A. appointed a special committee which undertook to work out the details of cooperating in a system of reports, and of the financing. By the middle of February 1930 sufficient subscribers were obtained, and the field work was started by Crossley, Inc., as of March 1, 1930.

Thus the C. A. B. was born.

While the original subscribers were advertisers (probably 66 2/3% of all network programs were then produced by the networks, the sponsors themselves, or free lance program builders), within the first year arrangements were made for agency participation.

As of March 1, 1934, the C. A. B. was reorganized and took its present form as a non-profit and mutual organization, under the direction of an active governing committee which sets all policies, business as well as research.

The field work is regularly carried on in 33 network cities, and once a year a thorough-going study of rural program preferences is made. The effort entails the making of more than 830,000 calls per annum, of which 530,000 are completed. In urban centers the calls are carefully distributed by income levels to parallel the distribution of radio sets among economic groups.

In addition to the regular service, the committee is constantly studying all methods of measuring program audiences, as well as ways and means to improve its reports and services. During the last four and a half years it has spent nearly $25,000 in such efforts.

As a result of these ten years of practice, experimentation and revision, the method which is now in use could perhaps be best defined as "the triple check method of identification." Under this method the listener needs to give only sufficient information about the program to enable the investigator (by cross-checking station, time, or description) to enter the program as having been heard.

This method has the advantage of speed, accuracy and low cost to obtain the answer to the vital question, "Has the program made an impression?"—a fact which the sponsor, to be successful, must know.

NETWORK PROGRAM HISTORY 1930-1939

(Prepared and Written by the Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting)

The Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting was born in the Spring of 1930 as the result of insistent demands on the part of advertisers for more facts on radio. It was an attempt to answer some of the many questions that had arisen since radio had grown to the dimensions of a recognized advertising medium. Subsequently there have been numerous changes in the scope and nature of the published data, as experience dictated what questions were most vital, what questions were immaterial, and what questions could best be handled by the techniques developed by the C. A. B.

The emphasis has shifted greatly since those first, formative years, but throughout all of them two questions have been paramount: "Who listens to what" and "When do they listen?" As time elapsed the C. A. B. tended to drift away from a disposition to cover a multitude of aspects, and to concentrate on a specialized treatment of those two vital questions. To be sure, many other facts have been developed as by-products, but fundamentally the C. A. B. is a survey of relative program popularity.

MARCH TO JUNE 1930

Many of the conclusions reached in the first year of operation are still valid. Some of the stars of yesteryear are still popular. Similarly, some of the program types with widespread appeal in 1930 will appeal in 1940 and as long as human nature is what it is. The first report was primarily concerned with a discussion of the question, "What makes a program popular?"

At that time the report stated:

"Many factors enter into the success of a program. The more we analyze, the more we come to believe that the excellence of the program is more important than its type, except for certain fundamentals."

This conclusion today is not startling; it has become an accepted fact. It was also pointed out at that time that variety is absolutely essential—that programs wear out after a time.

In 1930 dance music and dialogue in general rated well. Today straight dance music shows up poorly. Dance programs that do appear among the leaders usually have been embellished with such added attractions as studio audience contests, guest stars, script features and the like, while dialogue for the most part has become simply a part of a variety show.

What were some of the favorite programs in the spring of 1930? Head and shoulders above the rest were Amos 'n' Andy with a popularity rating in terms of set owners that was exceeded only once until the advent of the Chase & Sanborn (Charlie McCarthy) program. Other leaders in the approximate order of their popularity were the Squibb Program with Will Rogers, The Fleischmann Hour with Rudy Vallee, the Palmolive Hour with Olive Palmer and Paul Oliver (Frank Munn), Collier's Program (dramatizations from the magazine), General Electric Hour with Floyd Gibbons, General Motors Program with Don Voorhees and guests from concert and opera, Lucky Strike Hour (B. A. Rolfe orchestra), RKO Program, RCA Victor Program with Nat Shilkret's band and guests, Eveready Hour with the same talent, Maxwell House program, Real Folks (dramatic sketches of small town life), Cities Service Hour (concert orchestra, the Cavaliers and Jessica Dragonette), Atwater Kent Hour with Josef Pasternack's orchestra and guests from concert and opera, Armstrong Cork Program, A & P Gypsies (with Harry Horlick's orchestra), Pure Oil Program, Clicquot Club Eskimos (Harry Reser's orchestra), Interwoven Pair (Jones and the late Ernie Hare).

Most of the sponsors of these early favorites are still on the air, but only two of these programs are still in substantially their original form—namely, Amos 'n' Andy and the Cities Service Concert. Neither program retains the measure of its early popularity, though Amos 'n' Andy rank consistently first or a close second among the fifteen-minute programs broadcast several times a week.

Lucky Strike meantime has continued to favor dance music with outstanding bands, although portions of the program content have often varied. For instance, Baron Munchausen (Jack Pearl) was featured at one time.

Among other familiar programs on the air in the spring of 1930 were Kate Smith for La Palina, Floyd Gibbons for Literary Digest, and Seth Parker (sustaining). Rudy Vallee rapidly rose to great popularity which has been maintained through the intervening years by judicious variation of the program content.

Two other series well down the list in 1930 which later achieved outstanding fame were the Chase & Sanborn Hour and Show Boat (then a sustainer). Little need be said now of the subsequent success of Chase & Sanborn in building shows that have appealed to popular fancy. Show Boat, following its purchase by Maxwell House, ranked near the top for a number of years until it finally "wore out."

Sponsor Changes

In the past nine years there have been countless changes of programs and sponsors. Some sponsors have expanded their radio budgets consistently; others, after a trial of radio, did not continue to favor the medium; still others are out of business, or absorbed by other firms. Among the leading sponsors in 1930 who no longer are major network clients, the following are noteworthy:

Squibb	Studebaker
Atwater Kent	Enna Jettick
Collier's	Socony Gasoline*
RKO	La Palina
Interwoven Stocking	Jack Frost Sugar
Eveready	Dutch Masters
Coca-Cola	Paramount
Majestic Radio	Davey Tree Experts
A & P	Maytag
Halsey Stuart	Physical Culture Magazine
California Packing	Blackstone Cigars
Stromberg-Carlson	Libby, McNeill & Libby
Graybar Electric	Sylvania Radio Tubes
Literary Digest	Bay State Fishing
Clicquot Club	Dixie Cups
Eastman Kodak	Fuller Brush Co.

* Socony-Vacuum is currently, however, a major sponsor of sports over "spot" (individual) stations.

Of these, Atwater Kent, Majestic and the Literary Digest are no longer in business as such. Others did not believe they could afford network shows in depression times, while some could not adapt radio to their particular selling problems.

On the other hand there are many sponsors today who were not even remotely interested in radio in 1930. This list would include: Lady Esther, Chrysler, Campbell Soup, Miles Laboratories, Ford, Campana and Nash-Kelvinator. This is but a small sample—though indicative—of the long list that could be compiled.

Note the number of cigar manufacturers on the air in 1930 as against last season when there were but two: Roi-Tan and Bayuk (each sponsoring fifteen-minute broadcasts three times per week).

Programs by Types

At the very outset, the C.A.B. gathered program preference data by income groups and found that the following programs appealed most to the upper income classes: Atwater Kent, A & P Gypsies, Armour, Collier's, General Motors, General Electric, Maxwell House, Roxy and R.C.A. The following appealed most strongly to the lower income groups: Amos 'n' Andy, CeCo, Lucky Strike, Paramount, Palmolive, Raleigh, Seth Parker, True Story, Fleischmann.

Classical programs rated far better, relatively, at this early period than they do today. Examples of this are the Atwater Kent and Cities Service concerts. The logical reason seems to be that in 1930 a radio set was a far more costly piece of equipment than a few years later. That tended to confine it to the homes of the upper classes—the traditional lovers of classical entertainment. The later growth in the number of radio homes and their extension on a large scale into the very lowest income classification was to have a great effect upon program types.

In 1930, though Maurice Chevalier was on for Chase & Sanborn, Hollywood had not moved in on the ether; since there was little or no studio audience, there were no audience participation programs. There were no large-scale dramatic shows with high-priced talent and professional direction, nor had the gang-busting, racket-smashing formula emerged as a definite, recognized program type.

The initial C.A.B. report rated very few daytime programs, almost none of which were sponsored at the time. It was to be several years before the five-times-a-week strip shows oligopolized the daytime hours.

Sets in Use

In 1930 a somewhat larger percentage of set owners used their sets at some time during the day than is now the case, probably due partly to the relative novelty of radio, and partly to the fact that since radio sets were relatively expensive, people bought them because they intended to use them regularly and not merely to have a set for chance or infrequent use.

JULY TO OCTOBER 1930

The second comprehensive report covered the period from July to October 1930. The principal conclusion drawn was that "the program makes the audience." There was much discussion of the competition for the listener's ear, and the number of stations regularly heard. Several rules-of-thumb as to the proportion of set owners using their sets at various parts of the day were propounded. This general rule was stated: "On a given day only three out of every four sets owned will be used." From this time on, for some years to come, set-user data took first place in the reports. In recent years it has been made the subject of separate, periodic reports.

FIRST FULL YEAR

In the spring of 1931 the C.A.B. reported in an 84-page volume its first full year of operation. The report was chiefly concerned with the two causes of program audience fluctuation; namely, seasonal influence and the drawing power of a particular artist or program type.

By way of individual artist drawing power, the increased popularity of the Enna Jettick program with the advent of Mme. Schumann-Heink was a fine example. Conversely, the Literary Digest program started on the downgrade when Floyd Gibbons left.

Program Competition

At the same time that perennial headache—the competition between several programs broadcast at the same hour—gave its first ominous twinge.

Chase & Sanborn's Maurice Chevalier was in a spot opposite Mme. Schumann-Heink. Gold Medal and Maytag vied with Harry Horlick's A & P Gypsies. Real Folks and the General Motors show were in competition with Camel and Palmolive. Other opponents included: Dixie Spirituals and Fleischmann (Rudy Vallee); Rin-Tin-Tin and Salada; Arco and Blackstone; Jack Frost and Maxwell House; Eastman Kodak and Armstrong Quakers.

These competitive situations were soon broken up by one of the programs leaving the air, or by changes in the time of broadcast. No two competitive broadcasts were both among the 10 leaders for the year. Today it would be most unusual for such companies to place elaborate programs opposite each other without serious and full study of the situation. But in 1930 this tactic was unfortunately often employed. And not the least unfortunate of the results was that the disappointed sponsor, weary of competition, often grew weary of radio altogether and simply quit the medium. Today, in a competitive pinch, rescue work with changed program formats, or time changes, is immediately brought to bear.

Programs which had a definitely greater appeal to the upper income groups during the first year were Armour, Atwater Kent, Chase & Sanborn, Cities Service, General Electric, General Motors, Halsey Stuart, Mobiloil, and Westinghouse. Those appealing predominantly to lower income groups were Fleischmann, Goodrich, Graybar, Maytag, Seth Parker (sustaining) and True Story.

MARCH TO JUNE 1931

In the spring of 1931, the C.A.B. suspected that the percentage of set owners who used their sets at all on a given day was showing a slight decline, though there appeared to be a small increase in the percentage of sets used during the morning. The decrease in evening listening offset the morning increase, but because of the increase in the number of set owners it was believed that the entire radio audience was growing.

As to program popularity the point was made that very few programs leap into sudden popularity, no matter how good, and that programs changing from one hour or one day to another, or changing stations, start off with a low rating on the new day or hour. It was also observed that there was, on the part of listeners, considerable shifting from station to station to pick out favorite programs.

On Sunday, Seth Parker, still a sustaining program, was the leader, having climbed steadily since March 1930. Chase & Sanborn was close behind, after gaining great headway with Chevalier (but dropping sharply when Chevalier went to Europe). Enna Jettick declined severely when Mme. Schumann-Heink left. Graham-Paige took to the air with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Edgar A. Guest.

Amos 'n' Andy were holding their own, and were far in the lead for the other six days of the week. Tastyeast had several programs and featured a prize contest. The Tastyeast Jesters ranked second on Monday. Lowell Thomas was rising to fame for Literary Digest, following a slow start when he succeeded Floyd Gibbons. These three 15-minute programs ranked ahead of all half-hour shows on Monday as well as the 60-minute A & P Gypsies. Guy Lombardo's rating was rising for Robert Burns Panetelas. Cremo Cigars with Arthur Pryor's band were offering a motor car every day.

On Tuesday, Lucky Strike with B. A. Rolfe rated next to Amos 'n' Andy. Following Lowell Thomas in third place came Paul Whiteman for Allied Paint. Crumit and Sanderson were steadily forging ahead for Blackstone Cigars. Ben Bernie was beginning to stimulate the rating of the Blue Ribbon Malt program. Clara, Lu and Em broadcast several evenings a week for Super Suds.

Palmolive, after changing to Wednesday, was still declining, though in second place for that day. Coca-Cola was immediately behind. Halsey Stuart's Old Counsellor was declining.

On Thursday, Rudy Vallee, with a high rating, ranked behind Amos 'n' Andy and B. A. Rolfe. Then followed the several-times-a-week shows: Sanderson and Crumit, Tastyeast Jesters, and Lowell Thomas. Maxwell House with a straight orchestral program ranked far down the list.

On Friday, True Story held second place and was trending upward. Jones & Hare, the Interwoven Pair, were next, and still continued to move upward despite their already long period of popularity.

After Amos 'n' Andy and B. A. Rolfe on Saturday was the General Electric Hour with Floyd Gibbons and Erno Rapee. The rating was declining (perhaps due to the change from 60 minutes to a half-hour and the departure of Walter Damrosch). Show Boat was on CBS at 10 o'clock as a sustainer.

The Quaker Oats Early Birds and Aunt Jemima stood out among the daytime programs. The soap companies were beginning to be heard from in a timid sort of way.

JULY TO OCTOBER 1931

The report for July to October 1931, presented an opportunity to study program trends for a twenty-month period.

"Many new programs have come on the air in recent months and made their bid for popularity," the report stated. "General conceptions of the best way to use radio broadcasting have been changed. There are many fifteen-minute programs today and few hour programs. A large number of programs are heard daily or several times a week. There has been a deluge of vocal soloists or 'crooners.' The morning has come into popularity. Announcements have become in some cases practically straight sales talk. Contests have spread like measles, and with their mail response."*

In spite of greatly increased fan mail, the size of the audience at a given hour still appeared to be declining. Hence, competition for the listener's ear was becoming more acute.

As for program types, the C.A.B. mused on the public mood thus:

"As this report is being prepared a current song hit refers to Crosby, Columbo and Vallee. Add Downey, Smith and a long list of others and the present mood of the listening public is found. Dance orchestras, comedy teams, silken-voiced murmurings, catch phrases! Is today's mood of the vaudeville type? Tomorrow may bring a desire for a different type of music, a different type of talk."

How true this prophecy!

An examination of long-time trends showed Amos 'n' Andy holding up remarkably well, with Fleischmann (Vallee), Cities Service and the A & P Gypsies slightly lower than the year before. Blue Ribbon Malt (Ben Bernie) and Cremo had risen steadily since their inception early in the year despite the summer season. Clicquot Club was at about the same level as the preceding year, but Chase & Sanborn was far ahead and climbing rapidly. Lucky Strike had dipped below the 1930 level; Coca-Cola and Literary Digest remained steady; Maxwell House was moving up again. Eddie Cantor was responsible for the Chase & Sanborn boom.

Among the daytime programs, Tony's Scrapbook (Tony Wons) had joined Quaker Oats' Early Birds (Gene and Glenn) as an outstanding favorite.

Among the new evening programs were several which are still on the air, such as Death Valley Days, The Goldbergs (for Pepsodent; later changed to a daytime program), Voice of Firestone, Kate Smith for La Palina, and Campana's First Nighter. Collier's Magazine had a full-hour variety show opposite Chase & Sanborn on Sunday night; Camels had a fifteen-minute show six times a week featuring Morton Downey, Tony Wons and Jacques Renard; Phil Cook was the Quaker Man (Quaker Oats); the Stebbins Boys were under the aegis of Swift; Procter & Gamble sponsored Sisters of the Skillet (East & Dumke); Coca-Cola had Grantland Rice and Gus Haenschen's orchestra; G. Washington Coffee presented Sherlock Holmes; Leo Reisman played for Pond's; while Show Boat was still unsponsored.

* Editor's Note: The radio contest is a phenomenon whose origin is composed of intertwined reasons. In some major instances the contest was used primarily to establish the "pull" of a new, rather unfamiliar medium. Simultaneously, the contest was used in other instances as a sales weapon. Today the contest is distinctly: (1) A sales booster; (2) a shot-in-the-arm for wavering programs; and (3) an event whose by-product is utilized by individual stations to boast of their "pull" and popularity in terms of mail (audience loyalty).

SECOND FULL YEAR

The C.A.B. report for the second full year of operation included a much larger store of experience as a basis for judgment in programming.

A warning was again sounded to sponsors that they must expect their shows to start off with low ratings; they could not expect a program to jump to immediate popularity.

Programs which had started during the year at low levels and finished well up the list were Blue Ribbon Malt, Cremo, The Goldbergs, and the Pillsbury Program.

The Advent of Mystery Drama

At the same time it was apparent that mystery dramas were replacing dance orchestras in public favor. The Fleischmann Hour (Vallee), Lucky Strike program, A & P Gypsies, and Pond's dance program declined in rating from the previous year's level, while Eno Crime Club, Sherlock Holmes and the Shadow had moved decidedly upward.

Other mystery thrillers were Fu Manchu for Campana, Paris Mysteries for Bourjois and Charlie Chan for Standard Oil of New Jersey. Recognizing that program ideas eventually peter out, producers seized upon the mystery trend to capitalize on an incipiently waning interest in the old style of program. The many adherents to the trend eventually burned it out with great rapidity, although to this day mystery is a frequent subject for electrical transcriptions.

The second annual report commented again on the trend toward shorter and more frequent programs.

In April, 1932, of the evening programs, five were 60 or 45-minutes, 54 were half-hours and 38 were quarter-hours. In the daytime seven were more than half an hour, nine were half-hours and 26 were quarter-hours.

Of 97 rated evening programs, 64 were broadcast once a week and 33 appeared two or more times. Nearly all of the daytime programs were broadcast daily during the week.

For the first time the C.A.B. presented an analysis of listening by program length and frequency of broadcast. Also presented for the first time was a recapitulation by program type. Minstrels, mystery dramas, news topics and serials were found to be the most popular. The largest classification was concert orchestras with 20 programs. In the daytime there were 15 talks and only four serials. Talks had the lowest rating both daytime and evening.

New Programs

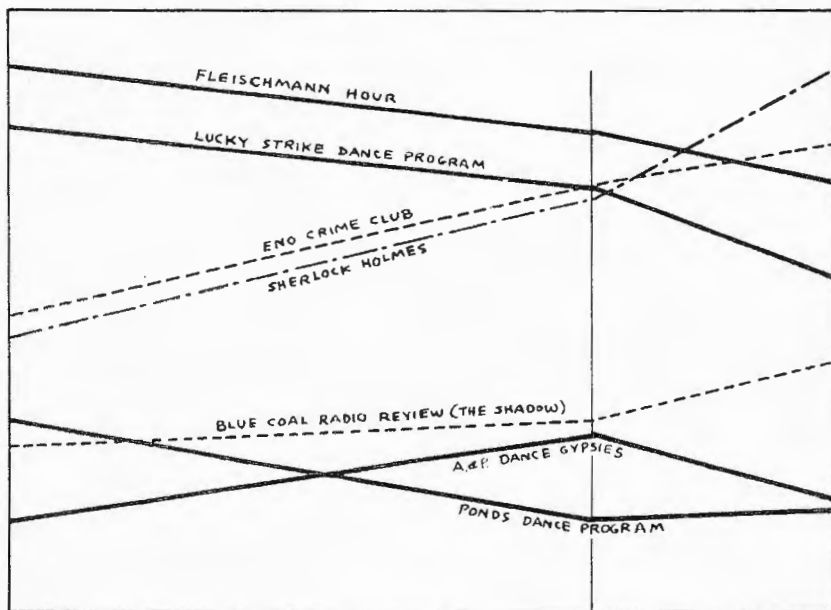

Newcomers among the leading programs since the year before were Eno Crime Club, Sherlock Holmes, The Goldbergs, Myrt & Marge, Voice of Firestone and Sinclair Minstrels. Changes in program content had arrested the decline of various shows. The Parade of the States had been substituted for the General Motors Family Party with satisfactory results. Chesebrough changed from Real Folks to Friendship Town; Real Folks was taken over by General Foods and continued to decline, while Friendship Town improved Chesebrough's audience. Blue Coal's shift from a concert orchestra to The Shadow was a happy one. Guy Lombardo was making only moderate progress for Robert Burns Panetelas, but the addition of Burns and Allen gave the rating a real boost. But it was pointed out that the addition of names does not always send a program skyrocketing. Several instances had attested to this fact. Changes in time had had important influence on some ratings. Sinclair Minstrels had benefited by changing from Saturday to Monday. When Clara, Lu and Em changed from the evening to the less expensive morning hour, the audience nevertheless remained at about the same level.

More Program Competition

Competition between programs broadcast at the same hour once more increased in intensity. In a contest between Amos 'n' Andy and Myrt & Marge, the former lost in rating, but the latter increased more than Amos 'n' Andy declined. Meantime, Eddie Cantor had lifted the Chase & Sanborn program to within striking distance of the Amos 'n' Andy rating. Enna Jettick (now without Mme. Schumann-Heink) and the Collier program, both running opposite Cantor at 8 P.M. on Sundays, suffered as a result. This pattern went somewhat into reverse when Cantor was replaced by Jessel—a circumstance that caused the other two shows to rise. At 7:45 P.M., multiple times weekly, Jones and Hare (Best Foods) were threatening to become immortal. Early in 1932 they forged ahead of the Camel quarter-hour, though both these programs were trailing the Goldbergs, broadcast at the same interval.

MYSTERY DRAMAS AND DANCE ORCHESTRAS

In 1931-1932 program builders turned toward shorter and more frequent programs. Amid these circumstances came a trend toward mystery dramas. The chart above (from a C. A. B. report of this time) shows how mystery dramas began riding the crest of a wave, while dance orchestras (an older form of programming) lost in rating.

Among the new programs in the winter of 1931-2 were Album of Familiar Music for Bayer, Bath Club for Linit (Fred Allen), and the Contented Program for Carnation Milk. Abe Lyman was under sponsorship of Sterling Products, Bing Crosby was a Columbia sustainer, U. S. Rubber had a program called Just Willie, Frigidaire launched the Major Icequick series, Standard Brands had the Royal Vagabonds (Reis & Dunn), Ray Perkins was under the Jergens aegis, B. A. Rolfe changed from Lucky Strike to Procter & Gamble, Mennen sponsored Ted Husing, du Pont's program was called Today and Yesterday, Paul Whiteman's Chieftains plugged Pontiac cars, while Chrysler had the Ziegfeld Radio Show. In addition to those already mentioned, Procter & Gamble had two other evening broadcasts, the Gloomchasers and Sisters of the Skillet.

The Daytime Serials Enter

In the daytime, the first of the strip shows to command a real audience was Ovaltine's Little Orphan Annie. General Mill's Skippy was also gaining a noteworthy acceptance, while the Quaker Oats Early Birds hit a slight decline. P & G had but one daytime program. Incidentally, it had a very poor rating. (Note: Currently P & G regularly has one or more daytime programs in the leading five list.)

MARCH TO JUNE 1932

The C. A. B. investigations for the first four months of 1932 confirmed the tentative findings of the previous year regarding a decline in listening, as measured by the percentage of set-owners using their radios at some time during a full day. On an average weekday only 644 families per 1,000 currently used their sets as compared with 745 in 1930; on Saturday the decline was from 744 to 605; and on Sunday from 726 to 583. The sharpest drop in listening was during the evening. Daytime listening held up rather well. Apparently economic conditions were not to blame for the drop, inasmuch as listening fell most severely in the higher income groups. No doubt the introduction of cheap radio sets (midgets and table models) had much to do with the fact that listening in the lower income brackets did not fall off as much as in the higher brackets. It seems apparent that the A and B income classes—the relatively rich—were by this time satiated with the novelty of radio, while the poorer classes were for the first time getting a real taste of ether entertainment and thus still listened fairly steadily.*

Amos 'n' Andy's leadership was now threatened by several programs. In commenting on program popularity, the report said:

"With an avalanche of short programs, with improved receivers and

* Editor's Note: The C. A. B.'s statement of the facts surrounding the drop in listening at this time (1932) seems very conservative and guarded. Perhaps this is entirely proper, for that 1932 phenomenon may yet go down in radio history as one of the strangest of its kind. No one circumstance can apparently be blamed for the drop. The VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY suggests that the following factors might be further investigated, if possible: (1) The possible blow to all listening by the decline of Amos 'n' Andy from previous astronomical highs; (2) the possible alienation of some of female audience by mystery dramas (it is a noteworthy truism in the film industry that mystery pictures rarely command complete attention from women, and hence sneak-thieves rarely "work" a theatre during mystery pictures because women would detect them too easily); (3) the possible fact that radio listening was simply hitting a level after abnormally frequent listening during the years when novelty was the major inducement. This crazy-quilt pattern of potential explanations must be patched against the seeming paradox of declining listening in the midst of rather steady set purchases.

increased power of stations, choice of entertainment is no longer confined to a few well-known programs. Sustaining, as well as sponsored programs supply a galaxy of stars, here engaging someone already well-known, there making a reputation through the air, so that the theatre turns to radio for artists. In the midst of this wide opportunity for selection what does the public choose? We cannot, of course, have opera when we want it, nor even a dance orchestra at our pleasure, so that a measure of popularity is to some extent a measure of availability."

Symphony orchestras and high-class music rated well in the Spring of 1932. Among these were the Firestone program which Lawrence Tibbett had boosted considerably; the Philco Symphony, the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts on Saturdays, and the General Electric Sunday programs with famous singers.

Sports events had proved to be good drawing cards, notably the Sharkey-Schmeling fight and baseball games. There was a preponderance of the vaudeville-headliner type of entertainment, such as the Ziegfeld Show, Ed Wynn, Cantor and Jessel, Harry Richman, Jack Benny for Canada Dry; Burns and Allen, Ruth Etting, the Mills Brothers, and the Boswell Sisters. Programs with definite rising tendencies were Seth Parker (sustaining), Ziegfeld, Ed Wynn, Chesterfield, Jack Benny, Robert Burns with Burns and Allen, Maxwell House Tune Blenders, Stanco Big Time, Joe Palooka, Love Story, General Electric and Collier's. Chesterfield had Ruth Etting, Alex Gray and the Boswell Sisters on separate days.

Eno Crime Club was suffering from the competition of Ed Wynn (Texaco). Jack Benny's rise, however, did not cut in very heavily on Parade of the States and Evening in Paradise, but Burns and Allen damaged the G. Washington Coffee and Goodyear programs considerably.

Most of the sharply declining programs in the Spring of 1932 had been on the air a long time. Examples were: Chase & Sanborn, Goldbergs, Stebbins Boys, Jones and Hare, Lucky Strike, Enna Jettick, A & P Gypsies, D'Orsay, Clicquot Club, Goodyear, Kate Smith, Pontiac, Chevrolet, Mills Brothers, Firestone and G. Washington Coffee. Richard Crooks did not maintain the Firestone program at the level attained by Lawrence Tibbett. Lucky Strike rated higher on the day when police mystery stories were added than on the days when straight dance music was broadcast.

Ray Perkins had changed from Jergens to Barbasol and maintained about the same audience level. Lowell Thomas switched from Literary Digest to Sunoco and was not producing quite the same audience, though the difference may have been purely seasonal.

Among the daytime programs the leaders were high class music broadcasts on Sundays. Additionally, Sanderson and Crumit were very successful for Bond Bread. Clara, Lu and Em, the Singing Lady, Iodent, Our Daily Food and Frances Ingram were trending upward.

The new evening shows included a fifteen-minute dance program for Campbell Soup, the Chase & Sanborn Tea Program, Country Doctor for Listerine, Easy Aces for Lavis, Elsie Janis and Bob Ripley for Esso, To The Ladies for Woodbury's, and Ed Wynn for Texaco.

Programs which rated well above their averages of the previous year were: First Nighter, Cities Service, Eno Crime Club and Ben Bernie.

JULY TO OCTOBER 1932

A feature of the report for the period from July to October 1932 was a chart showing the decline in popularity since 1930 of three old favorites: Amos 'n' Andy, A & P Gypsies and Clicquot Club. At one time Amos 'n' Andy had nearly double the audience of the second best show, but in this period was less than half the peak and ranked fourth.

In October, Ed Wynn stood in first place, followed closely by Chase & Sanborn (Cantor). Slightly behind, Lucky Strike, Amos 'n' Andy and Fleischmann (Rudy Vallee) were closely grouped. Other popular programs were G. Washington Coffee (Sherlock Holmes), Sinclair Wiener Minstrels, Ben Bernie, Myrt & Marge, Cities Service (Jessica Dragonette), Seth Parker (sustaining), and The Goldbergs. From May to November, Ed Wynn had nearly trebled. Also, in November, Eddie Cantor reached a new high level of popularity almost approximating the record established by Amos 'n' Andy in January, 1931. Lucky Strike had introduced Jack Pearl as the Baron Munchausen on Thursday nights. This show attained a higher rating than the same sponsor's Tuesday night series with detective stories. By November Jack Pearl and Rudy Vallee had joined the ranks of those who had passed Amos 'n' Andy, leaving the latter in sixth place, while Ben Bernie, Captain Henry's Show Boat and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra were pressing them closely. The homely humor of the blackface comics was being supplanted by the more sophisticated wise-cracking humor of the ex-vaudeville stars.

Leading daytime programs again included Little Orphan Annie, Tony's Scrapbook and Skippy.

Ratings by income levels showed Ed Wynn as the leader among the upper brackets, while Amos 'n' Andy and The Goldbergs were more popular in the lower economic groups.

Among the new programs were: All American Football Show for General Foods, Gem Highlights for American Safety Razor Co., Great Moments in History for Standard Brands, March of Time, Musical Memories with Edgar Guest, a singer and orchestra for Household Finance and Wayne King for Lady Esther.

THIRD FULL YEAR

The report for the full year from March 1932 to February 1933 commented thus on changes in the relative size of the radio audience:

"This has been a year of great changes in the listening habits of set owners. The decline in the ratio of set users to set owners has become notable. We find, for instance, that where 70.3% of set owners used their sets at some time on an average week-day in the second year, only 62.5% used them in the third year. Afternoons have showed the smallest decline, due undoubtedly to the late afternoon children's programs that have been put on the air. Weekday mornings have dropped from 32.8 to 24.7, and weekday evenings from 64.3 to 55.4. Sunday evening on the year average has dropped greatly, but this past winter Sunday evening has shown a considerable increase over the summer.

"Taking the figures for November to February in comparison with July to October, we find a come-back of 12.6 points on Sunday evening before 9 P.M. But despite that come-back, we find only 46.8 of set owners using their sets at that time in the past winter. The winter season has shown an increase throughout the day except a very slight decline (week-day 0.7; Saturday 0.7; Sunday 0.9) before 9 A.M., Sunday afternoon, has shown a return of 9.6, and weekday evenings, after 9 P.M., a return of 7.5.

“While commenting upon the seasonal change, it should be mentioned that the summer low point was only 9.3 under the winter high on a week-day, and only 6.0 under the year average.”

It was pointed out that the political campaigns had had some effect upon the listening in the fall, and had also affected the individual ratings of certain programs. This was the first time the C.A.B. had worked during a presidential campaign. A number of programs were omitted, others partially cut, while still others suffered from the competition of the politically great or ambitious.

Advent of the Trend to Names

The report pointed to the trend that had become apparent in the fall: namely the trend toward names in programming. No longer could the producer of a radio show depend upon a type of entertainment as a sure-fire formula. The stars were coming into their own and henceforth the headliners who succeeded in gathering a following were to dominate the radio scene. While Hollywood was not yet an important factor, the scramble

RADIO BORROWS FROM VAUDEVILLE

Following the era of mystery drama (see chart on page 43), came a trend to “names” ushering in a vaudeville-type of personality program. This development is recorded in the two diagrams above, taken from C. A. B. reports of this (1932-1933) period.

and competition for names was beginning. As headline talent became scarce some sponsors turned toward Hollywood; conversely, such stars as Jack Benny and Don Ameche (primarily radio-built names) eventually found in Hollywood another lucrative source of income. Nation-wide radio broadcasting now became a blue chip game!

The symbol—perhaps the prophet—of the name trend had been Eddie Cantor. In February 1933 he clapped the seal of authenticity on the name vogue by breaking the old Amos 'n' Andy single-day record (set in Spring 1930). By April 1933 Cantor's rating was twice his rating of the year before. Meantime Ed Wynn had trebled his audience since May 1932. And Jack Pearl (Baron Munchausen) was more than twice as well received as a year earlier.

Maxwell House with Captain Henry's Show Boat climbed quickly to take fourth place during the winter. In April 1933, Amos 'n' Andy were in fifth place and apparently had leveled off after the decline of the preceding year. The Fleischmann Hour and the Chevrolet program with Jack Benny were well above their levels for the same month a year earlier. The Robert Burns program with Burns and Allen more than doubled its rating in a year. Ditto Ben Bernie, Myrt & Marge, Sherlock Holmes. The Goldbergs, Seth Parker (sustaining) and Eno Crime Clues showed slight declines from April, 1932. Armour, the Contented Program, Easy Aces and the Jack Frost show, though not among the leaders, had shown substantial increases. Kate Smith, Lowell Thomas, Death Valley Days and the A & P Gypsies lost slightly in the course of the year, while the Clicquot Club Eskimos dropped precipitously.

Among the daytime leaders, the outstanding forerunners of the five-a-week strip shows, Little Orphan Annie and Skippy, improved their ratings. Bond Bread slipped somewhat, and Tony's Scrapbook maintained about the same rating. Clara, Lu and Em were well up among the leaders.

Newcomers among the 10 evening leaders between April 1932 and 1933 were: Lucky Strike, Ed Wynn, Capt. Henry's Show Boat, Ben Bernie, Robert Burns, and Cities Service. Gone were Sherlock Holmes, The Goldbergs, Seth Parker, Eno Crime Club, Sinclair Minstrels, and Voice of Firestone. The leading 15 programs averaged far higher than the preceding year. Program producers had developed formulas which were building mass audiences for certain programs despite the decline in percent of set owners using their sets. The audience was becoming more selective in its tastes. Personality shows were not only the most numerous but the most popular (based on the average rating for all programs in the classification). Minstrels, comedy serials and variety shows were doing very well. Novelty, religious programs and talks rated poorly on the whole.

In addition to Cantor, Wynn and Pearl, other personalities substantially boosted the ratings of other shows—including, for instance, Phil Baker for Armour and Fannie Brice for the Chase & Sanborn Tea program. Al Jolson's rise was not as spectacular as Cantor's had been, but when Jack Benny replaced him on the Chevrolet Hour, the rating suffered.

Benny's rise was far from meteoric; it was a long, hard pull.

Radio and Crisis

Meantime the exciting happenings of the first weeks of the New Deal, the Lindbergh kidnaping, the California earthquake, the bank crisis and foreign affairs had stimulated listening to news broadcasts. The public was demonstrating its instinctive reliance upon radio for spot news in times of intense excitement. During these days Boake Carter rose to prominence.

Radio Drama

Dramatic programs were beginning to attract attention. One of these, The Inside Story, doubled its rating in a few weeks. Warden Lawes had been climbing slowly but steadily and the First Nighter had increased its rating by somewhat more than 50% between April 1932 and April 1933. However, mystery stories had long passed their peak. The three concert and poetry programs, never comprising a large classification, exhibited no definite trend. Popular singers were not making much progress. The same was true of straight musical programs. Straight talks did not pull either.

Only six full hour shows were on the air in the evening. All rated well. Quarter-hour programs broadcast several nights a week rated nearly as well as half-hour shows; but quarter-hour programs broadcast once a week rated poorly.

In the winter of 1932-33, there were additional interesting examples of program competition. Old Gold launched a series opposite Edgeworth's Corn Cob Pipe Club, and the newcomer started cutting into the audience of the established program. Phil Baker's addition to the Armour show in March caused its rating to rise sharply. Inside Story, playing opposite Baker, likewise was on an ascending path. This competition proved too much for Pond's dance program, which began dropping rapidly. Fannie Brice, replacing the Royal Vagabonds, for Chase & Sanborn Tea, cut into the Eno Crime Clues' following. The great success of the Robert Burns program was partially at the expense of Woodbury.

However, in each of these instances, the increase in ratings by one competitor outweighed the declines suffered by the other. Thus, while the new program did emphatically cut into an older competitor, the competition nonetheless expanded the total of the audience level at that hour.*

An analysis of seven representative dance programs for the period from March 1932 to April 1933 showed that while Lucky Strike (Saturday), Ben Bernie and Robert Burns program had gone up, Clicquot Club Eskimos had fallen, and Pond's program, Pennzoil Parade of Melodies, and Abe Lyman for Sterling Products had remained steady. The first three, it has been noted, had varied the program content by the addition of headliners. Mrs. Roosevelt had also given the Pond's program considerable impetus during the winter months. But the other programs had retained the formula of straight dance music.

Among the new programs were Adventures in Health for Horlick's, Angelo Patri for Cream of Wheat, Boake Carter for Philco, Buck Rogers

Editor's Note: It should be noted that the C.A.B.'s writing on program competition is characteristically conservative. The subject of competition is an exceedingly complicated one. Such factors as program age, type of competition, etc., separately have to be considered in each separate instance. Hence, it is well-nigh impossible to draw any all-inclusive formula (or even an acceptable rule-of-thumb) beyond the following: Competing programs do tend to increase the total of the listening audience at the hour of competing broadcast.*

for Kellogg, Capt. Diamond's Adventures for General Foods, Carborundum Band, Carson Robison for Barbasol, Elgin Adventurer's Club with Floyd Gibbons, Five Star Theatre for Standard Oil of New Jersey with the Marx Brothers on Monday, concert music on Tuesday, short dramatic stories on Wednesday, operettas on Thursday and Charlie Chan on Friday, Fred Allen's Bath Club Revue for Linit, D. W. Griffith's Hollywood for Lehn & Fink, Howard Thurston (the noted magician) for Swift, Just Plain Bill for Kolynos, Magic Voice (dramatic serial) for Ex-Lax, Memories in Melody for Investor's Syndicate, Ohman & Arden for U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Romantic Bachelor (popular singer) for Vick's, Stoopnagle & Budd for Pontiac, Trade & Mark for Smith Bros., and Walter Winchell for Andrew Jergens.

In the daytime, Betty and Bob rose to popularity for General Mills, Emily Post gave a twice-a-week talk on etiquette for Cellophane, and Squibb had a Sunday afternoon musical-dramatic program.

Program leaders by nights of the week were: Chase & Sanborn Coffee on Sunday; Amos 'n' Andy on Monday and Wednesday; Ed Wynn on Tuesday; Lucky Strike on Thursday; Big Six of the Air (Al Jolson for Chevrolet) on Friday; and Music That Satisfies for Chesterfield on Saturday. In the daytime, Roses and Drums for Union Central Life Insurance led the sponsored shows on Sunday, but trailed the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and Moonlight and Honeysuckle, both sustainers. Little Orphan Annie led Monday through Friday and on Saturday was second only to Tony's Scrapbook, then a sustainer.

Among the programs most popular with the upper income classes were Ed Wynn, Voice of Firestone, Fleischmann (Vallee), Captain Henry's Maxwell House Show Boat, Cities Service and the Lucky Strike Tuesday program (drama). Favorites of the lower income classes were Amos 'n' Andy, Myrt & Marge, Sinclair Minstrels, The Goldbergs, and Sunday at Seth Parker's. Note that the latter are unsophisticated, mostly simple character stories, while the former group consists of sophisticated comedy and variety shows along with classical or semi-classical programs. Chase & Sanborn, the Lucky Strike Thursday and Saturday shows (Jack Pearl), Big Six of the Air, the First Nighter showed no particular trend by income groups.

MARCH TO JUNE 1933

The first C.A.B. report for the fourth year of operation, that covering the period from March to June 1933, propounded certain rules of thumb:

1. One of the greatest determining factors in the value of a station or hour is the appeal of the programs which that station or hour offers. One of the facts cited in support of this statement was the fact that since the advent of the new Chase & Sanborn program, the audience level at 8 P.M. on Sunday had risen by approximately 50%.

2. A name that is important outside of radio does not necessarily become important in radio. Conversely, a name that is not well established outside of radio may draw large radio audiences. Programs may draw large audiences without outstanding names. An individual name, when the program is built around it, tends toward a fixed value. Examples of these axioms were the well-known figures Irvin Cobb and

Arthur Brisbane, who did not reach a high rating, while Jack Benny, then relatively unknown, had been reaching a good audience; Maxwell House Show Boat, with no outstanding stars at the time, was among the leaders. The Socony-Vacuum program with Edwin C. Hill rated about the same as Hill's sustaining program. Similarly, the Chesterfield program with Tom Howard and George Shelton, rated about the same as the Best Foods show with the same talent.

3. Many programs which remain constant in their character show a tendency to wear out, and simultaneously the popularity of stations and hours wear out unless bolstered in some fashion. For example, when Amos 'n' Andy declined, sets reported in use at 7 o'clock in the evening dropped by just about the same amount as the drop in the program's listeners.

4. It is possible to maintain a program standard, especially where the program is not dependent upon the supply of comic material. Example: The relatively consistent performance of the Cities Service Concert over a four-year period.

5. New life can be injected into an old program by changing its type or adding personalities. Examples: The Armour rating increased sharply with the addition of Phil Baker. Royal Desserts doubled its rating when Fannie Brice was added. Robert Burns moved up to a place of leadership when Burns and Allen were engaged. The Fleischmann decline was definitely arrested when a new type of format was employed.

TWO EXAMPLES OF COMPETITION

6. Good programs suffer great losses of audience when placed in competition with the more popular programs. Examples: The decline of the popular Eno Crime Club following the advent of Ed Wynn. In the same year Burns and Allen figured in the sudden sharp declines of the two firmly entrenched programs opposite them, Sherlock Holmes and Goodyear.

7. Types of programs are sometimes overdone and do not always continue to hold their following. The year before, mystery dramas had been rising noticeably but they gave way before the name performers. (A number of these headliners, however, had shown no ability to maintain their high levels, so the report questioned whether the comedians would hold favor forever.)

8. Programs broadcast several times a week do not necessarily show a tendency toward high ratings. Examples: The Townsend Murder Mystery, Ferde Grofe for Philip Morris, Howard Thurston and Phil Cook, Hot From Hollywood, Whispering Jack Smith, and Tydol.

In the late spring of 1933, both Campana's First Nighter and Cities Service were successfully battling the seasonal decline. After more than a year of low ratings, the Household Finance Musical Memories series changed its hour and achieved five times its previous level. Wayne King had done fairly well for Lady Esther on Sunday afternoon, whereupon a Tuesday night hour was added, then another on Thursday night. From March to July the ratings of all three hours increased substantially.

News broadcasts were increasing. The leader was Edwin C. Hill, at that time a sustainer. Then came Lowell Thomas for Sunoco, Louis McHenry Howe for R.C.A., Boake Carter for Philco, and Floyd Gibbons for Palmer House.

The downward trend of mystery dramas meantime was not so pronounced as it had been a year before. Eno Crime Club, the Shadow (Blue Coal) and Charlie Chan (Standard Oil of New Jersey) were still on the downgrade, Sherlock Holmes had leveled off. But Fu Manchu for Campana and Paris Mysteries for Bourjois had been on the ascendant.

After the drop in the Chevrolet rating, when Benny replaced Al Jolson, Benny began to develop a following of his own. At this juncture the Lucky Strike program, with Jack Pearl, moved into first place. Taylor Holmes replaced Ed Wynn on the Texaco series at the beginning of the Summer. Late Spring saw the Maxwell House Show Boat in third place behind Lucky Strike and Texaco. The Summer departure of the outstanding comedians enabled Maxwell House to consolidate its gains and move into first place easily. Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians and Mandy Lou took to the air for Old Golds in April and rose steadily until June. Fannie Brice and George Olsen made a new high for Chase & Sanborn Tea in July after having climbed steadily since March.* Will Rogers began his conspicuous career on the Gulf Headliners program in May. Walter Kelly and Arthur Brisbane, with James Melton and the Revelers took over in July, but did not equal Rogers' rating.

In comparison with their ratings for one year before, Lucky Strike, Ed Wynn, Fleischmann and Ben Bernie were well ahead; Amos 'n' Andy, The Goldbergs, Eno Crime Clues and Clicquot Club were lower. New-comers among the first 10 programs for March to June 1933 were Ed Wynn, Maxwell House Show Boat, Gulf Headliners, Burns and Allen, and Ben Bernie. Programs among the first 10 for the same period of 1932, but missing in 1933, were: The Goldbergs, Eno Crime Clues, Seth Parker, Firestone and Sinclair Minstrels. Skippy and Lady Esther had joined the first five daytime shows while the Blue Coal Radio Review (changed to the Shadow) was no longer in this list.

Ratings of the leading evening programs continued to be substantially higher than for the year before, despite the fact that the percentage of sets in use was much lower than in 1932. This indicated more concentrated listening, largely to theatrical stars. On the other hand, the daytime leaders were consistently lower.

The report commented again on the decline in listening. While 74.5 per cent of set owners had been found to use their sets at some time during the day on an average week-day in the Spring of 1930, only 59.1 per cent used them in the Spring of 1933. This decline, however, was more than offset by the increase in the number of radio homes.

Among the new programs were Best Foods Musical Grocery, Don Carney Dog Chats for Spratt's, Ltd.; Everett Marshall for Westinghouse, Solly Ward for Standard Oil's Five Star Theatre, George Rector's Cooking School for A & P, Jack Dempsey's Gym for Jad Salts, Lives at Stake for General Tire & Rubber, Manhattan Merry-Go-Round for Dr. Lyon's Tooth-powder, Phil Cook & His Ingram Shavers, Richfield Country Club, Saturday Night Dancing Party for Hudson-Essex (B. A. Rolfe), Street Singer for Non-Spi, and Voice of Experience for Wasey Products.

In the daytime, Western Clock Co. had a dramatic presentation on Sunday afternoons; Bobby Benson was produced for Hecker's Oats, Fletcher's Castoria had a Sunday afternoon drama called "Pages of Romance," and Jo-Cur sponsored a Sunday afternoon musical revue.

The leading evening programs by days of the week in June 1933 were: Chase & Sanborn on Sunday; Amos 'n' Andy on Monday, Wednesday and Friday; Ed Wynn on Tuesday; Lucky Strike with Jack Pearl on Thursday; and Hudson's Saturday Night Dancing Party on Saturday.

In the daytime the leaders were: Lady Esther Serenade on Sunday; Little Orphan Annie on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; Betty and Bob on Tuesday; with Skippy taking the lead on Saturday.

By income groups, Ed Wynn, Gulf Headliners, Capt. Henry's Maxwell

* Editor's Note: Fannie Brice is mentioned variously as being under the sponsorship of Tender Leaf Tea and Royal Desserts (both Standard Brands). The history of the situation is as follows: Fannie Brice, Ray Bolger, Fran Frey, Richard "Hotcha" Gardner, and the George Olsen Orchestra came under the sponsorship of Royal Desserts on Jan. 4, 1933; they remained with Royal Desserts until March 29, 1933; thereupon Standard Brands changed the product plugs to Tender Leaf Tea, and the program ran under this setup to Sept. 27, 1933.

House Show Boat, Fleischmann Hour and the White Owl program (Guy Lombardo-Burns and Allen) appealed most to the higher income brackets; while Amos 'n' Andy, Sinclair Minstrels, Myrt & Marge, First Nighter and The Goldbergs appealed more to the lower brackets. Lucky Strike (Tuesday night drama show), Chase & Sanborn, Sherlock Holmes, Chevrolet and the Marx Brothers showed no particular trend by income classes.

JULY TO OCTOBER 1933

The first statement in the report for July to October 1933 once more concerned the protracted downward trend in use of sets. In midsummer, on the average weekday the percentage of set owners using their sets at some time was only 54.5. To be sure, this was the seasonal low for listening, but nevertheless the figure was 19 per cent lower than in 1930. The evening use of sets was running very close to the 1932 level, except on Saturday, which was lower. Weekday morning listening was also declining.

1933's New Sponsors

There was a great influx of new programs and new sponsors in the Fall of 1933. Among them were Albert Spalding for Castoria, American Oil Revue, Ex-Lax Big Show (Isham Jones Orchestra-Lulu McConnell-Gertrude Niesen-guests; later, Block and Sully); Dangerous Paradise for Woodbury's, Ship of Joy for Del Monte, Elmer Everett Yess for Plymouth, the Fitch Program, Gems of Melody for Father John's, Irene Rich for Welch's Grape Juice, John McCormack for Wm. R. Warner, Leo Reisman for Borden's, Little Italy for Blue Coal, Mme. Sylvia for Ralston Purina, Molle Show, Red Davis for Beechnut, Circus Days for Scott's Emulsion, Seven Star Revue for Corn Products (Nino Martini-Jane Froman-Erno Rapee-Ted Husing). Songs My Mother Sang, sponsored by Jad Salts, Three Musketeers for Jeddo-Highland Coal, WLS Barn Dance (later National Barn Dance) for Miles Laboratories, Johns-Manville Program, King's Henchmen for King's Beer, Al Jolson and Paul Whiteman for Kraft-Phenix Cheese, Parade of Melody for Buick, Ted Husing for Oldsmobile, Lum and Abner for the Ford dealers, Potash and Perlmutter for Health Products, Road Reporter for Shell Oil (in addition to Eddie Dooley's Football Program) and Let's Listen to Harris for Odorono and Cutex.

This was one of the most interesting periods in radio history. The previous Winter had witnessed several phenomenal commercial successes in radio. As with every El Dorado, there resulted a mad rush. Many new sponsors tried to imitate the formulas developed by the successful discoverers. Some succeeded; others failed.

How many of the programs in the above list are on the air today?

How many of those sponsors are still using radio today, a scant six years after?

If the story could be properly told statistically, and properly weighted for the many variable factors, it would probably show that a larger proportion of those who ventured into radio in 1930 continued to use the medium than those who started in the Fall of 1933.

Emergence of Heavy Daytime Sponsorship

The daytime hours were beginning to appear attractive to those who had something to sell the American housewife. Tom Mix went on the air for Ralston Purina, Bar X Days for Health Products, Big Hollywood Days for Sterling Products, Bill and Ginger for C. F. Mueller, Broadway Melodies for BiSoDol, Cooking Close-Ups for Pillsbury, Crazy Buckaroos for Crazy Crystals, Galaxy of Stars for Red Star Yeast, Grand Hotel for Campana, Magic Moments for Borden, Wizard of Oz for General Foods, Jack Armstrong for General Mills. Note that few of the daytime programs were of the type prevalent today. There was an increase in the children's adventure serial, but there was not much of the five-times-a-week romantic serial of today.

Class Music

At this period the C. A. B. commented on a notable influx of classical and semi-classical music. There had been the mystery story trend in 1931-32, followed by the trend toward stage headliners in 1932-33. Although the latter type still maintained a great degree of popularity, high-grade musical programs appeared to be gaining at the moment. The American Tobacco Company assumed sponsorship of complete operas from the Metropolitan Opera House. Chesterfield was sponsoring the Philadelphia Orchestra every night. Castoria had Albert Spalding; Cadillac sponsored the New York and Minneapolis and other symphony orchestras with Bruno Walter and other great conductors and such famous concert artists as Jascha Heifetz, and Carmela Ponselle. Vince had John McCormack; Linit had Nino Martini, and Firestone had Lawrence Tibbett and Richard Crooks. Numerous were the classical sustainers, such as the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, the Howard Barlow Symphony, the Damrosch Music Appreciation Hour, the Boston, St. Louis, Rochester, Los Angeles and other symphony orchestras. This influx of classical programs, too, was the result of the popularity of several outstanding concerts of this type in previous years.

However, the headliners continued holding substantial audiences. Chase & Sanborn was offering a combination program with the return of Cantor and Rubinoff. In November the program rated a shade under the figure for a year earlier. Ed Wynn was back on the Texaco show with twice his rating of the year before, when he was definitely on the way up. Baron Munchausen had also returned to the Lucky Strike Magic Carpet program, but was scheduled for a change of sponsors (to Royal Gelatin).

International Broadcasts

Sponsored international broadcasting was the real experiment of the year. The ship "Seth Parker" sailed out of Portland (Me.) harbor on a round-the-world cruise, sponsored by Frigidaire. Admiral Byrd's broadcasts from the South Pole, Little America and environs were sponsored by General Foods. Meantime, the big broadcasting companies put on many international sustainers.

As of December 1, Captain Henry's Maxwell House Show Boat was growing in popularity rapidly, ranking second only to the Chase & Sanborn Hour. Amos 'n' Andy were still maintaining a large audience. Ben Bernie was climbing. So were Bayer's Album of Familiar Music and the Armour program with Phil Baker, both well above their ratings for a year earlier. Cities Service remained steady. Campana's First Nighter had climbed persistently in the past year and the Fleischmann Hour had risen sensationally. Gulf Headliners with Will Rogers rated ahead of Ed Wynn. John McCormack and Lowell Thomas rated equally at a highly respectable figure. Lucky Strike's Magic Carpet climbed substantially and ranked well up among the leaders. The March of Time, then sponsored by Remington-Rand, was headed upwards. Sinclair Minstrels were steady, and the White Owl program, with Burns and Allen, rated about the same as a year earlier.

The report charted the progress of six representative programs which did not quit the air during the Summer and found that five of them, Fleischmann, White Owl, Lowell Thomas, First Nighter and the A & P Gypsies, started off the Fall season in 1933 at a considerably higher level than in the Fall of 1932, while one, Singin' Sam, started off lower.

For the four months, July to October 1933, the 10 leading programs were: Capt. Henry's Maxwell House Show Boat, Fleischmann Hour, Chase & Sanborn, Amos 'n' Andy, Al Jolson and Paul Whiteman, White Owl program, Ben Bernie, Old Gold program, Sinclair Minstrels, and Cities Service Concert.

By days of the week, the leaders were Chase & Sanborn on Sunday; Amos 'n' Andy on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday; Fleischmann Hour on Thursday; and Lucky Strike Hour on Saturday.

In the daytime Radio City Concert, a sustainer, led on Sunday; followed by Lady Esther Serenade. Little Orphan Annie led for the rest of the week.

RADIO LEARNED ABOUT PREVENTIVE MEDICINE EARLY

By income classes, Capt. Henry's Maxwell House Show Boat, Fleischmann, Ben Bernie, Al Jolson-Paul Whiteman and Cities Service appealed predominantly to the upper divisions; Chase & Sanborn, Amos 'n' Andy, Sinclair Minstrels, First Nighter and The Goldbergs to the lower classes. (During the Summer months Cantor was not on the Chase & Sanborn Hour.) Texaco Fire Chief program, Saturday Night Dancing Party, Sunday at Seth Parker's, Armour and Chase & Sanborn Tea showed no particular trend by income classes.

FOURTH FULL YEAR

In the Spring of 1934 the C. A. B. issued its comprehensive report for the fourth year of operation. The past Winter had been a good one for listening. The downward trend had been checked and there was, in fact, a slight increase in the number of set owners using their sets on a given day. For the period from November 1933 to February 1934 listening on the average weekday was identical with the previous year. Saturday showed a slight decline, and Sunday a slight increase. For Saturday and Sunday this represented a continuation of the trend noted early in 1933. No doubt the Chase & Sanborn Hour and the Gulf Headliners were having an important effect upon the larger Sunday figures.

MORE PREVENTIVE MEDICINE: THE VALLEE HOUR

In 1932 Rudy Vallee placed more emphasis on guest stars and thereby arrested a two-year decline in his program. One of radio's oldest series, the Vallee show has never failed to place among the 10 leaders when the C. A. B. seasonal averages are compiled.

Return of "A" and "B" Listening

The amount of listening had always been greater in the lower income classes, but there was now some indication that the upper income classes were returning to their sets.

The number of new programs had been commented upon in the previous seasonal report. But by now program types had changed in many respects. For instance, since the previous year the number of mystery programs rated in the reports had shrunk from eight to one, and talks from six to two. Variety shows expanded from six to 13, and dance orchestras came back from five to 14. The highest average popularity was attained by the personality programs, the one minstrel show and the single operetta. However, the personality programs and the one remaining mystery show had lost ground.

Novelty programs averaged higher, due partly to the Byrd broadcast. News topics and drama remained about the same. Serials, variety programs and musicals sank to a lower level.

Among the 10 leading programs in April 1934 were six which had also been among the first 10 a year before: Chase & Sanborn, Maxwell House Show Boat, Fleischmann (Vallee), Amos 'n' Andy, and Burns and Allen. Three of these—Chase & Sanborn, Fleischmann, and Amos 'n' Andy—had likewise been in the upper 10 class two years before. Maxwell House Show Boat had made a fast climb during the season into second place, immediately on the heels of Chase & Sanborn's No. 1 contender. The Fleischmann rating had increased steadily, Texaco was slightly lower than a year before, while Amos 'n' Andy were riding an even keel.

Newcomers to the list of 10 were: Baker's Broadcast (Joe Penner; Harriet Hilliard; Ozzie Nelson), Kraft-Phenix with Al Jolson and Paul Whiteman, The First Nighter, and the Armour program with Phil Baker.

During this time, three programs had put an end to long declines by varying the program content. The Fleischmann show had added guest stars to the Rudy Vallee orchestra; Armour had installed Phil Baker (and cast); and Maxwell House had changed from straight popular music to the Show Boat.

The five daytime leaders for the winter period were: Metropolitan Opera (Lucky Strike), Little Orphan Annie (Ovaltine), Roses and Drums (Union Central Life Insurance), Betty and Bob (General Mills), and Lady Esther Serenade (Wayne King).

By income groups, Maxwell House Show Boat, Fleischmann, Gulf Headliners, Voice of Firestone and the Cities Service Concert were most popular in the higher economic strata. Chase & Sanborn, Amos 'n' Andy, Sinclair Minstrels, Myrt & Marge, and Warden Lawes appealed predominantly to the lower brackets. Jack Pearl, Ed Wynn, Phil Baker, Burns and Allen, and Baker's Broadcast (Penner-Hilliard-Nelson) showed no particular definition by economic group.

MARCH TO JUNE 1934

The C.A.B. Report for the period March to June 1934 showed a number of changes in the ranking of evening programs compared to the same period of the preceding year. Newcomers to the first 10 were:

Texaco Fire Chief (Ed Wynn), Baker's Broadcast, Paul Whiteman's Music Hall and Palmolive Beauty Box. Six programs remained among the 10 leaders from the year before. They were: Capt. Henry's Maxwell House Show Boat, Chase & Sanborn, Fleischmann, Amos 'n' Andy, Burns and Allen, and Ben Bernie.

Of the 10 leaders, five were full-hour programs, four were half-hour shows, and only one was fifteen-minute several-times-a-week series.

By June, the approach of the summer solstice had change the picture somewhat. Chase & Sanborn dropped to sixth position. Show Boat remained at the top of the heap while Palmolive (operettas) rose rapidly to take third place and Fleischmann rose to second. Amos 'n' Andy profited by the vacation period to climb to fourth, Baker's Broadcast held fifth, Ben Bernie reached seventh, Jack Benny (for General Tire) appeared among the 10 leaders for the first time in eighth spot, Paul Whiteman slipped into ninth, and First Nighter took 10th place.

A comparison of the two famous coffee programs for the year from July, 1933, to July, 1934, showed the Maxwell House offering much steadier than Chase & Sanborn's, due probably to the fact that Maxwell House had Thursday night instead of Sunday, hence did not suffer so much from summertime loss of audience. Also, Maxwell House was rebroadcast during the Daylight Saving Time period at 1:00 a.m., reaching the Pacific Coast at the desirable hour of 9 p.m.

Paul Whiteman's Music Hall had originally appealed primarily to the two upper income classes but by 1934 it appealed equally to all except the lowest class. With Jolson on the program, it had started high in the preceding August, had slumped a little when Jolson left in October, had risen again when Jolson returned in February, and fell once more when Nikita Balieff replaced Jolson in April.

The Palmolive Beauty Box started in April, 1934, with a high rating, and climbed contra-seasonally during the spring. The majority of leading hour programs were featuring names at this time, but Palmolive utilized a different type of show, presenting the best operettas of the past 50 years. Gladys Swarthout had the leading role, with a large cast of actors providing the dramatic episodes. The program's appeal was definitely to the top income groups. Its rating in the lowest class was less than half its rating in the uppermost stratum.

Texaco's Fire Chief, Ed Wynn, was leader among the half-hour shows despite a decline since mid-winter. Joe Penner had made his radio debut in October, 1933, rising spectacularly to a peak in April. Burns and Allen had been most consistent performers for a year and a half. Ben Bernie's Blue Ribbon Malt program was the only straight dance music show among the leaders. His appeal was almost equal among all income classes.

The only quarter-hour series among the upper 10 was represented by those hardy perennials, Amos 'n' Andy. (They started their radio Marathon March 19, 1928; Pepsodent sponsored them on August 19, 1929.)

Further analysis of the 10 leaders in the spring of 1934 showed that two were broadcast on Sunday night, three on Tuesday, one on Wednesday, three on Thursday, while one was broadcast five nights a week. One was spotted at 7 o'clock, one at 7:30, two at 8, two at 9, two at 9:30, and two at 10 o'clock. Four starred well-known comedians, three were of the musical revue or variety type (two of which featured prominent guest stars), one was an operetta, one a dance orchestra, and one a comedy team.

Four other programs which appeared among the first 10 in one or more of the four months (March to June, 1934) under discussion, were: Phil Baker, First Nighter, and Jack Benny (General Tire). The fourth was Gulf Headliners which fluctuated widely according to whether or not Will Rogers was on the show.

A number of new programs introduced between February and June fared exceptionally well. Among them were the Chesterfield Program, Colgate House Party, Floyd Gibbons, Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians, General Tire, Hour of Smiles, Packard Presents, and Palmolive Beauty Box.

The new Chesterfield program was the fifth sponsored by the company in two years. The Philadelphia Orchestra closed in March. Chesterfield then went to three nights a week (Monday, Wednesday and Saturday) with half-hour programs starring Rosa Ponselle, Nino Martini and Greta Stueckgold, respectively. Colgate House Party was quite consistent during the spring, and failed to show any perceptible increase when Joe Cook was added. Johns-Manville sponsored Floyd Gibbons on Saturday evenings. His rating was much higher than it had been for Palmer House during the preceding summer. Fred Waring did very well with two weekly half-hour stints for Ford. In March, Bristol-Myers consolidated its two half-hour shows, the Ipana Troubadours and the Sal Hepatica Review with Fred Allen, into the Hour of Smiles. The rating rose contra-seasonally. Packard presented Dr. Walter Damrosch in 45 minutes of symphonic music plus interpretation. This program also rose against the seasonal trend.

Programs appealing predominantly to the upper income classes were: Show Boat, Palmolive Beauty Box Theatre, Jack Benny, Paul Whiteman, and Voice of Firestone. The most popular among the lower income classes were: Chase & Sanborn, Baker's Broadcast, Texaco Fire Chief, Amos 'n' Andy and Sinclair Greater Minstrels. Among the leading programs which showed no particular trend by income classes were: First Nighter, Royal Gelatin Review, Chevrolet Program, Colgate House Party, and Let's Listen to Harris.

JULY TO OCTOBER 1934

The C.A.B. report for the summer season, July to October 1934, showed several changes in the ranking of the leading programs, due in large part to summer vacations for the stars and to complete lapses of other shows. Capt. Henry's Maxwell House Show Boat retained the top rung. Chase & Sanborn and Fleischmann, in second and third places respectively in the spring, changed places in the summer. General Tire took advantage of the vacationers to leap into fourth place. Palmolive climbed from tenth to fifth, though it did not improve its rating. Amos 'n' Andy held sixth position with a somewhat lower summer rating. Town Hall (Fred Allen) made its first appearance among the first 10 in seventh place. Paul Whiteman's Music Hall maintained its hold on eighth, First Nighter took ninth and Lombardo-Land tenth places. Ed Wynn, Baker's Broadcast, the White Owl program with Burns and Allen, and Ben Bernie, all among the first 10 in the spring, were vacationing during the summer.

Six of the summer leaders were hour programs, three were half-hours and one was a fifteen-minute five-times-a-week series.

Taking October as the month when the majority of new programs are introduced, and when the old ones resume, Ed Wynn, Baker's Broadcast, Amos 'n' Andy, and Ben Bernie were among the 10 leaders as they had been in the spring. It is reasonable to assume that they would have been near the top had all four stayed on the air during the summer.

When Eddie Cantor left the Chase & Sanborn hour in April, the show lost its leadership, but his return in October put it back into first place. Maxwell House and Fleischmann were consistently among the first three programs for the period from March to October, but the former showed much less of a summer slump than the latter. Jack Benny was among the leaders for the first time in June, and managed to stay well up until the show left the air in October. Amos 'n' Andy took a two-month vacation and returned in October with a slight loss in rating from their springtime average. The Bristol-Myers program changed its name from Hour of Smiles to Town Hall, but retained the same time, talent and network. Al Jolson returned to the Paul Whiteman Music Hall in July. While First Nighter was among the leaders only in September it missed out in the other three months by very narrow margins. Lombardo-Land started for Plough & Co. in July and rated well.

Programs appealing predominantly to the upper income classes were: Capt. Henry's Maxwell House Show Boat, Fleischmann Hour, Palmolive Beauty Box, General Tire Program, and Lombardo-Land. Programs appealing primarily to the lower classes were: Chase & Sanborn, Amos 'n' Andy, Sinclair Greater Minstrels, Death Valley Days, and Tender Leaf Tea Program. In the daytime, Betty & Bob and Today's Children (Pillsbury) rated best among the lower classes. Conoco Presents Harry Richman, Contented Program, First Nighter, Gibson Family (a continuous musical comedy), and Lady Esther Serenade showed no predominating popularity in any income class.

None of the programs that were on all summer registered severe declines. Daytime programs evidenced only insignificant changes.

FIFTH FULL YEAR

The C.A.B. report for the fifth full year of operation indicated that during the year a total of 21 programs had made their way into the 10 popularity leaders for at least one month. For the most part, these 21 shows offered comedians, but the two most successful were not of the Broadway headliner type. These were the Maxwell House Show Boat and the Fleischmann hour with Rudy Vallee—and they were the only two shows consistently among the first 10 for all 12 months. Chase & Sanborn ranked with the leaders for 10 months despite many alterations in program. Texaco and Baker's Broadcast were among the leaders for all but the two summer months when they were off the air. Chase & Sanborn was first in March, April, October and November, when Cantor was on the show. The type was completely changed in December to operas featuring stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company. The program dropped to eighth place, and then out of the first 10. Cantor was taken over by Pebeco and immediately started the series off in second place.

Amos 'n' Andy, after being among the ten leaders for five years, dropped out of the select list in the fall of 1934. When Burns and Allen returned to the air for General Cigar in the fall with another orchestra in place of Guy Lombardo, the rating suffered and the program was below 10th position. Lombardo, with his own show for Plough ranked 10th in July, seventh in August, and ninth in December and February. After Bristol-Myers combined its two half-hour shows into one, Town Hall climbed into the first 10 and remained there for the rest of the year.

The following are the 21 programs which appeared among the ten leaders for one or more months from March 1934 to February 1935, together with the number of months in which they rated among the first 10: Maxwell House Show Boat 12; Fleischmann Hour 12; Chase & Sanborn 10; Palmolive 10 (not broadcast March, 1934); Baker's Broadcast 9 (off three months); Paul Whiteman 9; Ed Wynn-Texaco 8 (off four months); Jack Benny 8 (off one month and not broadcast March, 1934); Fred Allen 8; Amos 'n' Andy 6 (off three months); First Nighter 6; Armour 5; Ben Bernie 4 (off three months); Gulf Headliners 4; Guy Lombardo (Plough) 4 (not broadcast four months); Burns and Allen 3 (off four months); Sinclair 3; Lowell Thomas 2; Cities Service 1; March of Time 1 (off six months); Eddie Cantor-Pebeco 1 (also three for Chase & Sanborn, and off eight months).

The leaders for the period from November 1934 to February 1935 were: Captain Henry's Show Boat, Fleischmann, Jack Benny, Baker's Broadcast, Chase & Sanborn, Palmolive, Town Hall, Texaco, Amos 'n' Andy, and First Nighter. Seven others were among the first 10 for at least one of the four months: Paul Whiteman, Lombardo-Land, Ben Bernie, March of Time, Gulf Headliners, Lowell Thomas, and Eddie Cantor (on for Pebeco in February).

In February, 1935, variety shows had the highest average popularity rating. Others rating high were personality shows, news topics, operettas and continuous musical comedies. Talks and religious programs still had low ratings.

Emergence of the Amateur Hour

A new type meantime appeared in the classifications—the amateur show. For some time previous to the appearance of a network amateur show, Major Bowes had been successfully conducting a local amateur hour over station WHN in New York; but the first national amateur show appeared as part of Fred Allen's "Town Hall Tonight" and was followed shortly afterward by the National Amateur Night with Ray Perkins as master of ceremonies. While the C.A.B. did not tabulate the numerous amateur hours that had appeared since the introduction of the feature on Fred Allen's program, it was discovered that there was at least one amateur hour per night in each city where investigations were made.

In 1933 investigation showed that the Broadway headliner type of program had surpassed the mystery show in popularity. In April of '34 there was only one mystery show of outstanding popularity, but by spring of 1935 there were again four mystery programs led by Eno Crime Clues.

The variety programs were recruiting their guest stars from every branch of show business with the result that a new and different star each week had stimulated interest in that type of program. In 1934 variety ranked well down the list. But now, in 1935, this form of programming surpassed even the personality group.

There were a number of new programs from November 1934 to January 1935. As usual, some of them succeeded, while others are forgotten today. In the evening hours appeared Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, Eddie Cantor (Pebecco), Carefree Carnival (Crazy Water Crystals), Carlsbad Presents Morton Downey, Club Romance (Hinds Honey and Almond Cream), Diane and Her Life Saver, Jimmie Fidler, Otto Harbach's Musical Show (Colgate), Little Jackie Heller (Ken-L-Ration), Kellogg College Prom, Let's Dance (National Biscuit), Dick Liebent's Musical Revue (Luden's), Beatrice Lillie (Borden), Linit Hour of Charm, Grace Moore (Vick's), Musical Revue (Luden's), National Amateur Night, The O'Flynn (Esso), One Man's Family (Kentucky Winners), Outdoor Girl Beauty Parade, Pause That Refreshes on the Air, Penthouse Party (musical revue with Mark Hellinger and Ruth Etting for Eno), Pinaud's Lilac Time, Red Trails (Half and Half Tobacco), Silver Dust Presents "The O'Neills", Kate Smith's New Star Revue (Hudson), Stories of the Black Chamber (Forhan's), and Uncle Ezra's Radio Station (Dr. Miles).

New daytime programs were Carlsbad Presents Morton Downey, Jack and Loretta Clemens (Venida), Dick Tracy (California Syrup of Figs), Five Star Jones (Mohawk Carpets), Hammerstein's Music Hall of the Air, Immortal Dramas (Montgomery Ward), Imperial Hawaiians (Hill's Nose Drops), Pat Kennedy with Art Kassel (Grove Laboratories), The Kitchen Party (General Foods), The Land of Beginning Again (Carlsbad), Life of Mary Sothern (General Mills), Lux Radio Theatre, Maybelline Musical Romance (later changed to Penthouse Serenade), Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch (Jad Salts), Pinex Presents Little Jack Little, Harry Reser and His Spearmint Crew, Story of Mary Marlin (Klenex), Sweethearts of the Air (songs and patter for Humphrey's Homeopathic Medicine), Vic and Sade (Procter & Gamble), and What Home Means to Me (semi-classical music and guest speakers for General Electric).

Some of the programs appealing predominantly to the upper income groups were: Capt. Henry's Maxwell House Show Boat, Fleischmann Hour, Palmolive, Chase & Sanborn and Cities Service Concert. Note the effect of the change in program content on the Chase & Sanborn Hour. Previously the program appealed more strongly to the lower income classes.

Some programs showing greater popularity in lower income levels were: Baker's Broadcast, Jack Benny, Ed Wynn, Amos 'n' Andy, Sinclair Minstrels. Note the change in appeal of Ed Wynn's program.

Leading programs which showed no particular trend by income groups were: Town Hall (Fred Allen), First Nighter, Armour, One Man's Family, and Woodbury Program.

In February the leading programs by days of the week were: Eddie Cantor, Sunday; Lowell Thomas, Monday; Palmolive Beauty Box and Ed Wynn, Tuesday; Town Hall Tonight, Wednesday; Fleischmann Hour, Thursday; Armour Program, Friday; Let's Dance, Saturday. In the daytime, Lux Radio Theatre led on Sunday, Today's Children on Monday and Wednesday, Betty & Bob on Tuesday and Friday, Voice of Experience on Thursday, and the Metropolitan Opera (Listerine) on Saturday.

MARCH TO JUNE 1935

In the report for March to June, 1935, the C.A.B. commented at some length on the rise of the amateur hour. Following the local amateur hour conducted by Major Bowes on WHN in New York, the introduction of amateurs on Fred Allen's Town Hall Tonight program late in 1934 plus the National Amateur Night program with Ray Perkins as master of ceremonies which began in January, 1935, Chase & Sanborn sponsored Major Bowes on a national network in April. By the end of the season, both Major Bowes and Fred Allen were leading all other shows in popularity.

The rise of Major Bowes was rapid. Ranking seventh in April after two weeks on the air, he was in second place in May, and by June he out-ranked all other shows. In a similar manner, but to a lesser degree, Town Hall Tonight worked up from sixth place in March to fourth in April, third in May, and second in June. Jack Benny, who for the first three months had held a good lead, was superseded by this pair of shows in June.

Personality shows were dominant among the leaders during the period of March to June, 1935. Eddie Cantor ranked second to Benny in March and fifth in April. Ed Wynn remained among the leaders. Al Jolson returned to the air for Shell Petroleum and ranked eighth in May and June. Joe Penner, who was sixth or better a year earlier, was fifth in March, sixth in April, 13th in May, then climbed among the leaders again when he took ninth place at the beginning of the summer in June. Lou Holtz was added to Paul Whiteman's Music Hall in March. It rose from twelfth in February to seventh in March, then dropped from the select 10 for April and May, taking 10th place in June.*

Campana's First Nighter was outstanding among the dramatic shows. It had always been a steady performer having a wide, general appeal. It occasionally found its way into the first 10, usually during the summer hiatus. However, its rating was always respectable.

Amos 'n' Andy were at last missing from the 10 leaders, but not far below them. They had succumbed to the competition of new program types after a long, hard battle. But even today, after 10 years or more, their following is large.

In addition to the six personality shows among the 10 leaders, there were Phil Baker for Armour; Block & Sully for Ex-Lax (George Givot was added in April); Burns and Allen for White Owl; Joe Cook, heading the Goodrich series, "Circus Nights in Silvertown," which, starting in March, had doubled its rating by June; Beatrice Lillie for Borden's, and Jack Pearl for Frigidaire.

As usual there was a great shuffling in the rankings when many programs, 33 to be exact, left the air during the spring season. To give some idea of the effect upon rankings caused by such a wholesale departure, the True Story program rose from 47th place in March to 25th in June accompanied by a rise of but slightly more than two points in rating. Death Valley Days rose five places during the same period with a slight decline in rating. Cities Service moved from 36th to 23rd with an increase of a bit more than one point in rating. Pleasure Island moved from 29th to 19th with the same change in rating. One Man's Family, by now advertising Tender Leaf Tea, was in 18th place in April, and 14th in June with a slight decline in rating. Sinclair Greater Minstrels moved from 23rd in March to 17th in June with a fractional increase in rating. Burns and Allen went from 16th to 12th in the same length of time with less than a point increase.

Editor's Note: It was not without justification that the C.A.B. classified these programs as "personality programs" in 1935, whereas today they would be classified as "variety." In 1935 the sponsor and his agency as yet had not added the frills—the twists—which later changed the personality show into a variety show. It took experience in programming on the part of the program builders to work this transformation. In the early days, for sheer lack of experience in program building, the name star was handed a block of time and ordered to fill it. Hence, it was not unnatural that the name star so dominated the time spot that the performance came close to being a solo turn. It is difficult to assign dates to the subtle changes that later took place. Suffice it to say that the C.A.B.'s "personality" classification in 1935 was still fairly valid.*

A total of 14 programs ranked among the 10 leaders for one or more months during the period March-June, 1935. In the order of their rank for June, with the number of months in which they appeared among the leaders, they were: Major Bowes' Amateur Hour 3 (not broadcast in March); Town Hall Tonight 4; Jack Benny 4; Captain Henry's Show Boat 4; Fleischmann 4; Ben Bernie 3; Palmolive Beauty Box 4; Shell Chateau 2 (not broadcast in March); Baker's Broadcast 3; Paul Whiteman 2; Campana's First Nighter 2; Ed Wynn 3 (off in June); Eddie Cantor 2 (off in May and June); Lowell Thomas 1.

In June the three amateur shows had the highest average rating. The single operetta came next, and the six variety shows were third. Novelty programs, mysteries, religious programs, talks and popular singers rated poorly. The most popular types with sponsors were personality shows, dance music, serials and musical reviews. Each of the first two types had a total of 13 programs; each of the second two had 11.

TREND OF PROGRAMS NOT INTERRUPTED IN SUMMER

Some programs, by remaining on the air the year around, make hay while the sun shines. Beset with less competition in summer than in winter, they build up a momentum which safely carries them through more troubled times. The C. A. B. charted this rule-of-thumb five years ago via the diagram shown above. (Also see text, page 79).

Among programs showing greater appeal to the upper income classes were: Capt. Henry's Maxwell House Show Boat, Palmolive Beauty Box Theatre, Fleischmann Variety Hour, Paul Whiteman and Ford Sunday Evening Hour. In the daytime, Lux Radio Theatre appealed predominantly to the upper income groups.

Evening programs appealing more strongly to the lower income groups were: Eddie Cantor, National Barn Dance, Amos 'n' Andy, Myrt & Marge, and Sinclair Greater Minstrels. In the daytime, Betty and Bob, Today's Children, and Voice of Experience appealed more strongly to the lower classes.

Programs not appealing especially to any income group were: First Nighter, Burns and Allen, Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians, Campana's Grand Hotel, and Lady Esther Serenade. In the daytime, Roses and Drums appealed about equally to the various classes.

JUNE TO SEPTEMBER 1935

The months June to September saw the departure of more programs either seasonally or permanently with varying effect upon the rankings of the remaining shows. Major Bowes easily held first place through the summer months and in September his rating jumped sensationally. Maxwell House and Fleischmann Variety Hour had no difficulty holding second and third place respectively. Shell Chateau climbed to fourth in July, but dropped to fifth in August and sixth in September. National Barn Dance was in the fifth niche in July, ranked ninth in August and fell out of the leading 10 in September. This series is usually to be found among the leaders in the summertime, rates fairly well the remainder of the year, but is really a prime favorite in rural areas as C.A.B. rural studies show. Ben Bernie was in sixth place in July but subsequently dropped out of the leading 10. One Man's Family, another series which is often found among the leaders in the summertime and which rates consistently well the year around, reached seventh position in July and August, and dropped to ninth in September. Campana's First Nighter was in eighth spot for all three months. Campbell's Hollywood Hotel was ninth in July, fourth in August and 10th in September. Palmolive Beauty Box Theatre was 10th in July, sixth in August, and dropped out of the select 10 in September. Burns and Allen managed to climb from 10th place in July to seventh in September. Paul Whiteman's Music Hall appeared from almost nowhere to capture fourth spot in September; Town Hall Tonight (Fred Allen) came back to fifth in the same month.

Summer Replacements

A few bold sponsors started new shows in the summertime. Among them were: Uncle Charlie's Tent Show (60 minutes Sunday evening for Ivory Soap), Esso Marketeers, Eddy Duchin and his Fire Chief Orchestra (in place of Ed Wynn), the Voice of the People for Standard Brands, NTG and his Girls for Emerson Drug Co., Sunset Dreams for the Fitch Co. (a quarter-hour once-a-week show on Sunday night), G-Men for Chevrolet (one of the earliest of the gang-busting programs), and Lanny Ross State Fair Concerts for General Foods. Late in the summer came Harv and Esther for Harvester Cigars, Strange As It Seems for Ex-Lax, Popeye the Sailor for Wheatena, Lazy Dan the Minstrel Man for Old English Floor Wax, and Neila Goodelle for Northam Warren. Meantime Lux Radio Theatre changed to an evening hour.

The leading daytime programs in July were: Mary Marlin, Roses and Drums, Betty & Bob, Today's Children, Just Plain Bill; in August: Mary Marlin, Today's Children, Betty & Bob, Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson, Vic and Sade; in September: Mary Marlin, Roses and Drums, Today's Children, Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson, Voice of Experience. By now, the five-a-week strip shows had come into their own. Most of the leaders of this type are still popular favorites today.

STANDARD TIME PERIOD 1935-6

In 1935 the C.A.B. discontinued its seasonal reports, replacing them with two comprehensive reports a year—one for the standard time period, and one for the daylight saving time period. The first of these covered the period from October 1935 to April 1936.

The amateur hours again had the highest average, largely due to the outstanding esteem in which the radio audience held Major Bowes and to the small number of network programs in this classification. Although first in popularity, this program type ranked only 12th in amount of hours broadcast. At that time the C.A.B. stated that in general there was *some slight relationship between the average rating of a program type and the amount of broadcasting time devoted to it.

Next in popular favor to the amateur shows came variety, personality, operetta, and news topics. Popular singers, talks, and concert bands failed to command much audience. Serial dramas, musical revues, dance music, variety, and drama accounted for most of the sponsored network time.

A total of 17 programs appeared among the 10 leaders for one or more of the seven months. Fifteen of these were broadcast for the entire period. But only six never ranked below 10th place, while two more were in 10th position or better for at least four months.

By program types, personality and variety were the most numerous.

Major Bowes was easily first in every month, Jack Benny (Jell-O) was second in every month but March, yielding then to Fleischmann Variety Hour (Vallee) which was third in every other month except April when it dropped to fourth as Town Hall Tonight (Fred Allen) took third. The latter program had been in fourth place twice, fifth three times, and seventh once. Maxwell House Show Boat finished in fifth place, after ranking fourth in the three fall months, fifth in February, and sixth in January and March. Bing Crosby, appearing in January for Kraft-Phenix, started in 13th, rose to sixth in February, dropped to eighth in March and finished

* Editor's Note: The rule-of-thumb propounded here (on a perfectly sound conception of the law of averages) is that the more programs appear in any category, the less will be the average rating for that category as a whole. It stands to reason that when there is a sudden rush to, say, dance music, the chance of failure is enhanced, audience attention becomes dissipated over numerous programs, and the entire average tends to be pulled down.

in sixth. Burns and Allen (Campbell) wound up in seventh spot, having been fourth, fifth and sixth twice each. Phil Baker (Gulf) landed in eighth place in January, February and April, but otherwise was not among the first 10. Baker's Broadcast (Ripley-Hilliard-Nelson) was in sixth, seventh, eighth and twice in ninth place (including April). Hollywood Hotel was seventh twice, eighth twice, ninth once, eleventh once and finished in 10th spot. Shell Chateau (Jolson) placed ninth twice, 10th three times and was out of the list in April. Eddie Cantor (Pebecco) was in the select list only three months, taking seventh, ninth and tenth. Of the three months that Paul Whiteman was on the air for Kraft-Phenix he ranked sixth once and seventh twice. The Hit Parade, Lucky Strike's new series, climbed into 10th berth in December; Ben Bernie was 10th in November, Campana's First Nighter placed ninth, and Amos 'n' Andy 10th in October, before the season really got under way.

A table based on median ratings of all programs classified by length of broadcast, showed that fifteen-minute programs broadcast once a week were the only classification in the evening which averaged less than day-time classifications.

The compilations showed that Eddie Cantor's rating had dropped somewhat from the year before. The competitive situation at that time was quite interesting. In October, 1935, Cantor found himself in the Sunday evening 8 o'clock spot opposite the catapulting Major Bowes. In January he changed to 7 o'clock opposite Jack Benny. Bowes's and Cantor's ratings went up. Benny's declined. As further testimony to Cantor's pulling power, the percentage of sets in use at 7 o'clock increased 18% for the January-April period over the October-December period, while the sets in use at 8 o'clock declined 2% in the face of a rise of nearly 10% at hours not affected by the change.

Some of the programs which rated well above average in the upper income class were: General Motors Symphony, Palmolive Beauty Box Theatre, Ford Symphony, Vick's Open House (with Grace Moore), Voice of Firestone, Lawrence Tibbett, Contented Program, Chesterfield (Andre Kostelanetz and Lily Pons on Wednesday, Nino Martini on Saturday), Refreshment Time, Ray Noble's orchestra, John Charles Thomas for Wm. R. Warner, Edwin C. Hill for Remington-Rand, and Fireside Recitals for American Radiator.

Programs which held outstanding attraction for the lowest economic brackets were: Sinclair Greater Minstrels, Warden Lawes, Fibber McGee & Molly, Corn Cob Pipe Club, Alemite, Kellogg Prom, Harv & Esther, Dangerous Paradise, Capt. Tim Healy, Voice of Experience, and Sunset Dreams.

Among the shows making their debut during the seven-month period were: Life Is a Song (successor to Silken Strings for Real Silk; later changed to Jack Hylton and His Continental Revue), the Melody Master for General Electric (11 p.m. Sunday), Woodbury Presents Paul Whiteman's Musical Varieties, Zotos Hour of Charm (Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra), Ted Husing and The Charioteers for Wildroot, Renfrew of the Mounted for Continental Baking, Eddie Dowling's Elgin Revue, Laugh with Ken Murray for Lever Brothers, News of Youth for Ward Baking Co., Parties at Pickfair for the ice industry, Gang Busters for Colgate-Palmolive-Peet, The Hit Parade, Imperial Hawaiian Band for Hill's Nose Drops, Paris Night Life (musical revue with Armida) for Louis Philippe, Chrysler Air Show with Alexander Gray, Charles Hanson Towne and Mark Warnow's orchestra, Bing Crosby with Bob Burns and Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra for Kraft-Phenix, Nine to Five (dramatic sketch for L. C. Smith & Corona typewriters), Pittsburgh Symphony for Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Al Pearce and His Gang for Pepsodent, Marion Talley for Ry-Krisp, and Dr. West's Celebrity Night.

Changes of other types included Leslie Howard's change from Sunday evening to Sunday afternoon without effect upon his rating (under sponsorship of Hinds Honey and Almond Cream). Ben Bernie switched from Pabst to American Can. Texaco, which had been broadcasting special performances of Jumbo from the Hippodrome with Jimmy Durante et al. changed to a musical revue with Eddy Duchin's orchestra. Meantime Ed Wynn, Texaco's original air bet, returned to the air for Pontiac in the spring. During the fall and winter, the March of Time had been sponsored on alternate weeks by Remington-Rand and Time, Inc. In the spring, Wrigley took it over. Vox Pop, a sidewalk interview program sponsored by Molle, shifted from Sunday daytime to Tuesday evening. Its initial evening ratings were somewhat lower than those of later months. Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians changed from an hour to a half-hour show with only a slight drop in the rating. Buck Rogers switched from Cream of Wheat to Cocomalt sponsorship, Edwin C. Hill went on for Remington-Rand when that sponsor finished with the March of Time. Palmolive Beauty Box Theatre changed from Friday to Saturday, and later changed its name to Ziegfeld Follies of the Air. Chevrolet sponsored Rubinoff and his Violin for five months. Shell Chateau started the season with Wallace Beery, changed to Al Jolson, and then to Smith Ballew and Victor Young's orchestra. Jolson rated highest.

Current Favorites Enter

This period saw the introduction of a number of programs that have since become great favorites. This list would include Gang Busters, the Hit Parade, the Bing Crosby show now known as Kraft Music Hall, and Al Pearce and His Gang. Gang Busters was the third of the racket-smashing type of program, following G-Men and Warden Lawes. It was destined to become the most popular, while the program type itself was later to come into its own.

The most popular programs by nights of the week were: Major Bowes' Amateur Hour on Sunday; Lux Radio Theatre, Monday; Ben Bernie, Tuesday; Town Hall Tonight, Wednesday; Fleischmann, Thursday; Hollywood Hotel, Friday, and Shell Chateau on Saturday.

This period ushered in some new daytime programs, among them American Pageant of Youth (a new Tastyeast venture succeeding Tastyeast Opportunity Matinee), the Man From Cook's (travel talk), Backstage Wife for Sterling Products (strip show), David Harum for B. T. Babbitt (destined to become one of the more popular serials), Forever Young (later Pepper Young's Family) for Procter & Gamble, How to Be Charming (beauty talk for Sterling Products), Musical Reveries (musical revue with Stuart Churchill and readings by Orson Welles) for Corn Products Refining, Rich Man's Darling (strip show for American Home Products), Romance of Helen Trent (strip show for Edna Wallace Hopper Cosmetics), Jerry Cooper and Ted Royal's orchestra for Pompeian, and Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten, on Saturday morning for Quaker Oats.

Procter & Gamble currently had six daytime programs. Sterling Products was a close second with four, General Mills had three, while no other sponsor had more than two.

DAYLIGHT TIME PERIOD 1936

The report for the daylight time period from May to September 1936 showed many changes. First, the number of ratable evening programs was 156 compared with 184 for the winter season. This decline (about 15%) to some degree indicated the extent of the summer hiatus.

Meantime, the median of the ratings dropped about 25%, with the greater portion of this decline occurring in the upper income brackets. During the winter about half of the evening programs had rated between 5 and 10; now more than half only rated between 1 and 5. And whereas 25% of the programs rated over 10 in the winter, that percentage was now cut to around 11%.

Analysis of popularity by program types showed the amateur classification still in the lead. Next in order came variety, personality, drama, news topics and news drama. Minstrels, serial drama, concert and poetry programs, musical revues, talks, and popular singers failed to attract as groups. The major portion of sponsored network time was taken up by dance music, musical revues, variety shows, and serial dramas. Drama showed the most striking change in rank since the winter period, rising from ninth to fourth place. From winter to summer there was a trend toward lighter entertainment as shown by the increase in proportion of time consumed by variety shows, news topics and news dramas, dance music and novelty programs. The amount of time taken by dramas, semi-classical and classical programs diminished.

Sixteen programs appeared among the 10 leaders in at least one of the five months. Only 11 of these were broadcast for all five months. The Chase & Sanborn Good Will Court replaced Major Bowes' Amateur Hour on September 20 with almost the identical rating, but didn't hold the audience built by Bowes. He had held first place by a good margin all summer. Maxwell House Show Boat, second in September, had been third in May and August, sixth in June, and second in July. Third in September was Lux Radio Theatre which had climbed rapidly during the summer from eighth in May to fourth in June, third in July and second in August. Sharing fourth spot in September were Rudy Vallee and Fred Astaire's new Packard show. Vallee had been fifth in May and June, seventh in July and sixth in August. Bing Crosby finished the summer close behind these two, after placing fifth in May and August, ninth in June, and not listed in July due to Governor Landon's Acceptance Speech. Burns and Allen held seventh place after being in the same spot for June and August, sixth in May and fourth in July. Hollywood Hotel claimed eighth position in September after doing somewhat better during the hot months. It had been seventh in May, eighth in June, fifth in July, and fourth in August. The impetus gained in those months was apparently great enough to keep the show among the first 10 in the fall. While Fred Allen was on his vacation, Town Hall went from second in May to third in June, sixth in July, 10th in August and ninth in September. The Wednesday Night Hit Parade was 10th in May, fell in June, came back to eighth in July and August, and dropped back to 10th in September. The Saturday Hit Parade made ninth place in August. Manhattan Merry-Go-Round was ninth in July, with One Man's Family 10th. Jack Benny was fourth in May, and second in June before he went off the air. Baker's Broadcast with Ripley clambered into 10th spot in June before leaving the air.

Length vs. Rating

A study of the median ratings of all programs by length of broadcast showed that as program length became shorter, the decrease from the winter level became greater in each type except the fifteen-minute programs broadcast once a week. The latter exception was probably explained by the small number of such shows broadcast during the summer. Hour programs held 85% of their winter level in summer, while fifteen-minute shows broadcast two or three times a week stood at but 60% of their winter level.

It is interesting to note that Major Bowes' Amateur Hour and Maxwell House Show Boat were the two most popular series of the summer with all income classes.

Programs which showed most appeal to the top income class were: Hit Parade (Wed.), Cities Service Concert, Voice of Firestone, Fred Waring (Tues.), Contented Program, Camel Caravan (Tues. and Thurs.), Edgar A. Guest, Alemite Half Hour, Lowell Thomas, Boake Carter and Fireside Recitals.

Programs appealing predominantly to the lowest income group were: Pick & Pat, Death Valley Days, Ken Murray, Sinclair Minstrels, Alemite Half Hour* (this show rather surprisingly showed stronger appeal at both ends of the scale and suffered at the middle), Uncle Ezra, and Bobby Benson.

New offerings in the summer of 1936 included: Goose Creek Parson (serial drama for Colgate-Palmolive-Peet on Sunday, Wednesday and Friday), Husbands and Wives (a substitute for Baker's Broadcast), the Jell-O Summer Show (substituting for Jack Benny with Tim and Irene and Don Voorhees' orchestra), Original Gillette Community Sing with Billy Jones and Ernie Hare plus Wendell Hall, Literary Digest Nationwide Poll Results, Packard Hour with Fred Astaire, Portraits of Harmony (dance music with guest orchestras for General Shoe Company), Come On, Let's Sing (a studio audience singing program for Colgate-Palmolive-Peet, and a fore-runner of many audience participation programs to come), and "Red" Grange for Sinclair Refining. The Democratic and Republican National Committees each had programs. The former used the name "Happy Days," the latter was called "News For Voters."

There were other changes during the summer. Cornelia Otis Skinner relieved Walter Winchell on the Jergens program for two months; Parties at Pickfair switched from Tuesday night to Sunday (and then left the air); the Wildroot Charioteers program changed from Ted Husing to Judy Starr; the Camel Caravan changed from a half-hour musical revue with Walter O'Keefe, Dean Janis, Ted Husing and Glen Gray's orchestra twice a week to a full hour variety show on Tuesdays with Rupert Hughes, Benny Goodman's orchestra, Nat Shilkret's orchestra and guest stars; the Great A&P Tea Company revamped Kate Smith's Coffee Time into Kate Smith's Band; Chesterfield changed from a semi-classical program with Lily Pons to a musical revue with Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra; Ray Heatherton and Kay Thompson, Stoopnagle and Budd replaced Fred Allen in mid-summer; and Marion Talley for Ry-Krisp changed from Friday evening to Sunday afternoon.

During the summer of 1936, day-to-day favorites were: Major Bowes' Amateur Hour, Sunday; Lux Radio Theatre, Monday; Packard Hour, Tuesday; Town Hall Tonight, Wednesday; Maxwell House Show Boat, Thursday; Hollywood Hotel, Friday; and Ziegfeld Follies on Saturday.

More Daytime Progress

The report for May to September 1936 also included the first complete analysis of daytime programs. The median rating of all daytime programs during summer decreased from 3.0% to 2.6%, a decline of about 15% compared with a decline in the evening ratings of about 25%. However, it is worthy of note that a larger proportion of programs in the summertime rated more than 5% than in the winter. Also, fewer shows rated less than 1% in the summer than in the winter. The big change was the shift from the group rating between 3.0% and 4.9% to the group rating between 1.0% and 2.9%.

A classification of daytime programs by type showed that adult serial drama (with 18 shows) and talks (with 11) accounted for more than 60% of the daytime programs. Adult serial drama alone occupied more than half the commercial network time in the daytime.

Seventeen daytime programs rated among the 10 leaders at some time during the five months. Today's Children led in each of the five, Ma Perkins climbed from sixth in May to third in June and July, achieving second place in August and September. Vic and Sade, another Procter & Gamble show, rose from eighth in May to sixth in June, fourth in July and third in August and September. The O'Neills (P&G) rose from ninth in May to eighth in June, fifth in July and August, and fourth in September. Betty and Bob for General Mills ranked fifth in May and June, second in July, fourth in August, and fifth in September. David Harum for Babbitt fell from third to seventh between May and June, but rose to sixth for the next three months. Guy Lombardo returned to the air for Bond Bread in September, taking seventh place. The Magic Key of RCA which had been in fourth place for May and June, was in seventh for July and August, and eighth in September. Forever Young, which changed its name to Pepper Young's family, was the fourth Procter & Gamble presentation to make the first 10 in September. The 10th program in September was Marion Talley for Ry-Krisp who had just changed from an evening hour. Others which made the first 10 once or more were Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten, eighth in July, and ninth in August; Modern Cinderella for General Mills, not broadcast in May, but 10th in July and August; Mary Marlin, second in May and June, then off the air; Five Star Jones, ninth in June; The Goldbergs, 10th in June, then off the air; Just Plain Bill, seventh in May, and off the air thereafter; and Rich Man's Darling, 10th in May and off for the summer.

Daytime series which displayed a predominant appeal to the lowest income group were: Betty and Bob, Five Star Jones, Modern Cinderella, Backstage Wife, Latest Thing, Girl Alone, Little Orphan Annie, Home Sweet Home, and Singing Lady. Magic Key of RCA had virtually no attraction for this economic class.

Debuts during the summer included: Girl Alone for Kellogg; Gospel Singer for Procter & Gamble; Heinz Magazine of the Air; Hymns of All Churches, Latest Thing and Modern Cinderella for General Mills; Wife-saver (household hints by Allen Prescott for Manhattan Soap Co.); Ralph Kirbery, the Dream Singer, with Al and Lee Reiser for Lipton's Tea; and Tea Time at Morrell's.

At this period, General Mills and Procter & Gamble each had seven programs on the air in the daytime.

STANDARD TIME PERIOD 1936-7

The C.A.B. report for the standard time period, October 1936 to April 1937, analyzed 144 programs by type, compared with 116 for the daylight saving time period in 1936, an increase of approximately 20%. This was also an increase of 5% over the number analyzed for the standard time months of 1935-6. There was a considerable increase in the number of programs rating over 20% as well as those rating less than 1% from the summer period to the winter period. The median of the ratings increased from 4.8% to 6.9%.

During this seven-month period, amateur hours yielded to personality shows as the leading type. The amateurs were, however, a close second. Variety shows fell from second to third, while semi-classical programs moved up from sixth to fourth place.* Dramas, in fifth place, held their summer gains well (in the preceding winter they had ranked ninth). Talks, concert bands and popular singers, in general, rated poorly.

Personality shows led in the amount of time on the air as well as in popularity. A seasonal increase was to be expected due to the return of many of the headliners from their vacations, but it is interesting that this type of show was only in sixth place in the amount of time on the air during the preceding winter. Dance music showed the greatest decrease in the amount of time on the air, falling from first place in the summer to seventh in the winter.

During the winter of 1936-37, it required only 13 programs to make up a list of those which had been among the 10 leaders, compared with 16 the preceding winter and 17 in the summer. All but two of the 13 were broadcast the entire seven months; and only four ever ranked below 10th.

Editor's Note: The C.A.B. here draws a distinction between variety and personality types which—while serviceable a few years back, as pointed out in a foregoing footnote—is perhaps a trifle confusing. Practically all personality shows were by 1936-7 converted into full-fledged variety. The reader should bear this in mind. The C.A.B. itself has recently dropped the "personality" category altogether.*

This indicated a much higher degree of stability among the program leaders than had been evidenced before.

Jack Benny held first place in all seven months. Major Bowes Amateur Hour was second in October, third in November, sixth in February, fifth in March, and second in April. Lux Radio Theatre was fifth in October, eighth in November, seventh in December, fourth in January, and third in February, where it remained for the rest of the season. Town Hall Tonight (Fred Allen) was ninth in October, second in November, fifth in December, 10th in January, fifth again in February, and fourth in March and April. Eddie Cantor (Texaco), third in October, dropped to fourth in November, climbed to second in December, where he stayed until April, when he finished in fifth place. Burns and Allen ranked seventh in October, sixth in November, fourth in December, fifth in January, fourth again in February, fifth in March, and sixth in April. Kraft Music Hall (Bing Crosby) started in 10th place in October, rose to ninth in November, sixth in December, dropped to ninth again in January, claimed seventh in February, dropped to 10th in March, and was back in seventh place again in April. Royal Gelatin Hour (Rudy Vallee) started in eighth place, dropped to 11th in November, ranked ninth in December, seventh in January, ninth in February, seventh in March, and eighth in April. Hollywood Hotel was sixth in October, seventh in November, eighth in December, January and February, and ninth in March and April. First Nighter climbed rapidly from 33rd in November to 10th in April. Al Jolson, starting in December for Rinso, reached eighth place in March, but dropped out of the first 10 in April. Phil Baker (Gulf) was 10th in November, December and February, and sixth in January. Good Will Court (Chase & Sanborn) was fourth in October and fifth in November, then went off the air.

Median program ratings for the period for October 1936 to April 1937 were, in general, somewhat lower than for the corresponding period a year earlier.

The most popular program with all income groups was Jack Benny. Programs which appealed more to the top income class than to the others were: Packard Hour (Fred Astaire), Ford Sunday Evening Hour, General Motors Concert, Cities Service Concert, Vick's Open House (Nelson Eddy), Voice of Firestone, Helen Hayes (Sanka), Chesterfield (Nino Martini), Hammerstein's Music Hall, Philadelphia Orchestra, Nash-Lafayette Speed Show, Waltztime, Ethel Barrymore-Famous Actors Guild, Boake Carter, Alexander Woollcott, Gabriel Heatter, and Fireside Recitals.

Programs which appealed especially to the lowest income classes were: National Barn Dance, True Story Court, Manhattan Merry-Go-Round, Lady Esther Serenade (Tues. and Wed.), Leo Reisman's Orchestra, Snow Village Sketches, Log Cabin Dude Ranch, Lum and Abner, Irene Rich, Singin' Sam and Mortimer Gooch.

Among the new programs were: Do You Want to Be An Actor?, Chase & Sanborn's successor to Good Will Court, Arnold Johnson's 1937 Radio Show took the place of National Amateur Night for Health Products. Woodbury's Rippling Rhythm Revue with Shep Field's orchestra succeeded Paul Whiteman's Musical Varieties. Ma and Pa, a five-a-week serial, went on the air for Atlantic Refining. Pretty Kitty Kelly for Continental Baking augmented the evening strip shows. Jack Pearl returned, this time for Raleigh and Kool cigarettes. Jimmie Fidler changed from Luden's to Procter & Gamble. Philip Morris changed from Leo Reisman to Russ Morgan's orchestra and Charles Martin's Three Minute Thrills. Lever Brothers (Rinso) changed from Laugh with Ken Murray to Al Jolson. Camel Caravan was changed to Jack Oakie's College. Tastyeast returned to the original Tastyeast Jesters. Ford substituted Al Pearce and His Gang for Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians. Procter & Gamble put Vic and Sade in an evening spot in addition to their daytime stints. Lewis-Howe Remedies put on Vocal Varieties for 15 minutes twice a week. Vox Pop for Molle became Sidewalk Interviews. Alexander Woollcott held forth twice a week for Liggett & Myers' Granger tobacco. Beatrice Lillie appeared for Sterling Products in a show called Broadway Merry-Go-Round succeeding Fanny Brice in Revue de Paree, Helen Menken took over Famous Actors' Guild from Ethel Barrymore for Sterling Products. After Ken Murray finished for Lever Bros., he replaced Burns and Allen for Campbell (tomato juice). Palmolive Beauty Box Theatre returned in February with nothing like its previous success. Gladys Swarthout was sponsored by the ice industry. Meantime the bicycle industry talked up bicycling with a musical revue called Cycling the Kilocycles. During the winter, Time Magazine had its March of Time on the air, but in April, Serval took over the sponsorship. Floyd Gibbons had a personal experience series for Colgate-Palmolive-Peet called Your True Adventures. Coronet magazine had a program conducted by Deems Taylor. Standard Brands bought a show with Louis Armstrong's orchestra called Harlem. Liggett & Myers changed from Andre Kostelanetz to Hal Kemp. For a brief time Wrigley essayed a comic serial called Mortimer Gooch. A unique program called Pontiac Varsity Show consisted of broadcasts from various college campuses conducted by John Held, Jr., with college bands, glee clubs, etc. Allegheny Steel Company tried network radio with the Stainless Show. Universal Rhythm, a musical revue, with Rex Chandler's orchestra and guest stars, succeeded the Friday night Fred Waring show. Nash Motors put on the Nash-Lafayette Speed Show with Floyd Gibbons and Vincent Lopez's orchestra, adding Grace Moore in March. Professor Quiz for Kelvinator was the forerunner of a number of studio audience quiz shows. Sealtest Laboratories sponsored Saturday Night Party, a variety show with guest masters of ceremonies and Tom Howard and George Shelton. Shell Chateau had Joe Cook, Edward Everett Horton and guest stars. Ed Wynn returned—for Spud cigarettes. Your Pet Program with Mary Eastman and Gus Haenschen's orchestra changed its name to Saturday Night Serenade.

The old adage about the building of Rome holds true in radio. Programs rarely reach the top without a long, hard climb. The quartet of programs illustrated in the accompanying chart, from old C. A. B. records, shows the characteristic pattern of gradual ascent. (Also see text, pages 132 and 136).

Daytime Progresses Again

The C.A.B. reported that the most striking change in daytime programs for the period from October 1936 to April 1937 was the great increase in the number of programs. Eighty-nine programs were analyzed by type as compared with 47 in the summer months. The increase in the winter median rating was only about 5%, due probably to the great increase in the number of shows. A larger number of shows would react upon the median in two ways: first, new shows seldom rate as high as the old, well-established ones; second, many of the newcomers probably compete at the same hour with the older programs and draw listeners from them. The number of daytime shows rating better than 5% increased by nearly 80%, while those rating less than 1% declined about 35%.

A greater diversity in type of daytime program was found during this winter season. There was a total of 13 classifications. Types of programs formerly available only in the evening, such as news commentators and personality shows, had become available in the daytime. But still the bulk of commercial network daytime hours was taken up by only a very few types. In fact, adult serial dramas and juvenile programs alone took more than 50% of such time.

The adult serial drama classification had yielded first place in average popularity rating to three rather small classifications—namely, personality, classical and semi-classical, and dance music. However, the small number of programs in these three groups, and the slight difference in average rating among them tended to minimize the loss of first place by the adult serial dramas. We cannot be certain whether the large number of programs in a case like this tends to deflate the average rating or not, but there is some evidence from the 10-year records of the C.A.B. that when a program type becomes popular there is a great influx of similar shows; the average rating then goes down; the number of programs next decreases; the rating then goes up again, but not so far as before, thus achieving a degree of stability. This is stated as a tendency—not a hard and fast rule.

It required 14 programs to make up the list of 10 leaders for each of the seven months as compared with 13 for the evening programs. As a matter of fact, this is a smaller number than might have been expected, for with daytime ratings running considerably lower than evening ratings, much less stability in ranking would normally be expected. Of the 14 programs, all but two were broadcast for the entire seven months. Saturday and Sunday programs comprised 35% of this list as compared with 20% in the summer. This is the story of the 14 leaders:

Today's Children (Pillsbury) held first place for the first three months of the season, dropping to second for the second three months, then rising to first again in April. The runner-up in April was Guy Lombardo for Bond Bread who had fluctuated widely throughout the period (as might have been expected in contrast with the five-a-week serials which tend to build steady audiences). Lombardo's ranking by months, starting with October, was ninth, third, eighth, twelfth, seventh, seventh and second. Vic and Sade (Procter & Gamble) also fluctuated considerably as follows: fourth, seventh, sixth, third, ninth, sixth and third. Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten (Quaker Oats) ran 10th, fifth, third, seventh, third, third, fourth. David Harum (B. T. Babbitt) was third, second, fifth, sixth, fifth, fourth and tied for fourth. Magic Key (RCA) started in second and then ran fourth, second, ninth, sixth, fifth and sixth again. Ma Perkins (P&G) was fifth for the first two months of the period, then seventh, fourth, eighth, and seventh again for March and April. The O'Neills (P&G) had a tight squeeze in three months. Their record was sixth, 10th, eighth, 10th, ninth and tied for seventh. We, the People (Calumet) had an erratic record, running 21st in October and November, then eighth, ninth, 11th, 14th and ninth. Just Plain Bill (American Home Products), who ranged from 13th to 15th between October and January, climbed into 12th in February, 11th in March, and just got in under the wire to place 10th in April. The Metropolitan Opera Company (RCA) was sponsored for only three months, January, February and March, and took first place in each of the three months. This was all that kept Today's Children from making a clean sweep. Grand Hotel (Campana) climbed from 11th in October and November to fourth in December, fifth in January, third in February, ninth in March, and was off the air in April. Betty and Bob (General Mills) were seventh in October, ninth in November, 10th in December and thereafter were out of the first 10. Mary Marlin (Kleenex; later P&G) was eighth in October and November, then fell below the leaders.

By this time, multiple daytime sponsorship was becoming the rule. Here is the score for the period October 1936 to April 1937: Procter & Gamble 10 programs, General Mills 6, American Home Products 6, General Foods 3, Lehn & Fink 3, Lever Brothers 2, Sterling Products 2, Kellogg 2, General Motors 2, Wasey Products 2, RCA 2, Ralston Purina 2 and Wander Co. 2.

Just as a matter of curiosity, one might inquire how the largest sponsor fared in relation to the average of all programs. The average rating for all 10 of Procter & Gamble's daytime shows during the period was a little over 4.2%, compared with a median rating for all daytime fifteen-minute programs of 2.8%.

MAY TO SEPTEMBER 1937

During the 1937 summer season, approximately the same number of evening programs were rated as in the preceding summer: 120 compared with 116. However, the summer median of 6.2% for 1937 was a great increase over the previous year's figure of 4.9% and represented but a 10% decrease from the winter figure. The percentage of all programs which rated more than 20% was five times as great as for the summer of 1936—in fact it was even 50% greater than for the winter of 1935-6. This showing is partially attributable to the tendency among sponsors to keep their shows on the air later in the season. In 1936 the greatest exodus occurred between May and June. In 1937 it was delayed about a month.

There was little difference in the ranking of program types between the summer of 1936 and the summer of 1937. The first five places were held each year by amateur, variety, personality, drama and news topics. Serial dramas, with a decrease in the number of programs, moved from eleventh to sixth. Novelty shows, musical revues, talks and popular singers once more fared very poorly as types.

Musical revues, personality shows, variety shows and serial dramas took up more than half the commercial network time. Dance music had fallen from first to fifth place in amount of time on the air.

Fifteen programs rated among the 10 leaders in at least one month of the five. Of these, 11 had been among the 10 leaders at some time during the summer of 1936. Two more were running in 1936, but did not rate among the first 10 (these were Gang Busters and Fibber McGee). As for the other two—Eddie Cantor was not broadcast from May to September 1936; and Chase & Sanborn's new show did not begin until May 1937.

Here are the 15 programs in the order of their September rank, showing their rank in each of the five months starting with May:

Chase & Sanborn program: eleventh, sixth, second, first, first. Major Bowes' Amateur Hour (Chrysler) had regained first place in May. The decline in warm weather listening undoubtedly affected Jack Benny's Sunday rating more than Bowes's Thursday rating. However, the Major yielded to Benny again in June, took first again in July, then succumbed to the on-rushing new Chase & Sanborn hit which pulled up to a tie with the amateurs in August. The return of Lux Radio Theatre caused a tie with Major Bowes for second. Lux had been fourth in May and third in June before it went off the air for two months. The Royal Gelatin Hour (Vallee) ranked eighth in May and then seventh, third, third and tied for fourth. Burns and Allen (General Foods) ranked sixth, eighth, fifth, seventh, and tied for fourth in September. Kraft Music Hall was fifth in May and June, then fourth, ninth and sixth after a talent change. Town Hall was third and fourth, and then after a talent change, sixth, sixth and seventh. First Nighter (Campana) was among the leaders in all five months, ranking 10th twice, then ninth and eighth twice. Hollywood

Hotel ranked ninth twice, then eighth, jumped to fourth, and dropped again to ninth despite a higher rating. Gang Busters (Colgate), 11th until it climaxed a long, steady climb by placing 10th in September. Fibber McGee and Molly (Johnson) bettered their ranking astonishingly by rising from 23rd to 19th, to 12th, to fifth, but then fell to 11th despite a higher rating. One Man's Family (Standard Brands) was consistent, but made the top group only in July and August, ranking 10th in both months. Maxwell House Show Boat, approaching the end of a long and honorable career, placed seventh in July, but was otherwise outside the select list. Jack Benny (Jell-O) was second in May and first in June, the only months he was on the air. Cantor (Texaco) was sixth in May, the only month he was on.

The ranking of the shows during this period again illustrates that some of the second string shows have an excellent opportunity to gain audibility during the dog days. A number of them have seized this opportunity year by year to build an audience, a part of which has stood by them during the winter. Some that might be cited as examples are One Man's Family, First Nighter, Gang Busters, Fibber McGee and Molly and Hit Parade.

By income groups, Maxwell House Show Boat, Hit Parade (Wed.), March of Time, Voice of Firestone, Palmolive Beauty Box Theatre, Hammerstein Music Hall, and Boake Carter rated better with the top economic class than with the other classes. On the other hand, National Barn Dance, Gang Busters, Babe Ruth, Ma and Pa, Poetic Melodies, Sports Resume, and Fitch Jingle Program fared much worse with the top class than with the others.

Programs which had better than average appeal for the lowest income classes were: Major Bowes' Amateur Hour, National Barn Dance, Gang Busters, Pick and Pat, True Story Court, Your True Adventures—Floyd Gibbons, Lone Ranger, Lady Esther Serenade, Johnny Presents Russ Morgan (Tues. & Sat.), Wayne King (Mon.) and Lum and Abner.

There were numerous program changes during the five-month period. Gulf Oil substituted Good Gulf Summer Stars, a musical revue with Harry Von Zell, Oscar Bradley's orchestra and guest stars for Phil Baker. Baker's Broadcast (dramatization of Robert L. Ripley's "Believe-It-or-Not" sketches) changed to the Fleischmann Program, a musical revue with Loretta Lee and an orchestra conducted by Werner Janssen. During June, July and August, Ford substituted Universal Rhythm, another musical revue, with Richard Bonelli, Alec Templeton, Frank Crumit and Rex Chandler's orchestra, for the Ford Sunday Evening Hour. Gillette Safety Razor Co. had a musical revue with Milton Berle, Wendell Hall and Andy Sannella's orchestra in place of the Original Gillette Community Sing. The Jell-O Summer Show was still another musical revue with Jane Froman, Don Ross, and D'Artega's orchestra pinch-hitting for Jack Benny. Irene Rich changed from Friday to Sunday. The Sealtest Show shifted from Saturday to Sunday. Texaco Town had a musical revue with Pinky Tomlin, Eddie Stanley and Jacques Renard's orchestra in place of Eddie Cantor. September saw a new type of show—Zenith Foundation—consisting of experiments in telepathy. Griffin's shoe polish sponsored a newcomer titled Allwite Melody Revue with Barry McKinley, John B. Gambling and Hughie Barrett's orchestra, Jack Oakie's College on behalf of Camels became Benny Goodman's Swing School. Packard Hour-Fred Astaire became Packard Hour-Johnny Green, and later Packard Hour-Lanny Ross. Chesterfield had Frank Parker instead of Lily Pons. Walter O'Keefe filled in for Fred Allen on Town Hall Tonight. Bob Burns took over the management of the Kraft Music Hall for Bing Crosby. Believe-It-or-Not Ripley went to work for General Foods in August after the change in Baker's Broadcast. Assisting him was B. A. Rolfe's orchestra which had worked for Lucky Strike so many years before. The Raleigh and Kool show (Jack Pearl) became Tommy Dorsey and His Swing Orchestra. A group of banks which had been sponsoring the Philadelphia Orchestra changed to Ferde Grofe and his orchestra. Coca-Cola put on a new show in September called Song Shop, a musical revue with Kitty Carlisle, Frank Crumit, Reed Kennedy and Gus Haenschen's orchestra. American Cigarette & Cigar Co. (Pall Malls) sponsored Dorothy Thompson.

Leading programs by days of the week were: Jack Benny on Sunday; Lux Radio Theatre on Monday; Packard Hour-Lanny Ross on Tuesday; Town Hall Tonight-Fred Allen on Wednesday; Major Bowes' Amateur Hour on Thursday; Hollywood Hotel on Friday; and Hit Parade on Saturday.

Further Daytime Progress

In the daytime, the number of programs for the period May-September 1937 was nearly 50% greater than for the corresponding period of 1936. This, however, had little effect upon the median rating which was 2.4% in 1937, as against 2.2% in 1936. The percentage of shows which rated better than 5% showed practically no change; while those which rated less than 1% were considerably more numerous in 1937.

Serial dramas had really come into their own, accounting for more than half of the commercial network time. The average rating for this type had dropped a little. Juveniles accounted for somewhat less than half the percentage of time they occupied in the summer of 1936.

Only 11 programs were required to list the 10 leaders in each of the five summer months. The daytime leaders were beginning to form quite a closed corporation. All were broadcast in 1936, and all but one appeared among the first 10 during that season.

Today's Children (Pillsbury) was the undisputed leader in all five months. Ma Perkins (P & G) improved ranking during the summer, starting fourth in May, dropping to fifth in June, then climbing one notch a month to land in a tie for second in September. The Lombardo ranking fluctuated over a wide area. Having a Sunday afternoon hour, the Lombardo series was probably affected more by the weather than were the weekday shows. It was seventh for the first two months, then second, 10th, and tied for second as fall approached. Vic and Sade (P & G) ran fifth, third, sixth, fourth and fourth. David Harum (Babbitt) was second, second, third, second again, and fifth. The O'Neills (P & G) ranked third, third, fourth, fifth and sixth. Magic Key (RCA) occupied eighth, 10th, ninth, sixth and seventh. Pepper Young's Family was steady, starting at eighth, then held seventh for three months and dropped to eighth again. Betty and Bob (General Mills) were sixth, sixth, eighth, 12th and ninth. Just Plain Bill, starting 11th, rose to seventh, then 10th, ninth and ninth. Backstage Wife (Watkins) was 10th twice, 11th, eighth and 11th.

Procter & Gamble sponsored four of these 11 leading programs. No other sponsor had more than one in the list.

OCTOBER 1937 TO APRIL 1938

During the interval from October 1937 to April 1938, the C. A. B. analyzed 118 programs, as against 120 for the previous winter.

This decline in program numbers can partially be attributed to the fact that sponsors were now maintaining their programs for a longer period of time.

By program type, variety shows evidenced the highest evening ratings. Furthermore, variety, popular music and drama occupied more than half of the commercial network evening time.

Thirteen programs rated among the 10 leaders at some time during the seven months. Chase & Sanborn was easily first every month. Jack Benny ranked second all through the season, though his rating fluctuated much more widely. Kraft Music Hall-Bing Crosby held fourth place in October and November, then placed third thereafter. Lux Radio Theatre pulled up from seventh to sixth place for two months, then occupied fourth for the first four months of 1938. Town Hall-Fred Allen was 10th, seventh, ninth, eighth, 10th, ninth and finally fifth. Royal Gelatin Hour-Rudy Vallee was fourth, eighth, seventh, 10th, eighth, eighth, and sixth. Burns and Allen (General Foods) were eighth, ninth, eighth, fifth, ninth, fifth and seventh. Al Jolson (Rinso) started 11th in October and November, pulled up to 10th, then to ninth, fifth, sixth and finally eighth. Major Bowes, starting in third place in October and November, slumped to fourth in December, then to sixth, seventh, 11th and back up to ninth. Good News of 1938, a new show for Maxwell House, started in November, and though it started well, it did not make the first 10 until April when it finished the season in ninth place. Hollywood Hotel, in its last full season, placed 10th for three of the seven months and was 11th or 12th the rest of the time. Eddie Cantor was sixth, fifth, fifth, seventh, fifth, sixth, and finished 12th in April. Phil Baker began with ninth in October, and thereafter was 12th or 13th.

The median rating of the 60-minute evening shows trended steadily upward from June 1937 to April 1938. The median rating of the half-hour programs acted likewise, but not quite so substantially.

Programs that rated higher in the top income brackets than the average for all classes were: Your Hollywood Parade, Ford Sunday Evening Hour, General Motors Concert, Philadelphia Orchestra, Voice of Firestone, Chesterfield Presents Lawrence Tibbett, Vick's Open House, Hammerstein Music Hall, Chesterfield Presents, Song Shop, Zenith Foundation, Pontiac Varsity Show, Elizabeth Arden Presents Eddy Duchin, Boake Carter and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson.

Programs which appealed more to the lowest class than to all classes combined were: Major Bowes' Amateur Hour, Kate Smith Hour, National Barn Dance, Gang Busters, Joe Penner, Pick and Pat in Pipe Smoking Time, Death Valley Days, True Story Court of Human Relations, Behind Prison Bars-Warden Lawes, Saturday Night Serenade, Husbands and Wives, Monday Night Show, Tommy Dorsey and His Swing Orchestra, Edgar A. Guest—"It Can Be Done," Alias Jimmy Valentine, Those We Love, Uncle Ezra's Radio Station, Lum and Abner, Vocal Varieties, and Arthur Godfrey. In the lowest income class, the Philadelphia Orchestra fell far below its over-all average.

There were, as usual, a number of program changes during the period October 1937 to April 1938. Wrigley tried a new show called Double Everything. The Seatest Sunday Night Party was changed to Rising Musical Stars. Rippling Rhythm was succeeded by Woodbury's Hollywood Playhouse-Tyrone Power. After nearly 10 years, Amos 'n' Andy and the Pepsodent Co. parted company and Campbell's Soup took over the sponsorship of the famous pair. Wasey Products sponsored Arthur Godfrey. Lucky Strike tried a new show called Melody Puzzles. The Brewers Association embarked upon a cooperative campaign with the Monday Night Show. Wrigley's Poetic Melodies became Just Entertainment. Campbell's Vanity Fair became Grand Hotel. Larus & Brother Co. had Alias Jimmy Valentine. Lever Brothers introduced Big Town with Edw. G. Robinson (it rose almost meteorically). Colgate-Palmolive-Peet sponsored Dale Carnegie. Packard's series was Hollywood Mardi Gras with Walter O'Keefe, Lanny Ross and Charles Butterworth. Lamont, Corliss' "Husbands and Wives" became "Those We Love." American Home Products introduced Mr. Keen, Tracer of Lost Persons. Sidewalk Interviews became Vox Pop. U. S. Rubber sponsored Ben Bernie and All the Lads. Toward the end of the season Cantor changed from Texaco to Camels. Chesterfield Presents became Chesterfield Presents Lawrence Tibbett, then Chesterfield Presents Grace Moore. In April, Your Hollywood Parade for Lucky Strike became Kay Kyser's Musical Klass. Lum and Abner changed from Horlick's to General Foods. Maxwell House gave up its well-worn Show Boat for Good News of 1938 (produced in conjunction with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer). Chesterfield changed its Music from Hollywood to Paul Whiteman's Program. Pepperell Manufacturing Company had Dr. Karl Reiland. Royal Crown Cola started the Royal Crown Revue in April.

The leading shows by days of the week were: Chase & Sanborn Program on Sunday; Lux Radio Theatre on Monday; Al Jolson on Tuesday; Eddie Cantor on Wednesday; Kraft Music Hall on Thursday; Hollywood Hotel on Friday; and Professor Quiz on Saturday.

Daytime: Ever Greater

The number of daytime programs for the period was nearly 50% higher than for the May-September period, and somewhat above the number for October 1936 to April 1937. The percentage of programs rating better than 5% was less than in the preceding year; but the percentage of programs rating between 3% and 4.9% increased tremendously.

The median of all daytime programs rose from 2.3% to 3.2%.

gram also had the highest average popularity rating, followed by one semi-classical program and two hymn programs. News and commentators, talks, and familiar music fared poorly.

Sixteen shows were required to complete the list of 10 leaders for each month of the seven. Guy Lombardo for Bond Bread (Sunday afternoon) was the leader for each month. Woman in White, a new program for Pillsbury's flour, which was not broadcast until January, did extremely well, starting in fifth place, rising to fourth in February, and then holding second in March and April. Big Sister (Rinso) started in 10th place in October and November, fell to 12th, then jumped into third, sixth, fourth, and third again. Guiding Light (P&G) did not appear among the first 10 until February when it reached ninth; it was third in March, and finished fourth in April. Aunt Jenny's Real Life Stories (Spry) arrived among the leaders in seventh spot in January, then ran 10th, eighth and fifth. Vic and Sade (P&G) on the NBC Red were among the leaders every month, ranking fifth, fourth, fifth, fourth, second, sixth and tied for sixth. Ma Perkins (P&G) on the Red also maintained a position higher than 10th in each month, running third, third, fourth, sixth, third, fourth and tied for sixth. Just Plain Bill (American Home Products) was ninth, eighth, 10th, 10th, 12th, 11th, and eighth. David Harum (Babbitt) was sixth, seventh three times, 11th, sixth and ninth. Magic Key of RCA also made the select list every month starting at fourth, then going to eighth, third, second, fifth, and 10th twice. Pepper Young's Family (P&G) on the Red network ran eighth, sixth, 11th, ninth, eighth, eighth and 11th. Mickey Mouse Theatre of the Air, a new series for Pepsodent starting in January, made seventh place in February, but otherwise placed below 10th. Today's Children (Pillsbury), which ran second in October, November and December, was taken off the air in January. The O'Neill's (P&G) on the Red network were sixth in October, fifth in November and December, but 13th thereafter. Silver Theatre, sponsored by the International Silver Company, rose to eighth in December, then left the air. Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten (Quaker Oats) rose to ninth in December, then left the air.

Of these 16 programs, Procter & Gamble sponsored five, Pillsbury two (but not simultaneously), Lever Bros. two, and Bond Bread, American Home Products, Babbitt, RCA, Pepsodent, International Silver and Quaker Oats, one each.

Leaders by days of the week were: Guy Lombardo on Sunday; Today's Children on Monday and Tuesday; The Woman in White on Wednesday; Ma Perkins (Red network) on Thursday; Today's Children on Friday; and Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten on Saturday.

Daytime's principal sponsors now had the following number of programs under their respective aegis: Procter & Gamble, 16; General Mills, 7; American Home Products, 6; Quaker Oats, 4; H. J. Heinz, 4; Colgate-Palmolive-Peet, 3; Lehn & Fink, 3; Kellogg, 2; Lever Bros., 2; Ralston Purina, 2.

Meantime, from May 1937 to April 1938, the median rating of daytime programs rose considerably.

MAY TO SEPTEMBER 1938

The C.A.B. report for the period, May to September 1938 pointed out that variety shows as a type still ran well ahead in popularity. During this daylight saving time period they dropped but two points from the standard time period. Audience participation jumped into second place from fifth for the winter period. Serial drama moved into third place, and classical programs into fourth. Commentators and talks, and popular singers continued to rate poorly.

Variety shows, popular music, and commentators and talks accounted for more than 50% of commercial network time.

Compared with the preceding summer, the percentage of shows rating more than 20% rose from 3.3% to 5.0%; those rating between 10.0% and 19.9% rose from 15% to 25%; those rating between 5.0% and 9.9% were just about the same; while those rating less than 5.0% declined substantially from 40% of the total to 29%.

Seventeen programs appeared among the 10 leaders for one or more months of the five. Consistently first was Chase & Sanborn. Lux Radio Theatre was second in May, fourth in June, and then off the air until September when it placed second. Jack Benny was third in May, second in June, then off the air. Kraft Music Hall did well in all five months, running fourth, third, second, third, and third. Fred Allen was fifth in May and June, and then off the air. Al Jolson (Rinso) was sixth in May, ninth in June, and off the air. Major Bowes rose from seventh in May to sixth in June, then third in July, second in August, and fifth in September. Rudy Vallee was eighth, 10th, fourth, fifth and fourth. The Good News program was ninth in May, seventh in June, and then off until September, when it placed sixth. One Man's Family was 10th in May, slipped back to 11th in June, then placed fifth, fourth and eighth. Burns and Allen rose from 14th in May to eighth in June, sixth in July and then off the air. First Nighter was 15th in May, 13th in June, seventh in July and August, and off in September. Hit Parade appeared in 10th place in July, and was ninth in August. National Barn Dance was ninth in July, and eighth in August. Lone Ranger was 10th in August. Kay Kyser was eighth in July, and sixth in August. Hollywood Hotel returned in September in ninth place.

Programs which had above-average appeal for the upper income brackets were: Chase & Sanborn program, Lux Radio Theatre, Good News of 1938 (Maxwell House), Rudy Vallee, Cities Service Concert, Manhattan Merry-Go-Round (for Dr. Lyon's Toothpowder), Voice of Firestone, For Men Only (Vitalis), Hour of Charm (Spitalny Orchestra for General Electric), Contented Program (Carnation Milk), Cavalcade of America (du Pont), and Lowell Thomas (Sun Oil).

Programs appealing least to the higher economic groups included: Eddie Cantor (Camel Cigarettes), National Barn Dance (Alka-Seltzer), Lone Ranger (Gordon Bakeries), Death Valley Days (Pacific Coast Borax), Irene Rich (Welch Grape Juice), Model Minstrels (Pick and Pat for Model Tobacco), Lum and Abner (Postum), Alias Jimmy Valentine (Edgeworth Tobacco), and It Can Be Done (Edgar Guest for Household Finance).

Two programs appealed more to the lowest income class than any other economic stratum. They were: Kate Smith's Bandwagon (General Foods), and Big Town (Rinso).

Daytime

During this May to September 1938 interval, the number of daytime programs was 73, as compared with 96 for the preceding standard time period, and 67 during the summer of 1937.

Meantime a truly remarkable rise in ratings had taken place—28.8% of the programs rated better than 5%, compared with 18.7% for the standard time period, and 10.4% for the summer of 1937. Programs rating between 3.0% and 4.9% accounted for 35.6% of the total, compared with 34.4% for the standard time period, and 16.4% for the preceding summer. Programs rating between 1.0% and 2.9% accounted for 27.4% of the total, as against 38.5% during the standard time period, and 53.8% the previous summer. Finally, programs rating less than 1% made up only 8.2% of the total, compared with 8.3% during the standard time period, and 19.4% in the previous summer.

By this time drama and serial drama virtually monopolized the daytime hours, taking 81.3% of the commercial time. In average popularity, the drama type was preceded only by one popular music program. It was followed closely by four hymn programs. Talks and familiar music continued to rate low, though there were still as many as 11 talks under sponsorship.

Sixteen programs got into the leading 10 list at some time during this period. Guy Lombardo (Bond Bread) was first in May, June and July, and not on the air in August and September. Big Sister (Rinso) was second in May, then fifth, second, second and third. Magic Key (RCA) fluctuated widely from third in May and June to 29th, then back to 14th, and back once more to 10th. Aunt Jenny's Real Life Stories (Spry) was third in May, then out of the ranking list until August and September when the series took 10th. Ma Perkins (Procter & Gamble) started fifth, then held second, fourth, second and third. The Goldbergs (Procter & Gamble) were sixth in May and ninth in September, but otherwise out of the list. The O'Neills (Procter & Gamble) started with a tie for sixth in May and June, thence progressing to third, sixth and seventh. Vic and Sade (Procter & Gamble) were sixth in May via the NBC Red, but did not maintain this position after a switch to the Blue. Guiding Light (Procter & Gamble) was ninth in May, eighth in June, fourth in July, and first in August and September. Pretty Kitty Kelly (Continental Baking) was 10th in May, eighth in June, out of the list for two months, and back again in September in 10th place. The Woman in White (Pillsbury) was 11th in May, progressed to third in June, then ranked eighth twice, and fifth once. Pepper Young's Family (Procter & Gamble) was tied for 11th in May, then placed sixth, fourth, second, and fifth. David Harum (Babbitt) was eighth in June, ninth in July, 10th in September. Hilltop House (Palmolive) hit ninth in July, seventh in August, and eighth in September. Our Gal Sunday (American Home Products) was ninth in August. Story of Mary Marlin (Procter & Gamble) was seventh in July, and second in August and September.

Leading daytime sponsors at this time were: Procter & Gamble (9 programs); American Home Products (6); General Mills (5); Sterling Products (4); Colgate-Palmolive-Peet (3); Quaker Oats (3).

DISCUSSION OF CERTAIN PHASES OF C.A.B. TECHNIQUE

The C.A.B. has ever been on the alert to improve its technique in the interests of speed, accuracy, and better presentation of results.

During nearly 10 years of existence, countless changes of major or minor nature have been made.

One of the most important innovations was the elimination of the frequent criticism leveled against all telephone surveys—namely, that random calling does not give a true cross-section of listening habits and program preferences by income brackets. To eradicate this drawback, the C.A.B. spent a considerable amount of time and money in tests aimed at this problem.

Upper vs. Lower Income Groups

At an early point in network program history, the difference in program taste between the upper and lower economic strata was recognized. (For a number of years, however, this difference was insignificant, inasmuch as only the wealthy, or moderately wealthy, could afford to own radio sets.)

Chart I indicates the divergence in popularity of radio programs between higher and lower income groups in 1937.

Phone Subscribers vs. Non-Subscribers

Since there are roughly but half as many telephone homes in the U. S. as there are radio homes, it naturally follows that there is a concentration of telephones in the upper income groups, though radio ownership penetrates deeply through all classes. Thus, as may be seen from Chart II, nearly all families in the top class have telephones, while in the lower classes less than half the homes are so equipped. Hence, if an investigator selects calls at random from a phone book, an unduly high proportion of families in the top group will be reached. This, of course, would inflate the ratings of programs exhibiting an unusual appeal to the A and B income groups; and conversely, it would deflate the ratings of programs appealing predominantly to the lower groups.

Chart III illustrates the distribution of radio sets by income classes, and further serves to indicate the disproportion resulting from checking program preferences by random calls.

Homogeneity of Taste by Classes

It is obvious that some method of properly weighting or distributing calls for income groups was mandatory, and to this necessity the C.A.B. next turned its attention. But before reaching final solution of the problem, it was necessary to find out whether, within an income group, phone-owners and non-owners had identical program tastes. As may be seen from Chart IV, the phone owners are truly representative of all families within each respective income group.

With these facts established, it was a simple matter for trained investigators to apportion their work among economic levels in accordance with set ownership. The C.A.B. sample is an adequate, properly weighted sample.

THE 10 LEADING EVENING PROGRAMS SINCE MARCH, 1930

(Set Owners=100%)

Only one of the first 10 programs included in the original C.A.B. ranking list (March, 1930), has stayed in the select group unflinchingly. That one is Rudy Vallee. Of the present (1939) leading programs, exclusive of Vallee, Jack Benny and Fred Allen can be traced back as far as 1934 when they first attained a position among the leaders. Chase & Sanborn had a program among the leaders as far back as 1931, and subsequently has been in and out of the ranking list with various programs. During the past two years, the Chase & Sanborn offering has topped all other programs in popularity.

THE FIVE LEADING DAYTIME PROGRAMS SINCE MARCH, 1930

(Set Owners=100%)

It should be noted that list below includes only commercial programs. In the early days of network daytime broadcasting, however, the daytime commercials were not as prevalent as today, and consequently were often out-pointed by sustaining programs. Such programs as "Cheerio," "National Farm and Home Hour" and the "Metropolitan Opera" broadcasts (in sustaining years) sometimes attained ratings high enough to out-rank the commercial list. Such instances, however, are not included here.

Attention is hereby again called to the fact that this material is fully copyrighted, and that no reproduction whatsoever may be made either wholly or in part.

C.A.B. SPECIAL EVENTS RATINGS

The Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting, as a by-product of its regular work, compiles from time to time ratings of events of special or timely interest to the public. The ratings of a few of these special or outstanding events are listed here. Not all were rated, inasmuch as many occurred on days when the C.A.B. was not conducting its regular investigations. Thus approximately one-half of these events are rated.

Ratings of professional baseball games cover only the cities where the games were broadcast. Ratings were made for play-by-play broadcasts and not for resumes or digests. Note that the all-New York World's Series in 1937 did not have nearly the nation-wide interest of the 1938 Series.

Note also the steadily rising interest in football broadcasts as the 1938 season progressed to the climactic games.

PROGRAM TYPE PREFERENCES BY INCOME CLASSES

(A Study Based on Programs Rated During the Winter Season of October 1937 to April 1938)

That certain types of programs appeal specifically to certain income classes is an easy assumption, but the premise cannot be safely adopted without further study.

With this thought in mind, the C. A. B. selected five of the more important program types to determine what relationship their appeal had to income classes. The following types were chosen: Variety, Drama-Serial Drama, Popular Music, Classical Music, and Semi-Classical Music.

Variety Programs

Both 60-minute and 30-minute Variety programs were grouped together so that 29 samples were available for study in this category. The resulting study shows that Variety appeals least to the A income group, and most to the C group. Taking the A sector as 100%, the C group looms 46% larger. Variety appeals to B class 27% more than to the A class, but only 19% more to the D, or lowest, income levels.

Drama-Serial Drama

Evening Drama-Serial Drama was comprised of 16 half-hour programs, while the daytime Drama-Serial Drama category included 41 quarter-hour programs, each broadcast multiple times per week. Both groups disclose similar appeals to the four income classes.

In both groups the strongest appeal is in the C and D income divisions. In the case of the daytime shows, the preference is most apparent in the C income class, next in the D class and then in the B income group. Strikingly, in the same order of appeal but not in the same ratio, are the Drama and Serial-Drama evening shows. The preference, nevertheless, in both cases is least by the A and B income divisions, and definitely highest by the C and D groups. Comparison of these two groups shows only 12 to 15% less appeal to the D class than to the C class in the Drama and Serial-Drama night-time and day-time shows.

Classical Music

Classical programs, of which there were only four during the interval in consideration, appeal emphatically to the A and B income groups, with twice as much appeal to the A's and B's as to the D group. The appeal to the C class is only 37% more than to the D group.

Semi-Classical Music

The Semi-Classical programs (a group of five) is liked least by the D income class, and shows evenly divided preference by the B and C levels, with slightly more preference by the A income class.

Popular Music

The 15 half-hour Popular Music programs appeal most to the C class and least to the A class. Between the appeal shown by the B and D income groups no striking difference is apparent, indicating that after the decided preference by the C class, the balance of the audience is more or less impartially divided (with the exception of the A level).

MEDIAN RATINGS OF

PROGRAMS BY LENGTH

A COMPARISON OF RURAL AND URBAN PROGRAM POPULARITY: EVENING PROGRAMS

The C.A.B., in addition to its regular semi-monthly reports covering 33 cities, each spring makes a study of rural listening as compared with urban listening.

Such springtime surveys have been conducted for the years 1937, 1938 and 1939, based on a total of about 63,000 interviews. The following tables show comparisons in relative popularity of the 10 leading programs in rural and urban areas.

Tenacity of Program Leaders

The rural survey conducted in the spring of 1939 indicated that seven of the 10 leading evening programs in rural areas had been among the 10 leaders in the spring of 1938. Of further significance was the fact that the first five of these rural leaders in 1939 had occupied identical rankings in the 1938 study. Those evening programs which enjoyed first 10 rankings in the large cities in 1939 contained six repeaters from the spring of 1938, three of which (Chase & Sanborn, Jack Benny and Lux Radio Theatre) were in the same ranking order.

National Barn Dance; Jack Benny

It is interesting to note that the National Barn Dance program which ranked fifth in rural areas ranked 44th in large cities.

In similar vein was Lowell Thomas' popularity: ranking fourth in the rural areas, his position in the large cities was 28th.

Major Bowes, enjoying third place in rural ranking, held ninth position in the large cities. Holding equal popularity in both the rural and urban areas were the Chase & Sanborn program, Jack Benny, Kate Smith and Cantor's Camel Caravan.

A COMPARISON OF RURAL AND URBAN PROGRAM POPULARITY: DAYTIME PROGRAMS

Comparison of the five leading daytime programs in the rural areas showed only one program, the Woman in White, a dramatic sketch, which had been among the five daytime leaders in the same period of 1938.

Bachelor's Children; Woman in White

Sharp contrasts in ranking were evidenced by Bachelor's Children, a serial drama, which placed third in the rural areas and 14th in the large cities. Also, The Woman in White, ranking fourth in the rural areas, ranked 12th in the large cities.

Ben Bernie; Magic Key

In the large cities, two daytime programs had great differences in popularity compared with their rural standings. Ben Bernie, first in the large cities, was 38th in the rural areas; and the Magic Key of RCA, fourth in the large cities, was 35th in the rural areas.

Similarities

Nearly alike in standing in both areas were three programs: Ma Perkins, The Guiding Light and Pepper Young's Family.

A COMPARISON OF RURAL AND URBAN PROGRAM POPULARITY: BY PROGRAM TYPE

In the spring of 1939, evening variety programs again placed at the top of the list as they did in 1938, both for rural and large city areas, although they were crowded closely both in the cities and rural sections by audience participation programs which had come into favor in 1938.

In the cities variety programs had a 30% higher rating than in the rural areas; whereas audience participation had only 15% better rating in the cities.

All types, however, with the exception of commentators and talks, had ratings 14% to 53% better in the large cities than in the rural areas.

SETS IN USE BY MONTHS AND SEASON: 1934-1936-1938

In the accompanying Chart I is shown the relationship between summer and winter listening, indicating that during summer 85%-92% as many sets were used on the average weekday as in the following winter.

Chart II shows that in the years 1934, 1936 and 1938, the peak of listening has been either in January or February, while the seasonal summer decline reached its lowest point during the month of July. Once this July low point has been reached, there follows a consistent rise in the use of sets to November. At the end of November, and during December, there is again a slight drop-off.

During 1938, from 61% to 73% of sets were used on an average weekday. The monthly variation in set use was as follows:

January 72.7%	July 61.2%
February 73.4%	August 62.0%
March 70.7%	September 66.5%
April 71.4%	October 69.6%
May 66.8%	November 69.5%
June 66.9%	December 68.7%

HOW THE 20 LEADING PROGRAMS ATTAINED THEIR LEADERSHIP

Every sponsor desires a leader. Few attain this desire over night. Success comes only after the expenditure of much effort, patience, ingenuity and money.

With rare exceptions, programs attain high ratings (insuring further longevity) only after many months on the air. Once the cluster of leaders is established, this constellation remains relatively fixed. But in the interim many another program has fallen by the wayside.*

The winter season of 1938-39 was noteworthy for lack of new programs. The leaders had been on the air for a long time (an average of over three years for the 20 programs considered in accompanying tables). Most of them started the tedious road upward from humble beginnings. Furthermore, the leading full-hour shows have been under current sponsorship for an average of nearly three and a quarter years, as compared with an average sponsorship of around 13 months for all hour shows.

Among the current hour programs, only Chase & Sanborn (Charlie McCarthy, Don Ameche, Dorothy Lamour, etc.) and Major Bowes (Chrysler) started with high ratings almost immediately, thus proving themselves exceptions to the rule. Major Bowes' initial program rated 18% in April, 1935, and the series rose to 40.7% in January, 1936. (Note: Major Bowes at that time was under the Chase & Sanborn aegis).

*Editor's Note: While it takes a long time, generally speaking, to create a leader, it is not always conversely true that a failure can be nursed into success merely by keeping it running.

On the other hand, the Lux Radio Theatre began its night-time career (after nine months of daytime run) with 8.4%, and required 15 months to break the 20% level. Bing Crosby, already an established artist when he took over the Kraft Music Hall, began with 15.2% in January, 1936, and spent two years and four months attaining his highest rating.

Likewise, Fred Allen's initial half-hour performance for Bristol-Myers garnered only 6.3%. Fourteen months elapsed before he was able to get above 20%. By that time the program had been expanded into a full-hour show.

The five leading 30-minute programs have been on the air for an average of more than 20 months. Individually, their lives range from seven to 43½ months under the same sponsor. This compares with an average life under the same sponsor of 9.3 plus months for all 30-minute series.

These five leading programs repeat the same story as full-hour programs—they attained their coveted positions only over a long period of time, and after starting with relatively low ratings either for present or previous sponsors. Four out of five of the current half-hour leaders are starring talent which previously had risen to radio fame through years of work under other sponsors.

The five leading 15-minute programs, both daytime and evening, once more repeat the keeping-everlastingly-at-it-brings-success pattern. While the average nighttime program of 15 minutes runs about six months, the average life of the leaders in this class is nearly 55 months.

INITIAL RATINGS AND THE SPONSORED LIFE OF PROGRAMS

(Sponsored Evening Shows Only)

Is there any relationship between the initial rating of a sponsored program, and the length of time it may be expected to stay under the aegis of its sponsor?

While it would be folly to attempt a pat answer to such a question, it is interesting to note how, in the past, sponsors have behaved when confronted with high or low initial ratings, respectively. An examination was made by the C. A. B. of 102 evening programs whose debut came between October 1935 and December 1936. They were subdivided into categories of 60 minutes, 30 minutes, and 15 minutes.

TABLE I: FULL-HOUR PROGRAMS

Initial Rating	Average Life With Sponsor (Months)	Total No. Programs	No. Still Running April, 1939
0.0%- 9.9%	8.5	2	None
10.0%-19.9%	*13.3+	7	1
20.0% or Over	*16.5+	2	1

From this sample of past history, it may be seen that full-hour evening programs which start with a rating of 10% or better will, on the average, be retained by their sponsors for 13 or more months; whereas those with initial ratings less than 10% are retained only about nine months.

There are, of course, many factors entering into this picture to elaborate the behavior pattern. Sixty-minute programs, for instance, frequently are launched with talent which has much past radio history and much previous building up. Here might be mentioned Major Bowes, who, prior to his Chrysler sponsorship, was sponsored by Chase & Sanborn, and prior to that had amassed a large New York following over WHN. Similarly, Bing Crosby, before taking over the Kraft Music Hall, had been under the sponsorship of Chesterfield and Woodbury, and had made numerous guest appearances, both via radio and via the stage. Another case in point would be the Packard program, which was built on such established names (but in this instance not necessarily radio names) as Fred Astaire, Charles Butterworth, etc.

Table II shows the relationship between initial rating and sponsored life-span of 63 half-hour programs. (Note: In order to keep these categories from becoming confusing, the 30-minute category was allowed to include two 45-minute programs and one 25-minute twice-a-week series.)

Editor's Note: Inasmuch as several of the programs are still on the air, the average cannot allow for this extension, and thus is marked with a "plus." Should these programs remain on the air a long time to come, the average will, eventually, become much greater than at the present reckoning.*

It should also be emphasized again what kind of "program life" the C.A.B. is here talking about. The type of life being measured in these tables is life under a single sponsor. That fact cannot be stressed too carefully.

TABLE II: 30-MINUTE PROGRAMS

Initial Rating	Average Life With Sponsor (Months)	Total No. Programs	No. Still Running April, 1939
0.0%-9.9%	*7.6+	52	2
10.0% or Over	*17.1+	11	1

In computing this average life, all periods of hiatus were deducted. Adding time off the air during sponsorship, the average becomes 8.1 plus months for those 30-minute programs with an initial rating between 0.0%-9.9%, and 19.2 plus months for those whose initial ratings were above 10%.

It is apparent from Table II that 30-minute evening programs beginning with ratings of 10% or over will be retained by their sponsors, on the average, twice as long as those starting with less than 10%.

Twenty-eight 15-minute evening programs were analyzed in similar fashion (see Table III). Twenty-four of these had initial ratings between 0.0% and 4.9%; and four started between 5.0% and 9.9%. From this it appears that programs assigned to the lower category have an average sponsored life of a little over five months, while the sponsored life of those in the higher group runs to 13½ months. (Note: Hiatus during sponsorship is deducted; if hiatus is included, the average life of all evening 15-minute programs with initial ratings of 0.0%-4.9% becomes 5.6 plus months.)

Therefore, it might be concluded that the average 15-minute series initially rating between 5.0% and 9.9% will continue under the same sponsor for at least a year, whereas programs starting with a rating of less than 5.0% will in all probability last less than half as long.

TABLE III: 15-MINUTE PROGRAMS

RURAL RADIO

"While broadcasting has been the subject of many research studies...practically all of these studies thus far have been made in cities and areas of concentrated population. Rural listeners have been given relatively little specific attention..." With this preface the Joint Committee on Radio Research issued early this year (1939) a rural study, the synopses of which are presented herewith. All figures are as of Jan. 1, 1938.

The Joint Committee is composed of equal representation from the Association of National Advertisers, the American Association of Advertising Agencies, and the National Association of Broadcasters. In the instance of this rural study, the costs of field research, tabulation, and presentation of data were borne jointly by CBS and NBC.

Basis of the study rests on 20,362 personal interviews in 955 townships, in 96 counties, representing all rural areas in the U. S.

NOTE: In this study, the term "Rural population" conforms to the definition of the U. S. Census Bureau—those living on rural farms or in villages of less than 2,500 population. The Census shows several hundred thousand people living on farms in urban areas. These, however, are not classified as "Rural population." The Urban data, shown here (in light-face type) for comparison with the new rural data, are from the Starch Quarterly Urban Radio Surveys for 1937.

A BOOKKEEPER'S RADIO HISTORY

(See Charts on Pages 160-161)

All the major facts and figures available on radio's 17-year history are recorded in the charts on pages 160-161. Sources of this data, plus whatever explanations may be necessary, are herewith quoted.

Column 1

Figures on the number of broadcast stations in operation annually were obtained from the Federal Communications Commission. From 1922 through 1926 the totals are mid-year totals. The first 1927 figure (733) indicates the number of stations in existence when the Federal Radio Commission (predecessor of the FCC) was organized; the second 1937 figure (694) is the regular mid-year figure. From 1928 through 1932 the figures represent irregular compilation dates within each year. Since 1932 the compilations pertain to each January 1.

Column 2

It should be plainly understood that by "gross revenue" is meant a total computed at one-time card rates prior to any discounts whatsoever and including nothing but time sales. The earliest industry gross revenue figure (1931) is derived from page 44 of a "Letter from the Chairman of the Federal Radio Commission to the Senate" (72nd Congress, Document 137). It was herein stated that during 1931 a total of 525 broadcast stations plus NBC, CBS, and the Yankee and Don Lee networks grossed $77,758,048.79. However, it is apparent that this figure is far too high. The Radio Commission had simply reported network revenue twice by crediting it alike to the chains and to their affiliates. In short, the Radio Commission credited the network-affiliated stations with the payments they received from the networks, but failed to subtract these payments from network income. On the assumption that network compensation was roughly 20% of gross network receipts, and that a leeway must be made for other blunders in computation, a figure of $72,000,000 is here taken as a compromise in a situation unquestionably calling for one.

The next (1933) figure is an old National Association of Broadcasters' estimate.

The totals for 1934, 1935 and 1936 are also National Association of Broadcasters' compilations—all, of course, figured at one-time card rates.

the networks' own figures on their gross time sales were taken as network revenue; the secondary network income (regional and similar networks), was computed by augmenting the secondary network revenue as reported in "Summary of responses by broadcast stations to Commission Order No. 38" by 20%; the national spot sales figure (from "Commission Order No. 38") was similarly increased 20%; and the local sales total was increased 10%. This method of augmenting a net into a gross is naturally not 100% accurate, but percentage-wise it checks very nicely with studies on the difference between "net" and "gross." The 1938 figure was similarly computed.

Column 3

The figures in this column are from annual reports of the networks, and represent totals computed at one-time card rates (with two exceptions—the Mutual Broadcasting System in 1935 and 1936 issued net figures, but subsequently has conformed to the standard practice of issuing only gross revenue figures).

Column 4

This column shows the consolidated net operating profit of the industry for those years in which figures are available. Naturally, this profit represents not only profit on the sale of broadcasting time, but also profits derived from the sale of talent, property, programs, etc. The figure for 1931 was obtained thus: 333 stations in that year (see Document 37) reported a total profit of $5,451,717.05 (not counting depreciation as an expense); 180 other stations reported combined losses of $2,200,743.76; the networks meantime showed consolidated net operating profits of $4,671,996 (depreciation most emphatically added to expenses). Adding and subtracting these amounts brings a sum equal to $7,922,969.

The figure for 1937 is from Table No. 1 of "Summary of responses by broadcast stations to Commission Order No. 38." It seems to the editors of the DIRECTORY, however, that this officially reported profit is rather low. For the FCC credited the major networks with only $6,330,448 net income (apparently quite comparable to consolidated net operating profit), whereas NBC and CBS alone had a profit in that year of some $7,997,000.

In the 1938 figure (unlike the 1937 certain Federal and other taxes are not deducted due to the difficulty in finding them on the FCC record sheet. The actual industry profit in 1938 was probably between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000.

Column 5

These figures were separately reported to the FCC by NBC and CBS in January, 1939. The 1927 NBC figure includes two months of 1926 operation, and the NBC 1938 figure is an estimate.

Column 6

This column shows the depreciated value of investments in stations only. The 1931 total is from Document 137, page 43. By "investment" here is meant the depreciated value of technical equipment, real estate, furniture and fixtures. The 1937 figure is from "Summary of responses to Order No. 38," and shows investment in "total broadcasting property" at depreciated values. The replacement value of this same property would be $42,747,869, with technical equipment accounting for slightly more than half of that sum. Network investment in property, other than in network-owned stations (included in the 1937 figure), was $8,820,880 before depreciation. The depreciated value of such property would probably come to around $6,250,000.

Column 7

Annual station payments in salaries and wages are recorded in this column, but with talent (announcers, actors, etc.) excluded. It was not deemed advisable to include talent, because many actors, announcers, etc., are not employed by stations direct, but are engaged by advertisers and agencies. Hence any talent salary figures would at best be highly incomplete. The 1931 total is from Document 37, page 45. The 1935 figure is an approximation derived from statistics in the Census of Business for that year. It was computed by taking 67.2% of the total annual payroll for full-time employees of stations and networks (the other 22.8% went to actors and announcers), and 22% of the total annual payroll of part-time employees (stations only). The 1937 total is from "Summary of Responses to Order No. 38," and represents addition of items 1 (b), 2(b) and 6 (b) in Table No. 1. (Note: This payroll data is accredited here to 1937 because it was gathered by the FCC early in 1938 — during the week of March 6.)

Column 8

Figures on stations affiliated with NBC, CBS and MBS are from a table prepared by Dr. Frank Stanton, research director of CBS, and presented as sworn testimony before the FCC. It should be remembered that the affiliated stations of the various networks overlap somewhat due to dual affiliation. As of Dec. 31, 1938, exactly 30 stations had affiliations with more than one major chain. Thus the 1938 total of network affiliated stations would not be 389—as addition of the three sub-columns seems to show—but 359.

Column 9

Data on the grand total sales of radio apparatus for broadcast reception was obtained (except for the year 1938) from the U. S. Department of Commerce which, in turn, had secured the figures from trade publications, chiefly Radio Retailing. The grand total is composed of: value of radio sets sold; value of tubes sold; value of "B" and "C" batteries; value of wind-driven chargers; and value of gas-driven chargers. The 1938 estimate was obtained from Dr. Orestes Caldwell, editor of Radio Today, and includes: value of sets sold; value of tubes sold; and value of parts sold. The precipitous decline in 1938 dollar volume is largely due to the great decline in 1938 set sales.

Column 10

Figures on U. S. radio families from 1922 through 1929 are compilations of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. The 1930 figure is from the U. S. Census. The figures from 1931 through 1935 are CBS Market Research Division estimates. Figures for 1936, 1937 and 1938 are compilations of the Joint Committee on Radio Research.

Column 11

Computations of the CBS Market Research Division and the Joint Committee on Radio Research.

ANALYSIS OF RADIO HOMES, RETAIL SALES, AND STATION NET SALES: 1937

The table below is a condensation of material contained in Table No. 30 of "Summary of responses by broadcast stations to Commission Order Number 38." Total U. S. families, shown in the first figure column, represent estimates for July, 1937, by the Joint Committee on Radio Research. Radio families, shown in column two, are estimated as of Jan. 1, 1938, by the Joint Committee on Radio Research.

Retail sales (figure columns three and four) were compiled by the U. S. Census of Business, 1935: Retail Distribution. Station net sales, shown in the last two figure columns, are for the year 1937 as compiled by the Federal Communications Commission. The FCC's definition of "net sales" is sales including talent from which frequency and agency discounts have been subtracted.

INCOME BY METROPOLITAN DISTRICTS: 1937

This data is a condensation of Table No. 27 of "Summary of responses by broadcast stations to Commission Order Number 38."

Stations are divided into two classes: those with net sales of $25,000 or more, and those with net sales less than $25,000. The first class of station is shown separately, and the second is simply added to the totals under "all commercial stations." Net sales means sales (including talent) from which frequency and agency discounts have been subtracted. The data pertains to the year 1937.

NBC-CBS DAY vs. EVENING REVENUE, 1931-1938

The dividing line between day and evening is here taken to be 6 P.M. Revenue from the summer months of the past three years roughly paralleled the figure for the entire year as regards day-evening. In June, July and August of 1936, day revenue was 21%; in 1937, 24%, and in 1938, 34%.

(Note: Figures on magazines are by courtesy of Publishers' Information Bureau, Inc., copyright owner of the data. Magazine revenue for 1937 and 1938 includes five national farm magazines, plus the "American Weekly" and "This Week." The latter two publications accounted for $12,276,384 in 1937 and $8,993,618 in 1938. Newspaper revenue data is by courtesy of the American Newspaper Publishers Association. It should be specifically noted that the 1938 and 1937-1936 newspaper figures are not exactly comparable. The 1937-1936 figures include all daily papers in all of the U. S. The 1938 total [computed for the ANPA by Media Records] includes only English language dailies in 760 cities of 10,000 or more population. The 1938 figure can be broken down thus: national revenue, $148,000,000; local revenue, $396,000,000).

(l) Net income from all sources for the year, after taxes.....	$62,010,215

Dividends declared (and withdrawals by partners and proprietors) during the year were reported by licensees in the amount of $22,976,676.

* Editor's note: This item includes the income of parent firms, such as manufacturers, newspapers, insurance companies, etc., when such parent firms are the direct licensees of broadcasting stations. If a parent firm holds a broadcasting license by means of an intervening subsidiary, then the revenue of the parent firm is not included in this figure.

TOTAL RADIO TIME SALES: 1938

The figures below are from FCC compilations of "net" revenue for the year 1938 ("net" meaning one-time card rates less frequency discounts). This table was prepared by the VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY and was tentatively stated to be correct by the Federal Communications Commission Accounting, Statistical, and Tariff Dept. at the time the DIRECTORY went to press. The reader should bear in mind that a certain margin of error is inevitable in re-classifying the FCC data.

The 1938 time sales, if converted into a "gross" total (i.e., one-time card rates) would probably be about $143,500,000.

* This item includes $496,858 paid to other networks and $504,737 paid to foreign and territorial stations.

† This item may include some revenue classified the previous year as "revenue retained by secondary and other networks." Since this classification was dropped in 1938, the money was accredited to individual stations and may have found its way into the national and regional spot category. Ordinarily, secondary and other networks retain about $2,000,000.

‡ The editors of the DIRECTORY believe that the FCC was perfectly justified in showing a rather large drop in local business during 1938. A considerable number of stations revised base rates downward in 1938, indicating a drop-off in local business.

¶ The editors of the DIRECTORY also believe that the FCC total time sales figure is a dead-right figure. The FCC indicates that 1938 time sales were 99.5% of 1937 total time sales. As a cross-check, it should be noted that radio receipts of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers were, in 1938, about 99.1% of 1937 receipts. These two sets of data match so perfectly that there can be little dispute as to accuracy.

See page 170 for comparable 1937 figures

TOTAL RADIO TIME SALES: 1937

In the table below all figures represent "net" revenue—that is, frequency discounts have been subtracted. Agency and broker commissions, however, are not subtracted. Commissions in the agency-broker category amounted to $16,982,920 for the year.

If these net figures were converted into a "gross"—that is, a total prior to any frequency, agency or broker discounts—they would probably be about $141,000,000

AGENCIES

COMPARATIVE AGENCY SPENDING: 1938

(With CBS, Mutual and NBC)

It should be noted that at the foot of this compilation are figures indicating the leading agencies' total spending, plus the percentage which this spending represents as against total network gross revenue. The figures for 1937 include three agencies not appearing in the 1937 column: Neisser-Myerhoff, Inc., Maxon, Inc., and Roche, Williams & Cunyngham, Inc. The figures for 1936 include four agencies not appearing in the 1936 column: Hutchins Advertising Co., Inc., Paris & Peart, Campbell-Ewald Co., and Roche, Williams & Cunyngham, Inc.

Ward Wheelock Co.—marked with an asterisk in the 1938 column—in previous years was listed as F. Wallis Armstrong Co.

825 NETWORK, NATIONAL SPOT AND REGIONAL RADIO ACCOUNTS

 Associate Editor, Variety Radio Directory

Note: These sponsors and/or accounts are a cross-index of the agency information presented in the section immediately following this list. They do not include all network, national spot and regional accounts noted on the books of the industry from June 1, 1938, to June 1, 1939, but only that portion of them placed by the agencies on whom the DIRECTORY was able to obtain information.

It should also be borne in mind that inasmuch as information was obtained on network business from both networks and agencies, a difference in the number of network stations accredited each account in various sections of this book occurs frequently. While this difference is not large, it is recognized by the editors, and herewith explained as being due to differences in time of gathering information, as well as differences in source of information.

No local accounts occur in this listing.

ADVERTISING AGENCIES

All major agencies on whose activities and accounts information was available, are included in the following list. The period covered is from June 1, 1938, to June 1, 1939.

Characteristically, the problem of terminology—an old industry problem—has faced the editors in compiling this information. The solution (or what is hoped to be such) was attempted along the lines of greatest simplicity. Thus, "spot" is here taken to mean time purchases by national and regional advertisers over individual stations (as opposed to network broadcasting). "Local" means time purchases by strictly local advertisers. Abbreviations are deemed self-explanatory, but may be checked against the key to the cross-index (foregoing section in this volume) if difficulties arise.

Again, the reader should bear in mind that the number of stations accredited network accounts is apt to vary in various sections of this book. The reason for this slight divergence is due to: 1) differences in the time of gathering information; 2) differences in sources of information; and 3) the continual changes in size of hook-ups.

ASCAP history and purpose: Founded in 1914 to protect the legal rights of its publisher and composer-author members against infringement by unlawful public performance of music for profit. ASCAP is a voluntary, unincorporated and non-profit association.

Scope: ASCAP membership includes some 1,450 authors and composers, about 130 publishing firms controlling 155 subsidiaries, plus 50,000 composers, authors, and publishers in 20 foreign nations (via affiliated societies in those nations). The complete repertoire of ASCAP music, while difficult to total at any one time, may be said to include about 2,000,000 separate compositions.

ASCAP licenses: Only "small" (i. e., strictly non-dramatic) performing rights are licensed by ASCAP. The license is issued in blanket—as distinguished from per-piece—form; hence frequency or infrequency of use has no bearing on rates charged. Radio licenses now in effect were negotiated between ASCAP and the National Association of Broadcasters on a basis which runs to Dec. 31, 1940. The license contract stipulates the following: (1) that the station pay a sustaining program fee; (2) that the station pay ASCAP 5% of its net receipts—"net" being defined as the full amount of the station's receipts from the sale of broadcast time less 15% advertising agency commission if actually paid; (3) that ASCAP will protect the station against litigation resulting from law-suits against domestic ASCAP music.* In the case of newspaper-owned stations (51% or more owned by a newspaper) the fee is a straight 5% of net receipts from time sold for programs containing ASCAP music; but the station must agree that in no event shall the total payment to ASCAP fall below a certain minimum.

Availability of music: Licensees may play any and all ASCAP compositions, except certain numbers from musical comedies and/or films which are temporarily placed on a restricted list to protect their popularity and life. To play restricted numbers requires a "special permission," but no charge is made if such permission is granted.

Division of ASCAP royalties: ASCAP's annual gross receipts are disbursed as follows:

Total gross receipts.....	100%
Deduct for operating expenses.....	21%*
Deduct for foreign affiliates.....	10%
Net distributable royalties.....	69%

Of the net distributable royalties 50% (or 34.5% of the total net receipts) goes to publishers, and 50% (or the other 34.5% of net receipts) goes to composers-authors. The composers-authors have a committee which apportions the money among nine classes (AA down to D) and also awards four quarterly bonuses of $12,500 each to young writers in the lower brackets as encouragement money attached to the best songs.

Publishers divide their money 20% on a seniority basis, 30% according to value of catalogue, and 50% according to number of performances accredited compositions published under each respective aegis. Provisions are made in all instances for protests or disagreements over payments.

ASCAP headquarters: The main office is located at 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City. The phone is COlumbus 5-7464.

ASCAP officers: Gene Buck, president; Louis Bernstein and Otto A. Harbach, vice-presidents; George W. Meyer, secretary; Gustave Schirmer, treasurer; J. J. Bregman, assistant secretary; Irving Caesar, assistant treasurer; E. C. Mills, chairman administrative committee; John G. Paine, general manager; Schwartz & Frohlich, general counsel.

ASCAP board of directors: Fred E. Ahlert, Louis Bernstein, Saul Bornstein, J. J. Bregman, Gene Buck, Irving Caesar, Max Dreyfus, George Fischer, Walter Fischer, Otto A. Harbach, Raymond Hubbell, Jerome Kern, Edgar Leslie, George W. Meyer, Jack Mills, Herman Starr, John O'Connor, J. J. Robbins, Gustave Schirmer, Oley Speaks, Deems Taylor, Will Von Tilzer, Oscar Hammerstein II.

ASSOCIATED MUSIC PUBLISHERS, INC. (AMP)

Founding of AMP: Associated Music Publishers was founded as a private corporation in the State of New York on Dec. 22, 1926. Radio licenses have been issued since August, 1928. The corporation conducts a wholesale and retail music business, including the rental of music, and is engaged in the manufacture of electrical transcriptions for library service and commercial purposes.

Scope: AMP is composed of 18 U. S. and European music houses, controlling additionally some 15 subsidiaries or subdivisions. Virtually all of these houses have assigned to the AMP their U. S. copyrights. The AMP catalogue contains over 500,000 entries of which approximately 15,000 are copyrights.

AMP licenses: These licenses cover performing and mechanical rights, "small" (i. e. strictly musical) and "grand" (i. e., musical-dramatic). AMP's radio license is unique in that it is the only radio license which covers "small" and "grand" rights simultaneously under a single fee. The radio license stipulates that: (1) the annual fee shall be equal to the sum of a station's 12 one-time quarter-hour rate charges; (2) that AMP will sell the licensee any music which is for sale, and rent such music as is not for sale; (3) that AMP will not institute a suit against the licensee for infringements of its performing rights prior to the granting of the license; (4) that both "small" and "grand" rights are fully covered.

AMP headquarters: Located at 25 W. 45th Street, New York City. The phone is Bryant 9-0847.

AMP officers: Waddill Catchings, chairman of the board; M. E. Tompkins, president; Anna M. Kerner, secretary and treasurer.

MUSIC PUBLISHERS' PROTECTIVE ASSN. (MPPA)

History: The MPPA came into existence as an unincorporated voluntary association in April, 1917, to correct certain existing evils in the music publishing industry and encourage music and music writing. The Association in subsequent years brought about agreements to discontinue payments to actors for singing songs, established facilities for the registration of titles, provided regulations for mechanical recording (and later for sound pictures), installed a credit and collection bureau, inveighed against piracies and the unlawful manufacture and sale of song sheets, supported favorable copyright legislation, and at times acted on behalf of its members in the settlement of claims against licensees. In 1935 the MPPA was reorganized and incorporated, but its aims and functions have remained virtually the same as prior to reorganization.

The MPPA actively entered the field of licensing mechanical rights in 1927 when an agreement was negotiated with Electrical Research Products, Inc. (ERPI), a Western Electric subsidiary, to cover reproduction of copyrighted musical compositions by devices serving to synchronize the same with the presentation of motion pictures.

In 1933 the MPPA through an agent and trustee took another step in the same direction by becoming the central licensing bureau for its members with reference to electrical transcriptions for radio broadcasting.

During the past year (1938), the MPPA has extended its activity in the mechanical field by acting as a central agency for the licensing of phonograph recording rights for 78 publishers. Phonograph licensing operations (previously conducted separately by the publishers) are effected through an agent and trustee connected with the MPPA.

Scope: Music available for radio transcription purposes comes from a reservoir to which 62 MPPA members among several other publishers contribute.*

MPPA transcription licenses: These licenses concern "small" (strictly musical) rights only. The scale of fees is as follows: sponsored transcriptions are billed at 25c per popular composition per broadcast, and if the composition is derived from a film or theatrical production, the fee is 50c; in this respect, each broadcast is considered a separate manufacture. Sustaining transcriptions are billed at $15 per composition per year.

MPPA headquarters: Located at 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City. The phone is Circle 6-3084.

MPPA officers: Walter G. Douglas, chairman of the board; E. H. Morris, president; Lester Santly, vice-president; Max Dreyfus, treasurer; Jack Mills, secretary; Harry Fox, general manager.

* Note: MPPA membership includes only publishers. Composers and authors as such are not eligible to membership.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF PERFORMING ARTISTS (NAPA)

NAPA history and purpose: Founded in 1934 by Fred Waring, Meyer Davis, Paul Whiteman, Frank Crumit, Don Voorhees, Lewis James, Guy Lombardo, Walter O'Keefe, Josef Pasternack and Fritz

Reiner. The purpose of the society is described as "handling and protecting the artistic interpretations of its members." In short, the NAPA contends (and has been legally upheld in Pennsylvania)* that an

* The Pennsylvania Supreme Court, in a suit against radio station WDAS instigated by Fred Waring after WDAS had played some of his phonograph recordings, held that the interpretive artist has an enforceable property right in his artistic interpretation of the work of a composer; and that the playing of phonograph records against the wishes of the artist constitutes unfair competition as well as an invasion of the right of privacy. (For a discussion of this litigation, see VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY, Vol. II, pages 554-564.) Meanwhile a similar suit instituted by Paul Whiteman against radio station WNEW in the New York Federal Court was dropped by Whiteman, although the RCA Victor firm pressed for adjudication of the issue.

On another legal front, the NAPA has backed the so-called "Perry bill" in the New York State Legislature, the gist of the bill being that it is a statutory offense (larceny) to record a broadcast off-the-air without permission of the artist.

artist has a property right in the interpretation he places on an artistic composition—and particularly in an interpretation mechanically recorded so that it may be re-used or re-played as performance for profit. Eligible for membership in the NAPA are: (1) any actor, singer, conductor, leader, instrumentalist, lecturer, and any other interpretive artist or performer; (2) any orchestra which has a "legal" or "equitable" right in mechanical reproductions; (3) "any firm, person or corporation which has rendered to the art or industry of music, or to this Association, a notable or conspicuous service." The NAPA is a non-profit group.

NAPA radio license: There is no general form of contract.

NAPA headquarters: The main office is located at 630 Fifth Avenue, New York City. The phone is Circle 7-8194.

NAPA officers: Fred Waring, president; Meyer Davis, Al Jolson and Paul Whiteman, vice-presidents; Josef Hofmann, honorary president; Frank Crumit, secretary; Don Voorhees, treasurer, Maurice J. Speiser, general counsel. The recording secretary is Wally H. Rose.

G. RICORDI & CO. (MILAN)

History: G. Ricordi & Co. of Milan (not to be confused with G. Ricordi & Co., Inc., of New York) was established in Italy in 1808 as a music publishing house. Until 1933 its reservoir of compositions was available through ASCAP, but in that year Ricordi withdrew from the Societa Italiana Degli Autori Ed Editori (an ASCAP affiliate), and began to do its own licensing.

Scope: Ricordi's catalogue contains about 130,000 compositions. Some 500 of these are operas, while hundreds of others are symphonies.

Ricordi licenses: These licenses separately cover not only "small" (i.e., strictly musical), but also "grand" (i.e., musical-dramatic) rights. Ricordi further provides licenses for mechanical and synchronization rights. The contract issued to radio stations states that: (1) payment for use of the music shall be in a pre-arranged lump sum; (2) the license shall cover only "small" rights, and shall not extend to symphonic works, operas, operettas, plays, revues, ballets, or arias and songs performed with full orchestra accompaniment.* "Grand" rights licenses may be obtained on payment of a special fee.

Ricordi headquarters: The U. S. headquarters are located at 12 West 45th Street, New York City. The phone is Murray Hill 2-0300.

Ricordi officers: Dr. Renato Tasselli is managing director in the U. S.

* Ricordi and SESAC are the only licensing societies whose radio licenses expressly state that television rights are not included.

SOCIETY OF EUROPEAN STAGE AUTHORS AND COMPOSERS, INC. (SESAC)

Date of founding: SESAC, a private corporation, was founded in 1930.

Scope: The SESAC reservoir is comprised of approximately 125 separate catalogues of American and foreign publishers and organizations. Radio station licensees thus have available some 35,000 compositions including operettas, symphonic works, plays, dramas, and radio sketches.

SESAC licenses: These licenses separately cover "small" (strictly musical) rights, "grand" (musical-dramatic) rights, and recording rights. The regular license in effect between SESAC and radio stations provides that: (1) the station pay a scheduled blanket license fee for use of SESAC's catalogue; (2) all SESAC musical compositions must be announced by title and composer, and, if taken from a musical production or sound film, the name of the production or film be mentioned; (3) that SESAC may from time to time place certain compositions on a restricted list, but that the list cannot at any time exceed 10% of the total SESAC reservoir; (4) that the license extends only to "small" rights, "grand" rights requiring a special license and separate fees*.

The license for recording electrical transcriptions states that: (1) only "small" rights are covered in the contract; (2) that the transcription manufacturer pay $15 per year per SESAC composition; (3) that the transcriptions containing SESAC compositions may be broadcast only on sustaining or local commercial programs, and that they may be so performed for one year following issuance of the license, with a longer period requiring a special extension of license; (4) that the contract does not permit the existence of any artistic or interpretive rights arising from the participation of any party in the recorded rendition.*

There is a special license for "custom built" transcriptions with this distinguishing clause: that the transcription manufacturer pay 25c per quarter per SESAC composition for each station broadcasting the transcription.

Division of SESAC royalties: The annual intake is divided via a system based on five major points: (1) number of performances; (2) availability; (3) current activity; (4) seniority; and (5) diversity.

SESAC headquarters: Executive headquarters are at 113 West 42nd Street, New York City. The phone is Bryant 9-3223. SESAC also has traveling representatives visiting stations, and a program service department to assist stations in copyright clearance, etc.

SESAC officers: President of the corporation is Paul Heinecke.

* SESAC's license is the only one containing this express precaution.

THE SOCIETY OF JEWISH COMPOSERS, PUBLISHERS AND SONG WRITERS

Date of founding: The Jewish Society was founded on February 5, 1932.

Scope: The Jewish Society's reservoir includes approximately 2,500 separate compositions which are the property of its 23 member writers and publishers.

Jewish Society license: This license covers only "small" (strictly musical) rights. It stipulates that: (1) access to the Society's reservoir may be had on payment of an annual pre-arranged sum; (2) that "grand rights" are not included.

Jewish Society's headquarters: Located at 152 West 42nd Street, New York City.

Jewish Society officers: Sholom Secunda, president; Cantor Pincus Jassinowsky, vice-president; Henry Lefkowitz, secretary; Alexander Olshanetsky, treasurer; Salom J. Pearlmuter, general manager; A. Edward Moskowitz, counsel.

POPULAR SONGS: 1929-1938

This list is intended to be a miniature "cavalcade" of popular music for the past decade. In reading it, however, the following allowances should be kept in mind:

1. The years under which certain songs are listed are not necessarily the years of copyright. In such instances, however, copyright years are also noted. The criterion for assigning songs to years was the peak of popularity, song by song. This procedure necessarily involved a certain amount of judgment. However, as many checks as possible with members of the music publishing industry were made.

2. While sheet music sales are the general standard on which the list is based, several other considerations have been kept in mind: (a) the song should have some remembrance at the present day; (b) if a song heralded a change in musical style, or in any other way set a new standard professionally for the industry, that fact was given due weight; and (c) a few purely instrumental numbers are included, but they are plainly marked to stand off in a list intended primarily as a song list.

3. Some songs are classified by year only with great difficulty due to steady sales, continual use as theme or background melodies, etc.

Attention is hereby also called to the popular "Song Cavalcade, 1907-1937" which appeared in the VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY, Vol. I, pages 101-106, and the "Musical-Historical Cavalcade: 1800-1935" which appeared in Vol. II, pages 33-158.

Note: The Federal Theatre Radio Division is a project of the Works Progress Administration under the Federal Theatre Project. During the past three years the FTRD has prepared and broadcast a large number of adaptations, plus material specifically written for radio. Adaptations listed below cover the interval between May 1, 1938, and May 1, 1939.

Headquarters of the FTRD are at 1697 Broadway, New York City (phone COLUMbus 5-5364). Evan Roberts is managing director.

Educational bodies and similar groups may obtain FTRD materials on a loan without payment of any kind. For recordings of FTRD productions, Evan Roberts should be consulted. For scripts, queries should be directed to Samuel Gold, manager of the script service. For general information, contact Ivan Black, manager of the department of information. (Note: The FTRD issues catalogues of its works, including plays, etc., still in copyright and thus bearing a royalty).

PROGRAM TITLES

25,000 NAMES OF PROGRAM SERIES

Including 12,000 Titles on Record
Prior to May, 1937;

8,000 New Titles Added Since
May, 1937;

And

5,000 New Titles Added Since
May, 1938

By "program titles" are meant the designations via which program series are, or were, known (as distinct from individual "single-shot" programs). And in presenting them, the object is two-fold:

(1) To create a reference list which may aid in avoiding over-frequent duplication—and hence, confusion—in program titles. And (2) to give an index of program types, insofar as types can be identified from program names alone.

Symbols in parentheses following the actual titles represent the user, or users, of that title at some time or other. This use may have been sustaining, or it may have been commercial.

Ordinarily it is assumed that the symbols are station call letters. In the following instances, however, special symbols are employed:

CBS: Columbia Broadcasting System. IBS: Iowa Broadcasting System. MacG: C. P. MacGregor (transcriptions). MWR: Mid-West Recordings, Inc. NBC: National Broadcasting Co. NCBS: Northern California Broadcasting System. RRI: Radio Recorders, Inc. SR: Standard Radio. TH: NBC Thesaurus. TPC: Titan Production Co., Inc. UP: United Press. JVG: Jean V. Grombach. NYBS: New York Broadcasting System. WBS: World Broadcasting System. FTRD: Federal Theatre Radio Division. CRS: California Radio System.

In using this list, the following caution should be kept in mind as regards indexing: when a program title begins with the name of a radio artist, it is filed under that artist's first name (not last name). Thus "Andy & Virginia Mansfield," to cite an example, is filed under "A" and not under "M." This departure from ordinary indexing methods was observed here due to the familiarity—and importance—of artists' given names.

Program titles marked with an asterisk (*) were culled from the review files of VARIETY, and were not sent in by stations, networks, or transcription companies. Such titles are noted here for the record, but the VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY takes no responsibility for their ownership.

CHECKING PROGRAM TITLES

The legal status of program titles has been defined thus by Francis Gilbert (VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY, Vol. I, page 306): "Names or titles used in connection with these programs are of the same general nature as the titles to theatrical, motion picture or other forms of entertainment, and as trade marks or trade names used in connection with merchandise."

In checking new program titles, the foregoing title lists should be consulted first of all. Thereafter the titles should be checked against lists of: 1) motion picture titles; 2) plays and dramatic works; 3) books; and 4) short stories. This is the minimum number of checks which should be made in all cases. Motion picture and similar title lists are available in most public libraries.

Radio stations, transcription producers, and program builders are invited to send any new program titles to the VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY as soon as they are created, in order that further duplication may be avoided.

SHOWMANSHIP AWARDS

Special Citations, Survey Supplement, Made Under 12 Different Categories

Special citations are made annually by Varsity under the general classifications listed below. Changing realities of the broadcasting industry may from time to time warrant modifications, omissions or additions to these categories but it is felt that the groups are basic and logical sub-divisions under which showmanship activities may readily be assigned.

Citations are made under 12 general heads. Order of listing of these designations does not suggest any relative importance at between one type of citation and another. Citations given are as follows:

1. Program Originating Station.
2. Frontline Station.
3. News and Current and Managerial Station.
4. Farm Service Station.
5. Newspaper-Owned Station.
6. Part-Time Station.
7. Foreign Language Station.
8. Sports Station.
9. Social Service Station.
10. Nationally Exploited Station.
11. Community Exploited Station.
12. Canadian Station.

SURVEY CROSS-CHECKED THROUGH TIME-BUYERS

Showmanship is largely a matter of good judgment, and presupposes a flair among its practitioners. So does a good motion picture, a good advertising campaign, or a good book. By the same token Varsity must necessarily undertake a certain arbitrary element of choice in its showmanship surveys and awards. However, Varsity has not relied upon its own judgment and judgment alone, but has drawn upon the intimate knowledge of local radio stations possessed by various persons within leading advertising agencies and upon spot broadcasting experts.

These experts cannot, for obvious reasons, be named. Their courtesy to Varsity can only be acknowledged anonymously, though sincerely.

Additionally, it has been the habit of Varsity to permit stations to submit as evidence a detailed annual statement covering all pertinent aspects of their community showmanship. In a majority of the stations do not fail to take advantage of this privilege.

Under this questionnaire stations are asked to define, first, their general policy and objectives; secondly, their local program creation; thirdly, their community group (ies); fourthly, their publicity showmanship; fifthly, what is called prestige showmanship; finally, activities characteristic of topical alertness.

Realization of the role played by showmanship in broadcast advertising has perhaps been nicely summed up on the question "What is the circulation of a full program on a 10,000-watt station? People listen to programs and to signals."

Statistics

Statistics are a valued source of information in radio. But they are judged by the statistics that gathered the data and by the faith of the trade in its credibility. Coverage maps have been frequently criticized.

Adult—referring to the missing element not quantitatively demonstrable—showmanship.

ECCENTRICITY IS DISCOUNTED

Showmanship in its best sense is to be synonymous with prestige. Varsity's annual survey and these to attempt special recognition without disregard anything that might be considered irresponsible publicity-seeking.

Showmanship is a calculated aspect of smart station management. It has nothing to do with eccentric exhibitions or exaggerated and impractical ideas.

RECOGNITION IN SPECIAL GROUPS

DATA

Each year for some time Varsity has published a survey of community showmanship by radio stations. To this has been added, complementally to the survey, a series of special citations to individual stations.

Granting of awards has not been practical in the showmanship survey itself because of the large number of ties for first place. Instead, it has seemed useful and desirable to attempt special recognition within certain specified groups of outstanding examples each year of station showmanship. Such awards are largely based on data extracted from the showmanship survey, but do not necessarily coincide with the exact terms or limitations of the community rankings.

Showmanship's Meaning and Relation To the Problems of Station Operation

Signal Strength

Signal strength or wattage naturally is of importance to both stations and sponsors but is disregarded by Varsity as a factor in showmanship enterprise in the meaning of the annual analysis.

Every station is separately considered on its activities—not its power.

Showmanship, seemingly vague and ill-inclusive as a mere term, in actuality is the day-to-day effort of the local station to create a multiplicity of interesting interest with community thought and action within the meaning of public interest, convenience and success as laid down by the Federal Communications Commission.

The growing number of advertisers who are prepared to sponsor local programs or to deal with individual markets on a basis of the idiosyncrasies and characteristics of stations and communities creates a sponsor interest in the showmanship phase of station operation.

Reduced to an ultimate realistic basis, showmanship is a competitive lever which a station—regardless of size or facilities—fights for audience and, of course, business. No invidious distinction in this lever is found in standard coverage surveys or rate cards, and this all the more emphasizes the need of a showmanship survey.

ALL STATIONS ARE ELIGIBLE

All commercial radio stations in the United States and Canada are eligible to receive Special citations. This is to say Varsity will not narrow the field of its possible selections to the natural limitations of the showmanship survey proper.

Where exceptional performance is noted on the part of stations without immediate competition and therefore not included in the annual analysis there will be due consideration given.

AFFIRMATIVE REPLY TO 'ARE WE IN SHOW BIZ?'

Showmanship is not the whole problem nor a universal panacea in broadcast management. But the question are we in show business? is now more generally answered in the affirmative by those who once found the suggestion repugnant. Emotional values was once attacked by competitive media and sheepishly depreciated by radio itself. This has been reversed. Emotional values are now acknowledged to be that which makes radio important.

It becomes therefore primarily a question of how to understand, discipline and manipulate showmanship.

Advertising agencies have steadily indicated their interest in Varsity's showmanship survey and their encouragement has been a prime reason for continuing and constantly expanding the service. Varsity remains only to evaluate and compare along showmanship lines and in so doing tries to eliminate purely mechanical and physical factors that may have a direct and important bearing on station operation and prosperity, but may have little relation to showmanship.

Each individual station faces a problem more or less unique to itself. Yet all radio stations, from the smallest to the largest, tend to follow broad principles which have been verified as sound and useful. Naturally showmanship is judged in radio, economic and social factors. Show business proper functions on a variety of levels. So, too, with the broadcast broadcasting stations. Variations adapted to needs and facilities are possible to use a single idea of times at all levels. Showmanship is the measure of fitness in the adaptation.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL POLL OF RADIO FAVORITES. Conducted by the Ladies' Home Journal and announced in the February, 1939, issue, this survey is based on personal interviews with women by 600 field workers throughout the country. Distribution of interviews considered factors of age, marital and economic status, religion, geographic division and size of community. Winners, ranked according to popularity, with percentage of votes received:

1. Chase & Sanborn Hour (Charlie McCarthy)	12%
2-3. Major Bowes and Jack Benny...	7%
4-5. One Man's Family and symphonic music.....	6%
6-7. News broadcasts and Kraft Music Hall.....	5%
8-9. Lux Radio Theatre and Lucky Strike Hit Parade.....	3%
10. Rudy Vallee.....	2%
11. All others.....	44%

In conjunction with this survey, the Ladies' Home Journal published a survey on "What the Women of America Think of Entertainment." As regards radio, 60% of those Ladies' Home Journal readers surveyed (radio owners only) thought that too much time was given to radio advertising; the same percentage figure also applied to non-readers who were asked the same question. To the question "Does (the advertising) annoy or irritate you?" 56% of the readers, and 50% of the non-readers, said it did. However, only 33% of both readers and non-readers preferred that there be no advertising at all via radio. Regarding children's programs, 68% readers and 62% non-readers thought they were too exciting.

NETWORK COMMERCIAL PROGRAM TYPES: SEASONS OF '37-'38 AND '38-'39

(This material may not be reproduced without permission)

There has ever been much disagreement within the broadcasting industry—and particularly among the three major networks—as to what constitutes a program “type,” or by what method to compute a “type” quantitatively. Hence all network figures on program types are fashioned by different methods and cannot be added together, or handled in any statistical manner.

In the following pages (448-451) the VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY presents, in chart form, a two-season comparison of commercial program types, figured by special methods and procedures.

Program “Types”

For one thing, in making “types” or categories, the showman’s viewpoint was employed. That is, programs were classified according to their predominant content and not according to the individual pieces that went into their make-up. To illustrate: the Royal Desserts Program (Rudy Vallee) is classified as variety, which is the most suitable designation from a showman’s standpoint.

The “Station Hour”

For a second thing, it should be noted that programs are quantitatively computed by “station hours” and not by simple addition. This method was used to balance out factors which in ordinary arithmetic cannot be included. To illustrate:

Supposing that “variety” comprises 10 programs, each 30 minutes per program, and each broadcast on 25 stations. Supposing, also, that “drama” comprises 15 programs, each 30 minutes per program, but each broadcast only on 3 stations. It is obvious that by arithmetical addition “drama” would be considered the predominant program type; but it is equally obvious that such a calculation would be completely awry. For variety would be available to listeners on 250 stations, whereas drama would be available on only 45 stations.

Thus the DIRECTORY has adopted the “station hour” yardstick. A “station hour” is one hour over one station one time. If a certain program is broadcast via 100 stations and consumes 30 minutes (half-hour) per week, it is counted as 50 station hours. Or if a program is broadcast five times per week on 25 stations, each broadcast consuming 15 minutes (quarter-hour), it would be counted as 31.25 station hours per week.

In reading “station hour” totals, however, the following should be borne in mind: (1) since the number of stations allotted to each program is apt to vary, the highest number used during a series is the basis for the calculation; and (2) the station hour total is cumulative for a season. In short, the figures do not fit any one week of the season. They represent cumulative additions from the start of the season to its end, and include all programs found on the NBC, CBS, and Mutual books.

Revisions of Data

It should also be noted that a new category—“single act”—has been added this year. This category takes care of one-person variety entertainment, and makes room for those entertainers who single-handedly announce, sing, jgke, etc.

The figures for June 1, 1937, to May 1, 1938, have been slightly revised since they appeared in VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY, Vol. II, pages 316-319. In the main, the revisions are of slight consequence in any, except a statistical, manner.

During the season from June 1, 1938, to June 1, 1939, eight programs (all very small) could not be classified for lack of sufficient information concerning content or number of stations per hookup.

COMMERCIAL NETWORK PROGRAMS: SEASON OF 1938-1939

All programs included in this listing were broadcast at some time between June 1, 1938, and June 1, 1939. Data pertains solely to that interval. It has been checked with networks and agencies.

Completeness is the aim of this presentation. Deviations occur only where adequate checks with networks or agencies were lacking; or possibly where changes in cast, etc., were of such short duration that no record was made of them.

In reading this listing, the following should be kept in mind:

1. All time is Eastern Time unless otherwise noted.
2. In the cross-references, all proper names are filed by LAST NAMES.
3. The commercial programs of the NBC Red and Blue, Columbia, and Mutual Networks are included. No regional network programs are listed, unless they are found on the books and account sheets of the three major chains.

UNIONS

DEVELOPMENTS OF 1938-1939

What happened in vaudeville in 1900-1901 and in the legitimate theatre in 1919 happened to radio in January-February, 1939—i. e., the actors forged their union into sufficient strength to win a victory. The counterpart of the White Rats of 1901 and Actors Equity of 1919 was in this instance the American Federation of Radio Artists (AFRA). The code resulting from the January-February negotiations with agencies and networks is reproduced in the following pages.

Evolution of AFRA

The AFRA is chartered by the Associated Actors and Artistes of America, an international union which in turn is chartered by the American Federation of Labor. The AFRA's president is Eddie Cantor. Other officers are: Lawrence Tibbett, Norman Field, Jascha Heifetz and James Wallington, vice-presidents; Lucille Wall, recording secretary; Emily Holt, executive secretary; George Heller, associate secretary and treasurer; Paul N. Turner, counsel; Henry Jaffe and Laurence W. Beilenson, associate counsels.

AFRA has been in existence barely two years. In the summer of 1938 AFRA gained its first major impetus when the networks accepted AFRA agreements on sustaining pay scales, and recognized AFRA as sole bargaining agent for sustaining actors, singers, etc.

In the fall of 1938, the AFRA proceeded toward making similar agreements for network commercial work, and this drive was climaxed by victory early in 1939. Unlike the unionization maneuvers in vaudeville and the legitimate theatre, however, the AFRA drive was unaccompanied by a strike or interruption of radio schedules.

One previous union operating in radio is now all but telescoped as a result of the AFRA victory. That union is the American Guild of Radio Announcers and Producers. It was formed in April, 1937, and had contracts with several stations, principally WABC, New York, key station for the Columbia Broadcasting System. Since the AFRA victory, the AGRAP's role in commercial programs was taken over by AFRA and it now functions only as regards sustaining programs.

Other Unions in Radio

Aside from AFRA and AGRAP, a number of other unions are operative in the field of radio. These include: American Federation of Musicians whose last great drive for employment of union musicians came in September, 1937, and resulted in an agreement satisfactory to the A.F. of M. (see VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY, Vol. II, pages 1170-1181); the Radio Writers' Guild (complete radio policies and mode of action not yet formulated); International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees Union; American Guild of Musical Artists (which in November, 1939, charged before the FCC that NBC and CBS have a "monopolistic control" of the concert management business); International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (panelmen); American Communications Association (technicians); plus numerous local unions (chiefly for technicians and engineering personnel).

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF RADIO ARTISTS
CODE OF FAIR PRACTICE
for COMMERCIAL BROADCASTING MINIMUM
TERMS AND CONDITIONS
for RADIO ARTISTS*

We, the undersigned, on this..... day of.....1939, agree with the American Federation of Radio Artists that we will accept and conform to the Code of Fair Practice and the minimum terms and conditions promulgated by them for the engagement of radio artists on commercial broadcast programs produced under our auspices on the network systems and their several stations. We hereby accept notice of the minimum terms and conditions as specified in the schedules annexed to this Code, which schedules (pages 2 to 6, both inclusive) are included herein and are hereby made a part of this Code.

The American Federation of Radio Artists (herein called AFRA) agrees and represents that it is and will continue to be an open union. AFRA agrees that it will keep its membership rolls open and will admit to membership all eligible radio artists whom we engage to appear on such commercial broadcasts. We agree that on all present and future commercial broadcasts produced by us, or under our auspices, we will use the services only of performers, including actors, singers and announcers, who are members in good standing of AFRA or become such members prior to their appearance on such broadcasts. AFRA agrees not to impose unreasonable entrance fees or dues upon its members.

It is mutually agreed that it is a part of this Code of Fair Practice that the engagement of radio performers for all such present and future commercial broadcasts can be made only under the minimum terms and conditions provided herein or better.

We agree that we will not, for the purpose of evading performance under this Code, sublet or transfer responsibility for commercial network programs produced by us to any third person, and that we will not transfer our operations to any other points of origination for the purpose of defeating or evading this Code.

This agreement is in effect beginning with February 12, 1939, until and including February 12, 1941.

We agree with the American Federation of Radio Artists for this period to submit to arbitration all questions relating to wages and working conditions affecting live commercial broadcasts not covered by this agreement and Code, as well as any controversy or dispute between AFRA and ourselves arising with respect to this Code or the interpretation or breach thereof.

Such arbitration shall be conducted under the rules then obtaining, of the American Arbitration Association, with the following specific provisions:

Either party may demand such arbitration in writing, which demand shall include the name of the arbitrator appointed by it. Within three days after such demand, the other party shall name its arbitrator, or in default of such appointment, such arbitrator shall be named forthwith by the Arbitration Committee of the American Arbitration Association. The two arbitrators so appointed shall select a third within a period of five days, from a panel submitted to them by the Arbitration Committee of the American Arbitration Association, and in lieu of their agreement upon such third arbitrator, he shall be appointed by the Arbitration Committee of the American Arbitration Association. The hearing shall be held on two days' notice and shall be concluded within fourteen days unless otherwise ordered by the arbitrators. The award of the arbitrators shall be made within seven days after the close of the submission of evidence. An award agreed to by a majority of the arbitrators so appointed shall be binding upon both parties, during the period of this agreement, and judgment upon such award may be entered by either party in the Highest Court of the Forum, State or Federal, having jurisdiction.

* See also AFRA's "Letter to CBS and NBC" on pages 536 ff.

This agreement and Code of Fair Practice shall be construed by the laws of the State of New York.

In Witness whereof, we have signed this agreement and Code of Fair Practice on the day and year above stated.

SCHEDULE OF MINIMUM FEES AND CONDITIONS FOR RADIO ARTISTS APPEARING ON COMMERCIAL PROGRAMS USING THE FACILITIES OF THE NATIONAL BROADCASTING COMPANY, THE COLUMBIA AND MUTUAL BROADCASTING SYSTEMS AND THEIR SEVERAL STATIONS

ACTORS

Length of program	Re-broadcast
	Fee	Fee
15 minutes or less	$15.00	$10.00
16 to 30 minutes	25.00	12.50
31 to 60 minutes	35.00	17.50

Rehearsal: $6.00 per hour, first hour required; after first hour, rehearsal may be computed and paid in half-hour periods at the rate of $3.00 per half hour or part thereof. Rehearsal for programs in excess of 15 minutes, may be held in two sessions, each session to be computed and paid for as a separate unit and no such session shall be computed as less than one hour. Individual compensation shall be on the basis of time contracted for, but additional rehearsal time may be requested and if agreed to, paid for.

In the event that an actor is engaged and paid for five 15-minute programs per week, then and only in that event the rehearsal time shall be computed at $5.00 per hour, the first hour being required, and thereafter rehearsals may be computed and paid in half-hour periods at the rate of $2.50 per half hour or part thereof.

THIRTEEN WEEKS' CONTINUOUS GUARANTEE

(a) Where a producer on a fifteen minute dramatic strip show by written contract with the actor guarantees a thirteen weeks' continuous non-cancellable engagement on such show, the producer may discount the actor's scales to the extent shown in the following schedule if the producer guarantees the actor the minimum amounts shown in the schedule, no matter whether he plays or rehearses or not. Base rate on rehearsals where such discount is effective is six dollars per hour. The schedule follows:

SINGLE BROADCAST PER DAY
Number of Appearances per Week	Discount	Guaranteed Minimum
5	15%	$105
4	10%	100

BROADCAST AND REPEAT

Number of Appearances per Week	Discount	Guaranteed Minimum
4	10%	125

ADVANCE RECORDING PLUS LIVE NETWORK BROADCAST

(Each appearance means one for recording and one for live)

Number of Appearances per Week	Discount	Guaranteed Minimum
5	15%	$160
3	5%	115

The compensation which shall be paid to the performer under a thirteen weeks' continuous guarantee contract as above specified, shall be the applicable fees plus rehearsal pay, less the discount above set forth, or the guaranteed minimum, whichever is higher.

(b) On written guaranteed continuous thirteen weeks' non-cancellable engagement of actors for half-hour and hour shows, a discount from scale of ten per cent. of the basic scale is allowed.

(c) On half-hour shows after four hours' rehearsal per appearance, rehearsal rate drops to three dollars an hour beginning with the fifth hour of rehearsal, and on hour shows, the same is true after six hours, beginning with the seventh hour of rehearsal.

Program Auditions: Shall be paid for at one-half the broadcast fee. Rehearsal time for auditions at the same rate as specified for regular broadcasts.

This compensation is for program auditions; voice tests may be made without compensation, but the producer shall not use this privilege unreasonably.

Recordings: Off-the-line recordings may be made and used only by the original sponsor or his affiliated companies. They must be used without extra fees to the performer under the following conditions:

(a) Providing that such recordings are not broadcast on any major station in the city of origination; or broadcast to a network from the city of origination; or broadcast to any network providing national facilities; and providing further that such recordings are used once only for the original sponsor and are not broadcast on any major station affiliated with the National Broadcasting Company, Inc., the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., or the Mutual Broadcasting System, Inc., in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Hollywood or Los Angeles. Further providing, however, that this latter restriction shall not apply if recordings are made by network stations for later broadcasts only on that station because of unavailability of facilities at time of live broadcast, and such operations are billed to the sponsor as a network operation without recording charges;

If off-the-line recordings are made and broadcast, except under the provisions outlined above, the performer shall be paid not less than the re-broadcast fee for such recording broadcast, unless he has already been paid a fee for a live re-broadcast.

(b) Providing that such recordings are not broadcast later than..... months after the discontinuance of the program on a live basis;

(c) Where a record is made either prior to or subsequent to a live broadcast or re-broadcast, and an extra performance is thereby required, the actor should be paid under the advance recording date and rehearsal time as specified heretofore in this scale.

Dramatized Commercials: Where the actor is engaged for a dramatized commercial, the following minimum scale shall apply:

Length of program	Fee	Re-broadcast fee
15 minutes or less	$15	$ 7.50
16 to 30 minutes	20	10.00
31 to 60 minutes	25	12.50

A fifteen-minute rehearsal period prior to the dress rehearsal may be included in the foregoing scale.

46 to 60 minutes	36	14

Rehearsal: Orchestra rehearsal $4.00 per hour, first hour required; after first hour, rehearsal may be computed and paid for in quarter-hour periods at the rate of $1.00 per quarter hour or part thereof.

GROUPS OF 2 TO 4 VOICES INCLUSIVE

Length of program	Fee	Re-broadcast fee
15 minutes or less	$30	$10
16 to 30 minutes	35	12
31 to 45 minutes	40	14
46 to 60 minutes	45	16

Rehearsal: Orchestra rehearsal $5.00 per hour, first hour required; after first hour, rehearsal may be computed and paid for in quarter-hour periods at the rate of $1.25 per quarter hour or part thereof.

CLASS 4—SOLOISTS

Length of program	Fee	Re-broadcast fee
15 minutes or less	$40	$15.00
16 to 30 minutes	50	17.50
31 to 45 minutes	60	20.00
46 to 60 minutes	70	22.50

Rehearsal: Orchestra rehearsal $6.00 per hour, first hour required; after first hour, rehearsal may be computed and paid for in quarter-hour periods at the rate of $1.50 per quarter hour or part thereof.

Program Auditions: Shall be paid for at one-half the broadcast fee and one-half the broadcast rehearsal fee for all time required. Individual voice tests may be had without compensation.

Special Minimum Working Conditions for Singers: Any performance must begin within twenty-four hours of the original to be considered a re-broadcast, otherwise, first performance fee prevails.

No rehearsal shall be considered as less than one hour in duration except such rehearsal as is called immediately before or after performance. However, a singer may be required to stand by fifteen (15) minutes before a performance without payment of rehearsal fee.

Orchestra rehearsal may not be divided into more than two sections.

There must be a rest period of five minutes each hour in rehearsals of more than one hour in duration.

Any member who auditions for a program, as a member of a group, shall, in the event that said group is accepted for the program, be considered to be a member of said group and may not be discharged without AFRA's consent as long as group remains on said program or for a period of thirteen (13) weeks, whichever is less.

Coaching rehearsal is the designation applied to any rehearsal session other than rehearsal with orchestra or other acts in which material is prepared for a specific broadcast or audition.

On written guaranteed continuous thirteen weeks' non-cancellable engagements of singers for 15-minute, half-hour and hour shows, a discount from scale of ten per cent. of the basic scale is allowed.

Signature numbers shall be at the rate of $15.00 for the broadcast and $7.50 for the re-broadcast, with dress rehearsal included. Exceptional situations, such as traveling on the road, will be met by waivers under paragraph "8" of the Rules.

ANNOUNCERS

Length of program	Fee	Re-broadcast fee
15 minutes or less	$15	$10.00
16 to 30 minutes	25	12.50
31 to 60 minutes	35	17.50

Rehearsal: $6.00 per hour, first hour required; after first hour, rehearsal may be computed and paid in half-hour periods at the rate of $3.00 per half hour or part thereof. Rehearsals for programs in excess of 15 minutes, may be held in two sessions, each session to be computed and paid for as a separate unit and no such session shall be computed as less than one hour. Individual compensation shall be based on the time contracted for, but additional rehearsal time may be requested and if agreed to, paid for.

Where announcer is engaged for a commercial program for guaranteed terms of not less than thirteen (13) weeks, on 15-minute programs broadcast five (5) times or more a week, the following minimum weekly compensation may be provided:

Times a week	Weekly Minimum Compensation	Weekly fee for re-broadcast
5	$75.00	$37.50
6	85.00	42.50

In such cases of guaranteed term engagements at the weekly rate, 45-minute rehearsal time per day is included.

Network Commercial Cut-In Announcements: Shall be paid at the rate of $10.00 for each such announcement.

Program Auditions: Shall be paid for at one-half the broadcast fee. Rehearsal time for auditions at the same rate as specified for regular broadcasts. Voice tests may be had without compensation.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS REGARDING ANNOUNCERS

(a) Where a prior record is made in connection with a five-time a week live broadcast, the fee for five such recordings shall be $50.00.

(b) The 45-minute rehearsal allowed for each of five broadcasts may be computed as 225 minutes, to be used by producer as desired within five days. If producer desires, he may use such rehearsal time for prior recordings and announcer agrees to allow 15-minute rehearsal for each live broadcast. These conditions apply only in connection with 13-week uncancellable contracts.

(c) On five-minute local news broadcasts with not less than two per day, the fee for the news reporter shall be $5.00 for each such broadcast. In such cases where a supporting announcer is used, the fee for such supporting announcer shall be $4.00 for each such broadcast.

GENERAL SCHEDULE OF RULES

1. Engagements: Performer shall have specific notice of the part to be played, date, time and place of broadcast, time of re-broadcast, if any, place of rehearsal and rehearsal time contracted for. An actor or soloist is permitted to double one part per performance without additional compensation. In variety shows, or where the program consists of a series of short different episodes, such as, but not being limited to, dramatized news broadcasts or historical sequences, such program shall be considered an exception. Participation in crowd noises shall not be considered a double.

2. Compensation: Performer shall be paid not less than the minimum fee applicable in legal tender and not later than seven (7) calendar days after time specified for broadcast. The minimum fees shall be net to the performer and no deductions whatever may be made therefrom (except for such taxes and withholdings as are required by law). No term or provision of this Code may be waived by any performer without the prior written consent of AFRA, but nothing in this Code shall prevent any performer from agreeing to any terms and/or conditions more favorable to such performer than those specified herein.

3. AFRA Rules: Producer agrees that he has notice that the performer is a member of AFRA and must obey its rules. Producer admits specifically, notice of the rule which requires the AFRA member to render services only upon a program where all the Actors, Singers and Announcers are members in good standing of the AMERICAN FEDERATION OF RADIO ARTISTS.

4. Cancelled Program: Where the entire program is cancelled, the performer shall, nevertheless, be paid in full for all contracted time as specified in this agreement, unless he shall have been notified in writing of the cancellation at least 24 hours in advance of the first scheduled call for rehearsal.

5. Cancelled Individual Engagements: In the event the performer's engagement for the program is cancelled, Producer agrees, nevertheless, to pay the performer in full for all contracted time, as herein specified, except where cancellation is for gross insubordination or misconduct and AFRA consents to such dismissal without payment. Producer agrees that after the engagement is made, the risk of performer's incompetence is assumed by him.

6. Arbitration: Any controversy or claim between any Producer and any member of AFRA arising out of, or relating to, this Code or any contracts or engagements governed by this Code, or the breach thereof, shall (with the consent of AFRA) be settled by arbitration, in accordance with the rules then obtaining of the American Arbitration Association, and judgment upon the award rendered may be entered in the Highest Court of the Forum, State or Federal, having jurisdiction. The procedure for such arbitration shall be the same as that specified on page "1" of this Code.

7. Additional Services: No service of the performer is contracted for except as specified herein.

8. Waivers: AFRA will give waivers in proper cases upon application by the Producer to meet any program requirements with respect to working conditions. Minimum fees are not working conditions.

9. Production Prosecuted: In the event that the program for which the performer is engaged is complained of and any prosecution, civil or criminal, private or governmental, shall follow, Producer agrees at his expense, to defend the performer and to pay all charges and judgments so incurred.

10. Alterations: Producer agrees that he will make no contract with any performer at terms less favorable to such Performer than those contained in this Code and make no changes or alterations of these provisions without the written consent of AFRA, nor, without such consent, shall any performer be deemed engaged upon terms which would commit such performer to do any acts after this Code expires, which would violate any rule of AFRA.

11. Bond in Certain Cases: AFRA reserves the right, in the event it determines that a particular Producer is not reliable or financially responsible, to require the posting in advance, of an adequate bond, cash or other security.

12. Unfair Producers: Producer agrees that he has notice that the AFRA Code of Fair Practice represents the minimum terms and working conditions of performers in Network commercial broadcasting. Anyone engaging performers in this field who breaches or violates conditions of the Code may be regarded as unfair and performers may be instructed not to work for anyone who is unfair.

13. Notice of this Code will be given to AFRA members, and they will contract subject thereto, and as to such producers who either sign this Code or signify their intention to abide thereby, the member will sign any contracts subject to the fulfillment of all obligations of such producer hereunder.

14. Any representative of AFRA shall be admitted to the premises of the producer or where the rehearsal or broadcast takes place, at any reasonable time, to check the performance by the producer of this Code; but such checking shall be done so as not to interfere with the conduct of the producer's business.

15. The producer agrees, for the benefit of AFRA and all performers employed by the producer, that existing contracts with all performers are hereby modified in accordance herewith, but no terms, wages or hours now had by any such performers which are more favorable to such performers than the terms, wages or hours herein specified, shall be deemed so modified. If there are any other contracts between or among signatories to this Code or those who signify their intention of abiding thereby, which require performers to work under terms, wages or conditions less favorable to such performers than this Code, then, notwithstanding such contracts, it is agreed that this Code shall, nevertheless, apply for the benefit of all such performers and of AFRA.

16. The terms and conditions covered by this agreement are for the engagement of radio artists on commercial "network" broadcast programs produced under the auspices of the producer, on the "network" facilities of the National Broadcasting Company, Inc., the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., and the Mutual Broadcasting System, Inc., originating in New York, Chicago, Hollywood, Los Angeles or San Francisco. "Network" means two or more stations joined by wire for simultaneous broadcasting. On major stations in New York and Chicago, the network rate shall apply to a broadcast from one such station.

17. Nothing in this Code shall be construed as preventing the producer from buying package shows from fair independent contractors; provided that the producer must, in its agreement with the independent contractor, include a provision requiring such contractor to sign, adopt and conform to AFRA's Code of Fair Practice, and further provided that such independent contractor becomes a signatory to such Code.

18. Signature voices on dramatic shows shall be paid a minimum of $50.00 for five programs a week and $25.00 for the re-broadcasts; $10.00 for single broadcast and $5.00 for re-broadcasts; and 15 minute rehearsal included.

19. The fee for a record made prior to the live broadcast on a 15 minute program shall be $10.00 and $6.00 per hour for first hour of rehearsal, $3.00 per half-hour or part thereof for additional rehearsal.

20. Audience participation is excepted.

21. Extras and supernumeraries who do not speak individual lines shall be paid not less than $7.50 for the program and $5.00 for re-broadcast, including 4 hours of rehearsal time in two sessions.

22. The re-broadcast fee on 15 minute shows includes a 15 minute dress rehearsal immediately preceding re-broadcast. This applies both to actors and announcers. In cases of lateness for rehearsal or other breach by any member of AFRA, AFRA will invoke its disciplinary power under its Constitution. In the event of a collection of any fine due to such disciplinary action, AFRA may reimburse the producer who has suffered loss due to lateness or other breach.

23. Children on adult programs shall receive the minimum applicable fee for adults. Special children's programs where more than 75% of the cast are children come within the provisions of the waiver clause and shall be so treated.

LETTER TO CBS AND NBC

Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc.
485 Madison Avenue
New York City
National Broadcasting Company, Inc.
30 Rockefeller Plaza
New York City
Gentlemen:

This letter is written in connection with and is a part of the Code of Fair Practice for Commercial Broadcasting signed between your companies and the American Federation of Radio Artists, dated February 2, 1939, and in order to clarify the same.

The following clarifications or additional terms, as the case may be, are a part of such contract, namely:

1. On page 1, line 3, the words "promulgated by them" mean "herein contained."

2. The mere fact that your facilities are used for the broadcast of a radio program does not make such program one produced under your auspices, nor does it bring such programs under the Code.

3. The words "several stations," as used throughout the agreement, are clarified and controlled by paragraph 16, and no additional obligations are imposed by the addition of the words "several stations."

4. The American Federation of Radio Artists represents that it does and will, for the duration of the agreement, represent for collective bargaining purposes, a majority of the actors, singers and announcers, as required by the National Labor Relations Act. The bargaining unit used for this agreement is without prejudice to either party.

5. Throughout the Code a variety of terms are used, such as "radio artists," "performers," etc. Nevertheless, the Code is intended to cover and does cover only actors, singers and announcers.

6. In any arbitration hereunder, each side bears half the expense.

7. AFRA agrees that it has no present rule and will make no future rule in derogation of the Code, and paragraph 3 is so limited.

8. AFRA hereby consents to any arbitration requested by the producer under paragraph 6.

9. Paragraph 7 is not intended to prevent the performer from contracting for services of a kind not covered by the Code by individual contract at such rates of pay and under such conditions as the producer and the performer shall agree, subject only to the fact that it shall not be in conflict with this Code.

10. Paragraph 9 does not apply to a case where the prosecution is in respect of material furnished by the performer or acts done by the performer without the authorization of the producer.

11. Paragraph 12 is a statement by the producer that he has notice of the facts stated in paragraph 12, and goes no further.

12. With respect to paragraph 17, AFRA agrees with the producer that if an independent contractor has signed this Code and the producer has complied with paragraph 17, AFRA will not exercise its right to strike against the independent contractor so as to create program emergencies for the producer.

13. Any more favorable terms or conditions given to competitors producing network shows at the five points of origination mentioned in paragraph 16 will be given by AFRA to the producer to the extent given such competitor. This does not apply to waivers given by AFRA in special instances, if such waivers be given in good faith and without intent either to evade this clause or to give an unfair competitive advantage.

14. So long as the producer performs this Code, AFRA will not strike against the producer as to the performers covered by this Code in the field covered by this Code. To the extent AFRA has agreed not to strike, it will order its members to perform their contracts with the producer. This paragraph only applies to producers who sign this Code.

15. AFRA agrees to give a waiver for persons employed for no more than one performance during the term of this agreement because of reputations acquired in fields other than the amusement field.

16. At least sixty days prior to the end of the term of this Code, AFRA and the producer agree to negotiate in good faith with respect to a new Code.

17. National Broadcasting Company, Inc., and Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., by signing the Code, are signing such Code for and on behalf of themselves, respectively, and not for any other person, firm or corporation.

18. With respect to the last sentence of paragraph 16, the following stations and only the following stations are included in the term "major stations in New York and Chicago," namely:

New York: Stations WABC, WJZ, WEAF and WOR.

Chicago: Stations WBBM, WMAQ, WENR, WGN and WLS.

19. With respect to AFRA's agreement not to impose unreasonable entrance fees or dues upon its members, it agrees, whenever necessary for the producer's program purposes, to qualify members within 24 hours after notice from the producer.

20. With respect to the following respective provisions on pages 2 and 4, respectively, reading as follows, to wit: "Rehearsal for programs in excess of 15 minutes may be held in two sessions" and "Orchestra rehearsal may not be divided into more than two sections" (misprint for "sessions"), AFRA does hereby waive such provisions, but the producer agrees not to use unreasonably the privilege so granted, taking into account the necessities of the programs and the convenience of the performers, but this does not alter the fact that whenever an actor or singer is called for rehearsal, he gets a minimum of one hour's rehearsal pay, except as in the Code otherwise provided.

21. With respect to the section on "Recordings" at the top of page 3, add a sentence at the end of the second subparagraph of paragraph (a) reading as follows, to wit: "In such cases, the limitations of the first subparagraph of this paragraph (a) do not apply."

22. Further in respect to the second subparagraph of paragraph (a) on page 3, one or more sponsors other than the original sponsor or his affiliated company, may be used in any off-the-line recording made, but in any such event, re-broadcast fees as herein provided shall be paid to the performers for each such additional sponsor so used.

23. Further in respect to "Recordings" at the top of page 3, the blank in subparagraph (b) is filled in with the word "two."

24. Further in respect to the same general section, in subparagraph (c) the word "date" should be "rate."

25. With respect to the last line before the asterisks on page 3, after the phrase "dress rehearsal," insert the words "and the dress rehearsal."

26. All rates in the Code are per person and not per group.

27. In the second sentence of the second paragraph on page 4, after the word "Individual," insert the words "and group."

28. In the seventh paragraph on page 4, second line, after the word "discharged," insert the words "without justifiable cause."

29. In the same connection, on page 5, paragraph 5, line 4, strike out the words "and AFRA consents to such dismissal without payment."

30. With respect to paragraph 1, strike out the last two sentences and substitute therefor the following: "Multiple doubles are permitted in variety shows, or where the program consists of a series of short different episodes, such as, but not being limited to, dramatized news broadcasts or historical sequences. Participation in group noises shall not be considered a double and is permissible without additional compensation."

31. With respect to paragraph 2, the second line, "seven (7)" is amended to read "ten (10)."

32. With respect to paragraph 18, amend the paragraph to read as follows: "18. Signature voices on dramatic shows shall be paid a minimum of $50.00 for five programs a week and $12.50 for the re-broadcasts; $10.00 for single broadcast and $2.50 for re-broadcast; and 15 minute rehearsal; dress rehearsal included."

33. Paragraph 19 applies to both actors and announcers, but not to singers.

34. Paragraph 22 also applies to singers, and during the 15 minute period prior to broadcast, they will rehearse for timing and effect only.

35. Change the last sentence of paragraph 22 to read as follows: "In the event of a collection of any fine due to such disciplinary action, AFRA will reimburse the producer who has suffered loss due to lateness or other breach to the extent of such fine."

36. When a record is made prior to the live broadcast, the live broadcast fee includes 15 minute dress rehearsal immediately preceding the broadcast.

37. For the purposes of the Code, an actor is a person who is employed to enact a character or perform a role, or who enacts a character or performs a role; persons like Eddie Cantor who play themselves are actors; a singer is a person who is employed to give, or who gives, vocal renditions of musical compositions; announcer is defined as the term is generally understood in the industry, but the commercial rates specified in the Code do not apply to the performance by announcers on the staff of a broadcast company of station identification, music credit, cut-ins and local spots, except as specifically provided for in the Code, time signal and similar announcements, switching and giving switching cues, certifying master copies of continuities and performing similar routine duties for the broadcast company which are not part of the services rendered by announcers for sponsors or advertising agencies on commercial programs otherwise provided for in this Code.

38. Paragraph 16 is modified so that the rates in the Code do not apply to programs originating in Hollywood, Los Angeles or San Francisco, unless the same are available to stations in other than the eleven Western states. Originations from Chicago are only subject to the Code scales on hook-ups of two or more stations including the station of origination.

39. Referring to the sixth paragraph on page 1, the National Broadcasting Company, Inc., or the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., or AFRA may refuse to arbitrate wages and working conditions for programs produced by the National Broadcasting Company, Inc., or the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., at any of their managed or operated stations in cities other than the originating points mentioned in paragraph 16, but AFRA reserves its complete right to strike against such programs and stations without notice.

40. The numbered paragraphs mentioned in this letter refer to the numbered paragraphs in the General Schedule of Rules of the Code.

41. AFRA may, if it sees fit, reprint the Code to incorporate the substance of this letter, but such incorporation shall first be approved in writing by the National Broadcasting Company, Inc., and the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc.

Yours very truly,
AMERICAN FEDERATION OF RADIO

NETWORKS

NATIONWIDE CHAINS

Information on the three major networks, delivering nationwide service, is presented here via two methods:

- (1) Maps which indicate the call letters and locations of affiliated stations.
- (2) Personnel lists, wherein the locations of branch offices are also noted.

No effort has been made to give specific information on rate cards, hook-ups, etc. This material is so easily obtainable from the networks themselves, and so subject to change, that inclusion here might lead to confusion and even misinformation.

The World's Greatest

Broadcasting System

is a title that NBC has earned by performance

THE reference to NBC as The World's Greatest Broadcasting System is no self-imposed title. Everywhere, the majority of listeners consider Radio City, New York—the home of NBC—to be the world center of broadcasting. The roster of NBC services explains how NBC has won its title—The World's Greatest Broadcasting System.

Program Leadership

The Red and Blue Networks of NBC are each on the air for an average of 17½ hours a day, or a total of 35 hours. During 1938, NBC broadcast over 56,000 programs. Throughout 12 years, the style in programs has been set by NBC.

Network Leadership

Whether an advertiser wishes to obtain the most intensive available nation-wide circulation, or whether he prefers to "go National" at a new all-time low cost, NBC can serve him, through its Red and Blue Networks.

Leadership in Transcriptions

The outstanding entertainment provided by NBC Transcription Service is the result of facilities which no one else can offer. 221 stations use The NBC The-saurus. Through RCA, NBC obtains the benefit of leadership in mechanical reproduction and recording of sound.

Leadership in Spot and Local Advertising

By every measurement NBC Managed Stations are unquestionably "Tops in Spot," because fewer stations are needed to cover broad territories.

Leadership in Artists' Service

NBC Artists' Service, provides talent specifically suited to advertiser's sales problems, furnishes sound program ideas and complete casts, and supplies artists for every type of entertainment, both public and private.

"In the Public Interest"

At all times the NBC aims to provide through radio an instrument of free discussion of important public questions. In this way, an informed electorate is built up—an electorate which can express itself intelligently at the polls.

News is reported skilfully and impartially . . . "in the public interest." The basic principle of impartiality also governs the conduct of all programs which go out over the NBC Networks.

That the services of NBC are outstanding is due in large measure to fact that NBC draws freely upon the experience and research of the Radio Corporation of America, the only organization that makes and does everything in radio and sound. All these points of leadership are the factors which make NBC The World's Greatest Broadcasting System.

NEW NBC PROGRAM POLICIES

This restatement of NBC's policies regarding programs, program content, acceptable accounts, etc., was issued in June, 1939. For CBS program policies, see VARIETY RADIO DIRECTORY, Vol. I, pages 723-726.

POLICIES APPLICABLE TO ALL PROGRAMS

The program policies of the National Broadcasting Company were first published in January, 1934. As the experience of the Company has grown, these policies have been amended and expanded from time to time, with the object of assuring interesting, diversified programs, compatible with a sound concept of public service.

1. The use of the Deity's name, or reference to His powers and attributes, is permissible only when used reverently. Only when baptism, marriage, burial, or other sacraments and ceremonials are absolutely essential to the plot may they be used.

One of the most cherished heritages of every American in his inalienable right to worship God in his own way.

Statements and suggestions that are offensive to religious views are a challenge to that heritage and have no place in broadcast programs. Ministers of religion should not be presented as undesirable characters or subjects of amusement.

2. Statements and suggestions which are offensive to religious views, racial characteristics and the like must not appear in the program.

As every man has a right to his religious views, so has he a right to pride in his race. Radio cannot lend itself to ridicule of racial characteristics, nor can words derogatory to any race or nationality be used.

3. Material which depends upon physical imperfections or deformities such as blindness, deafness, or lameness, for humorous effect is not acceptable.

Physical infirmities are far from ludicrous to those afflicted, therefore radio must seek other sources for its humor.

4. Sacrilegious, profane, salacious, obscene, vulgar or indecent material is not acceptable for broadcast, and no language of doubtful propriety will be used.
5. The introduction of murder or suicide is definitely discouraged at all times, and the methods employed must not be described in detail. It is the aim of the Company to broadcast drama plots free of morbidity.

That crime is unjustifiable and that the criminal is an enemy of society must be emphasized. The law-breaker must not be made an attractive or sympathetic figure. At the same time, punishment of the offender must not be over-stressed.

6. Details as to the technique employed to accomplish criminal or anti-social practices must be minimized.

This Company, in rejecting, insofar as possible, dramatic action that depends on crimes of violence for its effectiveness, believes that it is working in the best interests of the public. Law, whether it be natural or man-made, must be presented in its rightful character, as that of the bulwark of human rights and property.

7. Emphasis on insobriety is not permitted.

Insobriety and consumption of liquor in general are unhappy problems in many households. They are subjects which radio should not portray as excusable.

8. Figures of national prominence as well as the peoples of all nations shall be presented with fairness.
9. Except in case of factual news statements, appearances of or reference to persons featured in criminal or morbidly sensational news stories are not acceptable.
10. The use of the word "Flash!" is reserved for the announcement of special news bulletins exclusively and may not be used for any other purpose except in rare cases where by reason of the manner in which it is used no possible confusion may result.
11. False and misleading statements and all other forms of misrepresentation must be avoided. This applies to misrepresentation of origination point of program as well as to all other matters.
12. Speakers must be recognized authorities on subjects they discuss.
13. When commentators or others engaged as talent on sponsored programs include in their programs comments on one side of any controversial question which materially affects the life or welfare of any substantial group, it must be understood that the National Broadcasting Company has the right to require that the public be given an opportunity to hear the opposite side of the controversy presented by a speaker of similar importance. Furthermore, the advertiser, on demand, will give time for that purpose and will select a speaker approved by this Company.

COMMERCIAL STANDARDS

A—Procedure

1. All continuities, including the words of all spoken lines as well as the wording of the commercial copy, must be submitted to the Company at least forty-eight hours in advance of the broadcast, except when the nature of the program, such as comments on the news, does not permit. The forty-eight hour "dead-line" does not affect the advertiser's privilege to submit changes in his commercial continuity later.
2. All continuities, including the words of all songs or spoken lines as well as the wording of all announcements and a list of the cast, are subject to the approval of the Company.

The Company reserves the right to require of the advertiser, eliminations or substitutions, in whole or in part, of program or announcement which the Company deems inconsistent with its standards.

The Company reserves the right to investigate the accuracy of all statements and claims made in copy submitted for broadcast over its stations, and will not accept statements or claims which cannot be proved to its satisfaction.
3. The Company reserves the right to require the advertiser or his agency to furnish, in addition to the continuities mentioned in the foregoing paragraphs, a performed audition of a contemplated commercial program.
4. For the protection of both NBC and the advertiser, written lists in duplicate, showing correct titles, composers and copyright owners of the music to be used on the program are to be submitted to the National Broadcasting Company at least one week before the

- broadcast, for copyright clearance. No changes may be made thereafter without approval of the Company's music rights department.
5. Upon request by the Company, evidence of the right to use musical or literary material must be supplied to NBC at least three full business days in advance of the broadcast.
 6. The National Broadcasting Company wishes to be of service in preventing unnecessary duplication of subject matter and musical numbers. The cooperation of advertisers and agencies is invited to make possible proper coordination between all sponsors. When two or more advertisers using nearby periods on the same network submit programs containing the same musical number, the advertiser or his agent first submitting his detailed program shall have preference in the use of the number, and NBC will notify the other advertisers to submit a substitute number, subject to the same restrictions as to duplication.
 7. When a living character is impersonated, written authorization of impersonation must be furnished, and it must be clearly announced at least once in the program that impersonation was made.
 8. The laws of a number of states prohibit the use of a person's name for trade or advertising purposes without the written consent of such person. When there is submitted to NBC any script containing a testimonial or other use of a person's name for trade or advertising purposes, it must be accompanied by an original or photostatic copy of the written consent of the person whose name is to be used. Upon request original consents will be returned to the agency for its files after a copy has been made by NBC.
 9. Any plans for displays, sampling or distribution of material on NBC premises must be discussed with the Company at least a week prior to the broadcast at which it is intended any of these are to be introduced. Wherever possible, the Company will endeavor to assist the advertiser to carry out his plans. There are products, however, which may not suitably be introduced for sampling in studios, and there are times when displays may conflict with other programs. Therefore, the Company reserves the right to reject such plans if found to be impossible or impracticable of execution.
- B—Program Contents*
1. Announcement of sponsorship must be made on all commercial programs.
 2. In order that programs may be individual and distinctive and thus maintain the interest of the audience, they should not resemble too closely other programs.
 3. Programs should be designed to provide good entertainment or agreeable instruction. The avoidance of unpleasant or gruesome material is essential.
 4. No defamatory statements will be permitted. Statements which tend to undermine an industry by attributing to its products generally faults and weaknesses true only of a few, and statements which are derogatory to an individual, an institution, a group or an industry must be avoided.
 5. Commercial programs shall not refer to any competitor, or his products, directly or indirectly.
 6. Statements of prices and values must be confined to specific facts. Misleading price claims or misleading comparisons tend to challenge the integrity of all advertising and must not be used.
 7. When an advertiser using more than one network for advertising any of his products finds it desirable to refer to his program on a competing network, such reference must be confined to mention of the title of his program, the product advertised, the talent employed and the day on which the program is broadcast. Mention of the hour or the broadcasting facilities used may not be made.
 8. While factual statements are permitted on news programs, comment on, or discussion of, pending litigation must be avoided. Comment on pending court cases may tend to interfere with the administration of justice.
 9. The advertiser must clear with the Company before entering into agreements to publicize appeals for funds through his radio program.
 10. "Point-to-point communication" is not permitted. A broadcasting station departs from the terms of its license when it broadcasts a message intended primarily for a specific individual and not intended to be received by the public. A message may, however, be addressed to a particular person if it is only when they comply with the following regulations:

11. In order to protect the identity of broadcasting stations and to prevent misunderstanding, broadcasters must clear with the Company any use of radio station call letters that may be necessary to the plot or action of broadcast programs. The letters SOS are the signal of distress and may not be used for any purpose on any program.
12. When dramatized commercials are used that involve statements by doctors, dentists, druggists, nurses or other professional persons, the lines must be read by members of these professions reciting actual experiences, or explanation must be made by the announcer that the scenes enacted are fictitious.
13. Testimonials must reflect the authenticated experiences or opinions of competent living witnesses, and testimonials will not be accepted which contain claims unacceptable in other forms of commercial copy.
14. NBC announcers or other representatives of the Company may not give personal testimonials on the air, nor personally endorse the advertiser's product. Promises for the performance of the product may not be given in the first person singular by Company members.
15. In order to maintain good balance between the program content and the commercial copy, it is believed that, on a fifteen-minute daytime program, the formal advertising message is most satisfactory when it occupies less than three minutes of the entire period. When a sales promotion activity, such as a contest or an offer, is included, a good balance is obtained when commercial copy runs less than four minutes. In evening programs, standards for good radio balance indicate confining the formal advertising message to less than fifteen per cent of the period of a quarter-hour program, and less than ten per cent of longer program periods.

C—Contests

Proposed prize contests must be submitted to NBC in advance of the first public announcement in any medium tying in with the radio program, and at least ten days prior to the first broadcast of information concerning such contest. NBC will permit the broadcasting of contests

1. Contests must offer the opportunity to all contestants to win on the basis of ability and skill, rather than on chance. Games of chance are not acceptable.
2. The basis upon which contestants' submissions are judged must be clearly stated in each announcement of the contest.
3. The opinion of the judges is final. Duplicate prizes must be awarded in case of ties. These provisions must be stated in the continuity.
4. Closing date of the contest must be made known to NBC when the contest goes on the air. If the contest is to be of short duration, its closing date must be stated during the first broadcast announcement of the contest; if of long duration, the termination date must be announced at least two weeks in advance.
5. While advertisers may require contestants to submit box tops, wrappers or other evidence of purchase of products, it is recommended they also provide that reasonable facsimiles thereof will be equally acceptable.
6. Contest awards or prizes must be approved by NBC prior to the first announcement of the contest.
7. Contest decision should be made promptly, and the names of winners must be released as soon as possible thereafter. The announcement, whenever possible, should be made during a later program of the same series. When the broadcasting of the complete announcement of winners is undesirable because of its length, NBC must be supplied with the names of winners and other necessary information so that it may be in a position to answer inquiries.

D—Offers

1. Full details of proposed offers, including samples of premiums and "build-up" copy must be submitted for investigation and approval at least five full business days before the first announcement is to be broadcast.
2. No premium that depends upon its alleged "luck-bearing" powers for its attractiveness or in any fashion appeals to superstition can be approved.
3. It is desirable that announcement of the termination of an offer be made as far in advance as possible. When the advertiser wishes to withdraw his offer, announcement must be broadcast to the effect that listeners' letters in response to the offer may be postmarked not later than midnight of the business day following withdrawal of the offer.

4. If consideration is required, the advertiser must agree to honor any complaints indicating dissatisfaction with the premium by returning the consideration. The advertiser must also hold NBC and the stations free from all liability in connection with the offer. Where offers require a consideration, the premium may not be described as a "gift" or as "absolutely free."
5. Dramatic action of radio drama may not be used as a basis of appeal for help in the commercial portion of the program.

The fictitious character of the radio play may not be introduced into the commercial as follows: "By sending in a box top (wrapper or other consideration, including money), you will help Widow Jones to pay off the mortgage" or "you will help to send Johnny to school."

POLICIES APPLICABLE TO MEDICAL ACCOUNTS

The advertising of medical products presents problems of such intimate and far-reaching importance to the consumer that it is necessary to consider separately the standards established by the Company in respect to such advertising.

The hour of the broadcast and the appropriateness of the broadcast theme to the time of its presentation are factors that influence all radio programs. This is especially true in the case of programs promoting the sale of medical products.

In addition to the general commercial standards of NBC, advertising copy of medical products is subject to the following additional restrictions:

1. NBC will not accept advertising of a medical product unless all material facts concerning the product are made known to the Company.
2. Due to the personal nature of the broadcast message, the Company reserves the right to strict control of claims made in medical advertising copy and to the phraseology in which these claims are made.
3. No blanket statements purporting to reveal the opinion of the medical profession in relation to the product advertised may be made in any of the continuity or advertising of the product.

4. The Company cannot accept commercial copy which, in its opinion, dramatizes distress or morbid situations involving ailments.
5. The Company will not accept a product for advertising which contains dangerous or habit-forming drugs, or which fails to comply in advertising copy with Governmental rules and regulations.
6. The words "safe" and "harmless" or words of similar meaning will not be accepted in medical copy.
7. The Company will not accept for advertising over its facilities products designed for relief of ailments known to be chronic, unremediable, or for conditions in which self-medication presents a risk.
8. Claims to cure are unacceptable.

POLICIES APPLICABLE TO CHILDREN'S PROGRAMS

Because of the obligation of the National Broadcasting Company to its juvenile audience, it is necessary that meticulous supervision be exercised over all programs designed for child listeners, and therefore NBC must insist that scripts of children's programs be submitted at least three business days in advance of the broadcast.

All standards of the Company apply to children's programs. Specifically, the following standards must be followed:

1. All scripts for children's programs must be carefully written, having in mind the particular audience for which they are intended.
2. All stories must reflect respect for law and order, adult authority, good morals and clean living.
The hero or heroine and other sympathetic characters must be portrayed as intelligent and morally courageous. The theme must stress the importance of mutual respect of one man for another, and should emphasize the desirability of fair play and honorable behavior. Cowardice, malice, deceit, selfishness and disrespect for law must be avoided in the delineation of any character presented in the light of a hero to the child listener.
3. Adventure stories may be accepted subject to the following prohibitions:

No torture or suggestion of torture.

No horror—present or impending.

No use of the supernatural or of superstition likely to arouse fear.

No profanity or vulgarity.

No kidnapping or threats of kidnapping.

In order that children will not be emotionally upset, no program or episode shall end with an incident which will create in their minds morbid suspense or hysteria.

Dramatic action should not be over-accentuated through gun play or through other methods of violence. To prevent the overstimulation of the child's imagination, sound effects intended to anticipate or simulate death or physical torture are not permitted.

4. It is consistent that fair play and considerate behavior be reflected through the commercial copy as in the script itself. Advice "to be sure to tell mother" or "ask mother to buy" must be limited to twice in the program.
5. The child is more credulous, as a general thing, than the adult. Therefore the greatest possible care must be used to see that no misleading or extravagant statements be made in commercial copy on children's programs. When promises are made as to the benefits to be derived from use of the product advertised, it will be necessary to submit proof that such promises can be kept.
6. Contests and offers which encourage children to enter strange places and to converse with strangers in an effort to collect box-tops or wrappers may present a definite element of danger to the children. Therefore, such contests and offers are not acceptable.
7. No appeal may be made to the child to help characters in the story by sending in box-tops or wrappers; nor may any actors remain in character and, in the commercial copy, address the child, urging him to purchase the product in order to keep the program on the air, or make similar appeals.
8. No premium that depends upon its alleged "luck-bearing" powers for its attractiveness or in any fashion appeals to superstition will be approved.
9. The National Broadcasting Company must be given assurance that no premium offered over its facilities is harmful to person or property.
10. The forming of clubs is often introduced on children's programs. Sometimes initiation requirements and other rules of such clubs are disseminated in code form. Full details concerning the organization of a children's secret society or code must be submitted to the National Broadcasting Company at least ten business days before its introduction on the air.

POLICIES APPLICABLE TO NEWS PROGRAMS

All standards of the Company apply to news programs. Specifically, the following standards must be followed:

1. All news shall be reported from an unbiased, non-partisan viewpoint.
2. News shall be treated factually and analytically, never sensationally.
3. News announcements involving crime or sex shall be avoided unless of national importance.
4. News shall not be broadcast in such a manner as might unduly create alarm or panic. No flash stories about accidents or disasters shall be broadcast until adequate details are available.
5. No suicide shall be reported, except in the case of a nationally known figure.
6. No lotteries, gambling odds or similar information shall be broadcast which might tend to cause listeners to gamble on the outcome of an event.
7. No libelous or slanderous news is permitted.
8. The news announcer shall not deliberately distort the news by any inflection of the voice.
9. Fictional events shall not be presented in the form of authentic news announcements.
10. No legal or medical advice is allowed in news broadcasts except when it is an essential part of legitimate news from official sources.

UNACCEPTABLE BUSINESS

The following classifications of products and services are unacceptable for broadcast over the facilities of the Company.

Of course, many accounts offered the Company may not fall into any of the classifications that are listed below. In such instances the Company considers them individually and reserves the right to decide upon their suitability for broadcast advertising.

1. Professions in which it is conceded to be unethical to advertise. For example: doctors, lawyers, dentists, and others.
2. All forms of speculative finance and real estate intended to promote the purchase of specific stocks, bonds, properties, etc. Proposed programs advertising the general services of financial institutions will be subject to approval in each specific case after consideration of company policies in light of federal, state and local regulations relating thereto.
3. "Cures," and products claiming to cure.
4. Cathartics, including foods or beverages advertised for their value as cathartics. Also products generally known and used exclusively as cathartics, even when cathartic references are not made in broadcast advertising copy.
5. Personal hygiene products, including body deodorants or products advertised for that purpose.
6. Reducing agents as well as foods and beverages designed solely to perform that function.
7. Products to restore natural color to hair, eyebrow dyes, hair growers, depilatories, and products advertised to remove wrinkles.
8. All forms of fortune-telling and any services which may be construed to belong in this general field.
9. Cemeteries, morticians, casket manufacturers, and other products or services associated with burial.
10. Alcoholic beverages may not be advertised on any network program.
11. Firearms and fireworks.

STATIONS

U. S. STATIONS CLASSIFIED BY WATTAGE

In the accompanying lists, all U. S. radio stations, and all proposed radio stations (i.e., those having a construction permit only), are classified according to their power output. This classification was made from Federal Communications Commission records dated June 1, 1939 (and May 1, 1938).

The reader should bear in mind that the wattage assigned to certain stations is necessarily not always the wattage with which those stations are currently operating. Deviations occur where the F.C.C. has assigned a construction permit for higher wattage. In such instances the assigned higher wattage is credited to the station, although construction of equipment may as yet not be completed.

This breakdown of wattage results in the following totals for each power category:

500,000 watts.....	0 stations	1 station
50,000 watts.....	40 stations	34 stations
25,000 watts.....	1 station	1 station
25,000 and 10,000 watts.....	0 stations	1 station
20,000 watts.....	1 station	1 station
10,000 watts.....	7 stations	11 stations
7,500 watts.....	1 station	1 station
5,000 watts.....	29 stations	27 stations
5,000 and 1,000 watts.....	105 stations	94 stations
5,000 and 500 watts.....	1 station	1 station
2,500 watts.....	1 station	2 stations
2,500 and 1,000 watts.....	5 stations	6 stations
2,500 and 500 watts.....	3 stations	3 stations
1,000 watts.....	97 stations	90 stations
1,000 and 750 watts.....	0 stations	1 station
1,000 and 500 watts.....	34 stations	37 stations
1,000 and 250 watts.....	8 stations	4 stations
500 watts.....	44 stations	50 stations
500 and 250 watts.....	3 stations	2 stations
250 watts.....	43 stations	51 stations
250 and 100 watts.....	203 stations	158 stations
200 watts.....	1 station	2 stations
100 watts.....	141 stations	152 stations
50 watts.....	3 stations	3 stations
Wattage not assigned.....	3 stations	0 stations
TOTAL	774 stations	733 stations
{ Commercial stations in operation.....	693 stations	652 stations
{ Non-commercial stations.....	39 stations	39 stations
{ Construction permit only.....	42 stations	42 stations

You folks certainly have got a swell climate, that's why I always spend my vacations out here . . . and I owe it all to DON LEE. Why? Because 9 out of every 10 radio homes on the Pacific Coast are within 25 miles of a DON LEE station, which means my advertising message is released locally on the entire Pacific Coast and becomes a friendly suggestion from a neighbor. That type of advertising brings immediate action. Furthermore, with their 30 primary stations in the 30 primary markets on the Pacific Coast, DON LEE reaches lots of communities which are practically isolated from any other radio broadcasting due to the uncertainty of long range reception. In the summer for instance, we found long range reception becomes virtually impossible as in the case of Eureka, a $17,000,000 market. Surveys taken there showed 100% exclusive audience for DON LEE during the summer. DON LEE is the only network that can guarantee complete Pacific Coast coverage . . . All this means more sales, and more money, so that I can spend nice long vacations out here lying on my back in the sun enjoying your wonderful climate and your marvelous scenery . . . Yessir, I owe it all to DON LEE.

Getting more business for advertisers is the business of KFI. We're sure we're doing a swell job of it (we report modestly), as indicated by the increasing number of accounts now using the Southland's favorite station—some 150 in all.

Place your sales message on the station with power and popularity to parallel the vast purchasing power of this billion dollar market . . . the 50,000 watt voice of KFI in Southern California.

SOMETHING MISSING!

AND YOU'LL NEVER FIND IT IN DATA BOOKS!

● This Variety Directory will prove a valuable addition to your data file . . . but you may surround yourself with all available reference books on listening areas, radio homes, rate structures or retail sales charts and you will still find yourself lacking in complete information for an accurate evaluation of station ranking and effectiveness.

Listening area studies, for example, fail to show the listener loyalty built up by WKY, KLZ or KVOR. Census books on buying power fail to prove the consistent, effective merchandising force these stations exert for sponsors day in and day out. Rate cards fail to reflect the power of these stations to win Variety's recognition year after year as the outstanding stations in their fields.

The story of WKY, KLZ and KVOR is one of perfect coordination of men, methods and machinery . . . too much alive to be filed away in any steel cabinet . . . too big to be measured by the usual yardsticks.

In Chicago there are fifteen commercial radio stations. Of these fifteen, four are 50,000 watt network outlets (considering WLS & WENR as one). Rate these four as you will, but number five position definitely goes to WCFL - Chicago's popular independent.

We broadcast for more local and national spot advertisers than does any competitive station but most important is the fact that our advertisers stay with us and, a station with a low mortality rate can brag.

A typical example is the breakdown of the 523 WCFL broadcasting hours during the month of May, 1939:

Commercial	333	hours - 30 min.	- 63.8%
Sustaining	123	"	- 23.4%
NBC	66	" - 30 "	- 12.8%

No competitive station can equal this record because WCFL on basis of audience - ability to sell - and on basis of rate is the best "buy" in Chicago.

BOX OFFICE RECORDS

have paid admission (75¢) to attend the WLS National Barn Dance in seven years.
Over three quarters of a million WLS listeners from every state in the nation and many foreign countries have packed the Eighth Street Theatre in Chicago every Saturday night for 370 consecutive performances.

WLS artists made 512 personal appearances in 1938, and 1,229,025 interested listeners came to see their favorite radio entertainers. Over 10,000,000 people have attended 4,786 personal appearances of WLS acts since 1932. All this is in addition to the box office records set at the Eighth Street Theatre by the National Barn Dance.

WLS Home Talent shows were presented in 463 cities of the WLS Major Coverage Area in 1938. 463,776 WLS listeners paid admission to see these shows supporting their own local civic organizations.

Popularity of WLS talent means listener interest and listener interest means "WLS Gets Results!"
